Fr., orchite syphilitique (ou scléreuse et gommeuse), albuginite du testicule (ou sarcocèle) syphilitique. Syphilitic disease of the body of the testicle. It is characterized by moderate enlargement of the organ, accompanied with little or no pain and with marked insensibility to pressure. The surface is usually smooth and uniform, sometimes nodular. It often results in atrophy, rarely in softening. In the latter case perforation occurs, with fungous outgrowths. Two forms have been described: a diffuse form, in which the tunica albuginea is especially involved and becomes thickened and sclerosed; and a circumscribed form, in which gummatous material is deposited in nodular masses. [G.]—Tonsillar o. Fr., orchite amygdaliennne. Of Joal, inflammation of the tunica vaginalis testis coincident with inflammation of the tonsils. [a. 34.]—Tubercular o. Lat., o. tuberculosa. A scrofulous disease of the testicle beginning generally in the epididymis. Caseation and suppuration with thickening of the spermatic cord and enlargement of the vesiculæ seminales are the usual results. [E. 25.]—Typhoid o. O. occurring in and caused by typhoid fever; the tubuli are full of embryonal elements, and there is intertubular cellular proliferation. [a. 34.]—Ulcerogangrenous o. Of Gosselin, o. in which gangrene occurs, with ulceration of the skin and a fungous state of the tunica vaginalis and the testicle. [a. 34.]—Vaccinal o. Of Giraud, o. attributed to vaccination. [a. 34.]—Varicelous o. An acute unilateral inflammation of the tunica vaginalis occurring in variola. Inflammation of the parenchyma of the testicle rarely occurs. [a. 34.]

ORCIN, n. O<sup>2</sup>rs'<sup>1</sup>2n. Fr., orcine. Ger., O. One of the isomeric varieties of dihydroxytoluene, a homologue of resorcin, obtained by the decomposition of various acids derived from different species of lichens, and also prepared synthetically. It forms colorless crystals of astringent sweetish taste,  $C_7H_6O_2 + H_2O = C_6H_4(OH)_2 + OH.H$ , and  $H_2O$ . It is easily soluble in water, alcohol, or ether, melts at about 108° C. if deprived of the water of crystallization, and boils at about 200° C. O. is astringent and antiseptic, and has been used to allay the pain of burns. In poisonous doses, it tetanizes the muscles, both voluntary and involuntary, but, after a time, suppresses their functions, especially attacking the muscular fibres of the heart, arresting its movements, and so causing death. Ger., Schmelzo. Of Purkinje, the special enamel-germ after it has become differentiated into a three-layered o, which covers the enlarged tooth papilla like a cap. The layer next the tooth papilla (enamel epithelium) is a columnar epithelium formed by the deepest layer of the invaginated oral epithelium. It ultimately forms the hard enamel. The second or intermediate layer of the enamel o. is composed of cells which have become stellate and are united by their branches to form a very loose, spongy, or gelatinous layer. It finally disappears. The third or outer layer is composed of polyedral cells which, upon the disappearance of the middle layer, are in contact with the first or enamel layer, and gives rise to the cuticular dentis. It lies on the membranous spiral lamina which springs from the free edge of the osseous spiral lamina. The proper o. of Corti lies external to the sulcus spiralis. It consists of the rods of Corti, the two rows of which form the arches of Corti (see also FLOOR CELLS). The rods of the external row have their superior ends directed outward, and on them is fastened a reticularly perforated membrane, the lamina reticularis. The latter covers the external rows of Corti's fibres and the external ciliated cells. In man these structures, lying in four or five rows behind each other and connected with the terminal fibres of the auditory nerve by small nervous processes, are fastened by their thin, interior, elongated ends (Gottstein's basal processes) to the membrana basilaris, while the superior, broad ends, provided with acoustic cilia, project through the openings of the lamina reticularis. A row of inner ciliated cells is situated in front of the sulcus spiralis interior, immediately in front of the inner pillar of Corti's o. Deiter's cells are connected with Corti's cells by their broad ends directed downward. External to the last row of Corti's cells lie Hensen's supporting cells, which pass into the epithelium of the external wall of the ductus cochlearis. Corti's o. is covered by the firm striated Corti's membrane. The latter arises beside Reissner's membrane, in front of Huschke's swelling, and ends at the external boundary of Corti's cells, though Henle and Löwenberg state that it is inserted on the ligamentum spirale accessorium of the external wall of the ductus cochlearis. A species (by Koch considered a variety of O. vulgare) found in southern Europe, and especially in the island of Candia. The leaves and flower-spikes, herba origani cretici (see lupuli cretici, seu spica cretica), spica origani cretici, have the aromatic odor and taste of wild marjoram, and were formerly used as a vulnerary, in toothache, in difficult labor, and as a sternutatory. They yield an oil (see oleum origani cretici) still sometimes employed medicinally. [B, 64, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—O. decipiens. See O. vulgare.—O. dictamnus. Fr., dictame de Crète [Fr. Cod.]. Ger., Diptamodosten, cretischer Diptam. Goat's marjoram, dittany of Crete, the tragoriganum of the old botanists, the dictamnus (Gr., δίκταμνος) of the ancients, which was considered so vulnerary as to cause the arrows to drop from wounded goats as soon as they tasted it; a species found in southern Europe. The leaves have the aromatic properties of O. vulgare, and were formerly official as folia (see herba dictamni cretici). [A, 511; B, 19, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—O. heracleoticum. Ger., griechischer Dosten. Winter (sweet) marjoram; a plant resembling O. vulgare in habit, indigenous to Dalmatia, Greece, and Turkey, and along the Rhine as a potherb. The flowering tops are used as herba origani cretici (see under O. creticum). Koch regards it as a short-spiked variety of the O. hirtum. It is one of the plants known to the ancients as ὀρίανον. [B, 64, 180, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—O. hirtum. Hairy marjoram; an aromatic plant closely allied to O. vulgare, yielding a reddish-yellow volatile oil, used in toothache, etc. The oil is said to contain one or more terpenes, and 0.5 per cent. of a phenol identified with carvacrol, to the presence of which its stimulant properties are perhaps attributable. [B, 314 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc." xviii (a, 50).] Cf. O. heracleoticum.—O. humile. Fr., petit marjolaine sauvage. A French species having the properties of O. vulgare. [B, 173 (a, 35).]—O. macrostachyum. Ger., langähriger Dosten. A Portuguese species. The tops are substituted for those of O. creticum and used under the same names. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—O. majorana. Lat., amaracus. Fr., marjolaine. Ger., gemeiner Majoran, Gartenmajoran, Sommermajoran, Wurstkraut. Sweet (or knotted) marjoram; a species indigenous to Greece and western Asia, growing eastward as far as the East Indies, and cultivated as a seasoning herb. It has a peculiar aromatic odor and a warm, bitterish taste, and yields tannin and a volatile oil (oleum majoranæ æthereum), to which the excitant and mildly tonic properties of the plant are due. The herbaceous part (including the tops), herba majoranæ æstivæ, herba amarici (see origani majoranæ, see sampsuchi), is used empirically to hasten the eruption in exanthematous diseases, as a fomentation (especially in indurations of the breast), in powder as a sternutatory, and as a salve in rheumatism. [B, 5, 19, 35, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—O. majoranoides. Ger., ewiger Majoran, Wintermajoran. Shrubby sweet marjoram; a variety of O. majorana, having the same properties. [B, 5, 180 (a, 35).]—O. maru. A perennial, very odorous species, indigenous to Palestine, having the properties of O. majoranoides and perhaps identical with it. [B, 180, 314 (a, 35).]—O. megastachyum. A species, perhaps a variety of O. vulgare, the tops of which are sometimes gathered for herba origani cretici. [B, 64, 180 (a, 35).]—O. onites. Potmarjoram; the ovitis of Dioscorides, a somewhat shrubby, strongly scented species, indigenous to Sicily and the Grecian Archipelago. [B, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—O. orientale. See O. vulgare.—O. palustre. See EUPATORIUM cannabinum.—O. pulchellum, O. sipyleum. Mt. Sipylus marjoram, little hop-plant; a native of Candia and Asia Minor, very like the O. dictamnus. The μαρόν (marum) of Dioscorides, usually referred to the Teucrium marum, is by some authors identified with this species. [B, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—O. smyrnæum. Ger., smyrnaischer Majoran. A species found in Greece, western Asia, and northern Africa. The tops have a strong aromatic taste and odor, and are much used for herba origani cretici. Kühn identifies this plant with the hyssop (ὕσσωπος) of Dioscorides. [A, 510; B, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—O. stoloniferum. See O. vulgare.—O. syriacum. A species found in Syria and Palestine, where it is used like O. vulgare. It is one of the numerous plants identified with the hyssop of the Scriptures. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—O. Tournefortii. Fr., origan de Tournefort. The dittany of Amorgos; an aromatic-leaved species growing in rocky places in the island of Amorgos. [B, 310 (a, 35).]—O. vulgare. Fr., marjolaine d'Angleterre, grande marjolaine bâtarde (ou sauvage). Ger., gemeiner (oder wilder) Dosten, Wohlgemuth, Schusterkraut. Wild (or English, or grove, or common) marjoram; a species indigenous to Europe, Africa, northern and middle Asia, and North America. The herb (gathered while flowering), herba (seu summitates) origani vulgaris, seu silvestris, herba cunila bubule, was formerly used as a diaphoretic and emmenagogue and externally in poultices and fomentations. It is stimulant and mildly tonic. [A, 496; B, 19, 34, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—Pulvis summitatum origani. The dried and powdered leaves of O. vulgare. ORNITHURIC ACID, n.  $O^2rn-i^2th-i^2ur^2-i^2k$ . Ger., Ornithurinsäure. An acid,  $C_{10}H_{20}N_2O_4$ , obtained from the excrement of birds fed with benzoic acid. [B. 3, 270 (a, 38).]

ORNUS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2rn-u^2s(u^2s)$ . Fr., orne. 1. Formerly the Fraxinus excelsior. 2. Of Persoon, a section of the genus Fraxinus. [B. 42, 121 (a, 35).]—O. europaea. See FRAXINUS o.

OROBANCHE (Lat.), n. f.  $Or(o^2r)-o(o^2)-ba^2n^2k(ba^2n^2ch^2)(e(a), Gen., -banche's. Gr., ὀροβανχη, ὀροβανχη (from ὀρος, a vetch, and ἄνχω, to choke). Fr., o. Ger., Sommerwurz. Broomrape; the typical genus of the Orobanchaceae (Fr., orobanchacées; Ger., Orobanchaceen), which are the broomraps, an order of gamopetalous dicotyledons consisting of minute-seeded, leafless, chlorophyllless herbs, parasitic (by means of haustoria which penetrate into the vascular system of the host) on the roots of other plants. The Orobanchae (Fr., orobanchées; Ger., Orobanchen) of B. Jussieu, the Orobanchideae of Dumortier, the Orobanchinae of Link, and the Orobanchioideae of Ventenat are the same. The Orobanchiae of G. Don are a tribe of the Orobanchae. [B. 19, 34, 42, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—Flores orobanches. See under O. epithymum.—O. americana. The Conopholis americana, a species used like Epiphegus americana. [B. 5, 34, 215 (a, 35).]—O. epithymum. Ger., Quendel-Sommerwurz. A parasite on the roots of Thymus serpyllum and allied species. The root (the part of the stem joining the root proper) and the flowers of this and the other European species were formerly official as radix et flores orobanches, the former being used in flatulence, in colic, and as a vulnerary, the latter in nervous pains, especially cramps in children. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—O. galii. Ger., Labkrauts-Sommerwurz. A species parasitic on the roots of Galium verum and Galium mollugo; used like O. epithymum. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—O. lutea, O. major. Fr., o. élevée, herbe aux tau-reaux, pain des lapins (ou de lièvre), rave de genêt. Ger., Maiwurz, Maicwurz. Great broomrape, New-Chapel-flower; a species with a fleshy stem a foot or more in height growing in the roots of broom and furze. Its flowers and root were used like those of the other European species. [B. 173, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—O. minor. Fr., o. mineur. Lesser broomrape; a species parasitic on clover. [B. 19 (a, 35).]—O. virginiana. See EPIDHEGUS americana.$

OROBECOS (Lat.), OROBECUS (Lat.), n's m.  $Or(o^2r)-o^2b-ek(a^2)ch^2(o^2s, -u^2s(u^2s)$ . From ὀρος, a kind of pulse, and ἄρος, a sound, Lat., sonus siliculosus. Fr., orobèche. Ger., Schuten-geräusch. A crackling sound, like the snapping of a pod, sometimes observed in the inner angle of the eye on hard pressure by the finger. [L. 50 (a, 48).]

OROBODES (Lat.), OROBODES (Lat.), adj's.  $Or(o^2r)-o^2b-od^2(e^2)as, -o(o^2)-id^2(e^2)ez^2as$ . Gr., ὀροβώδης (from ὀρος, a kind of pulse). Fr., orobeux, oroboeide. Ger., erbsenartig. Having a mealy sediment (said of urine). [L. 50 (a, 48).]

OROBUS (Lat.), n. m.  $O^2r-o^2b-u^2s(u^2s)$ . Gr., ὀρος. Fr., orobe (2d def.). Ger., Walderbse, Wicke. 1. Of the ancients, the Vicia ervilia or its seed. 2. Of Linnaeus, a genus of leguminous plants, now regarded as a section of Lathyrus. [B. 42, 115, 121 (a, 35).]—O. tuberosus. See LATHYRUS macrorrhizus.

OROGAMO, n. Gold. [Ruland (A, 325).]

ORONGE (Fr.), n.  $O-ro^2n^2zh$ . The Agaricus caesareus and other agarics belonging to Amanita. [B. 121 (a, 35).]

ORONOSUS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-o^2n^2-o^2s(u^2s)$ . From ōros, a mountain, and νόσος, disease. See Mountain sickness.

ORONTIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2r-o^2n^2-shi^2(i^2)-u^2m(u^2m)$ . Fr., oronce. 1. An old name for the Antirrhinum o. 2. Of Persoon, a section of the genus Antirrhinum. 3. Golden club; a genus of the Aroidae, tribe Orontieae. The Orontieae (Fr., orontiacées) of R. Brown are a section of the Aroidae. The Orontieae of Schott are a tribe of the Orontieae; of other authors, a tribe of the Aroidae. [B. 42, 121, 170 (a, 35).]—O. aquaticum. Golden club; a North American aquatic shrub. The seeds and fleshy rootstock are used as food by the Indians, after the dissipation of their acidity by boiling or drying. [B. 34, 42, 180 (a, 35).]—O. majus. See under ANTIRRHINUM majus.

OROS (Lat.), n. n.  $Or(o^2r)-o^2s$ . Gr., ὄρος. 1. A mountain. 2. The upper part of the foot. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

OROSLIN, n.  $O-ro^2s-e^2l-i^2n$ . A substance,  $C_{14}H_{12}O_4$ , obtained from athamantin. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

OROSOLON, n.  $O-ro^2s-e^2l-o^2n$ . A substance,  $C_{14}H_{10}O_8$ , obtained from athamantin. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

ORONYLUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2r-o^2x^2(i^2)-u^2m(u^2m)$ . From ōros, a mountain, and ξύλον, wood. A genus of the Bignoniaceae. [B. 42 (a, 35).]—O. indicum. A small tree of the East Indies and the Malay Archipelago. The root is used in dropsy and as a vulnerary, and the leaves are reputed emollient. [B. 42, 173, 180 (a, 35).]

ORPIMENT, n.  $O^2rp-i^2m^2-nt$ . Lat., auripigmentum (q. v.). Fr., orpim. Ger., Königsgelb, Gelbglas. King's (or royal) yellow; a yellow pigment consisting of arsenic trisulphide obtained by precipitation of arsenious acid with sulphureted hydrogen. [B.]—Ited o. Fr., orpim rouge. See ARSENIC disulphide.

ORPINE, n.  $O^2rp-i^2n$ . Fr., orpim. The Sedum telephium. [B. 275 (a, 35).]—Bastard o. See ANDRACHE telephoides.—Evergreen o. The Sedum anacampseros. [B. 275 (a, 35).]

ORRHAGOGUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-ra^2g(a^2)-o^2g(u^2s(u^2s))$ . From ὀρρῶς, serum, and ἀγέω, leading. See HYDRAGOGUE.

ORRHOCHEZIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-ro^2o^2-ke^2(ch^2e^2)z(i^2)-a^2$ . From ὀρρῶς, serum, and χεῖν, to ease one's self. Watery diarrhoea. [L. 41, 50 (a, 43).]

ORRHOCYST, n.  $O^2r-o-si^2t^2$ . Lat., orrhocystis (from ὀρρῶς, serum, and κύστις, a bladder). A serous cyst. [E.]

ORRHOID, adj.  $O^2r-oid$ . Lat., orrhoides, orrhodes (from ὀρρῶς, serum, and είδος, resemblance). Fr., orrhôide. Serous. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

ORRHOPOSIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-ro^2o^2-po^2(i^2)-z(i^2)-a^2$ . From ὀρρῶς, serum, and πόσις, a drinking. Fr., orrhoposie. Ger., Molkentrinken. Whey-drinking. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

ORRHORRHAGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-ro^2r-raj(ras^3g)/i^2-a^2$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , serum, and  $\rho\eta\gamma\gamma\rho\nu\alpha\iota$ , to burst forth. Fr., orrhorrhagie. Ger., heftiger Molkenerguss. The rice-water discharges and vomiting of cholera. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

ORRHOS (Lat.), n. m.  $O^2r-ro^2s$ . Gr.,  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$  (1st def.),  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$  (2d def.). 1. Whew; serum. [L, 50 (a, 14).] 2. See CROUPION.

ORRHOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-ro^2s/i^2s$ . Gen.,  $-rhos/eos(-is)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , serum. Fr., orrhose. The formation of serum. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

ORRIS, n.  $O^2r-i^2s$ . A corruption of iris (q. v., 3d and 4th defs.). The Iris germanica, Iris florentina, Iris pseudacorus, and other species of Iris, and their roots, especially Florentine o.-root. [a, 35.] —Butter of o., Camphor of o., Oil of o. A buttery oil consisting of myristic acid and a little volatile oil melting at  $38^\circ$  to  $40^\circ$  C., and forming a clear brownish-yellow liquid, which begins to congeal at  $28^\circ$  C., and is soluble in alcohol or petroleum ether. [B, 8, 18 (a, 35, 38); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxiii (a, 50).] —O.-root. 1. See Iris (4th def.). 2. See Iris florentina (3d def.). —Volatile oil of o. An essential oil forming an exceedingly small part of o.-camphor, from which it may be separated by digesting the latter with oxide of lead. It is a thick brownish liquid having the characteristic fragrance of the root, and remaining liquid at a temperature of  $-10^\circ$  C. ["Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxi, xxiv (a, 50); B, 18 (a, 35).]

ORSEILLE (Fr.), n.  $O^2r-ze^2l-y'$ . 1. The genus Rocella. 2. See ORCHIL and ARCHIL. [B, 121, 173, 314 (a, 35).] —O. de terre. A variety of orchil obtained from Variolaria dealbata, Variolaria orcina, and Lecanora tartarea. [A, 1.] See also LITMUS.

ORSEILLIN (Ger.), n.  $O^2r-ze^2l-yen'$ . A dye, the sodium salt of  $HSO_3C_{10}H_6N:NC_{10}H_6.OH$ ,  $\beta$ -naphthalazonaphthalenesulphonic acid. [B, 270 (a, 38).]

ORSELLIC ACID, n.  $O^2r-se^2l-i^2k$ . Fr., acide orsellique. 1. An acid,  $C_{12}H_{10}O_4 + H_2O$ , crystallizing in colorless needles or prisms slightly soluble in water, more easily soluble in alcohol and in ether, becoming anhydrous at  $100^\circ$  C., and melting at  $153^\circ$  C. [B, 3, 4, 93 (a, 38).] 2. See ORSELLINIC ACID.

ORSELLINIC ACID, n.  $O^2r-se^2l-i^2n-i^2k$ . Ger., Orsellinsäure. A crystalline acid,  $C_6H_8O_4 + H_2O = CH_3.C_6H_7(OH)_2.CO.OH + H_2O$ , crystallizing from dilute alcohol as a mass, and from acetic acid as star-shaped groups of long needles, of bitter and slightly sour taste, easily soluble in water and in alcohol, slightly soluble in ether, becoming anhydrous at  $100^\circ$  C., and melting at  $176^\circ$  C. Paraorsellinic acid crystallizes from dilute alcohol in hard needles somewhat soluble in water, becoming anhydrous at  $100^\circ$  C., and melting at about  $150^\circ$  C. [B, 3, 4, 270 (a, 38).]

ORTEIL (Fr.), n.  $O^2r-te^2l-y'$ . See TOE. —O. en cou de cygne, O. en griffe, O. en marteau, O. en Z. See FLEXED TOES.

ORTHAMIDOBENZYLFORMIC ACID, n.  $O^2r-th-a^2m/i^2d-o-be^2nz/i^2-o-i^2l-f\acute{o}r'm/i^2k$ . See ISATIC ACID.

ORTHAMIDOBENZYL ALCOHOL, n.  $O^2r-th-a^2m/i^2d-o-be^2nz/i^2l$ . A substance,  $C_6H_4(NH_2)CH_2OH$ , crystallizing from benzene as white needles, becoming brown on exposure to light or to the air, and melting at  $82^\circ$  C. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

ORTHARTHRAGRA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-th-a^2rth/ra^2g(ras^3g)-ra^2$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , true,  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , a joint, and  $\alpha\gamma\gamma\alpha$ , a seizure. Fr., ortharthrage. True gout. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

ORTHIAUCHENUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-a^4k(a^3-u^4ch^2)-en(an)^4$ .  $u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\alpha\upsilon\chi\eta\nu$ , the neck. Ger., steilnackig. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line joining theinion and the basion with the radius fixus varying between  $38^\circ$  to  $49^\circ$ . [For this and the next ten entries following, see Lissauer, "Arch. für Anthrop.," xv, Suppl. (a, 50).]

ORTHIOCHORDA (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o(o^2)-ko^2rd(ch^2o^2rd)/-u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\chi\omicron\rho\delta\acute{o}s$ , a string. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line joining the hornion and the basion with the radius fixus between  $33^\circ 2'$  and  $52^\circ$ .

ORTHIOCORYPHUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o(o^2)-ko^2r/r^2i(u^4)-fu^4s(fu^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\kappa\omicron\rho\rho\eta$ , the head. Ger., orthiocoryph. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line connecting the bregma and the lambda with the radius fixus between  $29^\circ$  and  $41^\circ$ .

ORTHIODONTUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o^2d-o^2nt/u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\delta\delta\omicron\upsilon\varsigma$ , a tooth. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line connecting the subnasal and alveolar points with the radius fixus from  $88^\circ$  to  $121^\circ$ .

ORTHOMETOPUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o(o^2)-me^2t-op/u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\mu\epsilon\tau\omega\rho\omicron\nu$ , the forehead. Ger., orthimetop. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line connecting the bregma to the nasal point with the radius fixus between  $47^\circ$  and  $60^\circ$ .

ORTHIOPISTHIUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o^2p-i^2sth/i^2-u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\delta\pi\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu$ , behind. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line drawn through the lambda and theinion with the radius fixus varying from  $84^\circ$  to  $95^\circ$ .

ORTHIOPISTHOCRANIUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o^2p-i^2sth-o(o^2)-kran(kras^n)/i^2-u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright,  $\delta\pi\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu$ , behind, and  $\kappa\rho\alpha\nu\iota\omicron\nu$ , the skull. Ger., orthopisthocran. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line drawn through the lambda and the opisthion with the radius fixus from  $107^\circ$  to  $119^\circ$ .

ORTHIOPROSOPUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o(o^2)-pro^2s-op/u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\pi\rho\acute{o}\sigma\omega\rho\omicron\nu$ , the face. Having an angle formed by the intersection of a line drawn from the nasion to the alveolar point with the radius fixus between  $89^\circ 4'$  and  $100^\circ$ .

ORTHIOPYLUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o^2p/i^2l(u^4l)-u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\pi\omicron\lambda\upsilon$ , a gate. Having the angle formed by the intersection of the radius fixus and a line connecting the punctum foraminis magni posterius and the punctum foraminis magni anterius between  $15^\circ 5'$  and  $24^\circ$ .

ORTHIORRHINUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-o^2r-rin(ren)/u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\rho\acute{\iota}s$ , the nose. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line drawn from the nasion to the subnasal point with the radius fixus between  $87^\circ 5'$  and  $98^\circ$ .

ORTHIOURANISCUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2r-th-i^2-u^2r(ur)-a^2n(a^2n)-i^2sk/u^4s(u^4s)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , upright, and  $\omicron\rho\upsilon\rho\acute{\iota}\upsilon\kappa\omicron\varsigma$ , a canopy. Having the angle formed by the intersection of a line connecting the posterior border of the incisor foramen and the alveolar point with the radius fixus between  $40^\circ$  and  $60^\circ$ .

ORTHO-. For many words beginning thus, see the corresponding words without the prefix. An ortho-compound (from  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, right) is the normal one; in the disubstituted benzene compounds it is the one in which the two substitutions affect adjacent carbon atoms in the benzene ring. [B.]

ORTHOBASIC, adj.  $O^2r-th-o-bas/i^2k$ . Fr., orthobasique. Of acids, having the two replaceable hydrogen atoms occur in the ortho-position (i. e., next each other). [B, 38 (a, 38).]

ORTHOBORIC ACID, n.  $O^2r-tho-bo^2ri^2k$ . See BORIC ACID.

ORTHOBROMBENZOIC ACID, n.  $O^2r-th-o-brom-be^2nz-o^2-i^2k$ . Fr., acide orthobrombenzoïque. Ger., Orthobrombenzoesäure. One of the isomeric varieties of brombenzoic acid, having the constitution  $C_6H_4Br.CO.OH$ , and crystallizing from hot water in long needles melting at  $150^\circ$  C. [B, 3, 4 (a, 38).]

ORTHOBROMBENZYL ALCOHOL, n.  $O^2r-th-o-brom-be^2nz/i^2l$ . A substance,  $C_6H_4Br.CH_2OH$ , crystallizing from hot water as flat needles melting at  $80^\circ$  C. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

ORTHOBROMNITROBENZENE, n.  $O^2r-th-o-brom-nit-ro-be^2nz/en$ . A substance forming acicular crystals, having the composition  $C_6(H,Br,NO_2,H,H,H)_2=C_6H_4NO_2Br$ . It melts at  $41^\circ 5'$  C. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

ORTHOBROMPHENOL, n.  $O^2r-th-o-brom-fe^2n'o^2l$ . See under MONOBROMPHENOL.

ORTHOCEPHALUS, n.  $O^2r-th-o-se^2f/a^2l-i^2zm$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\kappa\epsilon\phi\alpha\lambda\eta$ , the head. Ger., Orthocephalie. The condition in which the height-length index of the skull is between  $70^\circ$  and  $75^\circ$ . [L.]

ORTHOCHOREA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-th-o(o^2)-kor(ch^2o^2r)-e(a)^2a^2$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\chi\omicron\rho\epsilon\iota\alpha$ , a dance. Fr., orthochorée. Chorea in which the patient stands erect. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

ORTHOCELOUS, adj.  $O^2r-th-o^2s-el/u^4s$ . Lat., orthocœlus (from  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\kappa\omicron\iota\lambda\iota\alpha$ , the belly). Fr., orthocèle. Having the intestinal canal straight and parallel to the longitudinal axis of the body. [L, 41 (a, 14).] Cf. CYCLOCELOUS.

ORTHOCOLON (Lat.), ORTHOCOLUM (Lat.), n's n.  $O^2r-th-o(o^2)-kol/o^2n$ ,  $-u^4m(u^4m)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\kappa\omicron\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a limb. Straightness of a limb due to muscular rigidity. [E.]

ORTHOCYLLOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-th-o(o^2)-si^2l(ku^4l)-los/i^2s$ . Gen.,  $-los/eos(-is)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\kappa\omicron\lambda\lambda\omega\varsigma$ , a crippling. Ankylosis with the limb straight. [A, 48.]

ORTHODONTIA (Lat.), ORTHODONTICE (Lat.), n's f.  $O^2r-th-o^2n-shi^2(tu^4)-a^2$ ,  $-ti^2-se(k\alpha)$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\delta\delta\omicron\upsilon\varsigma$ , a tooth. Fr., orthodontisie. The treatment of irregularities in the position, etc., of the teeth. [E.]

ORTHOGNATHISM, n.  $O^2r-th-o^2g-na^2th-i^2zm$ . Lat., orthognathia (from  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\gamma\eta\alpha\theta\omicron\varsigma$ , the jaw). Ger., Orthognathie. The condition of being orthognathous.

ORTHOGNATHOUS, adj.  $O^2r-th-o^2g-na^2th-u^4s$ . Lat., orthognathus. 1. Having a gnathic index below  $98^\circ$  [Flower]. 2. As used loosely, without any marked forward projection of the jaw or the incisor teeth. [L.]

ORTHOHYDROXYBENZYL GLUCOSIDE, n.  $O^2r-th'o-hid-ro^2x-i^2-be^2nz/i^2l$ . See SALICIN.

ORTHOMETER, n.  $O^2r-th-o^2m-e^2t-u^4r$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\mu\epsilon\tau\rho\nu$ , a measure. Fr., orthomètre. Ger., O. Of von Hasner, an instrument for determining the degree of protrusion of the eyes. It consists of two parallel square frames, 43 mm. apart, similarly divided by horizontal and vertical horse-hairs, 8 mm. apart. Over the corresponding threads are sighted the points by means of which it can be determined how much one eye projects beyond the other. [Graefe and Saemisch (F).]

ORTHOMORPHIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2r-th-o(o^2)-mo^2rf/i^2-a^2$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , true, and  $\mu\omicron\rho\phi\acute{\iota}$ , form. See ORTHOPÆDICS.

ORTHONITROTOLUENE, n.  $O^2r-th-o-nit-ro-to^2l-u^4en$ . A liquid,  $C_6(H.NO_2.CH_3,H,H,H)_2=C_6H_3NO_2$ , having the constitution of benzene in which two adjacent atoms of hydrogen are replaced by nitryl and methyl. [B, 4.]

ORTHOPÆDIA (Lat.), ORTHOPÆDICS, n. f., n. sing.  $O^2r-th-o(o^2)-ped^2(pa^2e^2d)-i^2-a^2$ ,  $-ped^2i^2ks$ . From  $\delta\rho\rho\acute{o}s$ , straight, and  $\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma$ , a child. Fr., orthopédie. Ger., Orthopädie. The prevention or correction of deformities, especially in children. [E.]

ORTHOPÆDIST, n.  $O^2r-th-o^2p-e^2d-i^2st$ . Gr.,  $\delta\rho\theta\omega\rho\acute{\iota}\pi\alpha$  (from  $\delta\rho\theta\omega\nu$ , to set straight). Lat., orthopædicus, ortholier. One who practises orthopedics. [E.]

ORTHOSCOPE, n. O<sup>2</sup>rth'o-skop. From ὀρθός, straight, and σκοπεῖν, to examine. Fr., o. Ger., Orthoskop. An instrument for examining the eye under water, so as to neutralize the refraction of the cornea. [F.]—Cocclus's o. An o. consisting of a glass bowl the opening of which corresponds to the interpalpebral aperture. This is to be filled with water from above, and the eye observed through the anterior wall. It is useful in demonstrating the actual position of the iris. [F.]—Czermak's o. An o. consisting of a small glass tube or basket, which is open above and behind, while the lower inner and outer walls are so grooved that they may closely fit the side of the nose and upper and lower orbital margins. In order to make the junction more complete, the edges may be covered with putty or bread-crumbs. The vessel is then filled from above with tepid water which contains some salt, and the eye can be observed through the anterior wall. [Graefe and Saemisch (F).]

ORTHURINE, n. O<sup>2</sup>rth'ren. A derivative of phenylhydrazine, obtained by the action of paraoxybenzoic acid on hydrazine. It is recommended in typhoid fever, pneumonia, and articular rheumatism. Its action is very energetic but uncertain, and it is apt to cause profuse perspiration, collapse, and symptoms of intoxication. ["Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxxviii, 691 (a, 50).]

ORTIE (Fr.), n. O<sup>2</sup>r-te. 1. A nettle; the genus Urtica. 2. A name for various plants resembling the nettles. [B, 121 (a, 35).]—Grande o. The Urtica dioica. [B, 121 (a, 35).]—O. bâtarde. See MERCURIALIS annua and MERCURIALIS perennis.—O. blanche. 1. Of the Fr. Cod., see LAMium album. 2. See URTICA nivea.—O. bleue. See CAMPANULA trachelium.—O. chanvre, O. épineuse. See GALEOPSIS tetrahit.—O. folle, O. grêche. See URTICA urens.—O. morte puante. See LAMium purpureum.—O. rouge. 1. See GALEOPSIS ludanum. 2. The Lamium purpureum. 3. The Stachys palustris. [B, 92 (a, 14); B, 173 (a, 35).]—Petite o. See URTICA urens.—Sirop d'o. See Syrupus URTICÆ.

The bone which, although distinct in early life, in adult life unites with the ilium and ischium to form the pelvis. It is of an irregular shape, and is divided into a body or horizontal ramus, an ascending ramus, and a descending ramus. The outer extremity of the body forms about one fifth of the acetabulum, and the inner unites in the middle line with the corresponding portion of the bone of the opposite side, forming the symphysis pubis. The junction of the articulating and superior surfaces is termed the angle, and somewhat external to this is a tubercle, projecting forward, the portion between the two being the spine. The portion of the bone which descends downward and outward from the body to unite with the ischium forms the descending ramus, and that passing backward to unite with the ilium and ischium in the acetabulum forms the ascending ramus. On the upper surface is the commencement of the ilio-pectineal line. The descending ramus unites with the ascending ramus of the ischium to form the inner and lower part of the obturator foramen. [L. 31, 142, 332.]—O. pubis faciei. The interopercular, opercular, preopercular, and subopercular bones. OSCHURŒDEMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2sk(o^2sch^2)\text{-}u^2r(ur)\text{-}e^2d(o^2e^2d)\text{-}e(a)^2ma^2$ . Gen., -em/atos (-atis). From  $\delta\sigma\chi\eta$ , the scrotum,  $\alpha\delta\eta\mu\alpha$ , urine, and  $\alpha\delta\eta\mu\alpha$ , oedema. Ger., Hodensacksharnödem. Infiltration of urine into the scrotum. [E.]

OSCHYDRŒDEMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2sk(o^2sch^2)\text{-}id(u^2d)\text{-}re^2d(ro^2e^2d)\text{-}e(a)^2ma^2$ . Gen., -em/atos (-atis). From  $\delta\sigma\chi\eta$ , the scrotum,  $\delta\acute{\iota}\omega\mu\alpha$ , water, and  $\alpha\delta\eta\mu\alpha$ , oedema. Oedema of the scrotum. [E.]

OSCILLARIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2s\text{-}si^2l(ki^2l)\text{-}la(la)^2ri^2a^2$ . From oscillum, a swing. Fr., oscillaire. The typical genus of the Oscil-

lariaceæ (Fr., oscillariacées; Ger., Oscillarien), which are a division of the Cyanophyceæ, consisting of filamentous organisms composed of compactly arranged rows of cells separated by delicate transverse partitions. They occur in ponds, ditches, etc. The Oscillariæ of Bory are a tribe of the Arthrodoceæ. The Oscillariæ of Meneghini are the same. The Oscillariæ of Kützinger comprise the Oscillariæ, Nostocæ, etc. [B. 19, 38, 121, 291 (a, 35).]—O. alba, O. dulcis. See BEGGIATO ALBA.—O. malarieæ. A species found by Laveran in the blood of persons affected with malarial disease. [Richord, "Bull. gén. de thérap.," Mar. 15, 1882, p. 211.]—O. tigrina. See BEGGIATO tigrina.

OSCILLATION, n.  $O^2s\text{-}i^2l\text{-}a'shu^2n$ . Lat., oscillatio (from oscillare, to swing). Fr., o. Ger., o. Oscwingung. 1. A swinging motion. 2. Of Boerhaave, see IRRITABILITY. 3. Of Charcot, the series of spontaneous transfers following the first one in the practice of metalotherapy. [D. 71.]—Consecutive o's. Of Charcot, the transmission, under the influence of a magnet, of various hysterical impressions (e. g., of anaesthesia, paralysis, or contracture) from one side of the body to the other, leaving the side previously affected normal; or a loss of sensibility, muscular force, heat, etc., on the side of the body that is not paralyzed, accompanied by their reappearance at homologous points on the paralyzed side; also the transmission, under the same conditions, of similar nervous phenomena from one patient to another. ["N. Y. Med. Jour.," Feb. 12, 1887, p. 185 (a, 50); "Progr. méd.," Nov. 1879 (a, 34).]—O's of the pulse. Fr., o's du pouls. Ger., Pulschwingung. The small secondary curves in a pulse-tracing which correspond to single heart-beats. [K.]—O'sbewegung (Ger.). The alternate advance and recession or flexion and extension of the fetal head in its passage through the parturient canal. [A, 91.]

OSCITANCY, OSCITATION, n's.  $O^2s\text{-}i^2t\text{-}a^2n\text{-}si^2$ ,  $i^2t\text{-}a'shu^2n$ . Lat., oscitas, oscitatio (from oscitare, to open the mouth wide). See CHASMUS.

OSCLANT, adj.  $O^2sk\text{-}u^2l\text{-}nt$ . From osculari, to kiss. Interoscular, connecting two higher groups by characters common to both. [a, 35.]

OSCLATIO (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2sk\text{-}u^2l(u^2l)\text{-}a(a^2)\text{-}shi^2(t)^2i^2o$ . Gen., -on/ia. From osculari, to kiss. See ANASTOMOSIS (2d def.).

OSCLATORIOUS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2sk\text{-}u^2l(u^2l)\text{-}a^2t(a^2t)\text{-}or\text{-}i^2u^2s$  (u's). From osculari, to kiss. Fr., osclatoire. Concerned in kissing; as a n., see ORIBULARIS ORIS. [L.]

OSCULUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2sk\text{-}u^2l(u^2l)\text{-}u^2m(u^2m)$ . Dim. of os, the mouth. Lit., a little mouth. 1. The opening into the hypophysis cerebri. [I, 3.] 2. See ECCHALANT APERTURE.

OSEILLE (Fr.), n.  $O\text{-}ze^2l\text{-}y'$ . See ACETOSA (1st def.) and DOCK.—Eau d'o., Hydrolat d'o. A preparation made by distilling 8 parts of a mixture of 2 of sorrel with 15 of water. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—O. de bucheron. The Oxalis acetosella. [B. 173 (a, 35).]—O. de Guinée. See HIBISCUS SABDARRIFA.—O. longue, O. ordinaire. The Rumex acetosa. [B. 173 (a, 35).]—O. sauvage. 1. [B. 19, 121, 173 (a, 35).]—Sel d'o. See SALT OF SORREL.—Sirap d'o. A preparation made by boiling 20 parts of purified sorrel-juice with 32 of sugar to the consistency of a syrup. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—Tisane d'o. composée [Fr. Cod.]. Syn.: tisane de bouillon blanc [Fr. Cod.], bouillon aux herbes. A preparation made by boiling 40 parts of sorrel-leaves and 20 of lettuce with 1,000 of water, adding 2 of salt and 5 of butter, and straining. Sometimes the decoction contains also 10 parts of cerefolium-leaves. [B. 95 (a, 38).]

OSEUS (Lat.), n. m.  $Os'e\text{-}u^2s(u^2s)$ . A corruption of  $\delta\sigma\chi\epsilon\upsilon\sigma$ , the scrotum. Of Paracelsus, the scrotum. [H.]

OSHA, n. In New Mexico, the root of an unknown umbelliferous plant, probably a species of Peucedanum. [B. 66.]

OSHAIC ACID, n.  $O^2sh\text{-}a\text{-}i^2k$ . An organic acid, allied to angelic acid, derived from osha. [H. Haupt, Jr., "Am. Jour. of Pharm.," Aug. 1, 1873, p. 347 (B, 66).]

OSMANTHUS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2s\text{-}ma^2nth(ma^2nth)^2u^2s(u^2s)$ . A genus of Oleaceæ. [B. 42 (a, 35).]—O. americana. The American olive, devilwood; a small tree growing from Virginia to Florida. [B. 34 (a, 35).]—O. fragrans. The fragrant olive; an aromatic evergreen shrub growing in China and Cochinchina. The leaves are used to adulterate tea. [B. 42 (a, 35).]

OSMATIC, adj.  $O^2z\text{-}ma^2t\text{-}i^2k$ . From  $\delta\sigma\mu\acute{\iota}$ , the sense of smell. Fr., osmatique. Having a well-developed rhinencephalon with a keen sense of smell. ["Jour. of Anat. and Phys.," xxv, p. 106 (a, 32).]

OSMAZOME, n.  $O^2z\text{-}ma^2z\text{-}om$ . From  $\delta\sigma\mu\acute{\iota}$ , an odor, and  $\omega\mu\acute{\alpha}\varsigma$ , broth. Fr., osmazome. Ger., Osmazom. An old name for a brown substance, soluble in water or diluted alcohol, obtained by extracting meat and other animal matter. [B. 93 (a, 14); B. 270 (a, 38).]

OSME (Lat.), n. f.  $Os'me(ma)$ . Gen., os'mes. Gr.,  $\delta\sigma\mu\acute{\iota}$ . An odor; also, the sense of smell.

OSMIAMIC ACID, n.  $O^2z\text{-}mi^2a\text{-}m\text{-}i^2k$ . Fr., acide osmiumique. Ger., Osmiamidsäure. A dibasic acid,  $H_2Os\text{-}N_2O_5$ , formed by the action of ammonia on osmium tetroxide. [B. 3.]

OSMIATE, n.  $O^2z\text{-}mi^2at$ . Fr., o. See OSMATE.

OSMIC, adj.  $O^2z\text{-}mi^2k$ . Fr., osmique, osmieux. Ger., osmig. Containing osmium as a hexad or an octad. According to the usage of some, the word in the former sense is replaced by osmium. [B.]—O. acid. Fr., acide osmique. Ger., Osmiumsäure, Osmigsäure. Osmium tetroxide; more strictly, an osmium hydroxide having the composition  $OsO_2(OH)_2 = H_2OsO_4$ , and acting as a dibasic acid. [B. 3.]

OSMICHLORIDE, n.  $O_2^2-mi^2-klor'i^2d(id)$ . A compound of osmium tetrachloride with the chloride of another element or radicle. [B, 3.]

OSMIDROSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-mi^2(me)-dros'i^2s$ . Gen., -ros'eos (-is). From ὀσμή, an odor, and ῥοσμός, perspiration. Fr., osmidrose. The excretion of sweat having a peculiar odor. [G.]

OSMIOCHLORIDE, n.  $O_2^2-mi^2-o-klor'i^2d(id)$ . A compound of osmium trichloride,  $OsCl_3$ , with the chloride of another element or radicle. [B, 3.]

OSMIOCYANIC ACID, n.  $O_2^2-mi^2-o-si-a^2n'i^2k$ . An octobasic crystalline acid,  $H_8Os_2(C_2N_3)_{14}$ . [B.]

OSMIOCYANIDE, n.  $O_2^2-mi^2-o-si-a^2n'i^2d(id)$ . A compound of osmium cyanide with the cyanide of another element or radicle; a salt of osmiocyanic acid. [B, 3.]

OSMIOS, adj.  $O_2^2-mi^2-u^2s$ . Ger., osmig. Containing osmium as a dyad, tetrad, or hexad radicle; in the last-mentioned sense often replaced by osmic. [B.]

OSMIRIDIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2^2-mi^2(me)-ri^2d'i^2-u^2m(u^4m)$ . A native crystalline alloy of osmium and iridium. [B; B, 270 (a, 38).]

OSMITE, n.  $O_2^2-mit$ . An osmate.

OSMITOPIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-mi^2-to^2ps'i^2s$ . Gen., -ops'eos (-is). Fr., osmitopside. Ger., Kampher-Maasliebe. Of Benthams and Hooker, a genus of composite shrubs; of Baillon, a section of the genus Bupththalmum. [B, 42, 121, 267 (a, 35).]—OIL OF O. Fr., huile d'osmitopside. A yellowish-green essential oil of burning taste and sharp disagreeable odor, extracted from O. asteriscoides, O. camphorina. Of Cassini, a South African shrub, used both internally and externally as a calefacient, sudorific, and stimulant. A strong spirit, spiritus bellidis (Fr., essence dosmitopside), is distilled from it. [B, 42, 180, 267, 314 (a, 35).]

OSMIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2^2-mi^2-u^2m(u^4m)$ . From ὀσμή, an odor. Fr., o. A metallic element discovered by Tennant in 1804, associated in nature with platinum and iridium, and may be obtained in the form either of an amorphous powder or of hard bluish-white crystals which have not been fused at any temperature yet attainable. It is the heaviest body known, having a sp. gr. of 22.477. In composition it acts as a bivalent, quadrivalent, sexvalent, or octavalent radicle. According to Deville, o. is the most deadly poison known, a thousandth part of a grain, diffused through 100 cubic yards of air, being sufficient to poison all persons inhaling it; and no antidote for it is known. Symbol, Os; atomic weight, 198.6. [B, 3; "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxiii, 317 (a, 50).]—O-ANIDE. An orange-yellow, odorless, crystalline powder,  $OsO_2NH_3$ , discovered by Fremy. It colors all animal tissues at first brown and subsequently black. It is recommended in place of osmic acid for histological research. ["Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xix, 211.]—O- AND AMMONIUM CHLORIDE. See AMMONIUM OSMIOCHLORIDE and AMMONIUM OSMIOCHLORIDE.—O. CHLORIDE. See O. TETRACHLORIDE, O. TRICHLORIDE, OSMIOCHLORIDE, and OSMIOCHLORIDE.—O. CYANIDE. A dark-violet substance,  $Os(CN)_2$ . [B, 3.]—O. DIOXIDE. A mass of coppery appearance,  $OsO_2$ . [B, 3.]—O. HYDROXIDE. See O. TETRAHYDROXIDE and OSMIC ACID.—O. MONOXIDE. A dark-gray powder of the composition  $OsO$ . [B, 3.]—O. OXIDE. See O. MONOXIDE, O. SESQUIOXIDE, O. DIOXIDE, O. TRIOXIDE, and O. TETRAOXIDE.—O-SAÛRE (Ger.). See OSMIC ACID.—O-SAÛRE-LÖSUNG (Ger.). See LIGNUM ACIDI OSMICI.—O. SESQUIOXIDE. A substance,  $Os_2O_3$ , forming a black powder or copper-colored scales. [B, 3.]—O. SULPHIDE. A dark-blue substance,  $OsSO_2$ , capable of receiving a metallic polish. [B, 3.]—O. TETRACHLORIDE. A red substance,  $OsCl_4$ , forming with the chlorides of other metals double salts called osmichlorides. [B, 3.]—O. TETRAHYDROXIDE. A heavy, brown, coppery-looking substance,  $OsO_4H_2$ . [B, 3.]—O. TETROXIDE. (Ger., Ueberosäure). A substance,  $OsO_4$ , usually called osmic acid, or perosmic acid, formed by the oxidation of metallic o. either in the air or in a current of steam. It forms transparent, shining, acicular crystals, which become of wax-like consistence on warming. It dissolves in water, forming a solution of caustic taste. It melts at a temperature below that of wax, and is very volatile, giving off, even at low temperatures, highly acid, irritating vapors of powerful odor. Locally applied, it acts as a caustic. It has the property of staining fatty matters black, and is used as a reagent in microscopy for this purpose and also in examining the micro-organisms of drinking-water, as it kills them without altering their form. It has also been used internally in medicine, and hypodermically in neuralgia. [B, 3; Wildermuth, "Berl. klin. Wochenschr.," No. 23, 1884, "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxiii, p. 251 (B).]—O. TRICHLORIDE. A compound,  $OsCl_3$ . [B, 3.]—O. TRIOXIDE. A substance,  $OsO_3$ . [B, 3.]—SCHWELFIGSAÛRE OXYDUL (Ger.). O. sulphite. [B, 3.]—SPONGY O. O. obtained by the calcination of ammonium osmichloride, by reducing osmic acid by hydrogen, or by the action of zinc on the solution in hydrochloric acid; a spongy semi-metallic mass or black powder that assumes metallic lustre by rubbing. [L, 87 (a, 50).]

OSMODYSPHORIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-mo(mo^3)-di^2s(du^4s)-fo(i^2r'i^2a^2)$ . From ὀσμή, an odor, and δυσφορία, excessive pain. Fr., osmodysporie. Intolerance of one or more odors. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSMOLOGY, n.  $O_2^2-mo^2(o^2)-ji^2$ . Lat., osmologia (from ὀσμή, the sense of smell, and λόγος, understanding). Fr., osmologie. See OSPHRESIOLOGY.

OSMOMETER, n.  $O_2^2-mo^2m(o^2)-u^2r$ . From ὀσμή, the sense of smell, and μέτρον, a measure. Fr., osmomètre. An instrument for measuring the acuteness of the sense of smell.

OSMONOSIOLOGY, n.  $O_2^2-mo^2no^2sio^2ji^2$ . Lat., osmonosiologia (from ὀσμή, the sense of smell, νόσος, disease, and λόγος, understanding). Fr., osmonosiologie. (Ger., Geruchskrankheitenlehre. The pathology of disorders of the sense of smell. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSMORRHIZA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-mo^2r-r'i^2(re)^2za^3$ . From ὀσμή, an odor, and ρίζα, a root. Fr., osmorhize. Of Rafinesque, a genus of umbelliferous herbs of the Ammineae. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—O. LONGISTYLIS. Sweet cicely; a species growing in North American woods. The fleshy branching root, known as sweet or paregoric root, or sweet anise, has a pleasant spicy taste and yields by distillation a light-brownish or yellowish oil which solidifies at 3° C. to a crystalline mass resembling oil of anise, with which it is probably identical. It also contains a glucoside, a fatty body, fixed oil, resin, tannic acid, albumin, glucose, starch, and extractive. [B, 5, 34, 42 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxx (a, 50).]

OSMOSE, n.  $O_2^2-mos$ . Fr., o. Ger., O. See OSMOSIS.

OSMOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2(os)-mos'i^2s$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). From ὀσμός, a thrusting. Fr., osmose. Ger., Osmose. The transudation of fluids through a porous septum. If two fluids of different constitution and character are separated by a more or less porous organic membrane, each passes slowly through it and intermingles with the other. See ENDOSMOSE and EXOSMOSE. [a, 48.]

OSMOTIC, adj.  $O_2^2-mo^2t'i^2k$ . Pertaining to osmosis. [a, 48.]

OSMUNDA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-mu^2nd'a^2$ . Fr., osmonde. Ger., Traubenfarn. Flowering fern; a genus of ferns typical of the Osmundaceae (Fr., osmondacées; Ger., Osmundaceen), which are a division of the Filices. The Osmundee, Osmundineae, and Osmundineae are the same. [B, 121, 180 (a, 35).]—EXTRACTUM RADICIS OSMUNDÆ. See under O. regalis.—FOLIA (see herba) osmundæ. The leaves of Spiraea filipendula. [B, 180 (a, 24).]—MEDULLA RADICIS OSMUNDÆ. See under O. regalis.—O. CUCUTARIA. Fr., osmonde cucutaire, herbe aux serpens. A species found in Santo Domingo, where it is applied to snake-bites. [B, 173 (a, 35).]—O. LANCEA. Fr., osmonde dentée en scie. A species found in the Antilles, where the whole plant is considered a stimulant and the root a purgative. [B, 173 (a, 35).]—O. REGALIS. Fr., osmonde (royale, ou fleurie), fougère aquatique (ou royale, ou fleurie). Ger., königlicher Traubenfarn, Königsfarn. Royal (or king-, or common flowering, or ditch-) fern, bog-onion, buckhorn-brake, herb Christopher, Osmond-the-Waterman; a species growing in meadows and swamps. The fructiferous frond-tops, juli osmundæ, and the white pith of the root-stock, medulla radice osmundæ, were formerly used as astringents and vulneraries, and the root-stock was employed especially as a tæniifuge and in scrofula, gout, hepatic diseases, colic, and rickets. More recently an extract of the root, extractum radice osmundæ, has been used in rickets. [B, 34, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—O. SPECTABILIS. (Ger., aussehlicher Traubenfarn. The North American species closely resembling O. regalis, of which it is probably a variety. The mucilaginous, bitter, astringent root-stock is used in wasting diseases. [B, 249; B, 34, 180 (a, 35).]—RADIX OSMUNDÆ. 1. The root of Spiraea filipendula. 2. The rhizome of O. regalis. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

OSOROR, n. An old term for opium. [B, 121 (a, 35).]

OSPEDALETTI (It.), n.  $O_2^2-pa-da^3-le^2t'e$ . A winter resort on the Riviera, between Bordighera and San Remo. [A, 319 (a, 21).]

OSPRADIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2^2-fra^2d(fra^2d'i^2-u^2m)$ . Gr., ὀσπράδιον. A small collection of cells in the Gastropoda believed to possess olfactory functions. [L.]

OSPHRASIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fra(fra^2)-si^2a$ . Gen., -phras'eos (-is). From ὀσφραίνω, to smell. [L, 41 (a, 43).]

OSPHRESIOLOGY, n.  $O_2^2-fre^2s(i^2-o^2)-ji^2$ . Lat., osphresiology (from ὀσφρῆσις, the sense of smell, and λόγος, understanding). Fr., osphresologie. Ger., Geruchsschlehere, Riechlehre. The study of the odors given off from the body and from the excreta in their relations to disease. ["Med. News," June 20, 1885, p. 696.]

OSPHRESIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fre(fra^2)-si^2s$ . Gen., -phres'eos (-phres'is). See OSPHRASIA.

OSPHRISTICS, n. sing.  $O_2^2-fri^2st'i^2ks$ . Lat., osphristica. Fr., osphristique. Ger., Gerucherscheinungslehre. The science of the phenomena of smell. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSPHYALGEMA (Lat.), OSPHYALGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fl^2(fu^4)-a^2(l^2)-ji^2$ . From ὀσφύς, the loin, and ἄλγος, or ἄλγος, pain. See COXALGIA.

OSPHYARTHRIITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fl^2(fu^4)-a^2rth-r(i^2)-i^2s$ . Gen., -thrit'idos (-idis). From ὀσφύς, the loin, and ἄρθρον, a joint. See COXITIS.

OSPHYARTHROCA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fl^2(fu^4)-a^2rth-ro^2k'a^2$ . secka). Gen., -throc'acces. From ὀσφύς, the loin, ἄρθρον, a joint, and κακός, evil. See MORBUS COXARIVUS.

OSPHYTIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fl^2(fu^4)-i^2(e)^2t'is$ . Gen., -it'idos (-idis). See COXITIS.

OSPHYOMYELITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fl^2(fu^4)-o(o^2)-mi^2(mu^4)-e^2l(i^2)-i^2s$ . Gen., -it'idos (-idis). From ὀσφύς, the loin, and μυελός, marrow. Myelitis in the lumbar region. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSPHYRRHEUMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2^2-fu^4(ru^4)-ru^2ma^2$ . Gen., -rheum'atos (-atis). From ὀσφύς, the loin, and ῥέυμα, a rheum. Fr., osphyrrheumatisme. Rheumatism of the hip joint. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSPHYUS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fl^2(fu^4)$ . Gen., -osph'yos. Gr., ὀσφύς. The loin. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSPHYTIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2^2-fl^2(fu^4)-i^2t'is$ . Gen., -phyt'idos (-idis). From ὀσφύς, the loin. See COXITIS.

OSSEIN, n.  $O_2^2-s(e^2)-i^2n$ . From os, a bone. Fr., osséine. Ger., O. Knochenknorpel (1st def.), Zahnknorpel (2d def.), Knochenstoff. 1. Bone cartilage; the organic base or matrix of bone. It is so abundant and so intimately connected with the inorganic bony matter that the form of the bone is preserved after the removal of the inorganic part by acid. It is converted into gelatin by boiling. 2. Dental cartilage; the organic base of the tooth. It seems precisely like the o. of bone, but perhaps slightly firmer. [J, 35, 42.]

OSSELET, n.  $O^2s/e^1e^2t$ . From os, a bone. Fr., o. 1. See OSSELETUM. 2. The small hard substance growing on the inside of a horse's knee, among the small bones. [C, 1.]—O. styloide (Fr.). See Stylo-hyal bone.

OSSEOUS, adj.  $O^2s/e^2u^2s$ . Lat., osseus (from os, a bone). Fr., osseux. Ger., knöchern, beinhart (2d def.), knochenhart (2d def.). 1. See BONY. 2. Of bony hardness.

OSSICLE, n.  $O^2s/i^2k^1$ . Lat., ossiculum (dim. of os, a bone). Fr., ossicule. Ger., Knöchelchen, Beinlein. A small bone. [C.]—Auditory o's, O's of the ear. See OSSEOLA AUDITUS.—Prenasale o. See Prenasale bone.

OSSEICULUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2s-si^2k^1u^2(l)^1u^3m(u^4m)$ . Dim. of os, a bone. Fr., osselet. Ger., Stein (2d def.), Steinkern (2d def.). 1. A small bone or bony body; also any hard structure of small size. [B, 28 (a, 27).] 2. A fruit in which the seed or kernel is inclosed in a hard, bony covering (putamen). [B, 1, 123 (a, 35).]—Ossicula auditus (see aurium). Fr., ossettes de l'oreille moyenne (ou de l'ovale). Ger., Gehörknöchelchen. An ossicle separated from the cuneiform process of the tegmen tympani. [L.]—Ossicula triticea. The lesser cornua of the hyoid bone. [L.]—Ossicula wormiana. See Wormian bones.

OSSICULUS (Lat.), n. m.  $O^2s-si^2k^1u^2(l)^1u^3s(u^4s)$ . Dim. of os, a bone. Fr., ossicule. See OSSEICULUM (2d def.).

OSSEFEROUS, adj.  $O^2s-i^2f^1e^2r-u^2s$ . From os, a bone, and ferre, to bear. Fr., ossifère. Containing or yielding bone. [C.]

OSSIFIC, adj.  $O^2s-i^2f^1i^2k$ . From os, a bone, and facere, to make. Fr., ossifique. Pertaining to or capable of ossification. [J.]

OSSIFICATIO (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2s-si^2f^1i^2k-a(a^3)/shi^2(ti^2)-o$ . Gen., -on/is. See OSSIFICATION.—O. testiculi. See ORCHIOSTOSIS.

OSSIFICATION, n.  $O^2s-i^2f^1i^2k-a^3shu^3n$ . Lat., ossificatio (from os, a bone, and facere, to make). Fr., O. Ossifikation, Verknöcherung. 1. The formation of bone. Cf. OSTEOGENESIS. 2. Change into a bony substance. [C.]—Accidental o. A term incorrectly applied to calcareous degeneration. [a, 34.]—Intermembranous o. See Intramembranous o.—Intracartilagineous o. Lat., ossificatio a cartilagine. Ger., intracartilaginöse Knochenbildung (oder Verknöcherung). O. from temporary cartilage, the cartilage becoming at first partly calcified and then absorbed by osteoclasts (1st def.) as the formation of the true bone proceeds from the investing periosteum. [A, 319 (a, 34); J.] Cf. Intramembranous o.—Intramembranous o. Lat., ossificatio a membrana. Ger., intermembranöse Knochenbildung. 1. The development of bone in connective tissue, without any intermediate formation of cartilage, by the outward growth from the centre of o. of osteogenic fibres around and upon which are arranged the osteoblasts which deposit the bone. [C; J.] 2. O. within a membranous sac.—O. directe (Fr.). See Periosteal o.—O. of permanent cartilage. The formation of osteoblasts in permanent hyaline cartilage; it must not be confounded with calcareous or uratic deposits in the cartilage. [a, 34.]—O. of the chorioid. The formation of bone in the corpus vitreum or, more rarely, in the stroma of the chorioid, in consequence of long-continued chorioiditis. [F.]—O'sgrube (Ger.). See ENOCHE'S O.—O'spunkt (Ger.). See CENTRE OF O.—Periosteal o. Fr., o. directe (ou périostique). Ger., periosteale Knochenbildung. O. in the osteogenic layer of the periosteum. [J.] See OSTEOGENESIS.—Senile o. A term incorrectly applied to vascular and interstitial calcareous degeneration occurring in old persons. [a, 34.]—Subperiosteal o. The projection of osteoblasts from bone into the layer of round or polygonal cells beneath the periosteum. It is identical in character with that observed in the second stage of o. from cartilage. [Cornil and Ranvier (a, 34).]

OSSIFIED, adj.  $O^2s/i^2f^1i^2d$ . From os, a bone, and facere, to make. Converted into bone; changed from soft material so as to have the hardness of bone; united by bone. [I; L, 343.]

OSSIFLUENT, adj.  $O^2s-i^2f^1i^2u^2e^2nt$ . From os, a bone, and fluere, to flow. Fr., o. Proceeding from or constituting a process involving the disappearance of bone as if by melting away. See O. ABSCESS.

OSSIFYING, adj.  $O^2s/i^2f^1i^2n^2$ . See OSSIFIC.

OSSEIVOROUS, adj.  $O^2s-i^2v^1o^2r-u^2s$ . Lat., ossivorus (from os, a bone, and vorare, to devour). Fr., ossivore. Ger., beinfressend. Substisting on bones; of medicines or of diseases, eroding or destroying bone tissue. [L, 41, 56 (a, 43).]

OSTEMIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2st-em(a^3/e^2m)-i^2-a^3$ . From ostéon, a bone, and αἷμα, blood. Ger., Knochenblutandrang. Determination of blood to a bone. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

OSTAGRA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2st-a^2g(a^3)/gi^2-gi^2-a^3$ . From ostéon, a bone, and ἀγρα, a seizure. See Bone FORCES.

OSTALGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2st-a^2l(a^3)/ji^2-gi^2-a^3$ . From ostéon, a bone, and άλγος, pain. See OSTEODYNIA.

OSTALGITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2st-a^2l(a^3)-ji^2-gi^2-tis$ . Gen., -git'idis (-idis). From ostéon, a bone, and άλγος, pain. Osteitis accompanied by osteodynia. [L, 50 (a, 34).]

OSTARIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2st-a(a^3)/ri^2-u^3m(u^4m)$ . Gr., ὀστᾶριον (dim. of ostéon, a bone). An ossicle, especially of the ear. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSTARTHROSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2st-a^3rth-rh(re)/ti^2s$ . Gen., -thrit'idis (-idis). From ostéon, a bone, and άρθρον, a joint. Inflammation of the articular surface of a bone.

OSTARTHROCEAE (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2st-a^3rth-ro^2k^1a^3-se(ka)$ . Gen., -throc'aces. From ostéon, a bone, άρθρον, a joint, and καός, evil. See SPINA VENTOSA.

OSTECTOMY, n.  $O^2st-e^2-ekt'o-m-i^2$ . From ostéon, a bone, and ἐκτομή, a cutting out. Osteotomy with the removal of a piece of bone. [A, 77.]—Bicondylloid o. See ANNANDALE'S OSTECTOMY.—Cuneiform o. See Cuneiform OSTECTOMY.

OSTEIDE, n.  $O^2st/e^2-i^2d$ . From ostéon, a bone. Fr., ostéide. 1. Of Rousseau, a small bony kernel sometimes occurring in the pulp cavity of a tooth. 2. Any accidental bony formation. [L, 41 (a, 14).]

OSTEIN, n.  $O^2st/e^2-i^2n$ . From ostéon, a bone. Fr., ostéine. Ger., O. 1. See OSSEIN. 2. Bony tissue. [C.]

OSTÉITE (Fr.), n.  $O^2s-ta-et$ . See OSTEITIS.—O. cario-necro-sique. See SPINA VENTOSA.—O. des nacliers (ou tourneurs de naere). A form of osteitis or osteoparostitis occurring in workers in mother-of-pearl, attacking several bones successively or even simultaneously and sometimes symmetrically. It is due to the entrance of fine particles of the substance into the blood through the lungs and to obstruction of the terminal arterioles, especially those of the marrow of the bones and of the extremities of the long bones, causing non-purulent inflammation which leaves only a thickening of the periosteum. Its development is slow or subacute. [L, 87 (a, 50); "Sem. méd.", Aug. 8, 1889 (a, 18).]—O. ostéoporose. See RAREFYING OSTEITIS.

OSTEITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2st-e^2-i(e)/ti^2s$ . Gen., -it'idis (-idis). From ostéon, a bone. Fr., ostéite. Ger., O, Knochenentzündung. Inflammation of bone.—Acute articular o. Fr., ostéite aiguë. Acute o. at the ends of the long bones and affecting the joints. [E, 4.]—Apophyseal o. Fr., ostéite apophysaire. Inflammation of osseous apophyses. [L, 87 (a, 50).]—Cavitary o. Fr., ostéite cavitare. O. in which the osseous cavity seems void and contains no liquid, but a layer of fungous excrescences is spread over the walls, sometimes completely filling the cavity. [L, 87 (a, 50).]—Chronic articular o. of the hip. See COXITIS.—Condensing o. Lat., o. interna osteoplastica. Fr., ostéite condensante. A diffuse interstitial form of o. usually attacking the whole of a hollow bone, sometimes several bones simultaneously, and resulting in the complete filling of the medullary cavity with a compact bony mass and generally in the formation of new bone on the surface, so that the whole bone becomes heavier and denser than normal. It is sometimes due to syphilis; often it is without known cause. [E, 15.]—Epi-physal o. Fr., ostéite épiphysaire. O. occurring in young persons that begins in the epiphyseal cartilage. [L, 41, 49 (a, 14).]—Formative o. See RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS.—Granular o. Fr., ostéite granuleuse. See O. fungosa.—Granular traumatic o. Traumatic o. in which there is loss of bony substance with infiltration granulations. [L, 87 (a, 34).]—Gummatous o. A form of degenerative o. characterized by the formation of syphilomatous in the spongy tissue of the epiphysis, in the periosteum, or in the shaft of the bone. [A, 520 (a, 29).]—Internal osteoplastic o. See CONDENSING o.—Juxta-epiphysary o. Of Gamet, o. originating in nutritive disturbances between the epiphysis and diaphysis. [L, 88 (a, 34).]—Necrotic o. Fr., ostéite nécrosique. Of Gosselin, bone necrosis. [a, 34.]—O. cariosa. See O. fungosa.—O. caseosa. See TUBERCULOUS o.—O. deformans. A chronic o. affecting the osseous system in general or attacking several bones at once, beginning with rarefaction and weakening of the bone, and resulting in deformity, in great increase of density, in obliteration of the medullary cavity, and in roughening of the surface from periosteal deposit. [E.]—O. fungosa, O. granulosa interna. A form of o. in which there is no destruction of the inflammatory new formation, but in which interstitial granulation tissue has grown all through the bone. [E, 15.]—O. gummatosa. See GUMMATOUS o.—O. interna. See CARIES centralis.—O. interna osteoplastica.

It is probably of tubercular origin.—O. superficialis. Osteoplastic o. Of Billroth, superficial o. in which osteophytes form on the affected area, producing new bone. [a. 34.]—Productive o. Fr., ostéite productive. O. attended by a considerable production of new bony tissue. [E.]—Rarefying o. Fr., ostéite ostéoporose (ou rarefiante). O. attended by decrease in the bone substance, especially around the Haversian canals. [E.]—Recurring multiple o. O. that disappears and reappears in some other locality. It has been observed in pearl-workers, involving principally the maxillary bones. ["N. Y. Med. Jour.," Aug. 16, 1890, p. 185 (a. 34).]—Suppurative o. Fr., ostéite suppurée. O. with the formation of granulations which subsequently undergo suppuration. [L. 49 (a. 14).]—Suppurative rarefying o. A rarefying o. in which the suppurative process more or less completely destroys the bone. [L. 87 (a. 34).]—Syphilitic o. See Gummatous o.—Tuberculous o. A degenerative form of o. with tubercular foci of infiltration. OSTEMBRYON (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2m}b^{1r}(ru^{6})o^{5n}$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and ἐμβρυον, an embryo. Fr., o. See LITHOPÆDION.

OSTEMPYESIS (Lat.), OSTEMPYOSIS (Lat.), n's f.  $O^{2st}e^{2m}p^{1r}i^{1r}y^{1r}e^{1r}sis$ ,  $-o^{1r}sis$ . Gen., -es'os (-is), -os'os (-is). From ὀστέον, a bone, and ἐμπύσις, suppuration. Ger., Knochenabszess, Knochenentzündung. Suppuration in the substance of the bone. [E.]

OSTEND, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2nd}$ . A sea-bathing resort in Belgium. [L. 30, 41, 49 (a. 14).]

OSTEO-ANEURYSM, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}a^{2n}u^{1r}r^{1r}izm$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and ἀνεύρυσμα, an aneurysm. See Bone ANEURYSM.

OSTEO-ARTHRITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}a^{2r}t^{1r}h^{1r}r^{1r}itis$  (i'tis). Gen., -thrítidos (-itis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and ἄρθρον, a joint. Fr., ostéo-arthritis. See Rheumatic ARTHRITIS.—Chronic o.-a. A disease of the joints characterized by pain, stiffness, and deformity and attended by decided changes in structure, such as erosion of the cartilage, atrophy of the bony parts, the formation of osteophytes, and the complete destruction of the joint. [D. 1; E.] (Cf. Rheumatic ARTHRITIS).

OSTEO-ARTHROTOMY, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}a^{2r}t^{1r}h^{1r}ro^{1r}t^{1r}om^{1r}y$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, ἄρθρον, a joint, and τέμνειν, to cut. See Interarticular OSTOTOMY.

OSTEO-ATHÉROME (Fr.), n.  $O^{2st}e^{2a}t^{1r}h^{1r}e^{1r}rom$ . A tumor of the bone or of the marrow which has the appearance of pulp. [E. 24.]

OSTEOBLASTS, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}b^{1r}l^{1r}asts$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and βλαστός, a sprout. Fr., ostéoblastes, corpuscules ramifiés. Ger., Osteoblasten, Knochenbildungszellen. Of Gegenbaur, the granular cells present in all developing bone. They often cover the surfaces where bone is being deposited, forming an endothelium especially between the periosteum and the bony substance of young bones (see Periosteum-CELLS). They are supposed to deposit the bony matter, and, becoming inclosed, to form the bone-cells. [J. 20, 30, 31, 35, 42.] See also Marrow-CELLS (def. F) and Medullary CELLS (3d def.).

OSTEOBLASTIC, adj.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}b^{1r}l^{1r}ast^{1r}ik$ . Pertaining to osteoblasts or to whatever forms bone. [J.]

OSTEOCACHEXIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}a^{1r}ch^{1r}e^{1r}ia$  (ka²k(ka²ch²)e²x'-i²a). From ὀστέον, a bone, and καχεξία, cachexia. Fr., ostéocachexie. Ger., Osteokachexie. A depraved condition of the bones. [L. 50 (a. 14).]

OSTEOCAMPSIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}a^{1r}mp^{1r}sia$  (ka²mp(ka²mp)-si²a). From ὀστέον, a bone, and κάμπτειν, to bend. Fr., ostéocampsie. Of Alibert, curvature of the bones by osteomalacia. [a. 34.]

OSTEOCARCINOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}a^{1r}r^{1r}cin^{1r}oma$  (ki²n)-o²ma². Gen., -om'atos (-atis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and καρκίνωμα, carcinoma. Fr., ostéo-carcinome. Ger., O., Beinkrebs, Knochenkrebs. 1. Carcinoma arising from the bone. 2. A carcinoma in which there is calcareous degeneration. [a. 34.]

OSTEO-OSSELE (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}o^{1r}ss^{1r}e^{1r}le$  (so²ka¹le²na); in Eng.,  $o^{2st}e^{2o}o^{1r}ss^{1r}e^{1r}$ . Gen., -os'se'la. From ὀστέον, a bone, and ὀσση, a tumor. Fr., ostéocèle. 1. A bony hardening of one or both testicles. 2. A hernia with a cartilaginous or bony sac. [E.]

OSTEOCEPHALOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}e^{1r}ph^{1r}al^{1r}oma$  (ke²f²al²o²ma²). Gen., -om'atos (-atis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and κεφαλή, the head. Medullary sarcoma arising from a bone. [a. 34.]

OSTEOCHONDRITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}h^{1r}ond^{1r}rit^{1r}is$  (ch²nd²rit²is). Gen., -drítidos (-itis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and χόνδρος, cartilage. Fr., ostéo-chondrite. Of Wagner, an inflammatory defect in calcification in which there is a layer of soft, yellowish white tissue between the calcified and cartilaginous portions of a rib. [a. 34.]

OSTEOCHONDROMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}h^{1r}ond^{1r}rom^{1r}a$  (ch²nd²rom²a²). Gen., -drom'atos (-atis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and χόνδρος, cartilage. Fr., ostéo-chondrome, Ger., Osteochondrom, Osteenchondrom. A tumor made up of both osseous and cartilaginous tissue. [a. 17.]

OSTEOCHONDROPHYTE, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}h^{1r}ond^{1r}ro^{1r}phyte$ . Lat., osteocondrophylon (from ὀστέον, a bone, χόνδρος, cartilage, and φυτόν, a plant). Fr., ostéo-chondrophyte. See Osteoid ENCHONDROMA.

OSTEOCLASIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}k^{1r}las^{1r}is$  (la²s)-i²s. Gen., -clas'eos (-o'clasis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and κλάσις, a breaking. Fr., ostéoclasie. Ger., Osteoklasie. Fracture of a bone, especially intentional fracture in order to remedy a deformity.

OSTEOCLAST, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}k^{1r}last$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and κλᾶν, to break. Fr., ostéoclaste, myéolapaxe (1st def.), ostéophage (1st def.). Ger., O., Osteoklast, Knochenbrecher (2d def.), Knochenfresser (1st def.). 1. Of Kölliker, one of the cells, often large and multinucleated, found wherever osseous tissue or calcified cartilage is undergoing absorption, and especially in the marrow, next to the osseous tissue, and in Howship's lacunæ. They are supposed to be the active agents in effecting resorption. [J.] 2. An instrument for osteoclasis. [E.]—Collin's o. An o. for performing Delore's operation. It consists of two semicircular collars to be applied respectively to the middle of the thigh and to the inferior third of the leg from the posterior aspect. They are separated by a frame movable at right angles to their long axes by a lever, by which force is brought to bear on the knee joint. [E.]—Rizzoli's o. An o. consisting of a heavy bar through the centre of which another bar, cut with a screw-thread, passes perpendicularly. The end of the upright bar is provided with a crutch for making pressure on the bone. At each end of the horizontal bar is a ring which surrounds the limb and furnishes a point of support on the bone to resist the action of the crutch when screwed down to cause the fracture. [E. 30.]—Robin's o. An o. for fracturing the lower end of the femur, consisting of an iron case extending half-way round the thigh on its anterior aspect, from a point above the condyles of the femur to the upper third of the thigh. Two steel collars, one above and one below, bind this to a heavy plank. Each collar is fastened to the plank by a nut and screw. To the upper part of the lower collar is attached a lever. A strong leather strap is passed around both thigh and lever just above the condyles. When the lever is raised, the bone is broken just above the epiphyseal line. [E. 30.]

OSTEOCOLLA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}o^{1r}k^{1r}ol^{1r}la$  (la²). Gr., ὀστεοκόλλα. Fr., ostéocolle. Ger., Beinbruchstein, Beinbinde, Beinbrech. 1. A mass consisting of calcium carbonate mixed with sand and containing organic remains, which collects about decaying roots and takes on their peculiar form. [B.] 2. See Lapis osteocolle.—Lapis osteocolle. Ger., faseriger Kalksinter (1st def.), Kalktuff (2d def.). Of the old pharmacopœias, calcium carbonate occurring (1) as a stalactitic or stalagmitic variety of satin spar; and (2) as a cellular or porous limestone (calcareous tufa) of a yellowish-gray, yellowish-brown, or ochreous color. [B. 180 (a. 35).]

OSTEOCOLLON (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}o^{1r}k^{1r}ol^{1r}lon$ . A plant believed to be the Ephedra distachya; formerly used as a cicatrificant. [B. 121 (a. 35).]

OSTEOCOPIC, adj.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}o^{1r}k^{1r}op^{1r}ik$ . Lit., bone-breaking (said of a type of severe cutting pain occurring in bone). [B.]

OSTEOCOPUS (Lat.), n. m.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}o^{1r}k^{1r}op^{1r}us$  (so²ku²s). Gr., ὀστεοκόπος, ὀστοκόπος. Fr., ostéocope. Osteodynia; especially osteocopic pains. [G.]—O. canerosus. Pain in the bones resulting from cancer. [L. 290.]

OSTEOCYSTIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}y^{1r}st^{1r}is$  (ku²st²i²s). Gen., -cyst'eos (-iosis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and κύστις, a bladder. Fr., ostéocyste. A cystic tumor with contents of bony hardness. [E.]

OSTEOCYSTOID, adj.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}y^{1r}st^{1r}oid$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, κύστις, a bladder, and ειδός, resemblance. Pertaining to or resembling an osteocystis. [E.]

OSTEOCYSTOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}y^{1r}st^{1r}oma$  (ku²st²i²m²a²). Gen., -om'atos (-atis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and κύστις, a bladder. A cystic tumor of bone, generally either serous or sanguineous. [E.]

OSTEOCYSTOSARCOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}c^{1r}y^{1r}st^{1r}sar^{1r}coma$  (ku²st²i²s²ar²kom²a²). Gen., -om'atos (-atis). Of Wedl, a cystosarcoma originating from a bone. [a. 34.]

OSTEODENTIN, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}d^{1r}e^{1r}nt^{1r}in$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and dens, a tooth. Fr., dentine vasculaire, vaso-dentine. Ger., Osteodentin. Of Owen, a form of dentin resembling both dentin and bone. Blood-vessels ramify in it, and the hard substance is often arranged in lamellæ, as in true bone. In the tooth of man it occurs only as a secondary ossification of the tooth pulp, but it normally forms the central part of elephants' tusks. It is the dentin of rodents, cetaceans, and many fishes. [J. 20, 30, 35, 42.]

OSTEO-DERMATOPLASTIC, adj.  $O^{2st}e^{2o}d^{1r}m^{1r}at^{1r}o^{1r}pl^{1r}ast^{1r}ik$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, δέρμα, the skin, and πλάσσειν, to mold. Ger., osteodermatoplastisch. Plastic by the employment of both bone and skin (said of a form of partial amputation of the foot). [Rydygier, "Cribl. f. Chir.," June 16, 1888, Beilage, p. 66; "N. Y. Med. Jour.," May 4, 1889, p. 502 (a. 50).]

OSTEODIASTASIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})di(di^{2})a^{2}st(a^{2}st)^{-}g^{2}s(a^{2}s)^{-}i^{2}s$ . Gen., -stas/eos (-ast/asis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and διάστασις, diastasis. Fr., ostéodiasiose. Ger., O. Separation of the fragments of broken bone, or of bones normally joined together, or of an epiphysis of a bone from its shaft. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSTEODICLIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o^{2}d(i^{2}k-li^{2}s(les))$ . Gen., -di-clidos (-idis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and δύκλις, a folding door. See DICLIDOSTOSIS.

OSTEODYNIA, n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})di^{2}n(du^{2}n)^{-}i^{2}a^{-}s$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and δύσιν, pain. Fr., ostéodynie. Pain, especially chronic pain, in a bone. [L, 41, 43, 50 (a, 43).]

OSTEO-EPIPHYSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})e^{2}p-i^{2}f(i^{2}u^{2})-si^{2}s$ . Gen., -phys/eos (-iph/ysis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and ἐπίφυσις, an epiphysis (1st def.). A bony epiphysis. [B.]—O. anterior. An epiphysis forming the apex of the acromion. [L, 31.]—O. apicalis processus coracoidalis. An epiphysis near the apex of the coracoid process of the scapula, with which it unites in adult life. [L.]—O. bicipitalis. Of Uffelmann, the upper part of the wall of the glenoid cavity. [A, 8.]—O. media. An epiphysis carrying the surface of the acromion, articulating with the clavicle, and uniting with the scapula in adult life. [L.]—O. posterior. An epiphysis lying between the spine of the scapula and the acromion, and uniting with the spine in adult life. [L.]—O. quadrangularis. A quadrangular epiphysis near the spine of the scapula, at about the point where its border becomes triangular, which unites with the spine in adult life. [L.]

OSTEOFIBROLIPOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})fi(fe)-bro-(bro^{2})-li^{2}p(-om)^{2}a^{2}$ . Gen., -om/atos (-atis). From ὀστέον, a bone, fibra, a fibre, and λίπος, lard. A tumor composed of bony, fibrous, and fatty tissue. [a, 34.]

OSTEOGANGRENA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})ga^{2}n^{2}(ga^{2}n^{2})-gre^{2}(gra^{2}e^{2})-na^{2}$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and γάγγραινα, gangrene. Necrosis of bone. [E.]

OSTEOGEN, n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(-je^{2}n$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and γεννάν, to engender. Ger., Osteogensubstanz. 1. The soft, transparent substance composing the osteogenic fibres. 2. A tissue or substance giving rise to bone. [J, 30, 35.]

OSTEOGENESIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})je^{2}n(ge^{2}n)^{-}e^{2}s-i^{2}s$ . Gen., -es/eos (-gen/esis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and γένεσις, generation. Fr., ostéogénie. Ger., Osteogenese, Knochenbildung, Knochenentstehung. The formation of bone. This takes place either in cartilage or in connective tissue (see Intracartilaginous ossification and Intramembranous ossification), but the process is very nearly the same in all situations, and consists of a gradual development of blood-vessels and a proliferation of osteoblasts, which begin to deposit bony matter at some point (centre of ossification), from which o. proceeds in all directions. Bone also formed by the ental or osteogenic layer of the periosteum as described for intramembranous ossification. In all forms of o. the bone first formed is spongy, this being due to the channels for the great number of blood-vessels, but, as age advances, bony matter is deposited in these channels, occluding them or greatly reducing their size, thus transforming the spongy into compact bone. [J, 30, 31, 32, 35.]

OSTEOGENY, n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o^{2}j(e^{2}n-i^{2}$ . Lat., ostéogénia. From ὀστέον, a bone, and γεννάν, to engender. Fr., ostéogénie. 1. See OSTEOGENESIS. 2. The development of the bony system. [C.]

OSTEOGRAPHY, n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o^{2}g(r^{2}a^{2}f-i^{2}$ . Lat., ostéographie (from ὀστέον, a bone, and γράφειν, to write). Fr., ostéographie. Ger., Osteographie. Descriptive anatomy of the bones. [C, 1.]

OSTEOHELICOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})he^{2}lk(-os)^{-}i^{2}s$ . Gen., -cos/eos (-is). From ὀστέον, a bone, and ἑλκωσις, an ulceration. Caries of bone. [E.]

OSTEOID, adj.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(-id$ . Gr., ὀσσειδής, ὀστώδης (from ὀστέον, a bone, and είδος, resemblance). Lat., osteoideus, ostoides. Fr., ostéοide. Resembling bone; osseous. [a, 17.]

OSTEOLITH, n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(-li^{2}th$ . Lat., osteolithos (from ὀστέον, a bone, and λίθος, a stone). Fr., ostéolithe. A petrified bone. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSTEOLOGY, n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o^{2}l(-i^{2}l$ . Lat., osteologia (from ὀστέον, a bone, and λόγος, understanding). Fr., ostéologie. Ger., Osteologie. The anatomy, etc., of the bones or of bone tissue. [C.]

OSTEOLYSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o^{2}l(i^{2}u^{2})-si^{2}s$ . Gen., -lys/eos (-ol/ysis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and λύσις, a loosing. Fr., ostéolyse. Softening and destruction of bone, as in caries. [E.]

OSTEOMA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(-m)^{2}a^{2}$ . Gen., -om/atos (-atis). From ὀστέον, a bone. Fr., ostéome. Ger., Osteom, Knochenwuchs, Knochengeschwulst. A tumor composed of osseous tissue, usually developing in connection with bone, though it may develop elsewhere. The development is effected partly by the agency of osteoblasts, partly by metaplasia of the existing tissue. [Ziegler (a, 34).]—Cancellous o. An o. in which the texture of the tumor is soft and spongy. It consists of thin and delicate trabeculae inclosing large medullary spaces resembling those of cancellous bone. [Ziegler (a, 34).]—Dental o. An excrescence consisting of cement, developing from a tooth. [Ziegler (a, 34).]—Eburnated o. Ivory o. Fr., ostéome éburné. An o. in which the texture of the tumor is dense, resembling ivory. It consists of compact tissue with narrow nutrient canals, and is similar to the cortical layer of the long bones. [Ziegler (a, 34).]—Heteroplastic o. An o. situated in a tissue or organ in which bone does not normally occur. [a, 34.]—O. corporis vitrei. Fr., ostéome du corps vitré. A formation of bone in the corpus vitreum, resulting from long-continued and usually suppurative inflammation. [F.]—O. cutis. A bony growth in the skin, usually developing from an old cicatrix or sometimes from chondroma or carcinoma of the skin or other abnormal growths. It is said to occur also congenitally in some cases. [G, 75.]—O. durum, O. eburneum. See Eburnated o.—O. medullosum. See Cancellous o.—O. of the chorioid. Fr., ostéome de la choroïde. A deposit of true bone in the chorioid after long-continued inflammation, the inner surface of the chorioid being the starting-point from which the bone formation extends in all directions until sometimes it forms a complete and continuous shell between the corpus vitreum and the sclera. [F.]—O. scleroticae. Fr., ostéome de la sclérotique. Ger., Scleralosteom. A form of o. which seems to rest on and cover the sclera rather than to be developed in it. [F.]—O. subconjunctivale. Fr., ostéome sous-conjonctivale. Ger., Osteom unter der Bindehaut. A form of o. consisting of a deposit of true bone under the conjunctiva, the latter being firmly united to the bony growth, but unaltered in its structure. [F.]—Parosteal o. An o. developing near a bone but not connected with it. [a, 34.]

OSTEOMALACIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})ma^{2}l(ma^{2}l)^{-}a^{2}(a^{2})^{-}si^{2}(ki^{2})^{-}a^{2}$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and μαλαξία, softness. Fr., ostéomalacie, ostéomalakie, ostéomalaxie, ramollissement des os. Ger., Osteomalacie, Knochenbiegsamkeit, Knochenweichung. Softening of the bones occurring in adult life, and especially in elderly persons. The changes closely resemble those of rickets. [A, 530 (a, 29).]—O. apathyros. That form of o. in which the bones become unnaturally flexible, like wax.—O. carcinomatosa. A diffuse cancerous infiltration of the medullary tissue of bones, with softening. [A, 326 (a, 34).]—O. cerea, O. coharens. See O. apathyros.—O. fracturosa, O. fragilis, O. psathyra. That form of o. in which the bones become brittle.

OSTEOMALACOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})ma^{2}l(ma^{2}l)^{-}a^{2}k(-a^{2}k)^{-}os/i^{2}s$ . Gen., -cos/eos (-is). See OSTEOMALACIA.

OSTEOMETABOLE (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})me^{2}t(-a^{2}b)^{-}a^{2}(a^{2}b)^{-}o^{2}l(-ea)$ . Gen., -ab/oles. From ὀστέον, a bone, and μεταβολή, a changing. See OSTEALGOSIS.

OSTEOMEIOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})mi(me^{2}i)^{-}os/i^{2}s$ . Gen., -os/eos (-is). From ὀστέον, a bone, and μείωσις, diminution. Deterioration of the bony tissues. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSTEOMYELITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})mi(mu^{2})-e^{2}l(i^{2}e)^{-}ti^{2}s$ . Gen., -it/idos (-idis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and μυελός, marrow. Fr., ostéomyélite. Ger., O, Knochenmarksentzündung. Inflammation of the marrow of bone. [E.]—Gummatous o. Lat., o. gummatosa. Fr., ostéomyélite gommeuse. O. caused by gummatous degeneration in the bone. [a, 34.]—Infectious o., Malignant o. Lat., o. infectiosa. Fr., ostéomyélite infectieuse, ostéite éphyrasaire des adolescents, periostite phlegmoneuse, ostéopériostite juxta-éphyraire, typhus des membres [Chassaignac]. Ger., infektiöse O. That appears spontaneously or in consequence of traumatism, due to the presence of infective organisms. [A, J. Rodet, "Rev. de chir." Apr. 1885, p. 273 (a, 34).]—O. diffusa spontanea. O. occurring in the course of one of the infectious diseases, and caused by a micro-organism or some ptomaine produced thereby. [A, 326 (a, 34).]—O. malleosa. O. caused by the Bacillus malleus. [L, 57 (a, 34).]—Putrid o. A traumatic o. in which there is an acute suppurative inflammation in the medullary canal. [L, 88 (a, 34).]—Serofulous o. Ger., serophulöse O. O. of serofulous origin, as in Pott's disease, caries ventosa, or caries occulta. [L, 57 (a, 34).]—Vertebral o. Of Lannelongue and Cou-dray, acute o. of the vertebrae. [L, 88 (a, 34).]

OSTEOMYELON (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})mi(mu^{2})^{2}e^{2}l-o^{2}n$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and μυελός, marrow. See MARROW.

OSTEON (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(-o^{2}n$ . Gr., ὀστέον. See BONE.

OSTEONCOSIS (Lat.), OSTEONCUS (Lat.), n's f. and m.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o^{2}n^{2}k(-os)^{-}i^{2}s$ ,  $-o^{2}n^{2}k(-u^{2}s)^{-}i^{2}s$ . Gen., -cos/eos (-is). From ὀστέον, a bone, and γκῶσις, a tumor. Fr., ostéoncic. See EXOSTOSIS.

OSTEONECROSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})ne^{2}k(-ros)^{-}i^{2}s$ . Gen., -cros/eos (-is). From ὀστέον, a bone, and νέκρωσις, necrosis. Fr., ostéonécrose. Necrosis of bone.

OSTEONOSUS (Lat.), OSTEONUSUS (Lat.), n's f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o^{2}n^{2}os(-u^{2}s)^{-}i^{2}s$ ,  $-o(o^{3})-nu^{2}s(nus)^{-}u^{2}s(u^{2}s)^{-}i^{2}s$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and νόσος or νόσος, disease. Fr., ostéonose, mal des os. Ger., Knochenkrankheit. Any disease of bone. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OSTEOPÆDION (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})ped^{2}(pa^{2}e^{2}d)^{-}i^{2}a^{-}o^{2}n$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and παῖδιον, a young child. Fr., ostéopædion. Ger., Beinkind. An ossified foetus. [L, 50 (a, 43).]

OSTEOPALINCLASIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})pa^{2}l(pa^{2}l)^{-}i^{2}a^{2}n^{2}k(-a^{2}l)^{-}i^{2}s$ . Gen., -clas/eos, -in/clasis. From ὀστέον, a bone, παλιν, again, and κλάσις, a breaking. Ger., Wiedererbrechung der Knochen. Refracture of a bone to correct deformity. [E.]

OSTEOPARECTAMA (Lat.), OSTEOPARECTASIS (Lat.), n's.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})pa^{2}r(pa^{2}r)^{-}e^{2}kt(a^{2}m)^{-}a^{2}(-a^{2}s(a^{2}s)^{-}i^{2}s$ . Gen., -tam/atos (-atis), -ta/seos (-ect/tasis). From ὀστέον, a bone, παρα, beyond, and ἐκταμα, extent, or παρέκτασις, extension. Fr., ostéoparectame. Undue extension of a bone or of bones. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

OSTEOPATHY, n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o^{2}p(a^{2}th-i^{2}$ . Lat., osteopathia (from ὀστέον, a bone, and πάθος, disease). Fr., ostéopathie. Ger., Knochen-leiden. Any disease of bone. [E, 24.]

OSTEO-PERIOSTEAL, adj.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(-pe^{2}r-i^{2}o^{2}st-e^{2}a^{2}n^{2}l$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, περί, around, and ὀστέον, a bone. Fr., ostéopériostique. Affecting bony tissue and the overlying periosteum.

OSTEOPERIOSTITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})pe^{2}r-i^{2}o^{2}st-i^{2}e^{2}ti^{2}s$ . Gen., -it/idos (-idis). Fr., ostéopériostite. Inflammation of a bone and the corresponding periosteum. [E, 24.]—Chronic tubercular o. See Tuberculous osteitis.

OSTEPHAGE (Fr.), n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(-fa^{2}zh$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and φαγείν, to eat. See OSTEOCLAST (1st def.).

OSTEOPHLEBITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(o^{3})fle^{2}b(i^{2}e)^{-}ti^{2}s$ . Gen., -it/idos (-idis). From ὀστέον, a bone, and φλέψ, a vein. Ger., O. Of Cruveilhier, infectious osteomyelitis producing septic phlebitis. [a, 34.]

OSTEOPHONIE (Fr.), n.  $O^{2st}e^{-2}o(-fo-ne$ . From ὀστέον, a bone, and φωνή, a sound. See AUDIPHONE.

OSTEOPHONY, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}on^{i2}$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\phi\omega\upsilon\eta\epsilon$ , to produce a sound. Ger., Osteophonie. The bone-conduction of sound.

OSTEOPHOR, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}or$ . A heavy forceps with strong teeth for crushing and dividing bone.

OSTEOPHYSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}(thi)^2si^2s$ . Gen., -is'eos (-ophth'isis). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\phi\theta\acute{\iota}\varsigma$ , a wasting. Fr., ostéophthisie. A wasting of the bones. [L. 41, 50 (a, 43).]

OSTEOPHONGE (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}tho^{2n}(tho^{2n})^{i2}y^{2}je\acute{g}a$ . Gen., -phthong'es. From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\phi\theta\omega\gamma\gamma\acute{\iota}$ , the voice. See OSTECHEMA.

OSTEOPHORIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}tho(tho^2)^{i2}ri^2a^2$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\phi\theta\omicron\pi\iota\alpha$ , corruption. Fr., ostéophorie. Ger., Knochenverderbniss. Caries of bone. [L. 41, 50 (a, 43).]

OSTEOPHYMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}fi(fu^2)^{i2}ma^2$ . Gen., -phym'atos (-atis). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\phi\upsilon\mu\alpha$ , a growth. A prominence on the surface of a bone, whether an exostosis or a soft tumor due to periostitis. [E.]

OSTEOPHYTE, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}ft$ . Lat., osteophyton (from  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\phi\upsilon\tau\acute{\iota}\nu$ , a plant). Fr., ostéophyte. Ger., Osteophyt, Beinknoten. See EXOSTOSIS.—Puerperal o's. Fr., ostéophytes puerpérales (ou crâniens). Of Rokitansky, lamellar bone-like deposits, chiefly on the inner surface of the cranial bones, particularly the frontal, due to pregnancy. [A. 24].—Radiated o. Lat., osteophytum radiatum. See ACTINOSTEOPHYTE.

OSTEOPLAQUE (Fr.), n.  $O^{2st}a-o-pla^k$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\pi\lambda\alpha\kappa\acute{\epsilon}$ , a tablet. An osseous plate formed in an abnormal situation, as in muscle. [a. 35.]

OSTEOPLAST, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o-pla^2st$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\pi\lambda\alpha\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , to mold. Fr., ostéoplaste. Ger., O. See OSTEOBLAST and BONE CELL.

OSTEOPLASTY, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o-pla^2st^{i2}$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\pi\lambda\alpha\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , to mold. Fr., ostéoplastic. Ger., Osteoplastik. The plastic surgery of bone. [E.]—Periosteal o. Fr., ostéoplasie périostique. O. involving the production of new bone from periosteum. [L. 88 (a, 30).]

OSTEOPLEURIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}plu^2r^{i2}a^2$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\pi\lambda\epsilon\upsilon\rho\acute{\alpha}$ , a rib. See PLEUROSTOSIS.

OSTEOPOROMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}po^2r^{i2}om^{i2}a^2$ . Gen., -om'atos (-atis). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\pi\omicron\rho\omicron\varsigma$ , a passage. Fr., ostéoporome. Ger., Osteoporom. The condition produced by osteoporosis. [L. 50 (a, 48).]

OSTEOPOROSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}po^2r^{i2}os^{i2}a^2$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). Fr., ostéoporose. Ger., Osteoporose, Knochenauflöckerung. 1. Of Schwabe (1877), the absorption taking place in the embryonic development of bone, whereby the medullary canals and adjacent medullary spaces are greatly enlarged. It is followed by a lamellar osseous deposit upon the surface of the bone of the osteogenic layer of the periosteum and by a redeposition of osseous lamellae on the walls of the medullary cavity and spaces. [J. 30.] 2. A variety of eccentric atrophy occurring in bones and resulting in a widening of the medullary spaces and an increase of their contents, of which fatty matter forms a very important element. [D. 4].—Adipose o., Fatty o. See O. (2d def.).

OSTEOPSATHYROSIS (Lat.), OSTEOPSATHYROTIS (Lat.), n's f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}sa^{i2}th(sa^{i2}th)^{i2}r^{i2}(u^{i2}r)^{i2}os^{i2}a^2$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is), os'eos (-is), os'eos (-is). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\psi\alpha\theta\upsilon\rho\acute{\iota}\varsigma$ , crumbling, or  $\psi\alpha\theta\upsilon\rho\acute{\iota}\varsigma$ , looseness of consistence. Fr., ostéopsathyrotie. Unnatural brittleness of bone. [E.]

OSTEOPYR (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}py^2r^{i2}(u^{i2}r)^{i2}$ . Gen., -op'yros (-is). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\pi\upsilon\rho$ , a fever. Ger., Knochenbrand. Gangrene of bone. [L. 41 (a, 43).]

OSTEORRHAGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}ra^{i2}j(r\acute{a}^2g)^{i2}a^2$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\rho\eta\gamma\gamma\acute{\iota}\nu\alpha\iota$ , to break through. Fr., ostéorrhagie. Bleeding from the bones. [L. 50 (a, 48).]

OSTEOSARCOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}sa^2rk^{i2}om^{i2}a^2$ . Gen., -om'atos (-atis). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\sigma\acute{\alpha}\rho\kappa\omega\mu\alpha$ , a fleshy excrescence. Fr., ostéosarcome. Ger., Osteosarcom. A fibrous tumor of bone, usually originating in the periosteum, in which fibrous tissue and bone elements predominate in various degrees. [Gross, "Ann. Jour. of the Med. Sci.," 1879 (E.).]—Pulsating o. Fr., ostéosarcome à forme pulsatile. See OSTEOLENGELECTASIS.

OSTEOSARCOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}sa^2rk^{i2}os^{i2}a^2$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\sigma\acute{\alpha}\rho\phi$ , flesh. Fr., ostéosarcose. The transformation of bone into a fleshy mass. [E.]

OSTEOSCIRRHUS (Lat.), n. m.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}si^2rskir^{i2}ru^{i2}a^2$ . Gen., -os'cirhus, a bone, and  $\sigma\kappa\acute{\iota}\rho\rho\iota\varsigma$ , an induration. Fr., ostéoscirrhe. Scirrhus of bone. [L. 50 (a, 43).]

OSTEOSCLEROMA (Lat.), OSTEOSCLEROSIS (Lat.), n's n. and f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}skle^2r^{i2}om^{i2}a^2$ , -os'is. Gen., -om'atos (-atis), -os'eos (-is). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\sigma\kappa\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\rho\omega\mu\alpha$ , or  $\sigma\kappa\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\rho\omega\varsigma$ , induration. Fr., ostéosclérome, ostéosclérose. Ger., Osteosklerose. Eburnation of bone. [E.]—O. centralis. The filling up of the medullary canal of a cylindrical bone with osseous tissue. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

OSTEOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}os^{i2}s$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). Fr., ostéose. See OSTOSIS.

OSTEOSPONGIOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}spo^2n(spo^2n)^{i2}$ . Gen., -om'atos (-atis). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\sigma\pi\omega\gamma\gamma\iota\omega$ , a little sponge. Ger., Osteospongium. A spongy or fungous condition of bone. [E.] See also SPISA ventosa.

OSTEOSPONGIOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}spo^2n(spo^2n)^{i2}$ . Gen., -os'is (-is). Fr., ostéopongiose. 1. The formation of osteospongium. [E.] 2. See OSTEOSPONGIOMA.

OSTEOSTEATOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}ste^{i2}ste^{i2}a^{i2}m^{i2}a^2$ . Gen., -om'atos (-atis). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\sigma\tau\epsilon\alpha$ , and  $\sigma\tau\epsilon\alpha$ , stiff fat. Fr., ostéostéatome. Ger., Osteosteatom. A steatoma that has undergone calcareous degeneration. [a. 34.]

OSTÉOSYNOVITE (Fr.), n.  $O^{2s}ta-o-se-no-vet$ . Synovitis associated with osteitis of the adjacent bones. [L. 88 (a, 50).]

OSTEOLENGELECTASIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}te^{i2}(tal)^{i2}e^{i2}(a)^{i2}a^{i2}n(a^{i2}n)^{i2}ji(gi^2)^{i2}e^{i2}kt^{i2}a^{i2}s(a^{i2}s)^{i2}is$ . Gen., -tas'eos (-ect'asis). From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone,  $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ , the end,  $\acute{\alpha}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\iota\omega$ , a vessel, and  $\acute{\epsilon}\kappa\tau\alpha\iota\varsigma$ , a stretching. Fr., ostéoléngiectase. 1. Dilatation of the small blood-vessels in the bones. [L. 50 (a, 14).] 2. Of Wedl, an osteosarcoma containing numerous large blood-vessels. [a. 34.]

OSTEOTOME, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o-tom$ . Lat., osteotomium, osteotomus (from  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\mu\upsilon\epsilon\nu$ , to cut). Ger., Osteotom. An instrument for cutting bone.

MACEWEN'S OSTEOTOME.

OSTEOTOMIST, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}o^{2m}i^2st$ . Lat., osteotomista (from  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\mu\upsilon\epsilon\nu$ , to cut). Syn.: bone-pliers [Davis]. 1. An instrument invented by D. D. Davis, "combining the principles of a punch and a pair of scissors," for cutting out portions of bone from the fetal skull after the use of the perforator. [A. 29, 42.] 2. One who practises osteotomy.

OSTEOTOMY, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}om^{i2}$ . Lat., osteotomia (from  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\mu\upsilon\epsilon\nu$ , to cut). Fr., ostéotomie. Ger., Osteotomie, Knochenzerlegung. The operation of cutting bone, especially section of a long bone in its continuity for the relief of some deformity. [a. 34].—Annandale's o. Partial excision of both condyles of the femur for the relief of genu valgum. [a. 34].—Astragoloid o. Removal of the head of the astragalus to enable the depressed portion of the tarsus to be elevated and the arch of the foot restored in flat-foot. [W. Stokes, "Ann. of Surg.," Oct., 1885, p. 279 (a, 34).]—Barwell's o. Section of the shaft of the femur at one operation and of the tibia and fibula at another for the correction of genu valgum. [E.]—Billroth's o. Incomplete linear o. of the tibia for the relief of genu valgum. [a. 34].—Buck's o. Cuneiform o. in which the wedge is made to include the ends of the tibia and fibula as well as the patella. [E.]—Chiene's o. The removal of a wedge-shaped piece from the base of the internal condyle of the femur, immediately above the tubercle for the attachment of the adductor magnus, so that the bone can be bent into place. [E.]—Complete o. O. in which the whole thickness of the bone is cut through.—Cuneiform o. O. in which a wedge-shaped piece is removed from the bone. [a. 34].—Diaphyseal o. Of Reeves, division of the femur from the outer side at the junction of the middle and lower thirds for the relief of genu valgum. [a. 34].—Extra-articular o. See CONDYLOMY.—Incomplete o. O. in which the bone is partly cut through and then bent or broken.—Interarticular o. O. in which the section of the bone is wholly or partially within a joint. [a. 34].—Langenbeck's o. O. by perforation of the bone with a drill through a small wound in the soft parts and division of the bone with a narrow saw. [E.]—Linear o. Fr., ostéotomie linéaire. A simple section through a bone. [a. 34].—Longitudinal o. Of Jeannel, longitudinal section of a bone with lateral partial section at either extremity, for lateral correction and lengthening. [a. 34].—MacCormac's o. See MACCORMAC'S OPERATION OF SUPRACONDYLOID O.—MacEwen's o. The removal of a wedge-shaped piece of bone from the inner side of the lower end of the femur, just above the level of the epiphysis. The bone is cut through until it can be broken or bent, so as to allow the leg to be placed in a straight line with the thigh, to relieve genu valgum. [a. 34].—Meyer's o. Cuneiform o. of the tibia below the tuberosity for genu valgum. If the deformity is severe, the fibula also is divided. [a. 34].—Ogston's o. Oblique division of the internal condyle of the femur, opening into the joint. The leg is forced inward, and the condyle slipped upon the cut surface of the femur. [a. 34].—Ollier's o. Section through the epiphyseal cartilage of the femur for the relief of genu valgum. [a. 34].—Partial o. See INCOMPLETE O.—Reeves's o. 1. Incomplete linear o. through the condyles of the femur with a chisel. 2. Incomplete linear o. of the outer aspect of the femur, above the condyles. 3. Incomplete linear o. of the outer aspect of the femur through the shaft.—Rounded o. O. with the removal of a rounded piece of bone. [A. 101].—Schede's o. Osteotomy of the tibia with a linear complex o. of the fibula for genu valgum. [a. 34].—Simple o. See LINEAR O.—Subtrochanteric o. Section of the femur below the trochanter, to relieve the ankylosis of the hip. [A. 319 (a, 34)].—Supracondylar o. See MACEWEN'S O.—Supramalleolar o. Linear o. of the tibia and fibula about two inches above the tip of the malleoli for the relief of flat-foot. ["N. Y. Med. Jour.," May 24, 1890, p. 566 (a, 34).]—Taylor's o. Section of the shaft of the femur from the outer side and a hand's breadth above the joint; used in cases of genu valgum due to femoral curves. [E.]

OSTEOTOPHUS (Lat.), n. m.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o^{2f}(o^{2f})^{i2}u^2s(a^{i2}s)^{i2}$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\tau\omicron\phi\upsilon\varsigma$ , sandstone. Fr., ostéotophe. Ger., Knochenauswuchs. A bony excrescence. [L. 50.]

OSTEOTRITE, n.  $O^{2st}e^{2-}o-trit$ . From  $\delta\sigma\tau\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ , a bone, and  $\tau\epsilon\rho\epsilon\iota\omega$ , to bore. An instrument having a conical point on which there are knife-edges; used for removing carious bone. [a. 34.]

OTITIS (Lat.), n. f. Ot-i<sup>2</sup>(e<sup>2</sup>)ti<sup>2</sup>s. Gen., -it'id<sup>2</sup>os (-idis). From ὠς, the ear. Fr., otite. Ger., Ohrenentzündung. Inflammation of the ear.—Catarrhal o. See O. media catarrhalis.—Desquamative o. See O. desquamativa.—Dry o. Fr., otite sèche. Eczema affecting the external auditory canal and lobe of the ear, in which there is no discharge unless the epidermis is fissured. [L, 88 (a, 34).]—Furuncular o. See O. externa furunculosa.—Gonorrhoeal o. An external o. occurring in an individual suffering with gonorrhoea, and supposed to be caused by that disease. As there is no mucous membrane in the external auditory canal, the existence of the disease is doubtful. [Burnett (a, 34).]—O. desquamativa. Fr., otite desquamative. A marked thickening and increase in bulk of the epidermic layers of the external auditory canal and membrana tympani, the result of chronic morbid processes in the external meatus, or of suppurative, perforating inflammations of the middle ear. The epithelial masses scale off and lie in the canal, often forming thick cerumen-like plugs. [B; F, 32.]—O. diph-

therica. Inflammation of the middle and sometimes of the external auditory canal usually in consequence of the extension of diphtheritic inflammation from the throat. [a, 34].—O. externa. Fr., otite externe. Ger., Entzündung des äusseren Gehörganges. Inflammation of the skin of the external auditory canal, either in the cartilaginous section or in the osseous portion of the meatus, whence it may extend to the membrana tympani. It is characterized by swelling and infiltration of the cutaneous lining, consequent narrowing of the calibre, severe pain and heat of the parts, and sometimes by a slight sero-purulent discharge, deafness, and tinnitus. [F.]—O. externa circumscripta. Fr., otite externe circonscrite. See O. externa follicularis.—O. externa crouposa. A rare form of inflammation of the external meatus, characterized by the exudation of fibrin in the form of a membrane, mainly in the membrana tympani. [F.]—O. externa diffusa. Fr., otite externe (aiguë) diffuse. Diffuse inflammation of the whole external auditory canal. [F.]—O. externa diphtheritica. Fr., otite externe diphthérique. A rare form of inflammation of the external meatus, usually a complication of scarlatinous diphtheria of the throat and middle ear. [F.]—O. externa follicularis. O. externa furunculosa. O. with furuncles of the external auditory canal, or follicular inflammation of the external meatus, beginning in a hair follicle, in a gland, or in a number of follicles or glands. [F.]—O. externa hemorrhagica. Fr., otite externe hémorrhagique. A form of diffuse inflammation of the external auditory canal characterized by hemorrhagic effusion in the osseous portion, accompanied with more or less well-marked reactive symptoms. The condition is one of superficial inflammation of the cutis with the epidermis raised by the hemorrhagic exudation. [F.]—O. externa parasitica. Fr., otite externe parasitique. Inflammation of the external auditory canal due to the presence of parasites, especially of Aspergillus and other Fungi. [B.]—O. externa phlegmonosa. External o. with localized suppuration. [A, 326 (a, 34); B.]—O. externa syphilitica. Fr., otite externe syphilitique. A term for various affections of the auricle and external auditory canal due to syphilis. [F.]—O. interna. Fr., otite interne. Ger., Entzündung des inneren Ohres. 1. See O. media. 2. See O. media purulenta chronica. 3. Inflammation of the membranous structure of the internal ear or labyrinth. [F, 32.]—O. interna catarrhalis acuta. Acute catarrhal o. of the middle ear. [A, 326 (a, 34).]—O. interna catarrhalis chronica. See O. media catarrhalis chronica.—O. interna suppurativa. Suppurating o. media. [A, 326 (a, 34).]—O. labyrinthica. Of Voltolini, inflammation of the labyrinth presenting symptoms resembling those of meningitis but not terminating fatally, though permanent deafness results. [a, 34].—O. media (acuta). Fr., otite moyenne aiguë (ou de la caisse). Ger., acuter einfacher Mittelohrkatharrh. An inflammation of the lining mucous membrane of the middle ear, characterized by the rapid effusion or exudation of a serous or mucoid fluid into the cavity of the drum, by a simultaneous secondary inflammation of the membrana tympani, and by its almost typical definite course of short duration. [F, 32.]—O. media acuta intermittens. Acute catarrhal inflammation of the middle ear in which there is intermission of the symptoms. [L, 9, 57, 184 (a, 34).]—O. media acuta perforativa (seu purulenta, seu suppurativa). Acute suppurative inflammation of the middle ear characterized by hyperaemia of the mucous membrane, generally beginning with violent febrile symptoms and leading to a rapid exudation of pus and to perforation of the membrana tympani, which is at the same time inflamed. [F, 32.]—O. media adhesiva lentescentis. See O. media catarrhalis chronica.—O. media catarrhalis. Inflammation of the middle ear, especially catarrh, as distinguished from serous and purulent inflammation. [F.]—O. media catarrhalis chronica (seu sicca). A chronic, insidious, and progressive catarrhal inflammation of the tympanic mucous membrane, with slight secretion, with exudation into the substance of the mucous membrane and the formation of new connective tissue which has a marked tendency to shrink. Two forms are distinguished, the hypertrophic and the sclerosing (sclerotic o.), according as the tendency to hypertrophy or to shrinking and atrophy is most pronounced. Both kinds, but especially the latter, are of unfavorable prognosis, obstinate in resisting treatment, and very apt to be followed by marked and permanent impairment of hearing from ankylosis of the ossicula. [F.]—O. media crouposa. O. media characterized by the secretion of a congluable fibrinous exudation which forms a false membrane. [F.]—O. media diphtheritica. O. media characterized by the formation of a membrane of fibrous tissue on the surface of the mucous membrane and an exudation of the same nature into the meshes of its connective-tissue basis. [F.]—O. media hemorrhagica. O. media characterized by more or less frequent discharge of blood mixed with mucus or mucopus or by free hemorrhages from the surface of the membrane without purulent discharge. [F.]—O. media hyperplastica. See O. media catarrhalis chronica.—O. media hypertrophica. Of Gruber, sclerosis of the mucous membrane of the tympanic cavity and adjacent cavities. [F.] See also Sclerotic o.—O. media mucosa. Fr., otite moyenne muqueuse. Ger., schleimiger Mittelohrkatharrh. A chronic inflammation of the tympanic mucous membrane accompanied by a mucous exudation into the cavity of the tympanum. [F.]—O. media perforativa chronica. See O. media purulenta chronica.—O. media peristoma. O. media with inflammation of the periosteum. [L, 49 (a, 34).]—O. media purulenta acuta. See O. media acuta perforativa.—O. media purulenta chronica. Chronic inflammation of the mucous membrane of the middle ear and of the membrana tympani, including the Eustachian tube, the mastoid cells, and very commonly the external meatus, the labyrinth, and the osseous walls of the middle ear. [F, 32.]—O. media purulenta tuberculosa. Purulent o. media caused by the Bacillus tuberculosis. [A, 326 (a, 34).]—O. media pyogenica. See O. media acuta perforativa and O. media purulenta chronica.—O. media sclerotica. See O. media catarrhalis chronica.—O. media serosa. O. media characterized by a more or less serous secretion.

It may be acute or chronic. [F.] Cf. HYDROTYPANUM.—O. media suppurativa chronica. See O. media purulenta chronica.—O. mycosa, O. parasitica. Fr., otite parasitique. Inflammation of the external and sometimes of the middle ear due to parasites. [B.] See under OTOMYCOSIS and O. externa parasitica.—O. phlegmonosa. Acute o. [L, 88, 25, 62.]—O. purulenta chronica. See OTORRHEA.—O. scarlatina. An acute o. media occurring in scarlatina, and caused by an extension of inflammation from the throat to the Eustachian tube. [L, 9, 57, 185 (a, 34).]—Parasitic o. See O. parasitica.—Sclerotic o. Chronic catarrhal inflammation of the ear attended with marked and early developed hardening and shrinking of the tissues. [a, 34.]

OTOCYST. n. Ot-o-si<sup>2</sup>st. From o<sup>2</sup>s, the ear, and κύστις, a bladder. Fr., otocyste. Ger., Otokyste. In the Hydrozoa, an organ of hearing situated along the margin of the disc between the tentacles, consisting of an open or closed vesicle containing hair-cells and concretions (otoliths). It is formed by invagination of the ectoderm. [Lankester (a, 35).]

OTOPHONE. n. Ot-o-fon. From o<sup>2</sup>s, the ear, and φωνή, a sound. Fr., o. Ger., Otophon, Hörwerkzeug. 1. See EAR-trumpet. 2. An apparatus for improving the hearing. It consists essentially of a clamp or of elastic strips of metal which press the auricle out from the head and direct its anterior surface vertically toward sound-waves coming from the front. [F, 32, 38.]

OTOPIESIS (Lat.), n. f. Ot-o(ō)-pi(pī)²/e²s-i²s. Gen., -es/eos (-pi²/esie). From otōs, the ear, and πιεσις, a squeezing. Fr., otopie-sis, compression auriculaire. Depression of the membrana tympani by atmospheric pressure, consequent on the formation of a more or less complete vacuum within the tympanum. [Boucheron, "Rev. mens. de laryngol., d'otol. et de rhinol.," Jan., 1888, p. 1.]

OTOPLASTY, n. Ot'o-pla²st-i². Lat., otoplastia, otoplastice (from otōs, the ear, and πλασσειν, to form). Fr., otoplastie, autoplastie auriculaire. Ger., Otoplastik. Plastic surgery of the ear.

OTOPLEXIOMETER, n. Ot-o-ple²x-i²-o²m'e²t-u²r. Lat., otoplexiometer (from otōs, the ear, πληξίς, percussion, and μέτρον, a measure). Fr., plessimètre pour l'oreille. Ger., Ohrplessimeter. An instrument for examining the internal ear by percussion. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OTOPYORRHŒA (Lat.), n. f. Ot-o(ō)-pi(pū)²-o²r-re/(rō²/e²)-a². From otōs, the ear, πύον, pus, and ρῶια, a flowing. See OTORRŒA.

OTOPYOSIS (Lat.), n. f. Ot-o(ō)-pi(pū)²-os/i²s. Gen., -os/eos (-is). From otōs, the ear, and πύον, pus. Fr., otopyose. Ger., Ötreiterung. Purulent otorrhœa.

OTORRHŒA (Lat.), n. f. Ot-o²r-raj(rā²g)/i²-a². From otōs, the ear, and ῥήνναι, to burst forth. Fr., otorrhagie. Ger., Ohrenblutung, Ohrenblutfluss. Hæmorrhage from the ear. [F.]

OTORRHEUMATISMUS (Lat.), n. m. Ot-o²r-rū²-m-a²-t(a²t)-i²z(i²s)/mu²s(mu²s). From otōs, the ear, and ρευματισμός, a flux. Fr., otorrhœumatisme. Ear-ache due to rheumatism. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OTORRHŒA (Lat.), n. f. Ot-o²r-re/(rō²/e²)-a². From otōs, the ear, and ρῶια, a flowing. Fr., otorrhée. Ger., Otorrhœe, Ohrrhuss, Ohreiterfluss. A discharge through the external auditory canal, as of blood or of serous fluid, but especially of pus, from the ear. [F.]—Blue o. Fr., otorrhée bleue. Ger., blaue Otorrhœe. A bluish-green purulent discharge from the ear. The color is supposed to be due to a pigment produced by bacteria. [F.]

OTOSALPINX (Lat.), n. f. Ot-o(ō)-sa²lp(sa²lp)/i²n²x. Gen., -pin²gos (-is). From otōs, the ear, and σάλπιγξ, a trumpet. See Eustachian tube.

OTOSCOPE, n. Ot'o-skop. Lat., otoscopium (from otōs, the ear, and σκοπεῖν, to examine). Fr., o. Ger., Otoskop, Ohrenspiegel. 1. See Ear-speculum. 2. An old term for a mirror, to be held in the hand or worn on the forehead, used in connection with an ear-speculum. [F.]—Blake's operating o. An o. consisting of a hard-rubber speculum of the largest size, fitted with a metallic rim, to which are attached a revolving prism and a moving arm bearing a lens at its outer end. The incident face of the prism is armed with a small metal shield having an opening in the centre corresponding in its short diameter to the diameter of the pencil of light falling on it from the lens. In operating, an assistant is required to draw the auricle upward and backward and keep the speculum in position. [F, 34.]—Bonafont's o. An o. for producing a magnified image of the membrana tympani and meatus. [F, 33.]—Eysell's binocular o. An o. for binocular inspection of the membrana tympani. It consists of two prisms, of small refractive angle, inserted between the reflector and the speculum. [F, 32.]—Lucas's interference o. Fr., o. d'entrave. An o. consisting of a double o., the arms of which are attached by a glass tube to two tubes—one for the ear of the examiner, the other for the resonator, or sound receiver, to which the arms of the tuning-fork are turned. The fork is placed on a stand and caused to vibrate by means of a hammer. [F, 34.]—Rosse's binocular o. An o. for facilitating the binocular inspection of the membrana tympani. It consists of a plane-glass plate fixed to a frontal band, from which sunlight is reflected into the external auditory meatus. [F, 32.]—Townbee's o. An o. for auscultation of the middle ear. It consists of an India-rubber tube furnished at its ends with tubular olive-shaped nozzles for insertion—the one into the external meatus of the patient and the other into that of the observer. [F, 32, 35.]

OTOSCOPY, n. Ot-o²s/ko-pi². Fr., otoscopie. The use of the otoscope.

OTOSPHÉNAL (Fr.), n. O-to-sfa-na²l. The basi-occipital bone in fishes. [L, 14.]

OTOSTYLIC, adj. Ot-o-stil/i²k. From otōs, the ear, and στύλος, a pillar. Fr., otostylique. Pertaining to the ear and to the styloid process jointly. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OTOTECHNOS (Lat.), OTOTECHNUS (Lat.), n's m. Ot-o(ō)-te²k(te²ch²)/no²s, -nu²s(nu²s). From otōs, the ear, and τέχνη, art. Fr., ototechnos. Ger., Ohrklopfen. A hammering sensation in the inner ear. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OTOTOMY, n. Ot-o²t/om-i². From otōs, the ear, and τέμνειν, to cut. Fr., ototomie. Ger., Ototomie. Dissection of the ear; also, preparation of sections of it for purposes of study. [F, 40.]

OTTAR, OTTO, n's. O²t/a²r, o²t/o. See ATTAR.

OTURY, n. Ot-u²r/i². Lat., oturia (from otōs, the ear, and οὔρον, urine). Fr., oturie. A fancied metastasis of urine to the ear. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OUABAIN, n. U-a²/ba²-i²n. Fr., ouabaine. A crystalline glucoside, C<sub>26</sub>H<sub>46</sub>O<sub>12</sub>, + 7H<sub>2</sub>O, obtained from a concentrated extract of the wood of Acocanthera ouabaia in warm water. Given subcutaneously, it is a quick cardiac poison, acting like strophanthin; taken internally, it is said to be without action. [B, 270 (a, 38); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxxvii, pp. 447, 728 (a, 50); "Nouv. rem.," Feb. 24, 1889, June 24, 1890, p. 284.]

OUABAIO, n. An Abyssinian tree from which a very deadly arrow-poison is prepared. It acts by causing respiratory paralysis. [B, 5 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxxvii, 447 (a, 50).]

OUATE (Fr.), n. U-a²t. See WADDING.

OUÏE (Fr.), n. U-e. See ADDITION; in the pl., o's, see BRANCHIE.

OULACHON, n. U²/a²k-o²n. See EULACHON.

ULUITIS (Lat.), n. f. Ul-i(e)/ti²s. Gen., -i²idos (-idis). From οὐλίη, a cicatrix. See ULITIS. For various words in Ou- not here given, see the corresponding words in U-.

OUNCE, n. U²/u²ns. Gr., ὀνύκτα. Lat., uncia. Fr., once. Ger., Unze. The sixteenth part of the pound avoirdupois = 437½ grains; or the twelfth part of the pound troy (or of apothecaries' weight) = 480 grains. The symbol for both is oz., and for the troy o. also ʒ; and 192 oz. av. = 175 oz. troy. [a, 48.]

OURAQUE (Fr.), n. U-ra²k. See URACHUS.

OURARI, n. See CURARE.

OURATEA (Lat.), n. f. U-r-a²t/e²-a². A genus of ochraceous plants, by Bentham and Hooker referred to Gomphia. The Ourateæ (Fr., ouratéés) of Baillon are a series of the Ochnaceæ. [B, 42, 121 (a, 35).]—O. illicifolia. A bitter stomachic species found in the Antilles. [B, 267 (a, 35).]

OUTRANCOURT (Fr.), n. U-tra²n²-kur. A place in the department of the Vosges, France, where there is a gaseous and sulphurous spring. [L, 49 (a, 14).]

OUTRE (Fr.), n. Utr'. See ASCIDIUM.

OUTSCOOPING, n. U²/u²t-skup-i²n². Removal of a substance from a cavity by means of a scoop (said especially of cataract). [a, 29.]

OVERTURE (Fr.), n. U-ve²r-tu²r. See APERTURE and OPENING.—O. de Magendie. See FORAMEN of Magendie.—O. postérieure du quatrième ventricule. Of Lemet and Gratiolet, the fetal fourth ventricle (at three months). [I, 35 (K).]

OUVI-LASSA, n. A Madagascar plant having a purgative root and yielding scammony. [L, 87 (a, 43).]

OUVRE-BOUCHE (Fr.), n. Uvr'-bush. An instrument for gradually opening the mouth and keeping it open. [L, 87 (a, 50).]

OVAIRE (Fr.), n. O-va²r. See OVARY.

OVAL, adj. O²v'l. Lat., ovalis (from ovum, an egg). Fr., ovale, ovalaire. Ger., o. Symmetrically egg-shaped, oblong and curvilinear; elliptical. [B, 123, 291 (a, 35).] Cf. OVATE (2d def.).

OVAR (Ger.), n. O-va²r'. See OVARY.

OVARALGIA (Lat.), n. f. O-va²r(wa²r)-a²l(a²l)/ji²(gi²)-a². From ovarium, ovary, and ἀλγος, pain. Fr., ovaralgie. See OOPHORALGIA.

OVARIAL (Ger.), adj. O-fa²r-re-a²l'. See OVARIAN.

OVARIALGIA (Lat.), n. f. O-va(wa²)-ri²-a²l(a²l)/ji²(gi²)-a². Ger., ovariälgie. See OOPHORALGIA.

OVARIAN, adj. Ov-a²ri²-n. From ovarium, ovary. Fr., ovarien. Ger., ovarisch, ovarial. Of or pertaining to an ovum (especially one that has emitted an extrusion globule) or to the ovary. [J.]

OVARIC, adj. Ov-a²r/i²k. Lat., ovaricus. Pertaining to or proceeding from the ovaries. [A, 322 (a, 21).]

OVARIECTOMY, n. Ov-ar-i²-e²kt/o²m-i². From ovarium, ovary, and ἐκτομή, a cutting out. Fr., ovariectomie. See OOPHORECTOMY.

OVARINE (Fr.), n. O-va²-ren. The liquid contained in the ovisac. [L, 41 (a, 14).]

OVARIOCELE (Lat.), n. f. O-va(wa²)-ri²-o(ō)-se²(ka)/le²(la); in Eng., ov-ar/i²-o-sel. Gen., -cel/es. From ovarium, ovary, and κύλη, a tumor. Fr., ovariocèle. Ger., Eierstocksbruch. A tumor or hernia of the ovary.—O. vaginalis. A prolapse of the ovary forming a hernia-like encroachment on the vagina.

OVARIOCENTESIS (Lat.), n. f. O-va(wa²)-ri²-o(ō)-se²nt-(ke²nt)-e(a)/si²s. Gen., -es/eos (-is). From ovarium, ovary, and κέντησις, a pricking. Fr., Ovariocentese. The operation of tapping an ovarian cyst. [A, 326 (a, 14).]

OVARIOCYESIS (Lat.), n. f. O-va(wa²)-ri²-o(ō)-si²(ku²)-e(a)/si²s. Gen., -es/eos (-is). From ovarium, ovary, and κύσις, conception. See Ovarian GESTATION.

OVARIO-HYSTEROECTOMY (Fr.), n. O-va²-re-o-es-ta-re²k-to-me. See HYSTERO-OOPHORECTOMY.

OVARIOMANIA (Lat.), n. f. O-va(wa²)/ri²-o(ō)-ma²(ma²)/ni²-a². From ovarium, ovary, and μανία, madness. See OOPHROMANIA.

OVARION (Lat.), n. n. O-va(wa²)/ri²-o²n. Gr., ὠάριον (dim. of ὠόν, an egg [2d def.]). 1. See BLASTOPHORE (1st def.) and Ovary. 2. See OVULE.

OVARIJONCUS (Lat.), n. m. O-va(wa²)-ri²-o²n²k/u²s(u²s). From ovarium, the ovary, and δγκος, a tumor. Fr., ovarijoncie. A tumor of the ovary. [L, 107 (a, 43).]

OVARIOPARECTAMA (Lat.), n. n. O-va(wa³)-ri²-o(o³)-pa²r-(pa³r)-e²kt'a²ma³m-a². Gen., -am'atos (-atis). From ovarium, ovary, and parectama, immoderate extension. Fr., ovarioparectame. Morbid enlargement of the ovary. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OVARIOPHYMA (Lat.), n. n. O-va(wa³)-ri²-o(o³)-fi(fu⁴)/ma³. Gen., -phym'atos (-atis). From ovarium, ovary, and φύμα, a growth. Fr., ovariophyme. See OVARIOMYXIS.

OVARIORRHESIS (Lat.), n. f. O-va(wa³)-ri²-o²r-re²x(rax)-i²s. Gen., -rhes'eos (-is). From ovarium, ovary, and ρήσις, a bursting. Fr., o. Rupture of the ovary. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OVARIOSTERESIS (Lat.), n. f. O-va(wa³)-ri²-o(o³)-ste²r-e(a)-si²s. Gen., -es'eos (-is). From ovarium, ovary, and στέρσις, a deprivation. Fr., ovariostèrese. See OVARIOTOMY.

OVARIOTOMY, n. Ov-ar-i²-o²st/o²m-i². From ovarium, ovary, and τομή, a mouth. Fr., ovariotomie. Of Tripiet, the operation for permanent drainage of an ovarian cyst by making an opening into it with a trocar and cannula, the latter being connected with the negative pole of a battery, so as to cauterize the walls of the opening. [A. Petit, "Gaz. hebdomadaire de méd. et de chir.," Jan. 4, 1884.] See also CAUTERISATION tubulaire.

OVARIOTOMY, n. Ov-ar-i²-o²t/o²m-i². From ovarium, ovary, and τομή, a cutting. Fr., ovariotomie. Ger., Ovariectomie. Removal of one or both of the ovaries. The term is conventionally restricted to the removal of ovaries that are the seat of manifest tumors, as distinguished from oophorectomy (q. v.).—Abdominal o. O. by means of an incision through the abdominal wall. [a, 34].—Vaginal o. O. by means of an incision through the vagina. [a, 34].

OVARISM, n. Ov'a²r-i²zm. Lat., ovarismus (from ovum, an egg). Fr., ovarisme. The doctrine that every animal is developed from an ovum. [L, 41 (a, 14).]

OVARITIS (Lat.), n. f. O-va²r(wa³)-i(e)/ti²s. Gen., -it'idis (-idis). Fr., ovarite. See OOPHORITIS.

OVARIULE (Fr.), n. O-va³-re-u¹l. See CORPUS luteum.

OVARIUM (Lat.), n. n. O-va(wa³)-ri²-u²m(u²m). Ger., O. See OVARY.—O. masculinum. Of Fleisch, the testicle. [L.]

OVARYDRECTASIS (Lat.), OVARYDROPS (Lat.), n's f. and m. O-va(wa³)-ri²-id(u²d)-re²k'ta²s(ta²s)-i²s, -i(i²)/i²d(u²d)-ro²ps(ro²ps). Gen., -tas'eos (-ec'tasis), -rops'eos (-is). From ovarium, ovary, ὑδρῶς, water, and ἵκτασις, an extension, or ὑδρῶς, dropsy. Fr., ovarydrectase, ovarydrosie. See Ovarian CYSTOMA.

OVARYEPITROPHY, n. O-va-ri²-ip-u²r'tro-fi². From ovarium, ovary, ὑπέρ, excessive, and τροφή, nourishment. Fr., ovaryepitrophie. See OOPHORAUXE.

OVARY, n. Ov'a²r-i². Gr., ὄvaryon. Lat., ovarium, a place where eggs are developed. Fr., ovaire, testicule femelle (1st def.). Ger., Eierstock, Ovarium, Ovarie. 1. The structure in which the ova are developed. In the human species the ovaries are two flattened, oval bodies, one on each side, situated in the posterior layer a, a, epithelium, b, b, latest developed epithelial cells, situated in the epithelial layer; c, trabeculae of connective tissue which have penetrated into the epithelial layer; d, c, primordial follicles surrounded by fine connective tissue cells; e, groups of imbedded epithelial cells, among which may be distinguished certain ones of large size (primordial ova); f, granular cells of lutea.

of the broad ligament of the uterus, each averaging about 1½ in. long, 4 in. wide, and ½ in. thick. The organ weighs from 60 to 100 grains. Its two sides and the upper border are free; the lower border (the hilum) is attached to the broad ligament; and to the upper end is attached one of the fimbriae of the oviduct. [L.] 2. In botany, the hollow, usually basal, portion of the pistil containing the ovules. [B, 123, 291 (a, 35).]—Irritable o. Intermittent and paroxysmal dysphoria with slight or imperceptible ovarian congestion. [a, 34.]

OVATE, adj. Ov'at. Lat., ovatus (from ovum, an egg). Fr., ové (1st def.), ovoidé (2d def.). Ger., eirund (1st def.), eiförmig (2d def.). 1. Of a leaf or other flattened organ, having the shape of the longitudinal section of a hen's egg, with the broad end toward the base. 2. Of solid bodies, egg-shaped. [B, 1, 19, 77, 123, 291 (a, 35).]—O.-acuminate. Having a form intermediate between o. and acuminate. [a, 35].—O.-lanceolate. Having a form intermediate between o. and lanceolate. [B, 291 (a, 35).]—O.-oblong. Having a form intermediate between o. and oblong. [B, 291 (a, 35).]

OVATO-ACUMINATE, adj. Ov-at'/o-a²k-u²mi²n-at. See OVATE-acuminate.

OVELLA (Lat.), n. f. O-ve²l(we²l)/la². Fr., ovelle. Of Dunal, a young carophyll or pistil-leaf. It bears the same relation to the developed carpel as the ovule does to the seed. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

OVENCHYMA (Lat.), n. n. O-ve²n²(we²n²)/ki²(ch²u²)-ma³. Gen., -chym'atos (-atis). From ovum, an egg, and ἔγχυμα, an infusion. Oval cellular tissue. [B, 19 (a, 35).]

OVERLAID, adj. Ov'u²r-lad'. Of a child, lain upon and so smothered by a bedfellow. [a, 18.]

OVER-RIDING, n. Ov'u²r-rid'i²n². Ger., Uebereinandergeschobensein, Uebereinandertreten. The overlapping of the end of a fractured bone beyond the opposite fragment or beyond the normal line of the bone. [a, 34.]

OVER-SIGHTEDNESS, n. Ov-u²r-sit'e²d-ne²s. See HYPER-METROPIA.

OVER-TOE, n. Ov'u²r-to'. Syn.: lazy toe. A deformity in which one of the toes overlies the adjoining toe.

OVER-TONE, n. Ov'u²r-ton'. Fr., timbre. Ger., Oberton, Klangfarbe. See HARMONIC (n.).

OVICAPSULE, n. Ov-i²-ka³p-su²l. From ovum, an egg, and capsula, a capsule. The ovicac; also its internal coat. See also MEMBRANA granulosa.

OVICELL, n. Ov-i²-se²l. From ovum, an egg, and cella, a cell. See OVISAC.

OVIDUCAL, adj. Ov-i²-du²k'l. From ovum, an egg, and ducere, to lead. Pertaining to an oviduct. [a, 48.]

OVIDUCT, n. Ov-i²-du²kt. Lat., oviductus (from ovum, an egg, and ducere, to lead). Fr., oviducte, trompe de Fallope (ou utérine). Ger., Ovidukt, Eleiter, Eiergang, Muttertrompete, Fallopische Röhre, Eiweissstockkanal. Syn.: Fallopian tube. A muscular tube, usually about 4 in. long, passing from a cornu of the uterus in a lateral direction and describing a curve with its concavity backward, inward, and downward, and opening into the peritoneal cavity. It is muscular and lined with mucous membrane showing longitudinal folds and covered with ciliated epithelium. It serves to convey the ovum into the cavity of the uterus. [A, 181.]—Fimbriated extremity of the o. Lat., infundibulum tubae, morus diaboli. Fr., pavillon de la trompe. The abdominal extremity of the o., which divides into a number of radiating processes (fimbriae) in the middle of which is the abdominal opening of the o. One of these processes is longer than the others and is attached to the upper end of the ovary. [L, 332.]

OVIFEROUS, adj. Ov-if'e²r-u²s. Fr., ovifère. See OVIGEROUS.

OVIFICATION (Fr.), n. O-ve-fe-ka³-se-o²n². From ovum, an egg, and facere, to make. See OVULATION.

OVIFORM, adj. Ov-i²-fō²rm. Lat., oviformis (from ovum, an egg, and forma, form). Fr., oviforme. See OVOID.

OVIGERM, n. Ov-i²-ju²rm. From ovum, an egg, and germen, a germ. 1. See Primitive ovum. 2. The rudiment of a primitive ovum; a germ-epithelium cell in process of development into a primitive ovum in the embryo. [A, 5.]

OVIGEROUS, adj. Ov-i²'e²r-u²s. Lat., ovigerus (from ovum, an egg, and gerere, to bear). Fr., ovigère. Ger., eiertragend, eierhervorbringend. Egg-producing (said of that portion of the ovary which is the seat of the production of ovarian ova).

OVINATION, n. Ov-i²n-a²shu²n. From ovis, a sheep. The transmission of sheep-pox by inoculation. [D, 1.]

OVIPARITÉ (Fr.), n. O-ve-pa²-re-ta. See Oviparous GENERATION.

OVIPAROUS, adj. Ov-i²pa²r-u²s. From ovum, an egg, and parere, to bring forth. Ger., eierlegend. Producing eggs which are developed after their extrusion from the body. [L, 343.] Cf. VIVIPAROUS.

OVIPOSIT, OVIPOSITION, n's. Ov-i²-po²z-i²t, ov-i²-po²z-i²n. From ovum, an egg, and ponere, to place. The act of depositing or laying eggs. [a, 48.]

OVIPOSITOR, n. Ov-i²-po²z-i²-to²r. Lat., aculeus. An organ, in some insects, by means of which the eggs are placed in a position suitable for their development. [B, 28 (a, 27).]

OVIS (Lat.), n. f. O-vi²(vi²)wi²s. Gen., ovis. The sheep; a genus of hollow-horned ruminant mammals. [a, 48].—O. aries. The domestic sheep. [a, 48.]

OVISAC, n. Ov-i²-sa²k. Lat., ovisacus (from ovum, an egg, and saccus, a bag). 1. See Graafian vesicle. 2. The external sac in which certain of the invertebrates carry their eggs after their extrusion from the body. [B, 28 (a, 27).]

OVISM, n. Ov-i²zm. From ovum, an egg. Fr., ovisme. The doctrine that the ovum contains, in an undeveloped state, all the organs of the future individual. [a, 35.]

OVOGENOUS, adj. Ov-o²j'e²n-u²s. From ovum, an egg, and γεννᾶν, to engender. Pertaining to the development or production of ova. [J.]

OVOID, adj. Ov'oid. Lat., ovoides (from ovum, an egg, and είδος, resemblance). Fr., ovioide. Egg-shaped (said of solids having an oval or ovate longitudinal section); as a n., an o. body. [B, 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).]—Fatal o. Syn.: fatal ellipse, elliptical ball [Hodge]. The o. mass into which the foetus is molded by uterine contraction.

OVOLEMMA (Lat.), n. n. O-vo(wa³)-le²m'ma². The light-colored membrane inclosing the vitellus of the human ovum. [E. Haeckel (a, 32).]

OVO-TESTIS (Lat.), n. m. O'vo(wa³)-te²st'i²s. From ovum, an egg, and testis, a testicle. An organ made up of an ovary and testis, found in the common toad and in many lower vertebrates and invertebrates. [J. B. Sutton, "Lond. Path. Soc. Rep.," 1885 (L).]

OVULE, n. O<sup>2</sup>v-u<sup>2</sup>l. Lat., ovulum (dim. of ovum, an egg). Fr., œuf primitif. Ger., Eichen, Eikeim. 1. See Ovarian ovum. 2. Of von Baer, see Graafian vesicle. 3. That part of the pistil that contains the embryo-sac; one of the small bodies, situated usually on some part of the ovarian wall or on the ovarian axis, consisting of a nucleus (nucellus), with or without a stalk (funiculus), often with two integuments (see PRIMINE and SECUNDINE) attached to each other and to the nucellus at the base (chalaz) of the o., and forming at the apex a little opening (micropyle) for the reception of the pollen-tube. [B, 1, 123, 229, 291 (a, 35).]—O's of Naboth. See Nabothian follicles.

OVUM (Lat.), n. n. O<sup>2</sup>v-u<sup>2</sup>m(wu<sup>2</sup>m). Gr., ὄν. Fr., œuf. Ger., Ei, Keim. It., ovo, uovo. Sp., huevo. 1. The large nucleated cell formed in the generative organs which is capable of development into an organism similar to the parent. In its young stage it is a typical cell, consisting of a mass of naked protoplasm containing a nucleus and a nucleolus. At a more advanced stage of development (a) an inclosing membrane or membranes (the vitelline membrane, the zona pellucida, and in some cases a shell), (b) the vitellus, (c) the nucleus (germinal vesicle), and (d) the nucleolus (germinal spot). The human o. is about  $\frac{1}{4}$  mm. in diameter, and, as with the ova of higher animals generally, is produced only by the female and must be fertilized by union with a spermatozoid before it is capable of developing into an organism like its parent. [J, 1, 30, 35.] See also Egg. 2. In botany, see OVULE, OOSPHERE, and OOSPHERE. 3. See EMBRYO.

a, epithelium of the ovum; b, zona pellucida, with radiating striations (vitelline membrane); c, germinal vesicle; d, germinal spot; e, vitellus.

ovi, Albumen ovi. White of egg. [A, 336.]—Blighted o. Fr., œuf abortif dégénéré. A fecundated o. of which the vitality has been destroyed by hæmorrhage into the chorion or the cavity of the amnion; it is usually aborted, but may develop into a fleshy mole. [Playfair (a, 34).]—Apoplectic o. An o. showing extravasation of blood between the decidua vera and the decidua reflexa, or between the decidua vera and the uterine wall. It generally results in death of the o. and abortion. [Playfair (a, 34).]—Compound o. Ger., zusammengesetztes Ei [Kölliker]. An o. which does not correspond to a simple cell in structure, but has an additional element termed the secondary vitellus. [A, 8.]—Female ova. Embryonic cells in the female which ultimately develop into ova. [J, 55.] Cf. Male ova and Germinal cell.—Liquor ovi-albus. See ALBUMEN.—Male ova. Fr., ovules mâles. Embryonic cells found in the blind diverticula of the seminiferous tubules, supposed to be the rudiments of spermatozooids. [A, 15.] See also Germinal cell.—Meroblastic o. An o. in which a comparatively large amount of food-yolk is present, so that only a portion of the o. is concerned in the direct formation of the embryo. [B.]—Oleum vitellis ovorum (see vitellus ovi) [Fr. Cod.].—Oleum ovarum. See Oil of eggs.—Ovarian o. Fr., œuf ovarien (ou ovaire, ou primitif), ovule ovarien. Ger., Ovarialei. The primitive o.; the while yet it remains within the Graafian vesicle. It consists essentially of the vitellus and the vitelline membrane.—Ovi albumen, Ovi albuminum, Ovi albus liquor, Ovi candidum. White of egg. [B, 59.]—Ovi vitellus [Br. Ph.]. See VITELLUS.—Ova gallinacea [Gr. Ph.]. O. gallinaceum [Fr. Cod.]. Fr., œuf de poule [Fr. Cod.]. Sp., huevo del gallina [Sp. Ph.]. Hens' eggs. [a, 38.]—O. gemelliferum. A twin o.; an o. containing two embryos.—O. graafianum. See Graafian vesicle.—O. hystericum. See CLAVUS hystericus.—O. sublimatorium. See Bocla.—Ova zephyria. Eggs not impregnated by the cock's tread. [L, 84 (a, 43).]—Pellicula ovi. Ger., Eihäutchen. The membrane lining the internal surface of the shell of hens' eggs; formerly used in calculus. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—Permanent o. A primitive o. developed into an o. capable of giving rise to an embryo. [Barnes (a, 34).]—Primitive o., Primordial o. Fr., ovule primordial. Ger., Primordialei, Urei. 1. Of Waldeyer (1870), one of the large clear cells in the germinal epithelium which usually collect into groups and sink into the ovarian stroma, where some become transformed into ova, others into papulum for the ova, and still others into follicular epithelium. 2. Of Semper, one of the primitive sexual cells; so called because they give rise to the generative elements in either sex. ["Quart. Jour. of Micr. Sci.," 1878, p. 383 (J); J, 1, 30.] 3. See Ovarian o.—Putamen ovi. Egg-shell. [B.]—Simple o. Ger., einfache Ei. An o. answering in its structure to a simple cell containing both the formative and the nutritive elements of the vitellus. [A, 8.] See also Formative vitellus and Nutritive vitellus.—Testa ovi (see ovorum). Egg-shell. [B.]—Teste ovorum præparata. Ger., bereitete Eier-schalen. Egg-shells, especially shells of hens' eggs, powdered and freed from impurities by agitation with water. [B, 10.]

OWEN'S LAKE, n. O'e<sup>2</sup>nz. A lake in Inyo County, California, the waters of which are very rich in sodium chloride, carbonate, and sulphate. [Anderson (a, 14).]

OWOSSO SPRING, n. O-o<sup>2</sup>s'o. A place in Shiawassee County, Michigan, where there is a saline, chalybeate, and alkaline spring. [Anderson (a, 14).]

OXALIC, adj. O<sup>2</sup>x-a<sup>2</sup>l/i<sup>2</sup>k. Lat., oxalicus (from ὄξαις, sorrel). Fr., oxalique. Ger., oxalsch. Derived from or contained in a plant of the genus Oxalis. The o. (or succinic) series of organic acids includes acids of the constitution C<sub>2</sub>H<sub>2</sub>—2O<sub>4</sub>. [B, 2.]—O. acid. Lat., acidum oxalicum. Fr., acide oxalique. Ger., Oxalsäure. A dibasic acid, C<sub>2</sub>H<sub>2</sub>O<sub>4</sub> = CO(OH)—CO(OH), forming colorless prismatic crystals (or, if obtained by sublimation, acicular crystals), which are moderately soluble in cold water and alcohol, and very soluble in boiling water and alcohol. When freshly crystallized, it has probably the composition C<sub>2</sub>H<sub>2</sub>O<sub>4</sub> + 2H<sub>2</sub>O = C(OH)<sub>2</sub>—C(OH)<sub>2</sub>. It is found under the form of oxalates in the species of Oxalis and Rumex and in Salsola salicornia, in the cells of plants, and in the urine. It is obtained by the oxidation of sugar or of cellulose (saw-dust, etc.). It is caustic, and acts as a corrosive poison when swallowed. It has the strongest acid taste of any of the organic acids. It has been used, well diluted, in asthma, amenorrhœa, etc. [B, 3 (a, 38); B, 4; Poulet, "Gaz. hebdomadaire de méd. et de chir.," May, 14, 1886; "N. Y. Med. Jour.," June 5, 1886, p. 650 (a, 50).]—Volumetric solution of o. acid [U. S. Ph. Br. Ph.]. A solution made by dissolving 630 grains of purified o.-acid crystals in about 6,666 grain measures of water, and diluting with water to 10,000 grain measures. [B, 5 (a, 38).]

the oxalids, an order (Lindley) of the Geraniales, made in more recent systems (Bentham and Hooker) a tribe (Oxalideae: Ger., Oxalideae) of the Geranieae, including Hypochaeris, O., Averrhoa, and other genera in which the flowers are regular, the sepals imbricated, the glands wanting, the stigmas capitate, and the leaves compound. They are natives of hot and temperate regions. They contain usually an acid juice, and the roots of many species are esculent. [B. 19, 34, 42, 121, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—Herba oxalidis. 1. The herb of O. acetosella. 2. The herb of Rumex acetosa. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—O. acetosella. Fr., oxalide acide (ou des bois), oseille à trois feuilles (ou des bois), surelle acide, trèfle aigre. Ger., (gemeiner) Sauerklee, Amperklee, Kukuksklee, Kleesulzkraut, kleines Dreiblatt. French (or common wood-) sorrel, cuckoo-bread (or sorrel), gawk-meat, hallelujah; a small acaulescent herb growing in shady places in northern Asia, Europe, and North America. It has a pleasant acid taste, and contains potassium binoxalate, which is sometimes obtained from it and sold in the shops as salt of sorrel. The herb, herba acetoselle (seu oxalidis, seu lujulae, seu allethiae, seu trifolii acetosi, seu oxytriphylis, seu panis cuculi, seu trifolii minoris), and the expressed juice were formerly used as refrigerants. An infusion or a whey prepared by boiling the herb in milk forms an agreeable beverage in febrile and inflammatory diseases. The plant, fresh and uncooked, is recommended in scurvy. The expressed inspissated juice, formed into a paste, has been used as a caustic in epithelioma. [B. 5, 19, 180, 185 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxx, p. 214 (a, 50).]—O. anthelmintica. The tschokko or habbi-tchogo of Abyssinia, where it is employed as a tanifuge. [B. 104, 121 (a, 35).]—O. caprina, O. cernua. Fr., oxalide penché. Goat's-foot; a bulbous species found in southern Africa, where it is used as a source of salt of sorrel. [B. 19, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—O. compressa. Fr., oxalide comprimée. A (ripe of Good Hope species, containing a larger proportion of potassium binoxalate than O. acetosella. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—O. conorrhiza. A species used in Paraguay and Chile in ardent and bilious fevers. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—O. cordata. Fr., oxalide en cœur. A small undershrub of Brazil, where it is used as a refrigerant in malignant fevers. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—O. corniculata. Fr., oxalide corniculée, piéd de pigeon. Ger., gehörnter Sauerklee. Hind., amrol. The prominent yellow-flowered wood-sorrel; a species of Europe, Asia, and North America, by Wood considered a variety of O. stricta. It has about the same properties as O. acetosella, and in the East Indies the leaves, stalks, and flowers are used as refrigerants, especially in dysentery, and the juice, which contains salts of oxalic acid, is applied externally to remove warts. [B. 34, 172, 180 (a, 35).]—O. crassicaulis, O. crenata. Ger., gekerblumiger Sauerklee. Fr., oxalide crinelle. One of the species known as oca, indigenous to Mexico, Colombia, and Peru. It yields an edible tuberous root, and the juice of the leaves is said to be used in hemorrhages, catarrh, and gonorrhoea. [B. 5, 173, 180, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—O. dodecandra. Fr., oxalide à douze étamines. A native of Peru, where the leaves are used in malignant fevers. [B. 173 (a, 35).]—O. frutescens. Fr., oxalide arbrisseau (ou en arbre). An undershrub of the Antilles, where it is used in ardent and bilious fevers. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—O. fulva. Fr., oxalide fauve. A Brazilian species with extremely acid leaves, which are used in malignant fevers. [B. 173 (a, 35).]—O. pratensis. The Rumex acetosa. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—O. repens. Fr., oxalide rampant. A species found in Ceylon, Madagascar, southern Africa, and Brazil. It is used as a refrigerant. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—O. stricta. Ger., steifer Sauerklee. Upright yellow-flowered wood-sorrel; a caulescent species growing in Europe and America, employed like O. acetosella. [B. 34, 180 (a, 35).]—O. tuberosa. Fr., oxalide tubéreuse. Tuberous-rooted wood-sorrel; one of the species called oca in South America. It is found in Bolivia and Chile, where the roots are eaten cooked. The leaves yield salt of sorrel. [B. 19, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—O. violacea. Fr., oxalide violette. Violet wood-sorrel; a species having violet-colored petals. It has the same properties as O. acetosella. In Mexico the fleshy tuberous roots are eaten. [B. 5, 34, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—Radix et semen oxalidis. The root and seed of Rumex acetosa. [B. 180 (a, 35).]

OXALUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2x\text{-al(a)}^1/i^2\text{-u}^3m(u^4m)$ . Potassium binoxalate. [B. 119 (a, 38).]

OXALME (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2/(a^2)^1/me(ma)$ . Gen., -al'mes. Gr., ὀξάλμη (from ὄξος, vinegar). Fr., o. A mixture of vinegar and salt. [L. 50 (a, 14); L. 84 (a, 43).]

OXALMETHYLIN, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-me}^2th/i^2\text{-i}^2n$ . Ger., O. A basic derivative of dimethyl-oxamide,  $C_6H_{14}N_2 = (CH_3)_2(C_2N_2)$ . It acts on the lower animals to increase reflex excitability. [H. Schultz and J. N. Mayer, "Arch. f. experiment. Pathol.," xvi, p. 256 (B).]

OXALOANTIMONIATE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-o-a}^2n\text{-ti}^2\text{-mo}^2ni^2\text{-at}$ . A compound of a base with both oxalic acid and antimoniac acid. [B.] See POTASSIUM o.

OXALONITRIL, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-o-nit}^2ri^2l$ . Fr., oxalonitrile. Free cyanogen,  $C_2N_2$ ; so called because it may be regarded as a nitrogen derivative of the oxalic-acid radicle  $\begin{smallmatrix} C & N \\ & \parallel \\ C & N \end{smallmatrix}$ . [B. 3.]

OXALOPTYSE (Ger.), n.  $Ox\text{-a}^2\text{-op-tu}^2x^2z^2$ . From ὄξαις, sorrel, and πτύσσειν to spit. The excretion of oxalic acid in the saliva. [L. 57 (a, 34).]

OXALOVINIC ACID, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-o-vi}^2n/i^2k$ . Acid ethyl oxalate. [B.]

OXALPROPYLIN, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-prop}^2/i^2\text{-i}^2n$ . Ger., O. A basic derivative of dipropyl-oxamide,  $C_8H_{16}N_2 = (C_2H_5)_2C_2N_2$ . It increases reflex irritability in the lower animals. [H. Schultz and J. N. Mayer, "Arch. f. experiment. Pathol.," xvi, p. 256 (B).]

OXALURAMIDE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-u}^2r\text{-a}^2m\text{-i}^2d(i)d$ . Fr., o. Ger., Oxaluramid. A white crystalline powder,  $C_5H_8N_2O_2 = NH_2-CO-NH-CO-CO-NH_2$ . [B. 3 (a, 38); B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXALURANILIDE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-u}^2r\text{-a}^2n/i^2\text{-i}^2d(i)d$ . Fr., o. A substance,  $C_9H_9N_3O_3$ , forming a white crystalline powder. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXALURIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2/(a^2)^1\text{-u}^2r(ur)^1/i^2\text{-a}^2$ . From ὄξαις, sorrel, and ὄσπον, urine. Fr., oxalurie. Ger., Oxalurie, Sauerharnen. A condition characterized by an excessive excretion of calcium oxalate in the urine; the so-called uric-acid diathesis, characterized by dyspepsia and various nervous derangements. [D. 1.]

OXALURIC ACID, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-u}^2r/i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxalurique. Ger., Oxalursäure. A whitish crystalline powder,  $C_2H_4N_2O_4 = NH_2\text{-CO-NH}\cdot\text{CO}\cdot\text{CO}\cdot\text{OH}$ , having the properties of a monobasic acid. It is soluble with difficulty in water. [B. 4; B. 270 (a, 38).]

OXALYL, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-i}^2l$ . Fr., oxalyle. Ger., O. The radicle of oxalic acid,  $(C_2O_2)^{\cdot\cdot}$ . [B.; B. 93.]—O. diamide. Ger., O'diamid. Oxamide. [B.]—O. urea. Fr., o'urée. Ger., O'harnstoff. See PARABASIC ACID.

OXAMELANILE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2m\text{-e}^2l/a^2n\text{-i}^2l$ . The compound  $C_{15}H_{11}N_3O_2$ . [B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXAMETHANE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-me}^2th/an$ . Ger., Oxaméthan. A crystalline substance,  $CO(NH_2)CO_2(C_2H_5)$ . [B. 3 (a, 38).]

OXAMIC ACID, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2m/i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxamique. Ger., Oxaminsäure. A fine crystalline powder,  $CO(NH_2)CO\cdot OH = C_2H_5\text{-O}_2N$ , acting as a monobasic acid. [B. 3, 270 (a, 38); B. 4.]

OXAMIDE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2m\text{-i}^2d(i)d$ . Fr., o. Ger., Oxamid. Syn.: oxalyl diamide. A diamide of oxalic acid; a body having the composition  $CO(NH_2)-CO(NH_2) = C_2O_2N_2H_4$ . [B. 3, 270 (a, 38); B. 4.]

OXANILAMIDE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2n\text{-i}^2l/a^2m\text{-i}^2d(i)d$ . Syn.: monophenylloxamide. The compound  $C_8H_5N_2O_2 = NH(C_6H_5)/C_2O_2\text{-NH}_2$ . [B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXANILIC ACID, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2n\text{-i}^2l/i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxanilique. Ger., Oxanilsäure. Syn.: phenylloxamic acid. A substance,  $NH(C_6H_5)C_2O_2\cdot OH = C_6H_5\text{-NO}_2$ , crystallizing from boiling water as satin-like needles containing a molecule of water, from benzene as long shining needles melting at  $150^\circ\text{C}$ . [B. 3 (a, 38); B. 4; B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXANILIDE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2n\text{-i}^2l\text{-i}^2d(i)d$ . Fr., o. Ger., Oxanilid. Syn.: diphenylloxamide. A substance,  $C_{12}O_2(NH\cdot C_6H_5)_2 = C_{14}H_{12}N_2O_2$ , crystallizing from benzene as shining white laminae. [B. 3 (a, 38); B. 4.]

OXANILINE (Fr.), n.  $Ox\text{-a}^2n\text{-e-len}$ . See PHENOL.

OXANTHRACENE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2n\text{-thra}^3\text{-sen}$ . Fr., oxanthracène. A compound,  $C_{14}H_8O_2$ , obtained by treating anthracene with hot nitric acid. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXATOLUIC ACID, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-to}^2l\text{-u}^2/i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxatoluique (ou oxatolylrique). A decomposition product,  $C_{11}H_8O_3$ , of vulpic acid. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXATYL, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2\text{-i}^2l$ . A radicle,  $CO\cdot OH$ , characteristic of the series of organic acids. [B.]

OXAZOTATE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2z\text{-o-tat}$ . Fr., o. An old name for a nitrate. [B. 38 (a, 14).]

OXAZOTIC, adj.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2z\text{-o-t}^2/i^2k$ . Lat., oxazoticus. Fr., oxazotique. An old term for nitric. [B. 38 (a, 14).]

OXAZOTITE, n.  $O^2x\text{-a}^2z\text{-o-tit}$ . Fr., o. An old name for a nitrite. [B. 38 (a, 14).]

OXELÆUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2x\text{-e}^2\text{-e}^2/(a^2\text{-e}^2)\text{-u}^2m(u^4m)$ . Gr., ὀξέλαιον (from ὄξος, vinegar, and ἐλαίον, oil). Fr., oxélaïon. A mixture of oil and vinegar. [L. 41, 50 (a, 14).]

OXÉOLAT (Fr.), n.  $Ox\text{-a-o-la}^2$ . A medicinal vinegar prepared by distillation. [B. 38 (a, 14).]—O. simple. Distilled vinegar. [B.]

OXÉOLÉ (Fr.), n.  $O^2x\text{-a-o-la}$ . See ACÉTOLÉ.

OXERONOSUS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x\text{-e}^2r(ar)\text{-o}^2n\text{-o}^2s(n)s(u)s$ . From ὀξρός, of vinegar, and νόσος, disease. Fr., oxéronosus. Ger., sauerliche Krankheit. Of Steinheim, a disease caused by an accumulation of acid in the system or in which there is an excessive formation of acid. [L. 50 (a, 34).]

OXETHYL, n.  $O^2x\text{-e}^2th/i^2l$ . Fr., oxéthyle. Ger., Oxéthyl. The equivalent radicle,  $C_2H_5O\text{-}$ , entering into the composition of the compound ethyl ethers. [B.]

OXHYDRYL, n.  $O^2x\text{-hid}^2ri^2l$ . Fr., oxhydriyle. See HYDROXYL.

OXIBASIC, adj.  $O^2x\text{-i}^2\text{-ha}^2si^2k$ . Lat., oxibasicus. Fr., oxibasique. Of salts, having an oxide as a base. [B. 38 (a, 14).]

OXIDATED, adj.  $O^2x\text{-i}^2d\text{-at-e}^2d$ . See OXIDIZED.

OXIDATION, n.  $O^2x\text{-i}^2d\text{-a}^2shu^2n$ . Fr., o. oxydation. Ger., Oxydation, Oxydierung. It., ossidazione. Sp., oxidación. 1. The act of combining with oxygen. 2. The process by which this combination is effected. [B.]

OXIDE, n.  $O^2x\text{-i}^2d(i)d$ . Lat., oxidum. Fr., oxyde. Ger., Oxyd. It., ossido. Sp., óxido. A compound of a metal, or of a compound radicle, with oxygen; in the latter case called an ether. According as one or more atoms of oxygen enter into the compound, the latter is designated as a monoxide (or protoxide), a dioxide (or deutoxide, or binoxide), a trioxide, a tetroxide, a pentoxide, etc. [B.]—Acid-forming o. Acid o. An oxide which, combined with water, produces an acid; an anhydride. [B. 3.]—Basic o. An o. containing a relatively small amount of oxygen and possessed of basic properties. The basic o's combine with water to form hydroxides which are often strongly alkaline. They usually contain less oxygen than the acid o's. [B.]—Hydrated o. See HYDROXIDE.—Indifferent o. Neutral o. An o. composed of two other o's, which does not combine with water to form either an acid or a base. [B, 9].—Primary o. See HYDRATE.—Saline o. See Neutral o.

OXIDIZED, adj.  $O_2x \cdot i^2d \cdot izd$ . Lat., oxydatus. Fr., oxydé. Ger., oxidirt. Combined with or containing oxygen. [B.]

OXIDULATED, adj.  $O_2x \cdot i^2d \cdot u^2l \cdot at \cdot e^2d$ . See OXYDULATED.

OXIDUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2d \cdot u^2m(u^4m)$ . See OXIDE.—Em-plastrum oxidii plumbici [Swed. Ph.]. See Emplastrum PLUMBI.—O. calcicum [Swed. Ph., Finn. Ph.]. See under Quick-LIME.—O. ferroso-ferricum [Finn. Ph.]. See Magnetic IRON oxide.—O. hydrargyricum [Swed. Ph. (1st def.), Finn. Ph. (2d def.)]. 1. See Red MERCURY oxide. 2. See Yellow MERCURY oxide.—O. hydrargyricum præcipitatum [Swed. Ph.]. See Yellow MERCURY oxide.—O. hydrargyrosus [Finn. Ph.]. See MERCURY and ammonium nitrate.—O. nigrum [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph.]. See MANGANESE dioxide.—O. plumbicum præparatum [Finn. Ph.]. See LEAD monoxide.—O. zincicum [Finn. Ph., Swed. Ph.] (crudum [Finn. Ph.]). See ZINC oxide.—Pomatum cum oxido hydrargyrico ex López. Sp., intenciones de López [Mex. Ph.]. A preparation made by mixing 6 parts each of mercury binoxide and red lead oxide, thoroughly triturated, with 100 of hog's lard. [A, 447 (a, 38).]

OXIMIDE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2m \cdot i^2d(id)$ . An imide consisting of ammonia in which oxygen replaces 2 atoms of hydrogen,  $H-N:O$ . In composition it acts as a bivalent radicle, =NOH. [B.]

OXINDOL, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2nd \cdot o^2l$ . Orthoamidophenylacetic anhydride. A substance,  $C_8H_7 \cdot \begin{smallmatrix} CH_2 \\ | \\ NH \end{smallmatrix} \cdot CO = C_8H_7NO$ , crystallizing from hot water as long colorless needles or feathery groups melting at  $120^\circ C$ . [B, 3 (a, 38).]

OXISALT, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2s \cdot sa^4lt$ . Fr., oxisel. See BASIC SALT.

OXODES (Lat.), OXOIDES (Lat.), adj's.  $O_2x \cdot od \cdot ez(as)$ ,  $-o(o^2) \cdot i^2d(ed) \cdot ez(as)$ . From ôξος, vinegar, and είδος, resemblance. Fr., oxoïde. Ger., essigähnlich. Resembling vinegar. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OXONIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot o^2n \cdot i^2k$ . Ger., Oxonsäure. A dibasic crystalline acid,  $C_4H_4N_2O_4$ , formed, along with uronic acid, by the oxidation of uric acid. It is known only through its salts, the oxonates. [B, 3.]

OXOS (Lat.), n. m.  $O_2x \cdot o^2s$ . Gr., ôξος. Vinegar. [L, 94 (a, 43).]

OXURIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot u^2r \cdot i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxurique (ou urique suroxygéné). Alloxanic acid, especially one of its impure varieties. [A, 1; B.]

OXYACANTHA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot a^2k(a^3k) \cdot a^2nth(a^3nth) \cdot a^2$ . Gr., ὀξύακανθα (from ôξύς, sharp, and ἀκανθα, a thorn). 1. Of the ancients, the Berberis vulgaris and (of Theophrastus and Dioscorides) the Mespilus pyracantha. 2. The Mespilus o. [B, 19, 115, 121, 180 (a, 35).]

OXYACANTHINE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2k \cdot a^2nth \cdot en$ . Fr., o. vinétine. Ger., Oxyacanthin, Berbin. 1. An alkaloid of the probable formula  $C_{29}H_{46}N_2O_{11}$ , found in barberry bark and root. [B, 4, 5 (a, 35).] 2. Of Leroy, see CRATEGIN.

OXYACETAL, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2s \cdot e^2t \cdot a^2l$ . Syn.: hydrate diethylate of ethenyl glycol acetal. A liquid of agreeable odor,  $C_6H_{14}O_2 = C_2H_5.OH.(OC_2H_5)_2$ . [B, 4.]

OXYACETIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2s \cdot et(e^2t) \cdot i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxyacétique. Ger., Oxyessigsäure. Glycollic acid. [B.]

OXYACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2s \cdot i^2d$ . See under Acid.

OXYACUSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot a^2k(a^3k) \cdot u^2(u) \cdot si^2s$ . Gen., -us'eos (-iâ). From ôξύς, sharp, and ἀκούω, a hearing. See HYPERACUSIS.

OXYADENOUS, adj.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2d \cdot e^2n \cdot u^2s$ . From ôξύς, sharp, and ἀδής, a gland. Fr., oxyadène. Ger., scharfdrüsige. Having sharp-pointed (or stinging) glands. [a, 35.]

OXYADIPIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2d \cdot i^2p \cdot i^2k$ . Hydroxyadipic acid. [B.] For various other acids, etc., designated by terms in Oxy, see the corresponding terms in Hydroxy.

OXYÆSTHESIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot e^2s(a^3s \cdot e^2s) \cdot the(thro) \cdot zi^2(si^2) \cdot a^2$ . From ôξύς, sharp, and αἰσθησις, sensation. See ACROÆSTHESIA.

OXYALDEHYDE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2l \cdot de \cdot hid$ . Ger., Oxyaldehyd. An oxide of acetic aldehyde,  $CH_3(OH).CHO = C_2H_4O_2$ . [B, 4.]

OXYALIZARINE (Fr.), n.  $Ox \cdot e \cdot a^2 \cdot le \cdot za^2 \cdot ren$ . See PURPURIN.

OXYAMMONIA, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2m \cdot mon \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2$ . See HYDROXYLAMINE.

OXYAMYGDALIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2m \cdot i^2g \cdot da^2l \cdot i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxyamygdalique. A substance,  $C_8H_8O_4$ , found in urine as a result of acute atrophy of the liver. It occurs in crystalline needles of silky lustre, very flexible, fusible at  $182^\circ C$ , and soluble in water, in alcohol, and in ether. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYANTHRACENE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2n \cdot thra^2 \cdot sen$ . See under ANTHRAPHENOL.

OXYANTHRAQUINONE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2n \cdot thra^2 \cdot kw^2i^2n \cdot on$ . Fr., o. Ger., Oxyanthrachinon. A hydroxyl compound of anthraquinone, having in general the formula  $C_{14}H_8 - n(OH) \cdot O_2$ . There are a great many o's, variously designated, according to the number of molecules of hydroxyl entering into their composition, as mono's, dio's, trio's, tetra's, and hecto's. When used without qualification, the term o. is applied to one of the isomeric varieties of mono', which crystallizes in the form of yellow needles, subliming, without melting, at a temperature above  $285^\circ C$ . [B, 2.] See also HYDROXYANTHRACENE.

OXYAPHE (Lat.), OXYAPHIA (Lat.), n's f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot a^2f \cdot (a^2f) \cdot e(a)$ ,  $-i(u^6) \cdot a^2f(a^2f) \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2$ . Gen., -y'aphes, yaph'ie. From ôξύς, keen, and ἀφή, a touching. Fr., oxyaphie. See HYPERAPHIA.

OXYARTERITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot ar^2t \cdot e^2r(ar) \cdot i(e) \cdot ti^2s$ . Gen., -it'idios (-idis). From ôξύς, sharp, and ἀρτηρία, an artery. Fr., oxyartérite. Acute arteritis. Many similar words with the prefix oxy- are used to indicate an acute type of the disease specified.

OXYBAPHION (Lat.), OXYBAPHIUM (Lat.), OXYBAPHON (Lat.), n's n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot ba^2f(ba^2f) \cdot i^2 \cdot o^2n$ ,  $-u^2m(u^4m)$ ,  $-i^2b(u^6b) \cdot a^2f(a^2f) \cdot o^2n$ . Gr., ὀξύβαφιον, ὀξύβαφον (from ôξος, vinegar, and βαφή, a dipping). Fr., acetabule. 1. A shallow vessel for soaking bandages, etc., in vinegar. [L, 50 (a, 14).] 2. See ACETABULUM (3d def.).

OXYBAPHUS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2b(u^6b) \cdot a^2f(a^2f) \cdot u^2s(u^4s)$ . From ὀξύβαφον, a shallow earthen vessel. Fr., oxybaphe. Umbrellawort; a genus of herbs, of the Nyctaginaceæ, found in America and India. The roots are said to be purgative. [B, 34, 121 (a, 35).]

OXYBASE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot bas$ . A basic oxide. [B, 28, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYBENZOIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot be^2nz \cdot o^2i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxybenzoïque. Ger., Oxybenzoesäure. Hydroxybenzoic acid. Ortho-o. a. is salicylic acid. [B.]

OXYBENZOL ALCOHOL, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot be^2nz \cdot o^2l \cdot a^2l \cdot ko \cdot ho^2l$ . See HYDROXYBENZYL ALCOHOL.

OXYBLEPSIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot ble^2ps \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2$ . From ôξύς, keen, and βλέψω, sight. Fr., oxyblepsie. See OXYOPIA.

OXYBOLIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot bol(bol) \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2$ . From ôξύς, rapid, and βολή, a throw. Fr., oxybolie. The premature emission of semen. [B.]

OXYBROMIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot brom \cdot i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxybromique. Ger., Oxybromsäure. Of Kämmerer, hypobromous acid. [B, 2.]

OXYBROMIDE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot brom \cdot i^2d(id)$ . Fr., oxybromure. Ger., Oxybromür. A compound containing both oxygen and bromine united to another element or radicle. [B, 3.]

OXYBROMOCHLORIDE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot brom \cdot o \cdot klor \cdot i^2d(id)$ . A compound of oxygen, bromine, and chlorine with the same radicle. [B.]

OXYBUTYL ALCOHOL, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot bu^2t \cdot i^2l$ . Ger., Oxybutylalkohol. A diatomic alcohol,  $C_4H_9O_2$ , conceived to be derived from butyl alcohol by the addition of an atom of oxygen. Three isomeric varieties of this formula are known: (1) o. o. a.,  $C_4H_9(OH)_2 = CH_3CH_2CH(OH)CH_2(OH)$ , also called n-butene glycol (see BUTENE glycol); (2) β. o. a., β-butene glycol,  $CH_3CH(OH)CH_2CH_2(OH)$ ; (3) isobutylene glycol, α-oxyisobutyl alcohol,  $(CH_3)_2C(OH)CH_2(OH)$ . [B.]

OXYBUTYLIC, adj.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot bu^2t \cdot ti^2l \cdot i^2k$ . Butylic with an additional atom of oxygen. [B.]

OXYBUTYRALDEHYDE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot bu^2t \cdot i^2r \cdot a^2l \cdot de^2 \cdot hid$ . See ALDOL.

OXYCAMPHORONIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot ka^2m \cdot fo^2r \cdot o^2n \cdot i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxycamphoronique. Ger., Oxycamphoronsäure. A tribasic crystalline acid,  $C_9H_{12}O_6$ . [B, 2.]

OXYCANNABIN, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot ka^2n \cdot a^2b \cdot i^2n$ . Fr., oxycannabine. A white crystalline compound,  $C_{20}H_{28}N_2O_2$ , obtained by treating cannabis with nitric acid and crystallizing from methyl alcohol in large yellowish prisms. [B, 5, 81 (a, 38); B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYCEDRUS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot sed(ke^2d) \cdot ru^2s(ru^4s)$ . Gr., ὀξύκεδρος (from ôξύς, sharp, and κέδρος, cedar). 1. Of the ancients, the Juniperus o. 2. Of Spach, a section of the genus Juniperus. [B, 115, 121 (a, 35).]—Baccæ (seu grana, seu semen) oxycedri. Juniper-berries. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

OXYCEPHALIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot se^2f(ke^2f) \cdot al(a^4l) \cdot i^2 \cdot a^2$ . From ôξύς, sharp, and κεφαλή, the head. Fr., oxy-céphalie. Ger., Oxycephalie. The state of having the head long, with a high vertical index and a narrow transverse diameter. ["Alien. and Neurol.," Oct., 1891, p. 561 (a, 34).]

OXYCHLORIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot klor \cdot i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxychlorique. Ger., Oxychlorsäure. 1. Of Kämmerer, hypochlorous acid. [B, 2; B, 93.] 2. Perchloric acid.

OXYCHLORIDE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot klor \cdot i^2d(id)$ . Fr., oxychlorure. Ger., Oxychlorür. Syn.: acichloride, basic chloride. A compound of an element or radicle with both oxygen and chlorine. [B.]

OXYCINCHONINE, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot si^2n^2 \cdot kon \cdot en$ . Fr., o. Ger., Oxycinchonin. A substance,  $C_{20}H_{24}N_2O_2$ , isomeric with quinine. [B, 4 (a, 38); B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYCINESIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot si^2n(ken) \cdot e(a) \cdot si^2s$ . Gen., -es'eos (-iâ). See ACROCINESIS.

OXYCOCOCCUS (Lat.), OXYCOCCLUS (Lat.), n's m.  $O_2x \cdot i^2(u^6) \cdot ko^2k(ko^2s)$ ,  $-ku^2s(ku^4s)$ . From ôξύς, sharp, and κόκκος, a grain. Ger., Moosbeere. 1. The Vaccinium o. 2. A genus of ericaceous plants separated from Vaccinium, sometimes made a section of that genus. [B, 215; B, 121 (a, 35).]—Baccæ oxycoeci. Cranberries (fruit of Vaccinium o). [B, 119].—Rob (vaccini) oxycoeci. Fr., rob de canneberge de marais. Ger., eingekochter Moosbeerensaft. A preparation made by boiling cranberry-juice with one fourth of its weight of sugar to the consistence of honey. [Russ. Ph., 1803 (B, 119).]

OXYCOMENIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot ko^2m \cdot e^2n \cdot i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxycoménique. Ger., Oxykomensäure. A crystalline acid,  $C_8H_8O_2$  ( $OH \cdot CO \cdot OH = C_6H_4O_6$ ). [B, 3.]

OXYCOPAIVIC ACID, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot ko \cdot pa^2 \cdot ev \cdot i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxycopaivique (ou oxycopahuvique). Ger., Oxycopaivasäure. A substance,  $C_{20}H_{28}O_2$ , found in the deposit of Pará copaiba balsam. It forms colorless rhombic prisms, fusible at  $120^\circ C$ , freely soluble in ether, less soluble in alcohol. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYCOTOIN, n.  $O_2x \cdot i^2 \cdot ko \cdot to \cdot i^2n$ . Cotoin in which hydroxyl replaces hydrogen. [B.]

OXYCRATUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2k(u^6k)/ra^2t(ra^2t)\text{-}u^3mu^4m$ . From ὄξος, sharp, and κρατεῖν, to mix. Ger., Oxyerat. A preparation made by mixing 64 grammes of vinegar with 1 litre of water, or 1 part of acetic acid with 12 parts of water. [B. 119 (a, 38).]

OXYROCEUS (Lat.), adj.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2(u^6)\text{-}kros(kro^2k)/e^2\text{-}u^3s(u^4s)$ . From ὄξος, vinegar, and κρόκος, saffron. Containing vinegar and saffron. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

OXYROCROCONIC ACID, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}kro\text{-}k^2n^2i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxyrocroconique. Ger., Oxyrocrokonäure. A yellowish gummy substance,  $C_6H_4O_8$ , acting as a tribasic acid. [B. 3.]

OXYCYMIC ACID, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}ku^2mi^2k$ . Fr., acide oxy-cumique. Ger., Oxycuminsäure. A monobasic acid,  $C_6H_4(C_2H_5)(OH).CO.OH = C_{10}H_{12}O_3$ , isomeric and perhaps identical with phloretic acid. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXCYMENE, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}si^2men$ . See CARVACROL.

OXYD (Ger.), n. Ox-u'd'. See OXIDE.—Blasenot. See CYSTINE.

OXYDALE (Fr.), adj. Ox-e-da-bl'. Oxidizable. [B.]

OXYDATUS (Lat.), adj.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d(u^6d)\text{-}at(a^2t)/u^3s(u^4s)$ . Oxidized; with the name of a base, that of one of two oxides which contains the more oxygen; with the name of a base coupled with an adjective denoting an acid, that salt of the acid which contains the more oxygen (and hence relatively less of the basic element). [B.]

OXYDE, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d(i^2d)$ . See OXIDE.—Antimoniate d'o. antimonique (Fr.). Of Berzelius, antimony tetroxide. [B.]—O. antimonique (Fr.). Antimony trioxide. OXYDERCES (Lat.), adj.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d(u^6d)\text{-}u^3r(e^2r)/sez(kas)$ . Gr., ὀξύδερκος (from ὄξος, keen, and δέρκεσθαι, to see clearly). 1. Keen-sighted. 2. Promoting keenness of vision; as a n. in the n. pl., oxydercea, remedies for strengthening the sight. [L. 50 (a, 48).]

OXYDERCIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d(u^6d)\text{-}u^3r(e^2r)/si^2(ki^2)\text{-}a^3$ . Fr., oxydercie. Keenness of sight. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

OXYDIMORPHINE, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}di\text{-}mo^2rf'en$ . Fr., o. A crystalline and very stable base,  $C_{24}H_{12}N_2O_4$  (formerly thought to have the composition  $C_{17}H_{12}NO_4$ , or that of oxymorphine), occurring as a nearly pure made up of very fine needles. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

OXYDIPHENYLSULPHONIC ACID, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}di\text{-}fe^2n^2i^2l\text{-}su^2lf\text{-}o^2n^2i^2k$ . A dibasic acid,  $C_{12}H_8(SO_2OH)_2$ . [B.]

OXYDIPHENYLSULPHONIC ACID, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}di\text{-}fe^2n^2i^2l\text{-}su^2lf\text{-}o^2n^2i^2k$ . A monobasic acid,  $C_{12}H_8(SO_2OH)OH$ . [B. 2.]

OXYDOID, adj.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d\text{-}oid$ . Lat., oxydoïdes (from oxydum, an oxide). Fr., oxydoïde. Ger., oxydoïdlich. Resembling an oxide; as a n., an oxide which is neither basic nor acid. [B. 38 (a, 14).]

OXYDORCICUS (Lat.), adj.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d(u^6d)\text{-}o^2rs(o^2rk)/i^2k\text{-}u^3s(u^4s)$ . Gr., ὀξύδωρικός. Fr., oxydorvique. See OXYDERCES.

OXYDO-SULFURE (Fr.), n. Ox-e-do-su^2lf-fu^2r. An oxysulphide. [B. 92.]

OXYDSALZ (Ger.), n. Ox-u'd/za^2lts. See Basic salt.

OXYDULATED, adj.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d(u^6d)\text{-}at\text{-}e^2d$ . Lat., oxydulatus. Fr., oxydulé. Ger., oxyduliert. Slightly oxidized. [L. 56 (a, 43).]

OXYDULATUS (Lat.), adj.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d(u^6d)\text{-}at(u^4l)\text{-}la^2t^2(u^3st^2u^4s)$ . Oxidulated; with the name of a base, that of one of two oxides which contains the less oxygen; with the name of a base and an adjective denoting an acid, that salt of the acid which contains the less oxygen (and hence relatively more of the base). [B.]

OXYDULUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2d(u^6d)\text{-}u^3l(u^4l)\text{-}u^3mu^4m$ . Ger., Oxydul. That one of two oxides of an element or basic substance which contains relatively the less oxygen. [a, 38.]—O. cupricum. See Sputum æris under Æris.

OXYFLUORIDE, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}flu^2o^2r\text{-}i^2d(i^2d)$ . A compound of oxygen and fluorine with the same element or radicle. [B.]

OXYFORMOBENZOILIC ACID, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}fo^2rm\text{-}u^3o\text{-}be^2nz\text{-}o\text{-}i^2l\text{-}i^2k$ . An acid,  $C_8H_8O_4 = C_6H_5(OH)O_2$ , found in persons suffering from acute yellow atrophy of the liver. [L. 88 (a, 50).]

OXYGALA (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2g(u^6g)/a^2l(a^2l)\text{-}a^3$ . Gen., -act'os (-act'is). Gr., ὀξύγαλα (from ὄξος, acid, and γάλα, milk). Fr., oxygale. Sour milk. [L. 41 (a, 43).]

OXYGARUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2g(u^6g)/a^2r(a^2r)\text{-}u^3m(u^4m)$ . Gr., ὀξύγαρον (from ὄξος, vinegar, and γαρον, garum). Fr., o. A mixture of garum and vinegar. [L. 50 (a, 43).]

OXYGEN, n.  $O_2x\text{-}i_2\text{-}je^2n$ . Lat., oxygenium [Belg. Ph., Gr. Ph.] (from ὄξος, acid, and γεννᾶν, to engender). Fr., oxygène. Ger., Sauerstoff. A non-metallic element discovered by Priestley in 1774, and termed by him dephlogisticated air, its present name being given to it by Lavoisier in 1778. It is a colorless, tasteless, and odorless gas, of a sp. gr. of 1.1056 as compared with that of air, and soluble in water, which takes up about 4 per cent. of it by volume. Under the combined influence of a very low temperature ( $-130^\circ\text{C}$ ) and great pressure (475 atmospheres, or about  $\frac{3}{4}$  tons to the square inch) o. is liquefied. Under certain conditions it is converted into ozone. It occurs in the free state in the atmosphere, of which it forms more than one fifth by weight. Combined with hydrogen it forms water, and combined with silicon and the metals it forms from 40 to 50 per cent. of the portion of the earth's crust which is accessible to observation. In combination, o. acts as a bivalent radicle. It unites directly with all the elements except fluorine, and also directly with some organic radicles, forming the class of compounds called oxides and simple ethers. Combined with hydrogen, it unites with many elementary bodies and compound radicles to form (1) the oxyacids, comprising the great majority of all mineral and organic acids, and (2) the hydrates or hydroxides and alcohols. It is also a component of the derivatives of these two groups of compounds, called, respectively, (1) the oxysalts and compound ethers, and (2) the aldehydes and ketones. It further enters into combination with very many more complex organic radicles, forming an essential constituent of nearly all of the animal and many of the vegetable organic compounds. The act of combination of o. with another body is called oxidation. It takes place continually in living tissues, and is essential to the maintenance of tissue-metamorphosis. A free supply of o. is consequently necessary for the preservation of animal life, and this supply is maintained by the processes of respiration. O. is accordingly denominated a supporter of respiration. The process of oxidation is always associated with the evolution of heat, and the development and maintenance of animal heat are secured by the constant oxidation taking place in the tissues of the body. When oxidation takes place rapidly, the amount of heat suddenly developed is sufficient to cause a great elevation of temperature and the luminous phenomena constituting flame. The process is then called combustion, and o. is said to be a supporter of combustion. It is used therapeutically as a gas, or by drinking water saturated with o. It is very useful as an inhalation in bronchitis and pneumonia where there is deficient aeration in consequence of heart distention, in resuscitating persons asphyxiated by coal gas, in chloroform or ether narcosis, and to relieve dyspnea in phthisis and diabetic coma. The saturated water is used for gastric or intestinal indigestion, nausea, and gastric or neuralgic headache. Atomic weight, 15.96; symbol, O. [B. 3; a, 34.] Active o. Ger., aktiver Sauerstoff. Nascent o.; an allotropic modification of o. containing only one atom in the molecule. It is formed by the action of a palladium plate saturated with hydrogen on ordinary o., and by the reduction or decomposition of ozone, hydrogen peroxide, and many other substances containing o. It can not be isolated. [E. Baumann, "Ztschr. f. phys. Chem.," v, p. 244 (B).]—Heavy o. ether. A term erroneously applied to acetic aldehyde. [B. 46.]—Light o. ether. An old term for acetic aldehyde (q. v.).—O. acid. See under ACID.—Polarized o. ozone. [B.]—Respiratory o. The o. loosely combined with hemoglobin, which is available for respiration. An acid having the constitution,  $C_9H_8O_4$ , of hydroparacummaric acid with the addition of an atom of oxygen. It appears to be one of the products of the metamorphosis of tyrosine in the animal organism. [E. Baumann, "Ztschr. f. physiol. Chem.," vi, 324 (B).]

OXYHYPOGÆIC ACID, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}hi^2$ -p-o-je<sup>2</sup>/i<sup>2</sup>k. Fr., acide oxyhypogœique. A white substance,  $C_{16}H_{30}O_8$ . [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYGASURINE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}ig$ -a<sup>3</sup>s-u<sup>2</sup>ren. A substance formed by the action of potassium nitrite on igasurine, having a physiological action analogous to that of strychnine. It occurs in nearly needles, decomposing at about 300° C. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYIODIDE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}i^2$ -o-d-i<sup>2</sup>d(i<sup>2</sup>d). Fr., oxyiodure. Ger., Oxyjodür. A compound containing both oxygen and iodine united to another element or radicle. [B, 3.]

OXYIODINE (Fr.), n.  $Ox-e-e$ -o-den. See Iodic acid.

OXYLEPIDINE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}le^2$ -p-i<sup>2</sup>d-en. Fr., oxylépidène. Ger., Oxylepidin. An oxidation compound,  $C_{28}H_{40}O_2$ , of lepidine. [B, 38, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYLEUCOTIN, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}lu^2$ -kot/i<sup>2</sup>n. Fr., oxyleucotine. A tasteless substance,  $C_{34}H_{52}O_{12}$ , found in paracoto-bark, and occurring as short, colorless acicular crystals. [B, 270 (a, 38).]

OXYLINOLEIC ACID, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}li^2$ -n-o-le<sup>2</sup>/i<sup>2</sup>k. Fr., acide oxylinoléique. An oxidation product,  $C_{18}H_{32}O_6$ , of linoleic acid. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYLIZARIC ACID, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}li^2$ -a<sup>3</sup>r/i<sup>2</sup>k. Fr., acide oxy-lizarique. Ger., Oxylizarinsäure. 1. Purpurin. 2. According to Debus, a distinct substance contained together with lizaric acid and purpurin in the coloring matter of madder. [B, 93 (a, 14).] See also under LIZARIC acid.

OXYMEL (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2x^{1/2}(u^6)$ -me<sup>2</sup>l. From  $\delta\epsilon\upsilon\varsigma$ , acid, and  $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\alpha$ , honey. Fr., o., acétomel, oxymelle. Ger., Sauerhonig. Of the Br. Ph., a preparation containing 40 oz. av. of clarified honey and 5 fl. oz. each of acetic acid and distilled water. The French preparation (mellite de vinaigre) is made up of 1 part of vinegar and 4 of honey. Other preparations are of very different strengths. [B, 10.]—O. alliatum. Fr., o. (ou acétomellé) d'ail, oxymelle alliacé. An old preparation made by boiling to a syrup a mixture of 1 part of acetum allii and 2 parts of white honey. [D, 133.]—O. calveux (Fr.). See Linimentum æruginis.—O. eleboratum. A preparation made by boiling to a syrup 1 part of the vinegar of black hellebore and 2 parts of white honey. [B, 119 (a, 38).]—O. saccharatum, O. saccharin (Fr.). A mixture of equal parts of white vinegar, honey, and syrup, boiled together, skimmed and strained. [B, 119 (a, 38).] See also O. scilliticum, O. scillitiquum (Fr.). See Mel scillæ acetatum.—O. simple (Fr.), O. simplex (Fr. Cod.). See O. pectoral. Fr., o. pectoral, oxymelle de gomme ammoniacale composée. Of the Bruns. Ph., a preparation made by mixing 2 parts of elecampane rhizome, 1 part of Florentine iris, and 12 parts of water, boiling till reduced to one third, adding to the strained decoction 12 parts of white honey, 2 of gum ammoniac, and 10 of white vinegar, and boiling to the consistency of honey; used in coughs and moist asthma. [B, 97, 119.]

OXYMELLATED, adj.  $O_2x^{1/2}me^2$ /at-e<sup>d</sup>. Lat., oxymellicus. Having the form of an oxymel (said of drugs). [a, 38.]

OXYMELLITUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2x^{1/2}(u^6)$ -me<sup>2</sup>-lit(let)/u<sup>2</sup>m(u<sup>4</sup>m). See OXYMEL.

OXYMETHYL, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}me^2$ th/i<sup>2</sup>l. Fr., oxyméthyle. Ger., O. A univalent radicle,  $CH_2O$ , being methyl plus an atom of oxygen. [a, 38.]—O-benzyl alcohol. See ANILIC alcohol.—O-phenylformic acid. An acid,  $C_6H_5O_3 = C_6H_4(CO_2OH)$ , isomeric with hydroxytoluic acid. [B, 4 (a, 38).]

OXYMETHYLENE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}me^2$ th/i<sup>2</sup>l-en. Paramethyl aldehyde. [a, 38.] See under FORMIC aldehyde.

OXYMETHYLQUINIZINE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}me^2$ th/i<sup>2</sup>l-kwi<sup>2</sup>n/i<sup>2</sup>z-en. Fr., oxyméthylquinizine. Ger., Oxymethylchinizin. A derivative formed from quinizine by replacing two atoms of hydrogen by one atom of oxygen and one atom of hydrogen by a molecule of methyl,  $C_6H_4 \begin{array}{c} N \\ \diagup \quad \diagdown \\ C_2OH_2-C \end{array} (CH_2)=C_{10}H_{16}N_2O$ . O. is prepared by the action of phenylhydrazine on ethyl acetoacetate, and occurs as an oily substance which may be obtained in the crystalline form. ["Bericht. d. dtsch. chem. Gesellsch.," xvi, p. 2597, in "Annal. di Chim.," Mar., 1885, p. 20 (B).]—Methylated O. Fr., oxyméthylquinizine méthylée. Antipyrine. [B.]

OXYMETRUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O_2x^{1/2}m^2$ e<sup>2</sup>t-ru<sup>2</sup>m(ru<sup>4</sup>m). From  $\delta\epsilon\upsilon\varsigma$ , acid, and  $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\tau\rho\nu$ , a measure. Fr., oximètre. See ACIDIMETER.

OXYMORPHINE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}m^2$ -or<sup>2</sup>r/en. See OXYDIMORPHINE.

OXYNAPHTHOIC ACID, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}na^2$ -f-tho<sup>2</sup>/i<sup>2</sup>k. Hydro<sup>2</sup> a. (q. v.). O. acid is used as a disinfectant and antiseptic. ["Am. Jour. of Pharm.," June, 1888, p. 273 (a, 50).]

OXYNAPHTHOL, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}na^2$ f-tho<sup>2</sup>l. A substance,  $C_{10}H_6O_2$ , known in two isomeric forms: dioxynaphthalene and naphtho-hydroquinone (q. v.). There is besides a dioxynaphthol or trioxynaphthalene,  $C_{14}H_8O_3 = C_{10}H_6(OH)_3$ , in yellow soluble needles, acting as a powerful reducing agent. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYNAPHTHYLAMINE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}na^2$ f-thi<sup>2</sup>/i<sup>2</sup>a<sup>2</sup>m-en. A base,  $C_{10}H_6(NH_2)OH$ , forming a red amorphous mass. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYNARCOTINE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}na^2$ rk-o<sup>2</sup>t-en. Lat., oxynarcotia. Fr., o. An alkaloid,  $C_{22}H_{22}NO_8$ , obtained in the purification of narcaine by crystallization in water. It forms a soft crystalline mass. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYNEURINE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}nu^2$ r/en. From  $\delta\epsilon\upsilon\varsigma$ , acid, and  $\nu\epsilon\theta$ -pov, a nerve. Fr., oxynévrine. Ger., Oxyneurin. See BETAINE.

OXYOCTOIC ACID, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}o^2$ -k-to<sup>2</sup>/i<sup>2</sup>k. See under HYDROXYCAPRYLIC ACID.

OXYPHENIC ACID, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}fe^2$ n/i<sup>2</sup>k. Fr., acide oxyphénique, oxypheñol. Ger., Oxypheninsäure. See PYROCATECHIN.

OXYPHENYL, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}fe^2$ n/i<sup>2</sup>l. A combination of phenyl and oxygen,  $C_6H_5O$ . [a, 38.]—O-acetic acid. See HYDROXY-PHENYLACETIC ACID.—O-amidopropionic acid. Tyrosine. [B.]—O-phthalamic acid. A monobasic acid,  $C_8H_7NO_4$ . The para-derivative,  $C_6[H.OH.H.H.N.CO C_6H_4.CO.OH.H]$ , forms shining prismatic acicular crystals. [A. Piutti, "Ann. di chim. e di farmacol.," Feb., 1887, p. 79 (B).]—O-phthalimide. A substance of the constitution  $C_8H_4(OH)N.CO_2 C_6H_4 = C_8[H.OH.H.N.CO_2 C_6H_4.H]$ , forming shining laminar crystals, melting at 287° to 288° C. [A. Piutti, "Ann. di chim. e di farmacol.," Feb., 1887, p. 74 (B).]—O-propionic acid. See HYDROCOUMARIC ACID and HYDROPARACUMARIC ACID.—O-sulphuric acid. Phenol sulphonic acid. [B.]

OXYPHONIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O_2x^{1/2}(u^6)$ -fon/i<sup>2</sup>a<sup>3</sup>. Gr.,  $\delta\epsilon\upsilon\phi\omega\pi\iota\alpha$  (from  $\delta\epsilon\upsilon\varsigma$ , sharp, and  $\phi\omega\eta$ , the voice). Fr., oxypheñie. Shrillness of voice. [A, 322, 325 (a, 48).]

OXYPHOSPHIDE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}fo^2$ s/i<sup>2</sup>d(i<sup>2</sup>d). Fr., oxyposphure. A compound of an element or radicle with oxygen and phosphorus. [B, 38, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYPICRATE, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}pi^2$ k/rat. A salt of oxypicric acid. [B, 4.]

OXYPICRIC ACID, n.  $O_2x^{1/2}pi^2$ k/ri<sup>2</sup>k. Fr., acide oxypicrique. Ger., Oxypicrinsäure. Trinitroresorcin: so called because it has the constitution of picric acid plus an atom of oxygen,  $C_6H_3N_3O_7 + O = C_6H_3N_3O_8$ . [B.]

OXYPINITANNIC ACID, n.  $O^2x-i^2-pin-i^2-ta^n-i^2k$ . Fr., acide oxypinitannique. Ger., Oxypinitansäure. A substance,  $C_{14}H_{12}O_7 + 2H_2O$ , obtained from the needles of Pinus silvestris. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYPODIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-pod(po^2d)^i2-a^3$ . From  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , sharp, and  $\rho\acute{o}\delta\acute{\omicron}s$ , the foot. See TALIPES EQUINUS.

OXYPROPYL ALCOHOL, n.  $O^2x-i^2-prop^i2l$ . Ger., Oxypropylalkohol. A body having the formula  $C_3H_7O_2$ ; so called because it may be regarded as derived from propyl alcohol by the addition of an atom of oxygen. There are two bodies having this formula, both diatomic alcohols: (1)  $\alpha$ -o. a., or propylene glycol, and (2)  $\beta$ -o. a., or trimethylene glycol. [B.]

OXYPROTEIN, n.  $O^2x-i^2-pro^i2t-e^2n$ . A proteid richer in oxygen than ordinary proteins. [B, 4.]

OXYPYRIDINE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-pi^2r^i2d-en$ . Ger., Oxypyridin. An hydroxyl substitution compound,  $C_5H_4(OH)N = C_5H_5ON$ , of pyridine. There are three isomeric bodies of this formula: (1)  $\alpha$ -o., forming colorless acicular crystals melting at  $106^\circ$  to  $107^\circ$ ; (2)  $\beta$ -o., light-yellow crystals, melting at  $133^\circ 5'$ ; and (3)  $\gamma$ -o., small granules melting at  $148^\circ$ . [B, 79.]

OXYQUININE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-kwi^n-i^2z-en$ . Fr., o. A crystalline alkaloid,  $C_{20}H_{24}N_2O_4$ , obtained by Schützenberger by boiling quinine sulphate with potassium nitrite. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYQUINIZINE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-kwi^n-i^2z-en$ . Fr., oxyquinizine. Ger., Oxychinizin. A derivative of quinine in which an atom of oxygen replaces two atoms of hydrogen:  $C_6H_8N_2O =$

OXYQUINOLINE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-kwi^n-i^2o^2l-en$ . Fr., oxyquinoline. Ger., Oxychinolin. A substance having the constitution,  $C_8H_8(OH)N$ , of quinoline in which hydroxyl replaces an atom of hydrogen. Parao,  $C_8H_8(OH)N - CH - CH - CH_3$ , forms prismatic crystals melting at  $183^\circ$  C. [B.]—O. tetrahydride. Ger., Oxychinolinhydrür, Oxychinolintetrahydrür. A substance having the composition  $C_8H_{11}NO = C_8H_9(OH)N.H_2$  of o. with 4 atoms of hydrogen added, derived from o. by the action of tin and hydrochloric acid. [B.]

OXYREGMIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-re^2g-mi^2a^3$ . From  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , acid, and  $\rho\acute{\omicron}\rho\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$ , eructation. Fr., oxyregmie. An acid eructation. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OXYRIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x-i^2(r^6r^6)/i^2-a^3$ . From  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , acid. Fr., oxyrie. Ger., Süerling. A genus of the Rumiceae. [B, 34, 42, 64 (a, 35).]—O. digyna, O. reniformis. Ger., nierenblättriger Süerling. Mountain sorrel; a low, nearly stemless, alpine herb, of an acid taste, growing in Asia, Europe, and North America. It has properties similar to those of Rumex acetosella, and in Poland and elsewhere is eaten as a vegetable and used as an antiscorbatic. [B, 19, 34, 42, 173, 180 (a, 35).]

OXYRRHINUS (Lat.), adj's.  $O^2x-ir(u^6r^6)-$ . Fr., oxyrrhinus, oxyrrhinus ( $u^6s(u^4s)$ ). Gr.,  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma\rho\acute{\omicron}\nu$ ,  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma\rho\acute{\omicron}\nu$  (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , sharp, and  $\rho\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$ , the nose). 1. Having a sharp-pointed nose. 2. Having a keen sense of smell. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

OXYRRHODIN, n.  $O^2x-i^2(r^6r^6)-i^2n$ . Gr.,  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma\rho\acute{\omicron}\delta\acute{\omicron}\nu$  (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , vinegar, and  $\rho\acute{\omicron}\delta\acute{\omicron}\nu$ , a rose). Lat., oxyrrhodinum. Fr., oxyrrhodine. Ger., Rosenessig. An old pharmaceutical mixture of rose-oil and vinegar. [B, 38, 78, 93, 144 (a, 14).]

OXYS (Lat.), adj.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6s)$ . Gen., oxy's. Sharp, keen, acid. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

OXYSACCHARUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-sa^2k(sa^2k)^i/ka^2r$  ( $ch^2a^2r-u^6m(u^4m)$ ). From  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , vinegar, and  $\sigma\acute{\alpha}\chi\alpha\rho\acute{\omicron}\nu$ , sugar. A mixture of sugar and vinegar. [B, 93 (a, 38).]—O. aceticum. See Sirup de vinaigre.—O. scilliticum. A preparation made by dissolving from 1 to 2 parts of sugar in 1 part of vinegar of squills. [B, 119 (a, 38).]—O. vomitivum. A solution of cerated glass of antimony in a mixture of sugar and vinegar. [B, 93 (a, 38).]

OXYSALT, n.  $O^2x-i^2-sa^4t$ . Lat., oxysal (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , acid, and sal, salt). Fr., oxysel. 1. See BASIC SALT. 2. A salt of an oxyacid. [B.]

OXYSEPSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-se^2p(sap)^i/si^2s$ . Gen., -sepsis (-is). From  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , acid, and  $\sigma\acute{\eta}\phi\varsigma$ , putrefaction. Fr., oxysepsie. 1. Putrefaction with the development of acidity. 2. Putrefaction that supervenes quickly after death. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OXYSTIA (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-si^2t(se)^i/shi^2ti^2-a^3$ . Gr.,  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\sigma\acute{\iota}\alpha$  (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , acid, and  $\sigma\acute{\iota}\omega\nu$ , food). Fr., oxysitie. A tendency to acidity of the stomach. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OXYSTELMA (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-ste^2l^i/ma^3$ . Gen., -stelmatos (-atis). Fr., oxystelme. A genus of the Asclepiadeae, tribe Cynanchaceae. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—O. aegyptiacum, O. Alpinum. A species found in Egypt and southern Africa. The juice is purgative and constitutes, when dried, a variety of scammony. [B, 214; B, 5, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—O. esculentum. The orvil pulay of the Malays; indigenous to India and Java. The decoction is used as a gargle in aphthae and sore throat. According to Roxburgh and Wight, it is not eaten, as its specific name implies. [B, 212; B, 19, 173 (a, 35).]

OXYSTRYCHNINE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-stri^2k^i/nen$ . A oxidation product,  $C_{21}H_{22}N_2O_7$ , obtained by the action of boiling potassium nitrite on strychnine sulphate. [B, 38, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYSULFURATUS (Lat.), adj.  $(O^2x-i^2(u^6)-su^2lf-u^2r(u^6r^6)-at(a^2t)^i/u^6s(u^4m))$ . From  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , sharp, and sulfur, brimstone. Fr., oxy-sulfuré. Containing oxygen and sulphur; with the name of a base, the oxysulphide of that base. [B.]

OXYSULFURE (Fr.), n. OXYSULFURETUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2x-su^2lf-u^2r$ ,  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-su^2lf(u^6r^6)-u^2r(u^6r^6)-et(a^2t)^i/u^6m(u^4m)$ . See OXYSULPHIDE.

OXYSULPHACETYL, n.  $O^2x-i^2-su^2lf-a^2s^i/et^i2l$ . Fr., oxysulfacétyle. A crystallizable compound,  $C_4H_6S_2O_2$ , formed by the action of sulphureted hydrogen on oxychloroacetyl. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

OXYSULPHATE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-su^2lf-at$ . A compound of a sulphate and an oxide of the same radicle; a basic sulphate. [B.]

OXYSULPHIDE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-su^2lf-i^2d(id)$ . Lat., oxysulphidum, oxysulphuretum. Fr., oxysulfure. A compound of an element or radicle with oxygen and sulphur. [B.]

OXYSULPHOCYANATE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-su^2lf-o-si^i/a^2n-at$ . A compound of a sulphocyanate and an oxide. [B, 38 (a, 14).]

OXYSULPHOCYANIDE, n.  $O^2x-i^2-su^2lf-o-si^i/a^2n-i^2d(id)$ . See OXYSULPHOCYANATE.

OXYSULPHURET, n.  $O^2x-i^2-su^2lf-i^2r^2e^2t$ . See OXYSULPHIDE.

OXYSULPHURUM (Lat.), n. n.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-su^2lf(su^2lf)^i/u^2r(u^6r^6)-u^6m(u^4m)$ . See OXYSULPHIDE.

OXYTARTARUS (Lat.), n. m.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-ta^2rt^i/a^2r(a^2r)-u^6s(u^4s)$ . Fr., oxytartre. Potassium acetate. [B, 119 (a, 38).]

OXYTES (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6t)-ez(as)$ . Gen., -tel'os (-is). Gr.,  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\varsigma$  (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , sharp). Fr., acidité. Acidity. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

OXYTOCIC, adj.  $O^2x-i^2-to^2s^i/i^2k$ . Lat., oxytocus (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , rapid, and  $\tau\acute{o}\kappa\acute{o}\varsigma$ , a bringing forth). Fr., ocytocique. Hastening parturition, ebolic. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

OXYTROPIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6t)/ro^2p^i2s$ . Gen., -trop'eos. From  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\upsilon\varsigma$ , sharp, and  $\tau\rho\acute{o}\mu\acute{\iota}\varsigma$ , a ship's keel. Fr., oxytrophe. Oxytrophe; a genus of leguminous plants, closely allied to Astragalus, growing in Europe, Asia, and North America. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—O. campestris. A short-stemmed yellow-flowered species found in Europe and California, said to produce loco. [B, 19 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxvii.]—O. Lambertii. A Colorado species, said to cause loco disease. [B, 66.]—O. multiflora. A reputed loco plant. [B, 5 (a, 35).]

OXYURIS (Lat.), n. f.  $O^2x-i^2(u^6)-u^2r(u^6r^6)/i^2s$ . Fr., oxyure. A genus of the Ascaridae of Du-jardin, of the Nematoides of Rudolphi, or of the Oxyuridae, which are an order of the Nematoda characterized by a fusiform shape, a rounded oral aperture, disparity of the sexes in size, a highly developed nervous system, and a single spiculum for a penis in the male. [L, 16, 18, 27.]—O. curvula. Fr., oxyure du cheval. A species found in the cæcum and colon of the horse and ass. [Rudolphi (L, 17).]—O. vermicularis. Fr., oxyure vermiculaire. Ger., Darmschabe, Pfriemenschwanz, Arschmade, Kinderwurm, Mastdarmwurm, Mademwurm. Bot. thread- (or maw-) worm; a species the male of which is about  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. and the female nearly  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. long. It is found in the sigmoid flexure of the colon and in the rectum. The tail of the female terminates in a three-pointed end, but that of the male is obtuse. The integument around the mouth bulges, presenting in profile the appearance of winged appendages, and is transversely striated and of a silvery white color. [L.]

OXYVALERIC ACID, n.  $O^2x-i^2-va^2l-e^2r^i2$ . Fr., acide oxypalérique. An acid,  $C_5H_{10}O_3$ ,  $C_5H_8(OH)O_3$ , known in three isomeric forms: (1)  $\alpha$ -o. a., or hydroxyisovaleric acid, crystallizing in rectangular tablets or long prisms readily soluble in water, alcohol, or ether, melting at  $80^\circ$  C., and volatilizing at  $106^\circ$  C.; (2)  $\beta$ -o. a., a syrup readily soluble in water, alcohol, or ether; and (3) ethmethoxalic acid (v. r.), which forms colorless crystals, readily soluble and fusing at  $63^\circ$  C. [B, 3 (a, 38); B, 93 (a, 14).]

OYSTER, n. Oist'ur. Gr.,  $\delta\acute{\omicron}\sigma\tau\epsilon\omicron\nu$ . See OXYURIS VERMICULARIS (FEMALE). [A, 327.]—O. shells. Lat., concha (see testa) ostrea-rum. Fr., coquilles (ou écailles) d'huitres. Ger., Austerschalen. The valves of the shells of the common o. (Ostrea edulis), used as a source of calcium carbonate. OZÆNA (Lat.), n. f.  $Oz(o^2z)-en^i2(a^2n^2)-a^2$ . Gr.,  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\zeta\alpha\iota\alpha$  (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\zeta\epsilon\iota$ , to smell). Ger., stinkendes Nasengeschwür. A disease of the nasal passages causing a disagreeable odor; especially chronic atrophic nasal catarrh or an ulcerative nasal catarrh associated with scrofula, syphilis, etc., accompanied with an offensive discharge. [D, 42.]—Tracheal o. An inflammation of the trachea with the formation of crusts, resulting from an extension of o. from the nasal cavities. ["N. Y. Med. Jour.," Apr. 26, 1890 (a, 34), p. 460.]

OZÆNOCOCCUS (Lat.), n. m.  $Oz(o^2z)-a^2n^2(a^2n^2)-a^2-ko^2k^i/ku^2s$  (ku^4s). From  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\zeta\alpha\iota\alpha$ , ozæna, and  $\kappa\acute{o}\kappa\kappa\acute{o}\varsigma$ , a grain. See Micrococcus Loewenbergii.

OZANIQUE (Fr.), adj. O-z'a-nek. Purifying the breath. [B, 38 (a, 14).]

OZE (Lat.), n. f.  $Oz(o^2z)-e(a)$ . Gen., oz'es. Gr.,  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\zeta\epsilon$  (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\zeta\epsilon\iota$ , to smell). See OZOOSTOMIA.

OZOKERITE (Fr.), n. O-zo-sa-ret. See OZOKERITE.

OZOCHROTOUS, adj.  $Oz-o-kro^i2t^i2s$ . Gr.,  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\zeta\chi\rho\acute{o}\tau\acute{o}\varsigma$  (from  $\delta\acute{\epsilon}\zeta$ , a bad smell, and  $\chi\rho\acute{o}\varsigma$ , the surface). Lat., ozochrotus, ozochrote. Having the skin smelling offensively. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

OZOKERINE, n. Oz-o-ker'en. A commercial proprietary article resembling vaseline. [B, 10.]

OZOKERITE, n. Oz-o-ker'i<sup>2</sup>t. From ὄζειν, to smell, and κρόσις, beeswax. Fr., ozocerite. A mixture of natural paraffins obtained from Utah and from Galicia, Austria; said to act medicinally like tar; used with glycerin or linseed-oil in skin diseases. [B, 5 (a, 38); B, 10.]

OZON (Ger.), n. Ots-on'. See OZONE.—O-probe. See Guaiac TEST for blood.

OZONE, n. Oz'on. From ὄζειν, to smell. Fr., o. Ger., Ozon. An allotropic form of oxygen produced by the discharge of an electric machine in air or in oxygen gas, by the evaporation of water, by the electrolysis of water, by passing cold air into a flame, by the slow oxidation of phosphorus, oil of turpentine and other essential oils, and also in the growth of green foliage. It is constantly present in the atmosphere, but in very small amount. It is a colorless gas of peculiar odor, and, chemically, consists of oxygen so condensed that 3 atoms of the element occupy a molecule instead of two, as in ordinary oxygen gas. Its symbol is therefore O<sub>3</sub>, and its sp. gr. is 1.6584. When liquefied by cold, it boils at -106° C. When condensed, it is dark blue in color. It very readily parts with its extra atom of oxygen and is hence one of the most energetic oxidizing agents, attacking organic substances, such as caoutchouc, destroying organic tissues, and decolorizing blood. It has accordingly been used as a bleaching and disinfecting material. O. is slightly soluble in water, readily soluble in an aqueous solution of oxalic acid. [B, 3; "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xv, p. 266; xxi, p. 272; xxiii, p. 288; xxvii, p. 290; xxviii, p. 213; xxxv, p. 186 (a, 50).]—O. carrier. Fr., porteur d'o. Ger., Ozonträger. The red blood-corpuscle; so called because of its marked affinity for oxygen. [K.]

OZONIZATION, n. Oz-on-i<sup>2</sup>-za'shu'n. Fr., o. Ger., Ozonisierung. The process of ozonizing; the process either of impregnating with ozone or of converting oxygen into ozone.

OZONIZED, adj. Oz'on-izd. Containing or impregnated with ozone. [B.]

OZONOMETER, n. Oz-on-o<sup>2</sup>m'e<sup>2</sup>t-u<sup>2</sup>r. From ὄζειν, to smell, and μέτρον, a measure. Fr., ozonomètre. Ger., O. An apparatus for ascertaining the presence of ozone and measuring its quantity. It consists usually of papers treated with a solution of potassium iodide and starch. On exposure to an atmosphere containing ozone, the potassium iodide is decomposed, and the liberated iodine colors the starch blue. [B, 3.]

PALLADIUM (Lat.), n. n. Pa<sup>2</sup>l(pal<sup>1</sup>)-la<sup>2</sup>d(la<sup>2</sup>d)/i<sup>2</sup>-u<sup>2</sup>m(u<sup>2</sup>m). Fr., p. Ger., P. A metallic element discovered by Wollaston in 1803. It is found in nature associated with platinum and gold, and occurs either in the form of a coarse powder and small grains or in the crystalline form. In the latter state it is sometimes called allot. It is a white lustrous metal, having a sp. gr. of 11.4, and melting at about the same temperature as wrought-iron. It is not oxidized by exposure to the air, but is readily attacked by hot nitric and sulphuric acids. In composition p. acts partly as a dyad, forming palladious salts, and partly as a tetrad, forming palladic salts. Symbol, Pd; atomic weight, 106.2. [B, 3.]—Chlorp. (Ger.). See P. chloride.—P. and ammonium chloride. See ARGENTUM palladio-chloride.—P'chlorid (Ger.). P. tetrachloride. [B.]—P.

PALMA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2(\text{pa}^2\text{l})^2\text{ma}^2$ . Gr.,  $\phi\acute{o}\iota\nu\acute{\epsilon}$ . See PALM. The Palmeæ are: Of Reichenbach, the Orchidifloræ (containing the Orchidæ, Scitamineæ, and Palmeæ); of Lindley and others, the Palmeæ (Fr., palmiers; Ger., Palmen), which are an order of monocotyledons usually with an unbranched, often cylindrical stem, harder on the outside than at the centre, and often crowned by a tuft of large leaves. The flowers, which are usually declinous on a branched spadix, are composed each of a coriaceous perianth of 6 segments in 2 (rarely 1-) celled, or of 3 separate carpels, and the ovules are usually solitary. The fruit is baccate or drupaceous, with large seeds composed of a fleshy or horny albumen, in a depression of which is sunk a relatively minute embryo. They are trees or shrubs, chiefly tropical, and furnish food, building material, cordage, sugar, etc. The Palmeæ are: Of Dumortier, the Palmeæ; of Reichenbach, a division of the Palmeæ containing the Arecinæ and Cocoinæ. [B. 1, 19, 34, 92, 104, 121, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—Oil palm. 1. See PALM oil. 2. See COCA-NUT oil.—P. ady. See ADY.—P. Christi. 1. The Ricinus communis. 2. PALMAL, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2\text{m}^2\text{l}$ . Lat., palmalis. Resembling the palms, of the Palmeæ, which are the p. alliance of Lindley (Lat., nixus palmalis), an alliance of the Hypogynæ consisting of the Palmeæ (Palmeæ). [B. 170 (a, 35).]

PALMARIS (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2(\text{pa}^2\text{l})^2\text{ma}^2(\text{ma}^2)\text{ri}^2\text{s}$ . Palmar; as a n., a palmar muscle. [L.]—P. brevis, P. cutaneus. Ger., kurzer Hohlhandmuskel (oder Handfleischenspanner). A flat muscle of the palm of the hand, arising from the inner margin of the palmar fascia and the annular ligament of the wrist, and inserted into the skin along the inner border of the hand. [L. 31, 332.]—P. longus. Fr., palmaire long (ou grêle). Ger., Handsehnenspanner, langer Hohlhandmuskel. A long, slender muscle which arises from the inner condyle of the humerus between the flexores carpi radialis and ulnaris, and terminates in a long tendon inserted into the upper part of the palmar fascia. [L. 31, 142, 332.]—P. longus accessorius. An anomalous muscle accessory to the constant p. longus and varying greatly in its relation to that muscle. [L. 31, 332.]—P. longus bicaudatus. The p. longus when it has two tendons of insertion. [L. 31.]—P. magnus. See FLEXOR carpi radialis.

PALMAROSA, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2\text{ma}^2\text{-ro}^2\text{za}^2$ . P. oil or the plant that yields it.—P. oil. Fr., essence de p. The volatile oil of Andropogon schenanthus, and, according to some, of Andropogon nardus; used to adulterate attar of rose. Called also oil of geranium (Fr., essence de géranium). [B. 18, 121 (a, 35).] Cf. Turkish essence of GERANIUM.

PALMATA (Lat.), n. f. of adj., palmatus.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2(\text{pa}^2\text{l})^2\text{ma}^2(\text{ma}^2)\text{-ta}^2$ . In old pharmacy, palmate-lobed salep. [a, 35.] See PALMA Christi (2d def.).

PALMATE, PALMATED, adj's.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2\text{ma}^2\text{-t}$ ,  $\text{-e}^2\text{d}$ . Lat., palmatus (from palma, a palm). Fr., palme. 1. Of a leaf or other plant-organ, having several (strictly, five) lobes united by a broad expansion of parenchyma like the palm of the hand; also digitate. [B. 1, 19, 77; Gray (a, 35).] 2. Of birds, palmiped. [L. 341 (a, 27).]

PALMATIFID, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2\text{ma}^2\text{-t}^2\text{i}^2\text{f}^2\text{id}$ . Lat., palmatifidus (from palmatus, palmate, and findere, to cleave). Fr., palmati-fide, palmifide. Ger., handspaltig. Palmately cleft (i. e., cut half-way down, like the fingers of a hand). [B. 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).]

PALMATIFLOUS, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2\text{ma}^2\text{-t}^2\text{i}^2\text{f}^2\text{lor}^2\text{u}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., palmatiflorus (from palmatus, palmate, and flor, a flower). Fr., palmatiflore. Having flowers in which the corollas are palmate (said of the calathidium). [B. 1 (a, 35).]

PALMATIFORM, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2\text{ma}^2\text{-t}^2\text{i}^2\text{fo}^2\text{rm}$ . Lat., palmatiformis (from palmatus, palmate, and forma, form). Of a corolla, palmate; of a leaf, having the ribs palmately arranged (i. e., radiating from the top of the petiole). [B. 1, 19 (a, 35).]

PALMATILOBATE, PALMATILOBED, adj's.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2\text{ma}^2\text{-t}^2\text{i}^2\text{lob}^2\text{at}$ ,  $\text{-ma}^2\text{t}^2\text{i}^2\text{lob}^2\text{d}$ . Lat., palmatilobus, palmatilobatus (from palmatus, palmate, and lobes, a lobe). Fr., palmatilobe, Ger., handlappig, handförmiggeklapp. Palmately lobed; cut into shallow divisions in a palmate manner. [B. 19, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PALMATISECTED, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l}^2\text{ma}^2\text{-t}^2\text{i}^2\text{-se}^2\text{kt}^2\text{ed}$ . Lat., palmatisectus (from palmatus, palmate, and secare, to cut). Fr., palmatiséqué. Ger., handförmiggeschnitten, handschnittig. Cut deeply in a palmate manner; nearly digitate. [B. 1, 123 (a, 35).]

PALMATURE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-ma}^3\text{-tu}^6\text{r}$ . A web or web-like fold of skin. [a. 34.]—P. des doigts. See Webbed finger.—P. pénienne. A congenital web-like attachment of the penis to the scrotum. ["Gaz. hebdomadaire de méd. et de chir.," Aug. 5, 1887, p. 501 (a. 34).]

PALME (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-m}$ . See PALM.—Beurre de p. See PALM OIL.—Cire de p. See PALM-WAX.—Huile de p. See PALM OIL.—Lait de p. A white beverage, of agreeable flavor, obtained from the leaves of Phoenix dactylifera. See ARECA catechu.—Kohl p. The Euterpe caribaea and other cabbage palms. [B. 180 (a. 35).]—P'n butter. See PALM OIL.—P'nstärke. Arrowroot. [B. 270 (a. 38).]—P'nwachs. See PALM-WAX.

PALMELLA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l(pa}^2\text{l)-me}^2\text{l-la}^2$ . The typical genus of the Palmellaceae (Fr.), palmellacées or Palmellées (Fr., palmellées; Ger., Palmellen), which are a division of chlorophyllaceous cryptogams, regarded by De Caisne as degenerative forms of other Alga. In Sachs's parallel scheme of classification they are placed alongside the Schizomycetes, and by most recent authors they are made a division of the Cyanophyceae. They are composed of globular or elliptic cells aggregated in a gelatinous matrix, and occur as gelatinous or powdery crusts on moist rocks, etc., or in fresh or salt water. [B. 29; B. 19, 121, 168, 170 (a. 35).]—P. cruenta. Gory-dew, a species forming the rose-colored gelatinous patches on the sides of damp wells or at the base of walls. [B. 19, 121, 168 (a. 35).] See PALMELLA.—P. febrilis [Salisbury]. A filamentous polymorphic alga found on marshes. Its spores, transported by fogs, are said to cause intermittent fever. [L. 164 (a. 27).]—P. mirifica. P. prodigiosa. See BACILLUS prodigiosus, and cf. BLOOD-RAIN.

PALMELLIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-me}^2\text{l-in}$ . The coloring matter of Palmella cruenta. It closely resembles haemoglobin, consists of a red matter united to an albuminoid substance, contains iron, and is coagulated by alcohol or acetic acid and by heat. P. enters readily into putrefaction, giving off a strong ammoniacal odor. ["Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxviii, p. 355 (a. 50).]

PALMETTO, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-me}^2\text{-to}$ . The genus Sabal, the Sabal p., and other fan-palms. [B. 19, 185, 275 (a. 35).]

PALMIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., palmicus. Fr., palmique. 1. Pertaining to pulsation or to palpitation. [L. 50 (a. 14).] 2. Pertaining to or derived from a palm.—P. acid. Fr., acide palmique. Ger., Palminsäure. See RICINELAIDIC ACID.

PALMIER (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-me-a}$ . A palm-tree, especially the Cocos nucifera. In the pl. p's, the Palme. [B. 121, 173 (a. 35).]—Huile de p. See PALM OIL.—P. à Cire. See WAX-PALM.—P. d'om. See HYPHENE crinita.—P. du Japon. See METROXYLON Rumphii.—P. Juncus. PALMIGRADE, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-grad}$ . Lat., palmigradus (from palm, the palm of the hand, and grad, to walk). Fr., p. See PLANTIGRADE.

PALMINERVED, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-nu}^2\text{rvd}$ . Lat., palmínervis (from palm, a palm, and nervus, a nerve). Fr., palmínervie, palmínervé. Ger., handnervig. Palmately veined; having veins radiating, like the outspread fingers of the hand, from the base to the margin of the lamina. [B. 1, 19, 123 (a. 36).]

PALMIPED, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-pe}^2\text{d}$ . Lat., palmípede (from palm, the palm of the hand, and pes, the foot). Fr., palmipède. Ger., scheuimhautfüssig. Web-footed; having the anterior toes full-webbed. The Palmípedes of Cuvier are an order of birds characterized by feet and legs formed for swimming (i. e., placed far back on the body, with short and compressed tarsal, and webbed toes). [L. 28, 343 (a. 39).]

PALMIPHALANGIENS (Fr.), n. pl.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-me-fa}^2\text{-la}^2\text{n}^2\text{-zhe-a}^2\text{n}^2$ . See LUMBRICALES manus.

PALMI-RETICULATE, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-re}^2\text{-t-i}^2\text{k-u}^2\text{l-at}$ . Reticulate-veined with the main veins radiating from the base of the leaf to its margin. [a. 35.]

PALMISTE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mest}$ . The Chamaecrops humilis and other cabbage palms; also the terminal bud or cabbage of such palms. [B. 121, 173 (a. 35).]—P. bourré. See ARECA crinita.

PALMITAMIDE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-a}^2\text{m-i}^2\text{d-id}$ . Ger., Palmitamid. A solid body, melting at 93° to 94° C., and having the composition of ammonia in which 1 molecule of the radicle of palmitic acid replaces 1 atom of hydrogen,  $\text{NH}_2(\text{C}_{16}\text{H}_{31}\text{O})$ . [B. 4.]

PALMITATE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-at}$ . A salt of palmitic acid. [B.]

PALMITIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-i}^2\text{k}$ . 1. Pertaining to or obtained from palm oil. 2. Derived from or contained in palmitin. [B. 1, 56 (a. 43).]—P. acid. Fr., acide palmitique (ou éthique). Ger., Palmitinsäure. A monobasic acid,  $\text{C}_{16}\text{H}_{33}\text{O}_2$ , forming acicular or foliate crystals which melt at 62° C. It is colorless, inodorous, insipid, lighter than water, insoluble in that liquid, readily soluble in boiling alcohol and ether. It is found as glyceryl palmitate in almost all the animal and vegetable fats. [B. 4; B. 93 (a. 14).]—P. aldehyde. A crystalline solid,  $\text{C}_{16}\text{H}_{32}\text{O} = \text{C}_{15}\text{H}_{31}\text{CHO}$ , bearing the same relation to p. acid that ordinary aldehyde bears to acetic acid. [B. 5.]

PALMITIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-i}^2\text{n}$ . Fr., palmitine. Ger., P. A glyceryl alcohol in which one or more molecules of the radicle of palmitic acid replace one or more molecules of hydroxyl; especially tripalmitin. [B. 4.]

PALMITOLIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-o}^2\text{l-i}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., acide palmitolique. Ger., Palmitoläure. A monobasic crystalline acid,  $\text{C}_{16}\text{H}_{32}\text{O}_2 = \text{C}_{16}\text{H}_{32}\text{COOH}$  (or palmitic acid less 4 atoms of hydrogen). [B. 4; B. 92 (a. 14).]

PALMITOXYLIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mi}^2\text{-o}^2\text{x-i}^2\text{l-i}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., acide palmitoxylique. Ger., Palmitoxylsäure. A monobasic crystalline acid,  $\text{C}_{16}\text{H}_{32}\text{O}_4 = \text{C}_{16}\text{H}_{32}(\text{O}_2)\text{COOH}$  (or palmitic acid plus 2 atoms of oxygen). [B. 4; B. 93 (a. 14).]

PALMOSCOPY, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l-mo}^2\text{-s'ko-pi}^2$ . Lat., palmoscopia (from palmós, pulsation, and skopein, to examine). Fr., palmoscopie. Observation of the heart-beats by means of the stethoscope. [L. 50 (a. 14).]

PALMOSPASMUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l(pa}^2\text{l)-mo}^2\text{(mo}^2\text{)-spa}^2\text{-z}$  (spa's/mu's(mu's). From palmós, a quivering, and σπασμός, a convulsion. Ger., Schüttelkrampf, Zitterkrampf. A strong clonic spasm. [a. 34.]—Electric p. Ger., elektrischer P. Observed as an electrical reaction in progressive muscular atrophy. [a. 34.]

PALMUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{l(pa}^2\text{l)-mu}^2\text{s(mu}^2\text{s)}$ . Gr., παλμός (from πάλλειν, to sway). 1. Pulsation. 2. Palpitation. 3. Subul-tus. [L. 50, 84, 290.] 4. See PALM (2d def.).—P. cordis. Palpitation of the heart. [L. 290.]—P. plumbarius. Lead palsy.

PALO, n. In India, paho; a diuretic extract prepared from the stems of Cocculus cordifolius. [B. 18, 19, 172 (a. 35).]

—Accessory p. Lat., p. succenturiatum, p. aberrans. Fr., pancréas accessoire. Ger., Nebenp. A small mass of tissue similar to the p. situated close to it and apparently a detached portion of it. [L. 20.]—Lesser p., Little p. Lat., p. parvum. From πάς, all, and γενέσις, genesis. Of Darwin, the hypothesis for the provisional explanation of such facts as the inheritance by offspring of both original and newly acquired characters of parents, the appearance of characters belonging to remote ancestors (atavism), and the appearance in metemorphic or even adult life of characters before latent. The hypothesis depends on the assumption that every living cell of the organism at all periods of development throws off gemmules or molecules capable of reproduction. These circulate through the system and become aggregated at more or less definite points, and can give rise to a new individual, as by the buds of plants or by the combined action of distinct sexual elements. In each case the gemmules give rise to cells corresponding to those from which they originated in the parent body. Generally the gemmules develop in the following generation; but they may be permanently lost or may remain quiescent and develop after several generations. [J.]

PAPAVERINE, n. Pa<sup>2</sup>p-a<sup>2</sup>v-e<sup>2</sup>r-en. Fr., papavérine. Ger., Papaverin. An alkaloid, C<sub>20</sub>H<sub>21</sub>NO<sub>4</sub>, found in opium, occurring as colorless prisms. It acts as a narcotic, soporific, and cardiac sedative, and produces muscular relaxation and subsequent convulsions. [B, 2; B, 5, 270 (a, 38).] "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xvii, p. 261; xxvi, p. 277 (a, 50).]

["Med. News," Mar. 31, 1888, p. 364 (a, 50).]—Filtering p. Filter p. Fr., papier à filtrer. Ger., Filterpapier. A homogeneous unsized p. consisting mainly of cellulose. [A, 319 (a, 21).]—Fireproof p. A p. manufactured from 10 parts of vegetable fibre, 20 of asbestos, 2 of alum, and 1 part of borax ground together to a very fine powder. ["Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc." xxvii, p. 121 (a, 50); a, 48].—Gout p. See CHARTA piceata and CHARTA resinosa.—Iodogenous p. A preparation applied to the skin as a revulsive, made up of three superposed sheets of p. separated by gutta percha. The outside sheets consist of blotting p. impregnated respectively with solutions of potassium iodide and of potassium iodate and tartaric acid; the middle sheet is thin and unsized. ["N. Y. Med. Jour." Apr. 30, 1889, p. 448 (a, 50).]—Lens p. Very soft bibulous p. used for cleaning lenses. [J, 200].—Oiled p. A cheap substitute for oiled silk, prepared by saturating thin, strong p. with linseed-oil mixed with a little wax and oil of turpentine, or boiled with from 1 to 2 oz. each of litharge, lead acetate, zinc sulphate, and burnt umber. ["Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc." viii, p. 83; x, p. 87 (a, 50).]—Ozonometric p. Fr., papier ozonométrique (ou amylé-iodé). A p. used for determining the presence of ozone, especially a p. saturated with a mixture of potassium iodide and starch mucilage. Ozone decomposes the potassium iodide, setting free iodine, which turns the starch blue. [B, 8 (a, 38).]—Parchment-p. Fr., papier parchemin, fulminose. Ger., Pergamentpapier. Vegetable parchment; a tough p. resembling parchment, made by dipping unsized p. into a mixture of 1 part of cold water and 2 parts of sulphuric acid, washing with water, and treating with a dilute aqueous solution of ammonia. [B, 4.]—Rice p. Fr., papier de riz. The delicate white pith of Ardisia papyrifera cut into very thin sheets, supposed erroneously to be made from rice. [B, 121 (a, 35).]—Styptic p. P. saturated with a decoction of 1 lb. each of benzoin and alum in 4 gallons of water, dried, painted with a (neutral) solution of iron chloride, and dried. ["Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc." xix, p. 166 (a, 50).]—Test p. Lat., charta exploratoria. Fr., papier réactif. Ger., Probierpapier. Bibulous p. containing some coloring matter which serves as a test for special chemical reactions (e. g., litmus p. and turmeric p.).—Varnished p. See CHARTA vernicea.—Wax p. See CHARTA cerata.

Lat., charta arsenicalis, charte ad cigarettas arsenicales. Syn.: cigarettes arsenicales [Fr. Cod.]. A preparation consisting of filter-paper saturated with a solution of 1 part of sodium arsenate in 20 parts of water. Each paper contains 5 centigrammes (1 grain) of sodium arsenate. [B.]—P. au garon. Paper dipped in a fluid obtained by dissolving in 10 parts of alcohol 3 parts of extractum mezerei æthereum, 48 of white wax, 18 of spermaceti, 24 of olive-oil, and 6 of larch-turpentine, and heating till the alcohol is evaporated. [L, 87 (a, 50).]—P. dit chimique [Fr. Cod.] (Fr.). Lat., charta chimica [Fr. Cod.]. A preparation made by first rendering a sheet of muslin paper water-proof by sponging with a mixture of oil of turpentine and linseed-oil with powdered red oxide of iron, white lead, and garlic, which have been heated and mixed together, and then, after drying for a fortnight, covering with a mixture made by boiling together 100 parts of olive-oil and 50 of red oxide of lead, and adding 3 parts of yellow wax. [B.]—P. épiplastique [Fr. Cod.] (Fr.). See CHARTA CANTHARIDIS.—P. goudronné (Fr. Cod.) (Fr.). Syn.: emplâtre du pauvre homme. PAPILIONACEOUS, adj. Pa<sup>2</sup>-p-i-l-i-2-o-n-a-shu<sup>2</sup>s. Lat., papilionaceus (from papilio, a butterfly). Fr., papilionacé. Ger., schnettlerartig. Butterfly-like; of a flower, having a p. corolla; of plants, belonging to the Papilionaceae [Fr., papilionacées; Ger., Papilionaceen, Schnettlerartigblüthige], which are the bean family of Eichler, an order (of other authors, a suborder) of the Leguminosae. [B, 19, 42, 123, 170, 391 (a, 35).]

PAPILLA (Lat.), n. f. Pa<sup>2</sup>-p-i-l-l-a<sup>2</sup>. Dim. of papula, a pimple. Fr., papille. Ger., Papille. 1. Of old writers, the nipple. 2. Any minute soft or fleshy prominence or nipple-shaped projection. [J, 1.] 3. See Optic disc.—Calliciform papillae, Circumvallate papillae. Ger., unevalle oder wallförmige Papillen. Papillae of the tongue, situated near the base on the dorsal surface. In man they are from seven to twelve in number, and are arranged like a V with its point toward the throat. These papillae have the form of an inverted truncated cone, and are surrounded by a depression in the mucous membrane outside of which it forms a slight annular elevation. The papillae bear secondary papillae, invisible from the free surface, on account of the thick stratified epithelium covering the papillae. Imbedded in the epithelium at the sides of the papillae are numerous taste-buds. The body of the p. contains, besides the areolar tissue of the corium of the tongue, numerous blood-vessels, lymph-vessels, and nerves. [J, 30, 35.]—Clavate papillae. See Fungiform papillae.—Compound p. Fr., papille composée. A p. that bears several minute secondary papillae, each having the structure of a simple p. [J, 24, 33.]—Conical papillae of the tongue. Numerous small papillae, both gustatory and tactile, scattered over the whole anterior part of the dorsum of the tongue and arranged near its base in lines parallel to the circumvallate papillae, but in front running transversely across the tongue. They bear the filiform papillae and have a dense network of capillaries in their interior and numerous nerve-fibres, which terminate in end-bulbs. [C.]—Conoidal papillae. See CERATA (2d def.).—Filiform papillae (of the tongue). Ger., fadenförmige Papillen. 1. Minute, conical or cylindrical, simple or compound eminences on the dorsum of the tongue, very numerous except near its base. Taste-buds are not found in them, but their denser covering of horny epithelium suggests a mechanical use. [J, 28, 30, 35.] 2. See Conical papillae.—Fungiform papillae. Fr., papilles fungiformes. Ger., keulenförmige Papillen, schwammartige Wärrchen. Numerous small, rounded, deep-red eminences, with narrow bases, situated on the middle and anterior parts of the dorsum and especially along the sides of the tongue. They have numerous secondary papillae. Their general structure is like that of the circumvallate papillae, into which they gradually merge, but taste-buds are not so numerous. [C; J, 30, 35.]—Fungoid papillae. 1. See Circumvallate papillae. 2. See Fungiform papillae.—Gustatory papillae. Lat., papillae gustatoriae. Fr., papilles gustatives. Ger., Geschmackspapillen, Geschmackskörner, Geschmackswärrchen. Taste-papillae; either (1) all the papillae of the tongue or (2) the circumvallate and fungiform papillae (i. e., those supplied with taste-buds). [J, 21, 24, 35.]—Hair p. Lat., p. (seu blastema, seu pulpa) pili. Fr., papille (ou germe) du poil. Ger., Haarpapille, Haarkeim. Syn.: hair germ. A conical process of the corium projecting upward into a corresponding depression in the end of the hair bulb. It is richly supplied with vessels and nerves, and nourishes the hair. [J, 24, 30, 35; L, 13 (a, 17).]—Hemispherical papillae. Very numerous minute papillae situated between the fungiform and circumvallate papillae. [L, 87 (a, 50).]—Labial papillae. Ger., Lippenpapillen. 1. The papillae cutis of the lips. [J, 2.] In the Ophiurida, one of the outer row of mouth papillae. ["Arch. f. Anat. u. Phys." 1863 (a, 39).]—Lacrimal papillae. Ger., Thrinänenwarzen. The little elevations in the edge of the lid occupied by the lacrymal puncta. [F.]—Lenticular papillae. See Papilla foliata.—Lingual papillae. See Papilla of the tongue.—Nerve papillae. Lat., papillae nervae (seu nervosae, seu tactus). Fr., papilles nerveuses (ou à corpuscules duct.). Ger., Nervenzpapillen, Nervenzwärrchen. Papillae of the skin containing tactile corpuscles, nervous plexuses, or the terminal nerve bulbs of Krause, and sometimes blood-vessels. Capillaries are not usually present. These papillae are projections of the dense ectal layer of the corium. They are often branched at the top, forming the so-called compound papillae. See Fungiform papillae.—Papillae conicae (seu conoides). See Filiform papillae.—Papillae corii. See Papilla cutis.—Papillae cutis. Fr., papilles de la peau. Conical prolongations of the corium with rounded or blunt tops, sometimes cleft into two or more points, when they are called compound papillae. They sometimes extend into the epidermis. They consist of a framework of fine fibrillated connective and elastic tissue containing nerves (see Nerve papillae) or vascular and lymphatic plexuses. Other nerves traverse the papillae to enter the epidermis. [C; G.]—P. duodenalis, P. duodeni. The slight eminence in the duodenum indicating the opening of the ductus choledochus communis. [L, 332.]—Papillae foliatae (seu interloculares). Ger., Geschmackskörner. The oval laminated structures, consisting of several transverse ridges with intervening furrows, situated at the sides of the tongue near its base. Taste-buds are very numerous in these papillae in man, and especially in the rabbit, where they are called the lateral taste-organ. [J, 30, 24, 35.]—Papillae lenticulares. See Nerve papillae.—Papillae obtusae. See Fungiform papillae.—Papillae odontoides. Recurred, filiform papillae covered with horny epithelium, found on the dorsum of the tongue in many Cornuata. In some animals the covering is so dense that the papillae form horny teeth with which bones are rasped. [J, 28.]—Papillae of a mucous membrane. Small conical or cylindrical processes of the corium which project toward the general surface of the epithelium, and thus form an elevation on the surface, as in the papillae of the tongue. They contain blood-vessels and nerves, and are covered with epi-

PAPILOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{(pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{)-i}^2\text{l-om}^2\text{'a}^2$ . Gen., -lom'atos (-atis). From papilla, a teat. Fr., papillome. Ger., Papillom, Papillargeschwulst, Zottengeschwulst. 1. Any abnormal excrescence having a villous structure. 2. More properly, a tumor of the skin or mucous membrane, either sessile or pedunculated, consisting of hypertrophied or new-formed papillæ covered by an envelope of epithelial cells. The epithelium is sometimes spread over the mass of hypertrophied papillæ so as to form a smooth tumor, and sometimes it forms a separate envelope to each papilla so as to produce a villous or filiform appearance. [G.] Cf. P. corneum and P. mucosum.—Destructive p. Of Forster, an ulcerative form of p., probably carcinomatous, in which a papillary growth upon the surface extended into and destroyed the subjacent tissues. [G, 73.]—Inflammatory p. of the skin. A form of p. attended with inflammation and the formation of intrapapillary abscesses. The papillæ are grown together at their summits, while the base of the tumor is traversed by suppurating sinuses. It is said to occur upon the face, hands, and feet. [Roser, "Arch. d. Heilkunde," 1866 (G, 34).]—P. areo-elevatum. See Myrcosis fungoides.—P. corneum, P. durum. A hard or horny p. (e. g., a corn or wart) attended with a marked development of the corneous layer of the epithelial envelope. [G.] Cf. P. mucosum.—P. epitheliomatousum. A p. composed of epitheliomatous tissue. [a, 34.]—P. iridis. Of Coismann, a very rare form of papillary growth of the iris, a sort of benign melanoma. ["Klin. Monatschr. f. Aug.," vii (F).]—P. molle, P. mucosum. A p. in which the epithelium covers the enlarged or new-formed papillæ in a thin layer, with but little development of the stratum corneum. It may occur in long, single or branched villi or filaments, or as a smooth, rounded or flat, red or bluish excrescence, sometimes inflammatory. It is usually highly vascular, and affects most commonly the mucous membranes. [G.] Cf. CONDYLOMA acuminatum.—P. myxomatodes

piæ. A myxomatous p. of the pia. [A, 326 (a, 34).]—P. neuropathicum, P. neuroticum. Ger., Nervennævus. Syn.: nævus unius lateris. A papillomatous or verrucous growth, usually congenital, occurring on one side of the body along the course of a nerve. [G.] Cf. VERRUCA congenita.—P. piæ matris. A roundish, soft cerebral tumor from a papillomatous growth of the pia. [A, 326 (a, 21).]—Urethral p. The painful urethral caruncle, carnosity, vegetation, fungosity, or polypus of the older writers, the mucous hypertrophy of A. Guérin, the urethral hemoroid of Richet and Dupin and of Hutchinson; a single or multiple, soft, gelatinous or fibro-cellular tumor arising from the urethra. [Troquart, "Jour. de méd. de Bordeaux," Jan. 10, 1886; "ann. des mal. des org. gén. urin.," Mar., 1886, p. 171 (a, 34).]

PAPILLOMATOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{(pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{)-i}^2\text{l-om}^2\text{'a}^2\text{(a}^2\text{)-os}^2\text{'is}$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). The formation of papillomata, also the state of being affected with them.—P. universalis. Of Lang, a cutaneous disease following severe variola, and characterized by papillomatous or warty growths occurring over almost the entire body, accompanied with excessive pigmentation and eczema. ["Vierteljahrsschr. f. Derm. u. Syph.," 1883, x, 2, p. 377 (G).]

PAPILLORETINITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{(pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{)-i}^2\text{l-'lo}^2\text{(lo}^2\text{)-re}^2\text{-t-(rat)-i}^2\text{n-i}^2\text{(e)'ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idios (-itis). Inflammation, usually acute, of the optic disc and retina. [F.] Cf. NEURORETINITIS.

PAPILLOSE, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{i}^2\text{l-os}$ . Lat., papillosus. Fr., papilleux. Ger., papillös. 1. Furnished or covered with papillæ. 2. Resembling papillæ. [B, 1, 19, 34, 123, 291 (a, 35); a, 48.]

PAPITA, n. 1. In the East Indies, the Strychnos Ignatii. [S. J. Sulemani, "Lancet," Apr. 11, 1885, p. 659.] 2. In Chile, the Oxalis crenata. [B, 121 (a, 35).]

PAPPEA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{(pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{)-pe}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From Pappe, a German botanist. A genus of the Sapindaceæ. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—P. capensis. A South African species. Its fruit, the wild plum of the Dutch colonists, is eaten. The pulp furnishes a vinous beverage and a vinegar, and the edible seeds yield a somewhat purgative oil, used as food and in scald-head and alopecia. [B, 19, 42, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]

PAPPEL (Ger.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{-pe}^2\text{l}$ . See POPULUS.—Feldp'. See MALVA silvestris.—Gänsep', Grasp'. See MALVA rotundifolia.—Grosse P. The Althæa rosea; in the pl., grosse P'n, the flowers of Althæa rosea. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P'blumen. The flowers of Althæa rosea. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P'knöpfe, P'knospen. See POPULAR buds.—Sammtp'. See ABUTILON.

PAPPIFEROUS, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{-i}^2\text{f'er-u}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., pappiferus (from pappus, a pappus, and ferre, to bear). Fr., pappifere. See PAPPOSE.

PAPPIFORM, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{-i}^2\text{-fo}^2\text{rm}$ . Lat., pappiformis (from pappus, a pappus, and forma, form). Fr., pappiforme. Ger., fruchtkronenartig. Resembling a pappus. [B, 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).]

PAPPOOSE-ROOT, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{-us'ru}^2\text{'t}$ . The Caulophyllum thalictroides or its root. [B, 5, 19, 275 (a, 35).]

PAPPOSE, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{-os}$ . Lat., papposus. Fr., aigrette, pappeux. Ger., fruchtkronig. Bearing a pappus or hairs so disposed as to resemble a pappus. [B, 1, 123 (a, 35).]

PAPPUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{(pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{)-pu}^2\text{'s(pu}^2\text{'s)}$ . Gr., πάππος. Fr., aigrette (2d and 3d def's). Ger., P. Federkelch (2d and 3d def's), Fruchtkrone (2d and 3d def's), Fruchtwölbe (2d and 3d def's), Haarkrone (2d and 3d def's). 1. The first down on the chin. [A, 311 (a, 48).] 2. The partially obliterated limb of the calyx of the Compositæ, especially when crowning the fruit in the form of a tuft or circle of hairs or scales. 3. Any hairy tuft on a fruit. [B, 1, 19, 121, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PAPULAR, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{-u}^2\text{-la}^2\text{r}$ . Lat., papularis, papulatus (from papula, a papule). Fr., papuleux, papulé. Ger., blättrig, papulös. 1. Pertaining to, resembling, or characterized by papules. 2. Furnished with papules (2d def.). [B, 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).]

PAPULE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{p}^1\text{-u}^2\text{l}$ . Lat., papula. Fr., p., bouton (1st def.). Ger., Papel, Blatter, Hautbläschen, Knötchen. 1. A pimple; a small circumscribed elevation of the skin, sometimes military sometimes lenticular in size, not due to a collection of fluid in the epidermis. [G.] Cf. PUSTULE and VESELICULE. It constitutes one of the primary lesions of skin diseases. 2. In botany, a papilla or pimple, especially a semi-pellicled pustule containing fluid at the surface of a plant-organ. [B, 19, 123 (a, 35).]—Moist p. Lat., papulamadidans. See CONDYLOMA latum.—Mucous p. See Mucous PATCH and CONDYLOMA latum.—P. of syphilis. The typical manifestations of syphilis upon the skin, consisting of a circumscribed deposit of granulation cells in the superficial vascular layer of the cutis. [G.]—P. sèche (Fr.). The indurated p. of primary syphilis. [G.]—P. sèche à induration annulaire (Fr.). The indurated p. of primary syphilis in which the induration is more distinct at the periphery. [G, 84.]—P. sèche à induration centrale (Fr.). The indurated p. of primary syphilis in which the induration extends uniformly from the centre of the p. to its periphery. [G, 84.]—P. suintante (Fr.). See Mucous PATCH.—P's végétales (Fr.). See CONDYLOMA latum.

See PARACHROMA (2d def.). In the pl., Parachromatoses, Auspitz's term for a family of pigmentary diseases of the skin comprising discolorations due to deposit of coloring matter, chiefly in the corium. They include argyria, jaundice, the discolorations incident to Addison's disease and to the malarial cachexia, and those produced by tattooing. [G. 4.]

PARACINEMA (Lat.), PARACINESIS (Lat.), n's n. and f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-si}^2\text{n}(\text{ken})\text{-e}(\text{a})/\text{ma}^2\text{-si}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -em'atos (-atis), -es'eos (-is). Gr., παράκινημα, παράκινσις (from παράκινειν, to move aside). Fr., paracinese. See DISLOCATION.

PARACITRIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-si}^2\text{t}^2/\text{ri}^2\text{k}$ . See ACOTITIC ACID.

PARACMASIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-k}(\text{a}^3\text{k})/\text{ma}^2\text{s}(\text{ma}^2\text{s})/\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -mas'eos (-ac'masis). From παράκμασις, to be past the prime. Fr., paracmé. Decline, decadence. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

PARACMASTIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-k}\text{-ma}^2\text{st}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Gr., παράκμαστικός. Lat., paracmasticus. Fr., paracmastique. Ger., paracmastisch. Past its prime; of a disease, past the crisis. [A. 311 (a, 48).]

PARAME (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-k}(\text{a}^3\text{k})/\text{me}(\text{ma})$ . Gen., -ac'mes. Gr., παράμη. See PARACMASIS.

PARANEMION (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-k}(\text{a}^3\text{k})\text{-nem}(\text{nam})/\text{i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{n}$ . Gr., παράνემιον. See FIBULA.

PARACONE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-kon}$ . From παρά, beside, and κῶνος, a cone. Of H. F. Osborn, the antero-external cusp of an upper molar. ["Nature," Mar. 20, 1890, p. 467 (a, 48).]

PARACONIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-ko}^2\text{n}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . A crystalline acid,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_8\text{O}_4 = \text{C}_6\text{H}_6\text{O}_4 \cdot \text{COOH}$ , isomeric with citraconic acid. [B. 3 (a, 38); B. 4; B. 93 (a, 14).]

PARACONICINE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-ko}^2\text{n}/\text{i}^2\text{s}\text{-en}$ . A base isomeric with coniline and having similar properties. [B. 46, 93 (a, 14, 50).]

PARACONID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-kon}/\text{i}^2\text{d}$ . From παρά, beside, and κῶνος, a cone. Of H. F. Osborn, the antero-internal cusp of a lower molar. ["Nature," Mar. 20, 1890, p. 467 (a, 48).]

PARACONINE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-kon}/\text{en}$ . An isomeric variety of coniline, thought formerly to be identical with it. [B. 5 (a, 38).]

PARACOPE (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-k}(\text{a}^3\text{k})/\text{o}^2\text{p}\text{-e}(\text{a})$ . Gen., -ac'o'pes. Gr., παράκοπη (from παράκοπτειν, to drive mad). Fr., paracope. See FEBRILE DELIRIUM.

PARACOPTICUS (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-ko}^2\text{pt}/\text{i}^2\text{k}\text{-u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})$ . Gr., παράκοπτικός. See INSANE.

PARACOROLLA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-ko}^2\text{r}\text{-o}^2/\text{la}^2$ . From παρά, beside, and corolla (q. v.). Fr., paracorolle. Ger., Nebenblume, Nebenkrone. A reduplication or modification of a corolla. [B. 1, 123 (a, 35).]

PARACOTO-BARK, n's.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-ko}^2\text{to}\text{-ba}^2\text{rk}$ . An undetermined aromatic, astringent bark resembling coto-bark, but much less active. A very mobile, colorless, neutral oil of a peculiar odor is obtained from it. [B. 5, 121 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxviii (a, 50).]

PARACOTOIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-ko}^2\text{to}\text{-i}^2\text{n}$ . A crystallizable substance,  $\text{C}_9\text{H}_{15}\text{O}_2$  (or  $\text{C}_{10}\text{H}_{17}\text{O}_2$ ), found in spurious coto-barks. It resembles cotoin, but has not the same biting taste and fails to give with iron chloride the red-brown, afterward dark-brown, coloration characteristic of cotoin. It is astringent and checks perspiration. [A. 319 (a, 50); B. 270 (a, 38); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxv, p. 232 (a, 50); Lascar, "N. O. Med. and Surg. Jour.," Apr., 1882.]

PARACOMARIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-ku}\text{-ma}^2\text{r}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., acide paracomarique. Ger., Paracomarsäure, Parahydroxyzimmtsäure. An acid,  $\text{C}_9\text{H}_8\text{O}_3 = \text{C}_6\text{H}_4(\text{OH})\text{C}_2\text{H}_3\text{CO}_2\text{H}$ , obtained by the action of sulphuric acid on aloes. [B. 3, 270 (a, 38).]

PARACOUSIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-k}(\text{a}^3\text{k})\text{-u}^2\text{si}^2\text{-a}^2$ . See PARACUSIS.

PARACUSIA (Lat.), PARACUSIS (Lat.), n's f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-k}(\text{a}^3\text{k})\text{-u}^2(\text{u})/\text{si}^2\text{-a}^2\text{-si}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -us'iae, -us'eos (-is). From παράκουσις, to hear beside. Any morbid condition that affects the hearing. [a. 48.]—P. acris. Hearing that is painfully acute and intolerant of the lowest sounds. It is a symptom of various forms of ear disease and of some fevers. [F.] Cf. HYPERACUSIS.—P. duplicata. An anomaly of hearing in which either all sounds or only certain tones and sounds are heard double. [F.] Cf. DIPLACUSIS.—P. imaginaria. An old term for tininitus aurium.—P. imperfecta. An old term for diplacusis (q. v.). [F.]—P. localis. P. loci. Inability to distinguish the direction from which a sound comes. [F. 3.]—P. obtusa. See BARYCOCLIA.—P. oxycoelia. See P. acris.—P. perversa. See P. willisiana.—P. surditas. See COPHOSIS.—P. willisiana, P. Willisii. Amelioration of the hearing of very deaf persons during the continuance of loud noises, speech being then understood much more easily and at a much greater distance than by persons of normal hearing. [F. 32.]

PARACYTIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-si}^2\text{t}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . From παρά, beside, and κύστις, a cell. Being between or among cells. [J.]

PARÁD, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{d}$ . A place in the county of Heves, Hungary, where there are gaseous and sulphurous springs and a bathing establishment. [L. 30, 49 (a, 14).]

PARADACTYLE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-da}^2\text{k}/\text{i}^2\text{tl}$ . Lat., paradactylum (from παρά, beside, and δάκτυλος, the finger). Fr., paradactyle. Ger., Zehenseite. Of Illiger, the lateral portion of the toes of birds, in distinction from the top and sole. [L. 343 (a, 43).]

PARADIDYMIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-di}^2\text{d}/\text{i}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})/\text{mi}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -dym'idos (-idis). From παρά, beside, and διδυμος, the testicle. Fr., paradidyme, corps innommé (de Giraldès). Of Waldeyer, a body formed of certain convoluted tubules, scattered remains of the mesonephros in the male, lying near the head of the epididymis. It is the analogue of the epoophoron of the female. PARAFIBRIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-fi}^2/\text{bri}^2\text{n}$ . Of Polli, a modification of fibrin supposed to result from molecular rarefaction, analogous to bradyfibrin. [B. 46, 93 (a, 14, 50).]

PARAFFIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^2\text{f}/\text{i}^2\text{n}$ . Lat., paraffinum, paraffina (from parum, little, and affinis, having affinity). Fr., paraffine. Ger., P. 1. A tasteless, odorless, waxy substance, soluble in carbon disulphide, chloroform, and benzene, discovered by Buchner in 1830 (then called Bergfett), and again by Reichenbach in 1830, first obtained by the distillation of beech-wood tar, and now manufactured from bituminous coal. It consists of a number of hydrocarbons of the  $\text{C}_n\text{H}_{2n+2}$  series. 2. Of Watts and others, one of the series of saturated hydrocarbons or ethanes,  $\text{C}_n\text{H}_{2n+2}$ . The series includes the colorless gases methane,  $\text{CH}_4$ ; ethane,  $\text{C}_2\text{H}_6$ ; propane,  $\text{C}_3\text{H}_8$ ; and butane,  $\text{C}_4\text{H}_{10}$ ; and the liquids pentane,  $\text{C}_5\text{H}_{12}$ ; hexane,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_{14}$ ; heptane,  $\text{C}_7\text{H}_{16}$ ; octane,  $\text{C}_8\text{H}_{18}$ ; nonane,  $\text{C}_9\text{H}_{20}$ ; and decane,  $\text{C}_{10}\text{H}_{22}$ ; the viscosity and boiling point of which increase with the number of carbon atoms. Other members of this series contained in petroleum are dodecane,  $\text{C}_{12}\text{H}_{26}$ ; tridecane,  $\text{C}_{13}\text{H}_{28}$ ; tetradecane or diheptyl,  $\text{C}_{14}\text{H}_{30}$ ; pentadecane,  $\text{C}_{15}\text{H}_{32}$ ; hexadecane or cetane,  $\text{C}_{16}\text{H}_{34}$ ; and still more complex hydrocarbons which have not been isolated. The most complex members of the series are dotriacontane or dicetyl,  $\text{C}_{32}\text{H}_{66}$ , and pentatriacontane,  $\text{C}_{35}\text{H}_{72}$ . The p's include many more isomeric forms. These may in general be grouped as follows: (1) normal p's,  $\text{CH}_3\text{—CH}_2\text{—}$

CH<sub>2</sub>—etc.—CH<sub>3</sub>, or p's in which no carbon atom is united with more than two other carbon atoms; (2) isop's, CH<sub>3</sub> { CH—CH<sub>2</sub>—etc.—CH<sub>3</sub>, or p's which contain 1 carbon atom that is united with 3 other carbon atoms; (3) mesop's, which contain two or more carbon atoms each of which is connected with three other carbon atoms, a class of which the following members are known: tetramethylethane, (CH<sub>3</sub>)<sub>2</sub>:CH—CH:CH: (CH<sub>3</sub>)<sub>2</sub>, tetramethylbutane, (CH<sub>3</sub>)<sub>2</sub>:CH—CH<sub>2</sub>—CH<sub>2</sub>—CH: (CH<sub>3</sub>)<sub>2</sub>, pentamethylbutane, (CH<sub>3</sub>)<sub>2</sub>:CH—CH(CH<sub>3</sub>)—CH<sub>2</sub>—CH: (CH<sub>3</sub>)<sub>2</sub>, and tetramethylhexane, (CH<sub>3</sub>)<sub>2</sub>:CH—CH<sub>2</sub>—CH<sub>2</sub>—CH<sub>2</sub>—CH<sub>2</sub>—CH: (CH<sub>3</sub>)<sub>2</sub>; (4) neop's, which contain one atom of carbon connected with four other carbon atoms. PARALALIA (Lat.), n. f. Pa<sup>2</sup>r(pa<sup>2</sup>r)-a<sup>2</sup>-la(la<sup>2</sup>)li<sup>2</sup>-a<sup>2</sup>. From παρά, beside, and λαλέω, a talking. Fr., paralalie. Ger., Paralalie. A partial impairment of the power of speech. [D, 18.]—P. lheralis. Impairment of the power of uttering the sounds of individual letters. [B.]

PARALLAX, n. Pa<sup>2</sup>r/a<sup>1</sup>-a<sup>2</sup>x. Gr., παράλαξις (from παρά-λάσσειν, to make things alternate). Lat., parallaxis. Fr., parallaxe. 1. Apparent displacement of an object due to change of the observer's position. [a, 48.] 2. The apparent shifting of the position of an object when a screen is passed alternately from one eye to the other. It is said to be homonymous when the object appears to move in the opposite direction to the screen, i. e., moves to the side of the eye which is uncovered; heteronymous or crossed when the object moves in the same direction as the screen. The former indicates undue convergence, the latter undue divergence, of the usual axes. [B.]—Binocular p. The angle of convergence of the visual axes. [F.]—Crossed p. See under P. (2d def.).—Entoptic p. Of Listing, the movement of the shadows in the entoptic visual field. [F.]—Entoptic p. of indirect vision. The difference between the angle formed by two lines drawn from two object-points to the nodal point of the eye and that formed by two lines drawn from the same object-points to the centre of the eye. [F.]—Heteronymous p., Homonymous p. See under P. (2d def.).

PARALYSIS (Lat.), n. f. Pa<sup>2</sup>r(pa<sup>3</sup>r)-a<sup>2</sup>(a<sup>3</sup>l)/i<sup>2</sup>s(u<sup>2</sup>s)-i<sup>2</sup>s. Gen., -ys/eos (-al/ysis). Gr., παράλυσις (from παρά-λύειν, to loose from the side). Fr., paralytie. Ger., Lähmung, Paralyse. It., paralisi. Sp., parálisis. The suspension or abolition of a functional power, especially in the nervous system, in which case there is a temporary or permanent loss of the power of motion or of sensation, or of both, in the parts supplied by the affected nerves. [D.]—Acute anterior spinal p. of adults. See under Spinal p. in the adult.—Acute ascending (spinal) p. A progressive motor p.; a disease affecting men more frequently than women, and following severe exposure to cold or some infectious or febrile disease. Paresis of the legs appears first, and is followed by complete p. with muscular relaxation. Similar conditions supervene in the muscles of the pelvis, loins, abdomen, thorax, upper extremities, diaphragm, and neck. Speech is affected, and there are dyspnoea, dysphagia, and sensory disturbances. Cutaneous reflex action and muscular irritability are lost and remain lost until death or until all paralytic symptoms have disappeared. There is neither muscular atrophy nor change in electrical irritability. The cerebral functions are not usually involved. There is but little if any elevation of temperature. The disease may terminate fatally in a few days, in consequence of respiratory or cardiac p., or may continue for several months. Changes in the central or peripheral nervous systems are slight, if indeed any have been discovered. An enlargement of the spleen, the mesenteric glands, and the closed follicles of the intestines suggests a toxæmic origin of the disease, which was first described by Landry in 1859. [Gowers (a, 34).]—Acute atrophic spinal p. See Acute anterior POLIOMYELITIS.—Acute progressive p. Of Harley and Clarke, acute ascending p. Sometimes the cranial nerves are also affected. ["Am. Journ. of the Med. Sci.," 1888 (a, 34).]—Alternate p. See Alternate HEMIPLEGIA.—Aniyotrophic p. Of Gubler, a p., such as may follow an acute disease, attended with atrophy of certain muscles. The motor tracts as well as the motor cells are involved. [D, 18; a, 34.]—Anæmic p. Due to anæmia, especially puerperal p. dependent on loss of blood or on impoverishment or depreciation of that fluid. [A, 15.]—Anapeiratic p. See under ANAPEIRATIC.—Angeioneurotic p. of the auditory nerve. An extremely rare disturbance of hearing, due to an affection of the sympathetic nerve causing an angeioneurosis of the internal ear and characterized by sudden pallor of the face immediately followed by nausea, vertigo, tinnitus, and dullness of hearing, all of short duration. [F, 32.]—Anterior subacute spinal p. Chronic atrophic spinal p. [D.]—Antero-spinal p. See Anterior POLIOMYELITIS.—Aqua paralyseos. A preparation made by distilling half of a mixture of 1 part of cowslip flowers with 3 parts of water. [B, 119 (a, 38).]—Arsenical p. Ger., Arseniklähmung. P. affecting the lower or (rarely) the upper, or both upper and lower, extremities. It is the result of a peripheral neuritis caused by arsenical poisoning. [Ross (a, 34).]—Associated oculo-muscular p. A p. affecting those muscles of the two eyes which turn them both in one definite direction; e. g., a p. of the right externus and left internus, which turn both eyes to the right. It produces one variety of conjugate deviation of the eyes, and is due to lesions of the cerebral cortex, or at least of centres higher up than the nuclei of the ocular nerves. [B.]—Association p. See Labio-glossolaryngeal p.—Atrophic infantile p. See Acute anterior POLIOMYELITIS.—Atrophic muscular p. See Amyotrophic p.—Atrophic p. A chronic or congenital p. in which there is atrophy of that part of the cerebral cortex that is the centre for the atrophied regions of the body. P. in the distribution of the musculo-spiral nerve caused by compression with a crutch. [L, 57 (a, 34).]—Crueilhier's p. Progressive muscular atrophy. [a, 34.]—Dental p. Ger., Dentalparalyse. Poliomyelitis occurring in teething children. The p. was attributed by early observers to dental irritation. [a, 34.]—Diphtheritic p. P. following diphtheria, especially in youths and adults. It usually begins in the soft palate, and may extend to the throat muscles, resulting in dyspnoea, dysphonia, or aphonia. The ocular muscles are affected next in frequency, then the muscles of the lower and of the upper limbs, and those of the trunk. There may be hemiplegia, paraplegia, or complete p. [Ross (a, 34).]—Dimidiata p. Fr., paralytie dimidiée. See Crossed HEMIPLEGIA.—Divers' p. Paresis or p. affecting divers on removal of the diving dress after four or five hours' submersion. The pathology is obscure. [Basset-Smith, "Lancet," Feb., 1892 (a, 34).]—Disappearing p. Paresis in which by effort control of the affected muscles is regained. [Mollière (L, 88 (a, 34).)]—Emotional p. Of Meryon, a form of p. reflex paraplegia, due to emotional excitement. [B; D.] See Hysterical p.—Erb's p. A p. caused by damage to the fifth and sixth cervical nerves just in front of the edge of the trapezius. It involves the deltoid, the biceps, the brachialis anticus, the supinator longus, and sometimes the supraspinatus and infraspinatus. There are myatropy and anesthesia of the outer side of the arm. It may be idiopathic or be caused by trauma or the growth of a neoplasm. [Herter (a. 34).]—Essential infantile p., Essential p. of children. Ger., essentielle Lähmung. Of Rilliet and Barthez, see Acute anterior POLIOMYELITIS.—Exhaustion p. A functional p. produced by excessive and prolonged voluntary movement involving exhaustion of the nerve-centres. [“Lancet,” 1889, i, p. 573 (a. 34).]—Experimental p. P. produced by experimental section of the cerebral cortex, spinal cord, or nerves, or by the injection of drugs. [a. 34].]—Extensor p. P. affecting extensor muscles only. [a. 34].]—Facial p. A unilateral or bilateral p. of the facial nerve, usually due to a slight neuritis following exposure to cold. It also may be caused by disease or trauma in the region of the ear or by fracture of the base of the skull, or may occur as a rare complication in acute ascending p., tabes dorsalis, or tetanus. [Ross (a. 34).]—Fatty atrophic p. of infancy. See Acute anterior POLIOMYELITIS.—Functional p. 1. P. of the functional capacity of an organ or part. 2. P. due to disease having its seat elsewhere than in the paralyzed part.—Galloping p. General p. in which there are violent delirium, dyslogia, insomnia, myoclonus, tachycardia, and pyrexia, pursuing a rapid course. [I, 87 (a. 34).]—Ganglionic p. P. caused by a morbid condition of a nerve ganglion, with or without spinal p. [M. Hall, “Lancet,” 1855, ii, p. 295 (a. 34).]—General p. (of the insane). Ger., allgemeine Lähmung. A gradual progressive disease of the brain and nervous system in which there are ataxy and paresis usually following a definite order and course of development, which are particularly marked in speech and locomotion. There are sensory disorders and mental symptoms, at first of exaltation of feeling or expansive delirium, but invariably tending to complete dementia. There are organic changes in the encephalon and its membranes, and sometimes in the spinal cord and its membranes and in some sympathetic ganglia. [Mickle (a. 34).]—General saturnine pseudo-p. See Lead PALSY.—General spinal p. [Duchenne]. Jour.,” 1885, ii, p. 937 (a. 34).]—Gubler’s p. See Crossed HEMIPLEGIA.—Hemifacial p. See Facial HEMIPLEGIA.—Hysterical p. A functional p. occurring in hysteria and simulating any type or form of organic p. It may be of sudden or gradual onset. Sensation is lessened or lost; the reflexes may be increased; there is but slight myotrophy; there may be contractures; the electrical reactions are usually normal, though Charcot has reported some variations in rare cases. [a. 34].]—Idiopathic p. See TETANY.—Indian-bow p. Of German writers, p. of the thyro-arytenoid muscles. [Cohen (a. 63).]—Infantile atrophic spinal or fatty atrophic p. [Duchenne]. See Acute anterior POLIOMYELITIS.—Inflammatory p. Any p. due to inflammation. [D. 35].]—Inhibitory p. Of Dr. Drummond, hysterical p.—Intermittent p. See Intermittent p.—Intermittent spinal p., Intermittent p. P. due to malarial poison or that of rheumatism or gout. It may occur as one of the phenomena of a fit of ague or as an independent trouble of a quotidian or tertian type. [D. 47].]—Intracranial p. P. caused by some intracranial lesion. [a. 34].]—Ischemic p. Motor p. due to interruption of the arterial blood supply in certain parts of the nervous system. [D. 3].]—Juvenile atrophic p. Fr., paralysie atrophique juvénile. See Acute anterior POLIOMYELITIS.—Kluempke’s p. P. of the interossei, thenar, and hypotenar muscles, with atrophy, anesthesia of various regions of the forearm and fingers, and melosis, due to a lesion affecting the spinal cord in the region of the first and second dorsal nerve-roots. [a. 31].]—Labial p. Ger., Lippenlähmung. P. affecting the lips. [a. 34].]—Labio-glossio-laryngeal p., Labio-glossio-pharyngeal p. A progressive bilateral p. of the lips, tongue, palate, pharynx, and larynx, with myotrophy, imperfect articulation of the lingual consonants, and dysphagia. It is caused by a degenerative disease of the nuclei of the ganglion cells on the floor of the fourth ventricle, usually beginning at the nucleus of the hypoglossal nerve; the degeneration may slowly invade the neighboring nuclei and destroy life by interference with that of the vagus. [Ross (a. 34).]—Landry’s p. See Acute ascending p.—Laryngeal p. Unilateral or bilateral p. of the laryngeal muscles, generally of peripheral origin, causing disturbances of voice and speech, or of respiration, or of both. It may be caused by traumatism, by compression of the vagus or the recurrent laryngeal nerve, by an aneurysm or a lymphatic or cancerous tumor of the neck, by exposure to cold, or by prolonged use of these muscles. As the result of a central lesion, it may occur in tabes dorsalis, insular sclerosis, and progressive bulbar p. [Ross (a. 34).]—Lead p. Lat., p. saturnina. Ger., Blutlähmung. See Lead PALSY.—Lenticular p. Of H. C. Wood, pseudo-bulbar p. from hemorrhage into the lenticular nucleus of each hemisphere. [a. 34].]—Lingual p. See GLOSSOPLÉGIA.—Little’s p. See Infantile spastic PARAPLEGIA.—Local p. A p. affecting a single muscle or group of muscles. [a. 34].]—Masked p. See Pseudo-hypertrophic muscular p.—Masticatory p. Unilateral or bilateral p. of the motor branch of the trigeminus, causing difficulty of mastication. It is caused by an intracranial lesion compressing the motor branch of the nerve, by a lesion of the pons implicating its roots, or by a cortical lesion. [Ross (a. 34).]—Metadiphtheritic p. See Diphtheritic p.—Mimetic facial p. See Facial p.—Mimetic p. A simulated p. [“Brit. Med. Jour.,” 1888, i, p. 1371 (a. 34).]—Mixed laryngeal p. P. of the muscles that dilate the glottis and those that tighten and approximate the vocal cords. It is caused by disease of the recurrent laryngeal nerves. [Ross (a. 34).]—Motor p. A loss of voluntary muscular power. [a. 34].]—Musculo-spiral p. P. of the extensor and supinator muscles of the forearm and wrist, in consequence of injury or disease of the musculo-spiral nerve. It is usually unilateral, though in lead palsy there is bilateral involvement of most of the fibres of this nerve. [a. 34].]—Myogenic p. Of Bouchut, anterior poliomyelitis. [a. 33].]—Myopathic laryngeal p. Laryngeal p. of myopathic origin. [a. 34].]—Myopathic p. Organic p. caused by a primary disease of the muscles. [Ross (a. 34).]—Myosclerotic p. Fr., paralysie myosclérotique (ou myosclérotique). See Pseudo-hypertrophic muscular p.—Neural p. An organic p. in which the peripheral nerves are affected; peripheral neuritis. [Ross (a. 34).]—Neuropathic p. Of Ross, an organic p. caused by primary disease of the nervous system. [a. 34].]—Nocturnal p. See NIGHT PALSY.—Nuclear p. Ger., Nukleärlähmung. A p. caused by a lesion of the nucleus of one of the cranial nerves. [a. 34].]—Obstetrical p. 1. Facial p. caused by the pressure of the forceps upon the portio dura in extracting the infant. 2. Erb’s p. caused by pressure upon the infant’s neck by the finger or hook during delivery. 3. Cerebral p. caused by cortical injury from pressure by the obstetrical forceps. [a. 34].]—Organic infantile p. See Acute anterior POLIOMYELITIS.—Organic p. Of Ross, a p. caused by a primary disease of the muscles or nerves. [a. 34].]—Painters’ p. See Lead PALSY.—P. agitans. Fr., paralysie agitante. Ger., Schüttellähmung. A chronic nutritional disease of the central nervous system, characterized by muscular weakness, tremors, rigidity, a peculiar attitude (the head bent, the back bowed, the arms held away from the body and flexed), and festination of gait. There are no characteristic lesions. [Osler (a. 34).]—P. a frigore. P. due to the action of cold. [E.]—P. beriberi. See BERIBERI.—P. by suggestion. Fr., paralysie suggérée. A p. of varying form which may sometimes be produced in a sensitive person, either in the waking or in the hypnotic state, by the will and affirmation of a competent person. [Bernheim, “Gaz. hebdomadaire de méd. et de chir.,” Apr. 11, 1884, p. 247 (D).]—P. cruciata (alternans transversa). See HEMIPLEGIA.—P. festinans. P. agitans, so called because characterized by festination. (seu lassitudo, seu exhaustio) uteri*. Fr., paralysie (ou épuisement) de la matrice. According to Wigand, the third degree of diminished uterine action during parturition, in which there is no trace of contraction. [A. 20.] See also UTERINE INERTIA and ATONY of the uterus.—P. particularis. See Partial p.—P. cursoria. See P. agitans.—P. scorbutica. See Pellagra.—P. spastica infantilis. See HEMIPLEGIA spastica infantilis.—P. venenata. See Toxic p.—P. with apparent muscular hypertrophy [Foster]. Pseudo-hypertrophic spinal p. [“Lancet,” May 8, 1869 (D).]—Partial p. A species of p. affecting less than half the body or some one particular part or organ. [a. 34].]—Periodical p. A p. involving, as a rule, the arms and legs, sometimes the neck and pharynx, coming on when the patient is in good health and without any apparent exciting cause and being usually complete in the first twenty-four hours. The attacks are non-febrile; the deep reflexes are reduced or abolished; there is a reduction or abolition of the faradaic excitability both of muscles and of nerves. Improvement begins in the course of a few hours or days, and the patient is well until the next attack, which may recur daily or at intervals of days or weeks. [Osler (a. 34).]—Peripheral facial p. Facial p. due to injury or disease of the peripheral portion of the facial nerve. It is practically characterized by p. of the orbicularis palpebrarum and is thus distinguished from central facial p. [D. 35.] Cf. Peripheral facial HEMIPLEGIA.—Peripheral p. See Neural p.—Phonetic p., Phonic p. A laryngeal p. involving the muscles which tighten and approximate the vocal cords, causing disorders of voice. [Ross (a. 34).]—Phosphoric p. A local or general p. occurring in and caused by phosphorus poisoning. [“Gaz. méd. de Paris,” 1864, xix, pp. 6, 26, 35, 54, 321 (a. 34).]—Pleuritic p. A facial p., monoplegia, or hemiplegia, accompanied by vaso-motor disturbances occurring in empyema, especially after evacuating the pleural cavity. It is due to toxins formed by the disease process, rarely to embolism. [Ross (a. 34).]—Pneumonic p. Of Macario, a local or general p. occurring in or after pneumonia. Ross thinks it is often due to cerebral ischemia, but in some cases it is probably caused by toxins formed by the morbid process. [a. 34].]—Post-febrile p. A form of functional p. following a fever. [D.]—Post-haemorrhagic p. 1. P. following spinal or cerebral hemorrhage. 2. Anaemic p. [a. 34].]—Pressure p. P. of a group of muscles supplied by a nerve the functions of which are interfered with by continued pressure, as during sleep or a protracted confined position. [a. 34].]—Progressive atrophic p. [Schneevogt]. See Progressive muscular atrophy.—Progressive bulbar p. [Wachsmuth]. See Labio-glossio-laryngeal p.—Progressive p. 1. P. of cerebral or spinal origin in which there is a gradual extension of the morbid process, as in acute ascending p., etc. 2. See General p. of the insane.—Pseudo-bulbar p. A rare form of p. in which there are symmetrical lesions in the motor paths of both hemispheres producing bilateral p. of the lips, tongue, and pharynx. [L. Liechtheim, “Brain,” Jan., 1885, p. 433 (a. 34).]—Pseudo-hypertrophic muscular p. Fr., paralysie myosclérotique. A chronic disease characterized by feebleness of the muscles of the lower limbs and of the erector muscles of the spine, gradually extending to those of the upper extremities. There is increase in the volume of some muscles and atrophy of others. It usually develops in infancy, though rare cases have been reported in adults. There is an increase of the connective tissue of the muscles, with atrophy of the fibres and a formation of fat-cells as in a lipoma. No constant changes in the nervous system have been observed. [Ross (a. 34).]—Puerperal p. A generic term for paralyses occurring during pregnancy or after labor and dependent on causes connected with gestation or parturition. See also Anaemic p.—Radial p. See Musculo-spiral p.—Regressive p. Of Barlow, infantile p. [“Brit. Med. Jour.,” May 30, 1882.]—Residual p. A p. remaining after an apoplectic stroke. [a. 34].]—Respiratory laryngeal p. P. of the muscles which widen the aperture of the glottis, causing dyspnoea. [Ross (a. 34).]—Rhachitic pseudo-p. Inability to walk on account of muscular weakness, myalgia, flaccidity of the ligaments, and softening of the bones; occurring in rhachitic children. There is no real p. [H. W. Berg, "N. Y. Med. Jour.," Jan. 4, 1890, p. 26 (a. 34).]—Rheumatic p. 1. P. associated with or due to rheumatism; probably a peripheral neuritis. [a. 34.] 2. See Facial p.—Saturday-night p. A pressure p. of the musculo-spiral nerve occurring in workmen who have fallen asleep after alcoholic excess on Saturday evening. [Herter (a. 34).]—Saturnine p. See Lead palsy.—Scriveners' p. See Writers' cramp.—Segmental p. Of Charcot, a variety of hypnotic p. in which only a segment of a member is paralyzed. [a. 34.]—Sensory p. Ger., Gefühlsparalyse. Loss or diminution of general or special sensibility. [D. 1.] See ANÆSTHESIA.—Sleep p. A pressure p. of the musculo-spiral nerve occurring during sleep. [a. 34.]—Spasmodic spinal p. Lat., tabes dorsalis spasmodica. Of Charcot, spastic spinal p. [D.]—Spastic p. A cerebral or spinal p. in which there are spasms and rigidity of the muscles. Jour.," 1858, lviij, p. 161 (a. 34).]—Vitalur p., Vitular p. See Vitalur FEVER.—Writers' p. See under Writers' CRAMP.

PARALYTIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3-\text{i}^2\text{t}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Gr., παρλυτικός. Lat., paralyticus. Fr., paralytique. Ger., paralytisch, gelähmt. Pertaining to, characterized by, or affected with paralysis; as a n., a person affected with paralysis. [D (a. 34).]

PARAMAGNETISM, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2\text{m}-\text{a}^2\text{g}^2/\text{ne}^2\text{t}^2-\text{i}^2\text{zm}$ . From παρά, beside, and μάγνης, a magnet. The property which certain bodies possess of being attracted by magnets and of tending to assume a position in which their greatest length is in the direction of a magnetic force acting on them (cf. DIAMAGNETISM). Iron, cobalt, oxygen, etc., are paramagnetic substances, while bismuth, antimony, water, hydrogen, etc., are diamagnetic. [a. 48.]

PARAMALEIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2\text{m}-\text{a}^2\text{l}-\text{e}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . See FUMARIC acid.

PARAMARGARIN (Ger.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2\text{m}-\text{a}^2\text{rg}-\text{a}^2\text{r}-\text{en}'$ . See HYDROMARGARIC ACID.

PARAMERIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^2\text{m}-\text{e}(\text{ma})/\text{r}^2\text{i}^2\text{a}^2$ . A genus of shrubs, of the Echitideæ. [B. 42, 121 (a. 35).]—P. vulneraria. A species of P. (2d def.) yielding a balsam used in the East in various skin diseases and as a vulnerary. It is said to be a source of Tagulavay balsam. [P. Zipperer, "Arch. d. Pharm.," Nov., 1885, p. 817; "Therap. Gaz.," Feb., 1886, p. 143; "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxxiv, p. 410 (a. 50).]

PARAMESUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^2\text{m}(\text{a}^2\text{m})/\text{e}^2\text{s}-\text{u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})$ . Gr., παράμεσος (from παρά, beside, and μέσος, middle). Fr., paramèse. See Ring FINGER.

PARAMETHYLOXYBENZALDEHYDE, PARAMETHYLOXYBENZOIC ALDEHYDE, n.s.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2-\text{me}^2\text{th}-\text{i}^2\text{l}-\text{o}^2\text{x}-\text{i}^2-\text{be}^2\text{nz}-\text{a}^2/\text{de}^2\text{h}^2\text{id}$ ,  $-\text{o}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$   $\text{a}^2/\text{de}^2\text{h}^2\text{id}$ . See ANISIC aldehyde.

PARAMETRITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^2-\text{me}^2\text{t}(\text{mat})-\text{ri}(\text{re})/\text{t}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -itidos (-idis). Fr., paramétrite. Of Virchow, inflammation of the pelvic connective tissue in the immediate neighborhood of the uterus.—P. chronica atrophicans. Of Freund, chronic hyperplastic p. with eventual cicatricial atrophy. [A. 326 (a. 34).]—P. (chronica) posterior. Of B. S. Schultz, a chronic inflammation in one or both of Douglas's folds in which the uterus is fixed at the level of the internal os, causing permanent anteversion in consequence of shortening of the folds, together with torsion of the organ when one fold is shortened. [A. 326 (a. 34).]—P. exsudativa anterior. P. with fixation of the vagina and cervix to the anterior pelvic wall, causing retroflexion of the uterus. [A. 326 (a. 34).]—P. puerperalis. P. occurring during the puerperium. [A. 326 (a. 34).]

PARAMETRIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^2-\text{me}^2\text{t}(\text{mat})/\text{ri}^2-\text{u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . From παρά, beside, and μήτρα, the uterus. The connective tissue immediately adjacent to the uterus.

PARAMIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2\text{m}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . A substance,  $\text{C}_{12}\text{N}_3\text{H}_5\text{O}_7$ , obtained by treating paramide with ammonia and precipitating with hydrochloric acid. It occurs as microscopic acicular crystals soluble in boiling water. [B. 93 (a. 14).]

PARAMIDE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2\text{m}-\text{i}^2\text{d}(\text{id})$ . Fr., p. A substance,  $\text{C}_4\text{HNO}_3$ , occurring as a white, amorphous, odorless, and tasteless powder, insoluble in water and in alcohol, but soluble in sulphuric acid. [B. 3 (a. 38); B. 93 (a. 14).]

PARAMILCHSÄURE (Ger.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2-\text{mi}^2\text{lch}^2/\text{zoi}^2\text{r}-\text{e}^2$ . See PARALACTIC acid.

PARAMNESIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^2\text{m}(\text{a}^2\text{m})-\text{ne}(\text{na})/\text{zi}^2$ . (si) $^2\text{a}^2$ . From παρά, beside, and μνήσθαι, to be mindful. Fr., paramnésie. Of Lordat, a morbid state characterized by the erroneous use of known and remembered sounds. [Grasset, "Montp. méd.," Jan., 1884 (K).]

PARÁMO DE RUIZ, n. A place in the province of Tolima, Colombia, where there is a hot mineral spring. [L. 49 (a. 14).]

PARAMUCIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2-\text{mu}^2\text{s}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . A dibasic acid,  $\text{C}_8\text{H}_{10}\text{O}_8$ , isomeric with mucic acid, occurring as rectangular tablets united in crusts. [B. 3, 93 (a. 38); B. 4.]

PARAMUSIE (Ger.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2-\text{muz}-\text{e}'$ . A variety of aphasia in which there is a disturbance of musical expression, false tones and intervals being employed. [A. 326 (a. 34).]

PARAMYLENE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^2\text{m}/\text{i}^2\text{l}-\text{en}$ . Fr., paramylène. See DIAMYLENE.

PARAMYLUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^2\text{m}(\text{a}^2\text{m})/\text{i}^2\text{l}(\text{u}^2)-\text{u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . Fr., paramylon. A carbohydrate resembling starch, obtained from green Infusoria on stagnant pools. It forms small white grains insoluble in water, soluble in diluted acids, and transformed at 200° C. into a gummy mass, which is converted by hydrochloric acid into glucose. [B, 4; B, 48, 93 (a, 14).]

PARAMYOCLOUSIS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^3\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-mi}(\text{mu}^4)\text{-o}^2\text{k}^1\text{-lo}^2\text{n-u}^3\text{s}(\text{u}^4\text{s})$ . From παρά, beside, μῦς, a muscle, and κλῶσις, a violent, confused motion. Of Friedreich, repeated clonic spasms. [a, 34.]—P. multiplex. Of Friedreich, a disease characterized by clonic contractions of the muscles, occurring in paroxysms. Between the contractions there may be tremor of the muscles. The disease is usually bilateral, and is not accompanied by motor or sensory disturbances. Its nature is unknown. [P. Marie, "Progr. méd.", Mar. 20, 1886, p. 241 (a, 34).]

PARANEPHRITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^3\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-ne}^2\text{f}^1\text{-ri}(\text{re})/\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idios (-idis). Fr., paranéphrite. 1. Inflammation of the connective tissue which unites the kidneys to the vertebral column. [D, 70.] 2. Inflammation of the suprarenal capsules.

PARANGI, n. A disease, allied to yaws, occurring in Ceylon; "Spanish pox." ["Indian Med. Gaz.," Mar., 1882.]

PARANITROBENZOIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-nit-ro-be}^2\text{nz-o}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . See MONONITROBENZOIC ACID.

PARANITROPHENOL, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-nit-ro-fe}^2\text{n-o}^2/\text{i}^2$ . See under MONONITROPHENOL.

PARANCEA (Lat.), PARANOIA (Lat.), n's f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^3\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-ne}^2\text{no}^2\text{a}^2/\text{a}^2\text{-a}$ , -noi<sup>a</sup>. Gr., παράνοια (from παρά, beside, and νοῦς, the mind). 1. A term applied loosely to various mental diseases. 2. A functional insanity, starting from a degenerative condition, characterized by a special deviation of the highest mental functions, but not implying either serious weakness or general disorder of the mind. It is almost always accompanied with hallucinations and more or less systematized delusions. The course is neither continuous nor uniform, but is essentially chronic. ["Jour. of Ment. Sci.," xxxii, p. 604 (a, 34).]—Acute p. Of Mendel, p. coming on without prodromes and characterized by a delusion of vague persecutions without persecutors. [Séglas, Noyes, "Jour. of Nerv. and Ment. Dis.," (a, 34).]—Ambitious p. P. in which the degeneration is associated with ambitious hallucinations. [a, 34.]—Degenerative p. Of Amadei and Tomini, a form of p. in which the degenerative defects are not profound and do not reduce the patients to the last degree of the scale of degenerates. [Séglas, Noyes (a, 34).]—Intermediate p. P. in which there are no delusions, but a tendency to quibbling or quarrelling. [Séglas, Noyes (a, 34).]—Idiopathic p. Of Mendel, an hereditary and degenerative form of p., with the delusion of quarrelling insanity, and a weakened form of the delusion of persecution. The degenerative basis is questionable. [Séglas, Noyes (a, 34).]—P. corrupta, P. depravata. See DIASTREPHIA.—P. erotica. See EROTOMANIA.—P. hallucinatoria. P. with hallucinations. [A, 319 (a, 34).]—P. hallucinatoria acuta. P. characterized by sudden hallucinations, especially of hearing, accompanied by ideas of grandeur. There may be insane impulses or complete dejection. [Séglas, Noyes (a, 34).]—P. hallucinatoria chronica. P. having a slow beginning and a remitting course. Hallucinations and delusions of persecution appear first, and at the end of a certain time the ideas of grandeur become prominent. [Séglas, Noyes (a, 34).]—P. hypochondriaca. Chronic p. with typical remissions. The troubles of general sensibility form the foundation of the delusions of persecution accompanied by illusions and hallucinations. [Séglas, Noyes (a, 34).]—P. persecutoria. P. in which the hallucinations of persecution are especially prominent. [a, 34.]—P. religiosa. P. in which the hallucinations or delusions are of a religious character. [a, 34.]—P. simplex. Acute or chronic p. in which there are bodily as well as mental disturbances. The latter are characterized by the existence of some one of the many monomanias. [A, 319 (a, 34).]—Psychoneurotic p. Of Amadei and Tomini, p. consecutive to some of the primary forms of psychoneuroses. [Séglas, Noyes (a, 34).]

PARANOIAC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-noi}^2/\text{a}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., paranoicus. Pertaining to, of the nature of, or affected with paranoia.

PARANTHRACENE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-n}^2\text{'thra}^2\text{s-en}$ . See under ANTHRACENE.

PARANTIMONIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-n}^2\text{-ti}^2\text{-mo}^2\text{n-i}^2/\text{k}$ . See PYRANTIMONIC ACID.

PARANUCLEOLES, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-nu}^2\text{'kle}^2\text{-o}^2\text{-lz}$ . Lat., paranucleoli (from παρά, beside, and nucleolus, a little nut). Ger., Para-

nucleolen, Nebenkernkörperchen. 1. See PSEUDONUCLEOLI. 2. The smaller of the nucleoli in a cell nucleus. [J, 67.]

PARANUCLEUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^3\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-nu}^2(\text{nu}^4)/\text{k}^2\text{le}^2\text{-u}^3\text{s}(\text{u}^4\text{s})$ . Fr., nouau secondaire. Ger., Nebenkern (1st def.). The smaller of two closely related or situated nuclei in a cell. [J, 124.]

PARA-OVARIQUE (Fr.), adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{-ra}^2\text{-o-va}^2\text{-rek}$ . Parovarian.

PARAOXYBENZOIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-o}^2\text{x-i}^2\text{-be}^2\text{nz-o}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . See HYDROXYBENZOIC ACID.

PARAOXYMETHYLBENZYL ALCOHOL, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-o}^2\text{x-i}^2\text{-me}^2\text{th-i}^2\text{-l-be}^2\text{nz-i}^2/\text{l}$ . See ANISIC ALCOHOL.

PARAPECTIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-pe}^2\text{k-ti}^2/\text{k}$ . An amorphous substance,  $\text{C}_{24}\text{H}_{34}\text{O}_{23}$ , being one of the bodies into which pectose is transformed in the process of maturing of fruits. [B, 14, 93.]

PARAPECTIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-pe}^2\text{k-ti}^2/\text{n}$ . Ger., Parapektin. A body occurring in fleshy fruits and constituting one of the products into which pectose is transformed in the process of ripening; said to have the same composition as pectin. [B, 14.]

PARAPEPTONE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-pe}^2\text{p-ton}$ . Ger., Parapepton. 1. A kind of by-product resembling syntonin or acid-albumin, arising in the normal peptic digestion of proteids. It appears as a precipitate soluble in dilute acids and alkalies and in distilled water. It is especially abundant if the pepsin has been previously modified by and exposed to a temperature of from 40° to 60° C. It is called by Finkler isopepsin. 2. Of Meissner, a body formed from proteids at 40° C., by the action of hydrochloric acid, alone or in company with imperfectly acting pepsin. It can not be converted into peptone by the most energetic pepsin, but is so changed by trypsin. It is never formed in normal digestion, and is called by Kühne anti-albumate. 3. The normal initial or intermediate product of both peptic and tryptic digestion. [J, 19.]

PARAPETAL, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-pe}^2\text{'t-l}$ . Lat., parapetalum (from παρά, beside, and πέταλον, a leaf). Fr., parapétale. Ger., Nebenblumenblatt. A single piece (leaf) of a paracolla, or any modified petal or appendage of the latter. According to Mönch, a leaf of a flower, placed within the flower and differing entirely in form from the rest of the petals. [B, 1, 19, 77, 121, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PARAPETALOID, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-pe}^2\text{t-a}^2/\text{o}^2\text{id}$ . Lat., parapetaloides (from παρά, beside, πέταλον, a leaf, and εἶδος, resemblance). Fr., parapétaloïde. Of Mönch, having the parapetals either adnate or applied to the petals. [B, 121 (a, 35).]

PARAPETALOUS, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-a}^3\text{-pe}^2\text{t-a}^2/\text{u}^3\text{s}$ . Lat., parapetalus. Fr., parapétalé. Of stamens, standing at each side of a petal. [Gray (a, 35).]

PARAPHASIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^3\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-fa}(\text{fa})/\text{zi}^2(\text{si}^2)\text{-a}^3$ . From παρά, beside, and ᾠδασία, aphasia. Fr., paraphasie. Ger., Paraphasie. Aphasia characterized by the substitution of words which are unfitted to express the idea that the person intends to convey. [D, 53.]—Commissural p. 1. P. due to injury of the commissural nerve-fibres of the brain. 2. Of L. Lichtheim, a provisional term for p. due to a lesion supposed (but not ascertained) to be situated in the island of Reil. ["Brain," Jan., 1886, p. 443, 476 (K).]—P. choreoformis. P. resembling, and probably a form of, chorea. [D, 18.]—P. paralytica, P. paretica. P. due to paralysis. [D, 18.]—P. spastica. P. caused by muscular spasm. [a, 34.]

PARAPHIMOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^3\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-fm}(\text{fem})/\text{o}^2\text{s-i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -os/eos (-is). Gr., παράφωσις (from παρά, beside, and φίμωσις, to muzzle). Ger., Paraphimose. Strangulation of the glans penis by a retracted prepuce with a narrow orifice. [G.]

PARAPHONIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^3\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-fon}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From παρά, beside, and φωνή, the voice. Fr., paraphonie. Ger., Stimmfehler. Any abnormality of the voice. [L, 41, 50 (a, 14).]—P. clangeus. P. in which the voice is shrill and squalling. [a, 34.]—P. comatosa. Of Cullen, p. from relaxation of the glottis or velum palati during coma. [a, 34.]—P. gutturalis. See P. palatina.—P. gutturalis adolescentium. See P. puberum.—P. nasalis. Of Sauvages, a nasal voice. [a, 34.]—P. palatina. Of Cullen, p. in which the voice is hoarse, obscure, or indistinct from a defect of the palate. [a, 34.]—P. puberum, P. pubescentium. Ger., Ziegenstimme, Meckerstimme. The harsh, shrill, irregular voice occurring in boys at puberty. [a, 34.]—P. rauca. Fr., paraphonie rauque. Of Good, a hoarse or rough voice. [a, 34.]—P. respirans. See P. nasalis.—P. sibilans. Of Sauvages, a wheezing or hissing voice. [a, 34.]—P. stertens. Of Sauvages, p. in which the voice has a snorting or snoring sound. [a, 34.]

PARAPHOSPHORIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{a}^2\text{-fo}^2\text{s-fo}^2\text{r}^2\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . An isomer of phosphoric acid, obtained by subjecting it to great heat. [B, 38, 48, 93 (a, 14).]

PARAPHRAGM, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{a}^2\text{-fra}^2\text{m}$ . Gr., παράφραγμα (from παρά, beside, and φράγμα, a fence). A process of an endosternite which passes forward, upward, and outward with its corresponding endopleurite and that in front of it. [L, 168.]

PARAPHRASIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2(\text{pa}^2\text{r})^2\text{-a}^2\text{-fra}^2(\text{fra}^2)/\text{zi}^2(\text{si}^2)\text{-a}^2$ . From παράφραση, to say a thing in other words. Ger., Paraphrasie. Incoherent speech depending on defective concepts. [D, 18.]—P. præceps. P. in which the ideas are formed and expressed too hurriedly. [D, 18.]—P. tarda. Ger., Nöhlen. P. in which the ideas are formed and expressed too slowly. [D, 18.]—P. thematica. P. manifesting very great confusion of ideas, the thread of the discourse being entirely lost sight of. [D, 18.]—P. verbalis. P. in which an occasional inappropriate word or idea is unconsciously interjected. [D, 18.]—P. vesana. Complete jumbling of words and ideas, all coherence being lost; of Arndt, a combination of p. verbalis and p. thematica. [D, 18.]

PARAPHTHALIC ACID, n. See TEREPHTHALIC ACID.
PARAPHYAS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2(\text{pa}^2\text{r})^2\text{-a}^2\text{f}^2(\text{a}^2\text{f})^2/\text{i}^2(\text{u}^2)\text{-a}^2\text{s}^2(\text{a}^2)\text{s}$ . Gen., -phy $\text{a}^2\text{dos}^2$  (-adis). Gr., παράφυας. See PARAPHYSIS.

PARAPHYL, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{a}^2\text{-fi}^2\text{l}$ . Lat., paraphyllum, paraphyllum (from παρά, beside, and φύλλον, a leaf). Fr., paraphylle Ger., Blattsatz. Any leaf modification or appendage, especially a stipule; of Link (who includes under the term stipules, ligules of grasses, and scales of buds), a part constructed like a leaf, but developed before the latter. [B, 19, 123 (a, 35).]

PARAPHYTE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{a}^2\text{-fi}^2\text{t}$ . Lat., paraphytum (from παράφυτον, to produce offshoots). Fr., p. Ger., Ueberwuchs. Of Eisenmann, a disease caused or accompanied by proliferation. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PARAPLASM, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{a}^2\text{-pla}^2\text{zm}$ . Gr., παράπλασμα (from παρά, beside, and πλάσσειν, to mold). Lat., paraplasma. 1. A heteroplasia. 2. Of Kupffer, any material within a cell other than the protoplasm. [a, 34.] See ACHROMATIN, CYTOCHYLEMA, and GROUND-SUBSTANCE (2d def.).

PARAPLECTIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{a}^2\text{-ple}^2\text{kt}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., paraplectus. Fr., paraplectique. Pertaining to or affected with paraplegia. [L, 41, 50 (a, 14).]

PARAPLEGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2(\text{pa}^2\text{r})^2\text{-a}^2\text{-ple}^2(\text{pla}^2)/\text{i}^2\text{z}^2(\text{gi}^2)\text{-a}^2$ . Gr., παράπληγία (from παρά, beside, and πληγή, a blow). Fr., paraplégie. Ger., Querlähmung. Paralysis or paresis of both lower limbs. [a, 34.]—Alcoholic p. Of S. Wilks, p. of spinal origin, caused by alcohol. There are pains in all the limbs, myotrophia, acnesia, hepatic enlargement, and other symptoms of alcoholism. ["Lancet," 1872, i, p. 330 (a, 34).]—Anæmic p. P., sometimes accompanied by hyperæsthesia, following loss of blood. [Gowers (a, 34).]—Apoplectic p. Of Rosenthal, a double paralysis resulting from an old and a recent hæmorrhage into the motor centres, from circumscribed lesions in the median portion of the pons, or from aneurysm at the base of the brain; distinguished from spinal p. by the presence of motor paralyses of the cranial nerves. [a, 34.]—Ataxic p. A combined lateral and posterior sclerosis of the spinal cord, presenting symptoms of ataxia. Myotatic irritability is increased; sensory disturbances are rare; there are ataxia of the face, arm, and leg muscles. ["N. Y. Med. Jour.," Oct. 9, 1886, p. 417 (a, 34).]—Atonic p. Hysterical p. [Lanyon, "Lancet," 1848, i, p. 180 (a, 34).]—Cataleptiform p., Cataleptoid p. Of Benedikt, p. characterized by motor disturbances that are shown by the persistent resistance by muscular conduction of voluntary impulse. It affects all the voluntary muscles of both sides of the body, including those of the eyes. It is probably of hysterical origin. ["Arch. of Electrol. and Neurol.," i, 1874, p. 10 (a, 34).]—Cervical p. Lat., p. cervicalis. Of Guill, paralysis affecting one of the upper extremities or both of them together exclusively or in a predominant manner. The lower extremities are often subsequently affected, but generally in a minor degree. [Charcot (a, 34).]—Chlorotic p. See Anæmic p.—Choreic p. Of Borella, p. of functional origin occurring in chorea. [a, 34.]—Congenital hypertrophic p. of Duchenne. See Pseudo-hypertrophic muscular PARALYSIS.—Drunkards' p. See Alcoholic p.—Dysenteric p. An affection coming on during dysentery, with paresis of the lower extremities, hyperæsthesia, and pain, followed by anæsthesia and complete p.; probably of toxic origin. [Ross (a, 34).]—Enteric p. A reflex spinal p. produced by an intestinal disorder. Its existence is denied by many, and Bartholow, who describes it, admits that most of the reported cases are cases of ascending neuritis. [Bartholow, "N. Y. Med. Jour.," Dec. 15, 1883, p. 669.]—Functional p. Incomplete p. attributable to some functional disorder. [D, 63; "Brit. Med. Jour.," 1872, i, p. 394.]—Gouty p. P. occurring in gout. [L, 87 (a, 34).]—Hereditary ataxic p. See Hereditary ATAXIA.—Hypertrophic p. of infancy. Of Duchenne, pseudo-hypertrophic muscular paralysis. [a, 34.]—Hysterical p. See under Hysterical PARALYSIS.—Hystero-traumatic p. Of Charcot, hysterical p. supervening upon slight traumatism. [a, 34.]—Infantile spasmodic p., Infantile spastic p. Impairment of volition with tonic rigidity and ultimately structural shortening, in varying degrees, of a few or many muscles of the body, occurring at or shortly after birth. [a, 34.]—Organic p. P. caused by a lesion of the brain or spinal cord. [a, 34.]—Painful p. Lat., p. dolorosa. Fr., paraplégie douloureuse. A form of p. described by Cruveilhier and more fully by Charcot. In several cases in which autopsies were made by the latter, carcinoma of a lumbar vertebra was found as a cause, and in each case there was also mammary carcinoma. The paralysis comes on gradually, following muscular atrophy. The pain is caused by the compression of the posterior columns of the cord by the tumor. [D, 34.]—P. a frigore. Multiple neuritis caused by cold and presenting the symptoms of p. [a, 34.]—P. dolorosa. Fr., paraplégie douloureuse. See Painful p.—P. mephitica. Of Swaving, beri-beri. [a, 34.]—Paraplegie urogenitalis. See Urinary p.—Phimosal p. Of C. E. Beardsley, reflex p. caused by phimosis. [a, 34.]—Puerperal p. See Puerperal PARALYSIS.—Reflex p. P. of reflex origin.—Rheumatismal p. Of Bruchon, p. occurring in the course of rheumatism. ["Gaz. des hôp.," xlviii, p. 1105 (a, 34).]—Senile p. P. caused by senile changes in the spinal cord. [L, 87 (a, 34).]—Spasmodic p., Spastic p. P. caused by primary lateral sclerosis of the spinal cord; appearing between the twentieth and fortieth years. Concussion of the spine and exposure to wet and cold are the most frequent causes. The early symptoms are paresis and a tendency to spasm of the muscles of the lower extremities. Sensory symptoms, except dull pains in the legs or back, are often absent, but subjective sensations are not uncommon. The electric irritability is usually normal. Contractures occur later in the disease. In walking, the legs drag behind the patient, and each is drawn forward as a rigid whole, the toes catching on the ground. [Ross (a, 34).]—Tabetic p. See Ataxic p.—Tetanic p. See Spasmodic spinal PARALYSIS.—Toxic p. P. caused by ptomainic, leucomainic, mineral, or vegetable poisoning; usually the result of a primary peripheral neuritis. [a, 34.]—Urinary p. Lat., p. urinaria. Fr., paraplégie urinaire. A parietic or paralytic affection of the lower extremities, supervening in the course of certain diseases of the urinary passages, and appearing to be connected with these as consecutive effects. [Charcot (a, 34).]

PARAPLEGIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{a}^2\text{-ple}^2\text{j}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Gr., παράπληγικός. Fr., paraplégique. Pertaining to or affected with paraplegia. [a, 17.]

PARAPLEXIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2(\text{pa}^2\text{r})^2\text{-a}^2\text{-ple}^2\text{x}^2(\text{plax})^2/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . Gr., παράπληξία (from παρά, beside, and πληγή, a blow). 1. Of Ettmüller, paraplegia. 2. Apoplexy in which the paralytic symptoms predominate. [A, 301 (a, 34).]

PARARTHRIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-r}^2\text{th}-\text{ri}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From παρά, beside, and ἄρθρον, to articulate. Ger., Pararthrie. See PARALALIA.—P. centralis. P. due to cerebral disturbance. [D, 18.]—P. literalis paretica. See STAMMERING.—P. syllabaris paretica. A stumbling articulation of syllables due to paresis or paralysis. [D, 18.]—P. syllabaris spastica. See STUTTERING.

PARASIGMATISMUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-si}^2\text{g}^2\text{-ma}^2\text{-t}^2\text{-ma}^2\text{i}^2\text{-i}^2\text{z}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . From παρά, beside, and σίγμα, the Greek letter σ. The substitution of other sounds (f, ph, etc.) for that of a s or sh. [A, 319 (a, 21).]

PARASIT (Ger.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-zet}'$ . See PARASITE.—Haarbalg-p'. See DEMODEX folliculorum.

PARASITE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-sit}$ . Gr., παράσιτος (lit., one who eats with another [from παρά, beside, and σitos, food]). Lat., parasitus. Fr., p. Ger., Parasit, Schmarotzer. 1. An animal or plant living and subsisting within some tissue or organ, or upon some surface, of another animal or plant. [A, 3.] Cf. COINOSITE, OIKOSITE, PLAGIOSITE, XENOSITE, and NOSTOSITE. 2. See FORTIS in factu.—Accidental p's. Internal p's having the habits, but not referable to the class, of Entozoa. The following are included in this class in the nomenclature of the Royal College of Physicians of London: Pentastoma dentitatum, Pentastoma constrictum, Eustrus hominis, and Anthomyia canicularis.—Endophytic p. A p. living in the tissues and organs of its host. [B, 39 (a, 27).]—Epiphytic p. A p. living on the surface of the skin and mucous membranes of the host. [B, 39 (a, 27).]—External p. See ECTOPARASITE.—Facultative p. 1. A p. that is not confined to any particular animal organism. 2. Of the Bary, a p. which can only satisfy the conditions of its life in the animal organism, but which nevertheless leaves it at a certain period of its existence. [B, 39 (a, 27).]—False p. See PSEUDOPARASITE.—Internal p. See ENDOPARASITE.—Obligatory p. Of the Bary, a p. that can not subsist away from its host. [B, 39 (a, 27).]—Vegetable p's. Fr., p's végétales. Plants distinguished by absence or deficiency of chlorophyll, deriving their food from other living organisms. They are confined among phanerogams to the diosphyllons, and among cryptogams to the Fungi (chiefly the lower) and a few Algae. [B, 39, 121, 291 (a, 35).]

PARASITIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-si}^2\text{'t}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., parasiticus, parasitarius. Fr., parasitaire, parasite. Ger., parasitisch. Pertaining to or of the nature of a parasite; of a disease, caused by parasites. [D, 1, 20.]

PARASITICIDE, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-sit}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-sid}$ . Lat., parasiticidus (from παράσιτος, a parasite, and cadere, to slay). Fr., p. See ANTI-PARASITIC.

PARASITISM, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-sit}^2\text{-izm}$ . Lat., parasitismus (from παράσιτος, a parasite). Fr., parasitisme. Ger., Parasitismus. 1.

The state of existence as a parasite. Cf. SYMBIOSIS. 2. The state of being infested with a parasite. 3. The part played by a parasite in causing or modifying disease.

PARASITOGÉNIE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-ze}^2\text{-to}^2\text{-zha}^2\text{-ne}$ . A morbid constitution predisposing the subject to be infested with parasites. [L, 41 (a, 14).]

PARASORBIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-so}^2\text{r}^2\text{b}^2\text{'i}^2\text{k}$ . Of Hofmann, an oily liquid,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_6\text{O}_3$ , obtained in the preparation of malic acid from mountain-ash berries, isomeric with or an impure kind of sorbic acid. It is slightly acid, sparingly soluble in water, but freely soluble in alcohol and in ether. Its vapors are stupefying and of disagreeable odor. [B, 3 (a, 38); B, 93 (a, 14).]

PARASTATA (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-sta}^2\text{(ast)'}^2\text{-a}^2\text{t}^2\text{(at)'}^2\text{-a}^2$ . Gr., παραστάτης (from παρσάτης, anything that stands beside). See EPIDIDYMIS.—P. adenoides. See PROSTATE GLAND.—P. cirsoides. See PAMPINIFORM PLEXUS.

PARASTEATOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-ste}^2\text{-a}^2\text{t}^2\text{(at)'}^2\text{-os}^2\text{'i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). From παρά, beside, and στάειν, stiff fat. Ger., Parasteatose. A form of steatosis in which the character of the secretion is altered. The Parasteatoses (Ger., Parasteatosen) of Auspitz are a family of Steatoses embracing sebaceous diseases characterized by altered secretion. They include milium, atheroma, comedo, molluscum contagiosum, and colloid milium. [G, 4.]

PARASTERNAL, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-stu}^2\text{r}^2\text{n}^2\text{l}$ . From παρά, beside, and στένον, the sternum. Situated at the side of the sternum. [L, 332.]

PARASTICHIES, n. pl.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-st}^2\text{'i}^2\text{k}^2\text{-i}^2\text{z}$ . From παρά, about, and στίχος, a row. Fr., parastiques. The secondary spirals formed in alternate phyllotaxy in which the internodes are short and the leaves overlap. [B, 77, 121, 291 (a, 35).]

PARASTRAMMA (Lat.), n's n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-stra}^2\text{m}^2\text{(stram)'}^2\text{-ma}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-stre}^2\text{m}^2\text{'ma}^2$ . Gen., -stram'matos (-atis), -strem'matos (-atis). Gr., παράστρεμμα (from παρστρέφω, to twist). Fr., parastreemme. Ger., Verdrehung. Distortion of any part of the face, especially of the mouth. [L, 41, 50 (a, 14).]

PARASTREPSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-stre}^2\text{ps}^2\text{'i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -strep'seos (-is). From παρά, beside, and στρέψω, a turning round. See SUBLUXATION.

PARASYNOVITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-si}^2\text{-n}^2\text{(su}^2\text{n)'}^2\text{-o}^2\text{-vi}^2\text{(we)'}^2\text{-i}^2\text{t}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -vit'idos (-idis). From παρά, beside, σύν, with, and ovum, an egg. See SYNOVITIS fungosa.

PARASYPHILITIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-si}^2\text{f}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-i}^2\text{k}$ . From παρά, beside, and sypphilis (q. v.). Fr., parasyphilitique. Of Renaut, evoked by syphilis without being really a manifestation of that disease. [Union méd., Feb. 18, 1886, p. 283.]

PARASYSTOLE (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-si}^2\text{st}^2\text{(su}^2\text{st)'}^2\text{-o}^2\text{(o)'}^2\text{-le}^2\text{(la)}$ . Gen., -syst'oles. From παρά, beside, and συστολή, systole. Fr., p. Ger., P. The interval between the cardiac systole and diastole. [K.]

PARATHENAR (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})-\text{a}^3\text{-th}^2\text{en}^2\text{'ar}$ . From παρά, beside, and θέναρ, the flat of the foot. Fr., parathénar. Of Winslow, the abductor and short flexor muscles of the little toe. [A, 500 (a, 48).]

PARATHIOFORMALDEHYDE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-th}^2\text{i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{-fo}^2\text{r}^2\text{m}^2\text{-a}^2\text{l}^2\text{(de)'}^2\text{-hid}$ . Ger., Parathioformaldehyd. A crystalline body,  $\text{C}_2\text{H}_4\text{S}_2$ , which may be regarded as paramethoxyaldehyde (paramethyl aldehyde) in which sulphur replaces oxygen. [B, 3.]

PARATHIONIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}-\text{a}^3\text{-th}^2\text{i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{-n}^2\text{'i}^2\text{k}$ . Acid ethyl sulphate. [B.]

PARATOLUIDINE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-to}^2\text{l-u}^2/\text{i}^2\text{d-en}$ . See TOLUIDINE.

PARATROPHY, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-t}(\text{ro}^2)\text{-fi}^2$ . From  $\text{παρά}$ , beside, and  $\tau\acute{\rho}\phi\eta$ , nourishment. Lat., paratrophia. Fr., paratrophie. Qualitative alteration in a tissue caused by a trophic disorder. [D, 35].—Neurotic p. A p. of nervous origin, such as an arthropathy occurring in connection with locomotor ataxia. [D, 35.]

PARATUDO, n. In Brazil, the Hortia arborea, Canella azilaris, and some other trees with aromatic barks. [B, 121, 180 (a, 35).]

PARATUNGSTATE, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}\text{-a}^3\text{-tu}^2\text{n}^2/\text{z}^2\text{tat}$ . A compound made up of 5 molecules of a basic oxide united to 12 molecules of tungsten trioxide. Thus sodium p. is  $\text{Na}_{10}\text{W}_{12}\text{O}_{41} = 5\text{Na}_2\text{O} + 12\text{WO}_3$ . [B, 3.]

PARAZOE (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-a}^3\text{-zo'e}(\text{a})$ . Gen., -zo'es. From  $\text{παρά}$ , beside, and  $\zeta\acute{o}\nu\alpha\varsigma$ , a living animal. Fr., p. Ger., P. Of Eisenmann, a disease in which fully developed parasites are produced. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PARCHEMIN (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{rsh-ma}^2\text{n}^2$ . Parchment; in botany, the rill inclosing the seeds in the coffee-plants. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PARCHIM (Ger.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{rch}^2/\text{em}$ . A place in Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Germany, where there is a gaseous spring. [L, 30, 37, 49 (a, 14).]

PARAGORIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-e}^2\text{go}^2\text{r'}$ i<sup>2</sup>k. Gr., παρηγορικός (from παρηγορεῖν, to console). Lat., paregoricus. Fr., parégorique. Anodyne; as a n., an anodyne medicine, especially p. elixir.—P. elixir. See Tinctura opii camphorata.—P. root. See Myrrhis odorata.—P. tincture. See Tinctura opii camphorata.

PARAIRA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}(\text{pa}^2\text{r})\text{-i}(\text{e}^2/\text{i}^2)\text{-ra}^2$ . Fr., p. racine de p-brava. Ger., P. Griesenwurzel. Syn.: pareira radix [Br. Ph.], p. brava. Of the U. S. Ph., the root (dried root [Br. Ph.]) of Chondrodendron tomentosum. A long, branching, tortuous, woody, thick-barked root, externally brownish-gray, or sometimes quite black and marked with transverse ridges and cracks and longitudinal wrinkles. Cut transversely, it displays a porous woody tissue with distinct medullary rays between which the substance is of a close, resinous, waxy appearance. It has a well-marked but not persistent bitter taste, and is without peculiar odor. Its composition is not fully known. Feneulle found in it a soft resin, a brown substance, a nitrogenous body, a yellow bitter principle, fecula, and various salts. An alkaloid (see PELOSINE), by Hanbury identified with buxine, has been isolated. P. is considered tonic, aperient, and diuretic, and has been used in calculus, leucorrhœa, dropsy, etc. It is now chiefly employed in chronic catarrhal cystitis. In Brazil it is used as a diaphoretic, diuretic, and emmenagogue, and a vinous infusion of the root is used internally in snake-bites, the bruised leaves of the plant being applied to the wound. [B, 5, 18, 121, 185 (a, 35).]—Alcoolé de p. (Fr.). See Tinctura pareiræ.—Common false p. brava. Of Hanbury, a spurious p. brava, containing pelosine and medicinally active, formerly common in commerce, consisting of the root and stem of an undetermined menispermaceous Brazilian plant long erroneously referred to Cissampelos p. It has the internal structure of false p. (1st def.), and is easily distinguished from true p. by showing when cut a fibrous, woody surface, unlike the close, waxy texture of the true drug. Its decoction is not colored blue by iodine. [B, 5, 18 (a, 35).]

—Decoction pareiræ [Br. Ph.]. Fr., tisane de p. brava. A preparation made by boiling 1½ oz. of p. in No. 20 powder for 15 minutes with 1 part of water, straining, and washing the residue with water enough to give a pint of decoction. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Essentia pareiræ. See Tinctura pareiræ.—Extractum pareiræ [Br. Ph.] (aquisum). Fr., extrait aqueux de p., extrait de p. brava. Ger., P. extrakt. A preparation made by digesting 1 lb. of p. root in No. 40 powder with 1 pint of boiling water for 24 hours, treating in a percolator with more water until the p. is exhausted or 1 gallon of percolate is obtained, and evaporating to a pilular consistence. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Extractum pareiræ fluidum [U. S. Ph.] (seu liquidum [Br. Ph.]). Fr., extrait liquide de p. brava. Ger., flüssiges P. extrakt. A preparation made by moistening 100 grammes of p. root, in No. 40 powder, with 40 of a mixture of 80 grammes of alcohol with 20 of glycerin, treating in a percolator with the rest of the menstruum and with more alcohol till the p. is exhausted, distilling off the alcohol from the first 85 c. c. of percolate, evaporating the residue to a soft extract, mixing the two, and bringing to 100 c. c. with alcohol [U. S. Ph.]; or by dissolving 4 parts of extract of p. in enough of a mixture of alcohol with three times its volume of water to make 16 fluid parts of solution [Br. Ph.]. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—False p. Fr., faux p. Ger., falsche P. 1. A drug without bitterness and apparently inactive, said by Hanbury to have supplanted in the English markets the common false p. brava. It consists almost entirely of stems, forming cylindrical sticks and truncheons covered with an easily detached bark in two layers, and displaying when cut transversely a well-defined pith in the centre, followed by a succession of concentric or eccentric zones alternating with layers of parenchyma. [B, 5, 18, 121, 180 (a, 35).] 2. See White p. brava. 3. See Yellow p. brava. 4. See P. brava (2d def.). 5. See West African p. brava. 6. See Common false P. brava.—Fluid extract of p. See Extractum pareiræ fluidum.—Infusum pareiræ [U. S. Ph., 1870]. Fr., hydrolé de p. A preparation made by macerating 1 oz. (troy) of bruised p. brava in 1 pint of boiling water, and straining. It is used in irritation and chronic inflammation of the genito-urinary tract. [B, 5 (a, 38).]—P. brava. Ger., ächte Griesenwurzel (2d def.). 1. See P. 2. A bitter drug derived from Cissampelos p., used as a substitute for true p. It consists of the root and stems of the plant, and differs from true p. in having no concentric layers of wood. [B, 5, 18, 180 (a, 35).] See also West African p. brava and other subheadings.—Pareira radix [Br. Ph.], P. root. See P. Radix pareiræ brava. See P. and P. brava (2d def.).—Tinctura pareiræ. Fr., teinture (ou alcoolé) de p. A preparation made by digesting 1 part of p. root for some days in 5 parts of 22-per-cent. alcohol, and filtering. [B, 119 (a, 38).]—Tisane de p. brava (Fr.). See Decoction pareiræ.—West African p. brava. The p. brava of the Portuguese of Zanzibar; a product, according to some, of Ampelopsis botrya. It consists of portions of both root and stem, and is brownish externally, yellow and brownish internally, with numerous eccentric zones in the larger pieces. A cross-section displays in the centre a small star with a variable number of straight rays. [B, 5, 180 (a, 35).]—White p. brava. Fr., p. brava blanc (ou grande). A false p., without odor or taste, derived

PARIETARIA (Lat.), n. f. Pa<sup>2</sup>r(pa<sup>2</sup>r)-i<sup>2</sup>-e<sup>2</sup>t-a(a<sup>2</sup>)-ri<sup>2</sup>a<sup>2</sup>. From paries, a wall. Fr., pariétaire. Ger., Glaskraut. 1. Pellitory; a genus of herbs of the Parietarieæ (Fr., pariétaires), which are a division (tribe) of the Urticeæ. 2. The P. officinalis (1st def.). [B. 34, 42, 121, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—Aqua parietaria (Belg. Ph.). Fr., eau (ou hydratut) de pariétaire. A preparation made by distilling 1 part of the herb of P. officinalis with water enough to make 2 parts of distillate. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Herba parietaria (Belg. Ph.). Fr., pariétaire [Fr. Cod.], Sp., p. [Sp. Ph.]. The herb [Belg. Ph., Sp. Ph.] (the plant [Fr. Cod.] of P. officinalis). The Sp. Ph. recognizes also P. diffusa. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—P. cochinchinensis. See BOEHMERIA cochinchinensis.—P. diffusa. Ger., ausgebreitetes Glaskraut (oder Wandkraut). A species found in southern and central Europe, used like P. officinalis (1st def.), which it very much resembles. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. erecta. See P. officinalis (1st def.).—P. major, P. officinalis. Fr., pariétaire (officinale), pariétaire, épinard de muraille, herbe à l'opérateur (ou de name, ou de Notre-Dame, ou de verre), vitriole. Ger., angeflechtes Glaskraut (oder Mauerkraut), Peterskraut, Tropfkraut, Tag-und-Nachtkraut. 1. Wall pellitory, (common) pellitory of the wall, hammerwort, lichwort, virgin's plant, partridge-herb; a bushy species containing nitre, found throughout the greater part of Europe, where its herb, as well as that of P. diffusa, was formerly official as herba parietaria (seu parietaria vulgaris, seu parietaria majoris), herba helrines, herba pedicularis, and herba vinegaris. It is the ελάνθη of the ancients, who used it in various diseases. It is still employed empirically in diseases of the urinary organs and in dropsy, fevers, etc., and as a cataplasma (in its fresh state) for painful tumors. It has a rough, salty taste, and is diuretic and refrigerant, but is hardly demulcent and emollient, as has been supposed. [B. 5, 19, 173, 180 (a, 35).] 2. Of Linnaeus, see P. pennsylvanica. Sp., p. [Mex. Ph.]. American pellitory; a diuretic North American species growing in damp rocky places. [J. M.

PARIETIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i-e}^2\text{t}^1\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . See CHRYSOGRAPHIC ACID.

PARIETIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i-e}^2\text{t}^1\text{i}^2\text{n}$ . Fr., pariétine. See USNIC ACID.

PARIETINIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i-e}^2\text{t}^1\text{i}^2\text{n}^1\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Chrysophanic acid. [B, 8.]

PARIETO-MASTOID, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i}^1\text{'e}^2\text{t-o-ma}^2\text{st}^1\text{o}^1\text{id}$ . For deriv., see PARIETAL and MASTOID. Pertaining to the parietal bone and the mastoid process. [a, 48.]

PARIETO-SPHENOIDAL, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i}^1\text{'e}^2\text{t-o-sfen-oid}^1\text{a}^2\text{l}$ . Pertaining to the parietal and sphenoid bones. [a, 48.]

PARIETO-SPLANCHNIC, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i-e}^2\text{t-o-spla}^2\text{n}^2\text{k}^1\text{n}^1\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . From paries, a wall, and σπλάγχνον, an internal part. Pertaining to the walls of the body and the viscera. [B, 28 (a, 27).]

PARIGLIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i}^2\text{g}^1\text{l}^2\text{i}^2\text{n}$ . See SMILACIN.

PARILA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^1(\text{pa}^2\text{r})^1\text{-il}^2\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . Of Winkler, a genus of the Rhamneae; by Baillon referred to the genus Eleodendron. [B, 121, 180 (a, 35).]—P. malabarica. A Malabar species; a decoction of the bark and leaves is employed in hemorrhoids and the root and leaves are used as an alternative. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

PARILLIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i}^2\text{l}^2\text{i}^2\text{n}$ . Fr., parigline. Ger., Pariglin. See SMILACIN.

PARIN, n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i}^2\text{n}$ . See PARIDIN.

PARIPINNATE, adj.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-i}^2\text{-pi}^2\text{n}^1\text{at}$ . Lat., paripinnatus (from par, equal, and pinnā, a feather). Fr., paripenné. Equally pinnate, pinnate with an even number of pinnae. [B, 1, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PARIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2(\text{pa}^2)\text{-ri}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., par'idis. Fr., p. parissette. Ger., Einbeere. 1. A genus of the Parideae (Fr., paridées), which are: Of Link, an order of the Endogeneae; of Bartling, a division of the Smilacae. [B, 170, 180 (a, 35).] 2. See P. quadrifolia.—P. quadrifolia. Fr., parissette (ou morelle) à quatre feuilles, herbe à p., raisin de renard. Ger., gemeine (oder viertblättrige) Einbeere, Wolfsbeere, Fuchstraube, Sauvage, Steinbeere, P'kraut. Herb p., one-berry, true-love, four-leaved grass; a species found in moist shady places in most parts of Europe, where the root-stock, leaves, and berries, radix, folia, et baccæ paridis (seu p., seu solani quadrifolii, seu uice versæ, seu uice vulpine, seu uice inservæ, seu vitrariæ, seu aconiti salutariferi) were once official, but are now rarely used. The herb and root furnish paridin. All parts of the plant are more or less acid and poisonous. The root-stock, which is nauseous and emetic like ipecac, was formerly used as an antispasmodic. The leaves are a narcotic poison, and in large doses a drastic purgative; they were once employed in small doses as a diuretic and antispasmodic, as an antidote to strychnine, and externally as a poultice to torpid swellings, etc. The fruits have an offensive odor and vinous taste, and were used in arsenical and mercurial poisoning. The juice of the leaves has been employed in chronic inflammation of the eyelids. [B, 19, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

PARISTHMITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^1(\text{pa}^2\text{r})^1\text{-i}^2\text{sth-mi}^2(\text{me})^1\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -mit'idis (-idis). From παρά, beside, and ισθμός, a narrow passage. Fr., paristhmitite. See CYNANCHE and CYNANCHE tonsillar.

A genus typical of the Parmeliaceae (Fr., parméliacées), which are an order of Phylloidei. The Parmeliaceae of Schärer are a family of discoid lichens. The Parmeliadeae of Lindley agree nearly with the Parmeliaceae of Fries, which are a tribe of the Parmeliaceae. [B, 121, 170 (a, 35).]—P. aquila. A species found on mountain rocks in Sweden, Germany, and England. [a, 35].—P. furfuracea. Ger., kleinschuppige Schildflechte. A grayish species found on the bark of trees, especially of conifers. It is bitter, and is used as a febrifuge. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. melanoleuca. A species found on loca-bark, cascarilla, negrilla, red cinchona, and various other cinchonas. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. miculata. A species occurring on barks of North American trees and on ordinary loca-bark and China pseudo-loxa. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. omphalodes. Fr., p. omphaloide. Ger., Nabelschildflechte. Crotal (or crottle) lichen; one of the lichens sometimes occurring on human bones and skulls, formerly used, under the names of muscus cranii humani and usnea cranii humani, in dysentery, hemorrhage, epilepsy, etc. It and its variety P. omphalodes panniformis (Fr., p. en forme de toile) yield a peculiar dye said to be a constituent of orseille. [B, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. parietina. Fr., p. des murs (ou murailles). Ger., Wandschildflechte. Yellow (tree-) lichen; a species found on trees, but especially on old planks, walls, etc. It is bitter and febrifuge. Formerly it was used as a tonic in diarrhoea and dysentery. It contains a yellow dye-stuff, gum, extractive, and chrysophanic acid. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. prunastri. Fr., mousse de l'acacia, orseille feuillée. Ger., Pflaumenbaum, Schildflechte. A species reputed astringent, formerly known as muscus acacia and used especially in prolapse of the rectum and uterus. In Egypt it is said to be put into bread and beer to induce fermentation. It is used in perfumery, being a constituent of poudre de Chypre. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. saxatilis. Fr., p. des rochers, usnée de crâne humain. Ger., Steinmoos, Steinschildflechte, Steinflechte. Black (or stone) crotles; a tinctorial grayish species resembling P. omphalodes; formerly used in epilepsy, etc., under the name of muscus (seu usnea) cranii (if it had grown on skulls), and in diarrhoea and dysentery under the names of lichen saxatilis, herba hepaticæ saxatilis, etc. (if it had grown on rocks). [B, 2; B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. soredifera. One of the species occurring on cinchona-bark. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. subfusa. A species occurring on alcornoco and Copalchi barks. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. tillacea. A species found in Europe on oaks, lindens, birches, etc., also on the ordinary loca-bark of commerce. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. varia. A lichen found on various European trees and sometimes on cassia lignea. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

PARNASSIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r-na}^2\text{s}^1(\text{na}^2\text{s})^1\text{-si}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From Παρνασσός, Parnassus. Fr., parnassie. Ger., Einblatt, Parnasserkraut. Grass of Parnassus; a genus of the Saxifragæ, constituting the Parnassieae, or Parnassieae, which are: Of Gray, a family of the Thalamifloræ; of Wood, a suborder of the Droseraceae. [B, 34, 42, 121, 170 (a, 35).]—P. europæa, P. palustris. Fr., parnassie des marais, chendant (ou fleur, ou gazon) du parnasse, hépatique blanche (ou noble). Ger., Parnasserkraut, weisses Leberkraut, Steinblume, Herzblümchen. (Common) grass of Parnassus; a species growing in wet meadows throughout Europe, northern Asia, and parts of North America. The herb and flowers, herba et flores hepaticæ albae (seu parnassie, seu graminis parnassii), were formerly used as a diuretic and in ophthalmia. In Sweden a drink made by boiling all parts of the plant in beer is used in cardialgia, etc. [B, 19, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

tereccio (1st def.), paterecciolo (1st def.), panereccio (1st def.). Sp., panadizo (1st def.). 1. Properly, an inflammation near or around the nail or of the pulp of the finger and the matrix of the nail: also a phlegmonous inflammation anywhere on the fingers or hands. The simplest form of p., commonly called runround, is situated in the epidermis, and is characterized by erythematous redness at the end of the finger, followed by an effusion of sero-purulent fluid beneath the cuticle, which tends to spread about the circumference of the nail, the inflammation sometimes involving the matrix and giving rise to onychia. In the phlegmonous forms the inflammation may be seated in the subcutaneous areolar tissue, in the sheath of a tendon, or in the periosteum. [E; G.] 2. An old name of the Aira præcox, the Saxifraga tridactylites, and other plants. 3. Nail-wort, whitlow-wort; a genus of illecebraceous herbs, of the Paronychieae. The Paronychiaceae of Link, the Paronychieae of A. Richard, the Paronychiaceae of Gray, and the Paronychieae (Fr., paronychiées) of A. St.-Hilaire are the Illecebraceae. The Paronychiaceae of Bentham and Hooker are a tribe of the Illecebraceae. [B, 42, 121, 170, 173, 275 (a, 35).]—Anthracoid p. Fr., panaris anthracoides. P. appearing generally on the dorsal aspect of the fingers, probably arising from inflammation of the hair follicles. It usually has several openings. [L, 49 (a, 14).]—P. argentea. Ger., silberglänzende Knorpelblume. A species of P. (3d def.) found in southern Europe and in northern Africa. In Spain the entire plant in flower is official as herba sanguinariae minoris. An agreeable tea prepared from the dried flowers and the small leaves is used as a pectoral. [B, 180 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxvi (a, 50).]—P. argyrocoma. Silver chickweed (or -head), a pubescent species found in the Alleghany, Cumberland, and White Mountains. [B, 34, 275 (a, 35).]—P. artificialis. P. supposed to be produced by binding the end of a finger with the membrane found just beneath the shell of an egg; a practice once in vogue as a remedy in intermittent fever. Gr., παρόρασσις (from παρά, beside, and ὄρα, to see). Fr., parorase. 1. See PAROPSIS. 2. Color-blindness. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

ether, soluble in solutions of the acids and alkalis. [B.]—P. hydrochlorate, P. hydrochloride. An odorless, tasteless powder,  $C_7H_5NO \cdot HCl$ , soluble in water; an antipyretic. [Huchard, "Union méd.," Jan. 3, 1885, p. 13.]

PAROXYSM, n.  $Pa^2r^0o^2x-i^2zm$ . Gr., παροξυσμός (from παροξύνειν, to prick). Lat., paroxysmus. Fr., paroxisme. Ger., Paroxysmus. 1. A point in the course of a disease at which its symptoms appear with unusual force and prominence; a crisis (2d def.). 2. A violent attack or seizure of any sort. [D.]

PAROXYSMAL, adj.  $Pa^2r^0o^2x-i^2zm'l$ . Pertaining to, caused by, or appearing in paroxysms. [D, 20.]

PECTORILOQUISM, PECTORILOQUY, n's. Pe2kt-o2-r-i2p'o-kwi2'z'm, -kw'i2. From pectus, the breast, and loqui, to speak. Fr., pectoriloquie. Ger., Bruststimme. In auscultation of the voice, abnormal distinctness of the words articulated by the patient. [D. 1.]—Aphonic p. 1. Of Laennec, the pulmonary sound heard in auscultating a lung containing a cavity. 2. Of Boeckl, the sound heard in auscultation of a patient having a pleuritic effusion, when he speaks in a low voice. [L. 87 (a, 34).]—Whispering p. The hollow chest sound heard over a pulmonary cavity of limited extent when the patient speaks in a whisper. [D. 25.]

PEDIALGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{a}^2\text{lg}^2(\text{alg}^2)/\text{j}^2\text{i}^2(\text{g}^2)\text{a}^2$ . From πῆξις, the sole, and ἄλγος, pain. Fr., pédialgie. Ger., nerwöser Fusssohlenschmerz. Pain in the sole of the foot. [L., 50 (a, 43).]

PEDIATRY, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{a}^2\text{t}^2\text{r}^2\text{i}^2$ . See PÆDIATRICS.

PEDICEL, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2$ . Lat., pedicellus (dim. of pediculus, a little foot). Fr., pedicelle. Ger., Blüthenstielchen. 1. A secondary peduncle (pedunculus proprius); the support or stalk of a single flower of a flower-head. 2. The stipes of an agaric. 3. The seta (stalk) in the Muscineæ. 4. In zoology, a foot-like part, a sucker. [B., 1, 19, 123, 308 (a, 35).]—Ambulacral p's. See AMBULACRAL TUBES.

PEDICULARIS (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2\text{a}^2\text{r}^2(\text{u}^2\text{l})^2\text{a}^2(\text{a}^2\text{r}^2)\text{r}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . From pediculus, a louse. Fr., pédiculaire. Pertaining to lice, lousy; as a n. f. (Ger., Läusekraut), lousewort; a genus of scrophulariaceae herbs (also the Delphinium staphisagria). The Pediculares (Fr., pédiculaires) of D. Don are a family related to the Scrophulariaceæ. The Pediculares (Fr., pédiculaires) of Ruling are a division of the Ringentes. The Pedicularineæ of Reichenow are a subdivision of the Rhinanthaceæ. The Pedicularineæ (Fr., pédiculartineæ) of Mathieu are a tribe of the Rhinanthaceæ. [B., 34, 42, 121, 170 (a, 35).]—P. palustris. Fr., pédiculaire des marais, herbe aux poux. Ger., Stumpfblüsenkraut, Stumpfzettel. Marsh lousewort, red-rattle grass, cow's-wort; an herb of central and northern Europe and Asia, once official in Europe. The herb, herba p. (seu pedicularidis aquatica, seu fistularie), was formerly used in menstrual disorders, as a diuretic, and as an abstergent. It has an unpleasant odor and a very acrid taste. Animals refuse to eat it, as it produces in them hematuria and enteritis. It is still used as a wash to rid horses and cattle of vermin. In Siberia it is used in syphilis. [B., 19, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. silvestris. Fr., pédiculaire des bois. Ger., Waldhäsekraut, Waldrodol. Common mousewort, red-rattle; a species with the same habitat and properties as P. palustris, formerly official. [B., 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

PEDICULE, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2$ . Fr., p. See PEDICEL and PEDICLE.

PEDICULOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2\text{a}^2\text{r}^2(\text{u}^2\text{l})^2\text{o}^2\text{s}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -os'is (-is). From pediculus, a louse. See PHTHIRIASIS.

PEDICULUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2\text{a}^2\text{r}^2(\text{u}^2\text{l})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s}^2)$ . Fr., pou (2d def.). Ger., Laus (2d def.). 1. See PEDICLE. 2. A genus of apterous insects (the lice) parasitic on man and other animals.

Three varieties infest man: P. capitis, P. vestimenti, and P. pubis. Some writers limit the term to P. capitis and P. vestimenti, while P. pubis is termed Phthirus (q. v.). [G.]—P. capitis, P. cervicalis. Ger., Kopflaus. The head-louse; a form of p. inhabiting the hairy scalp. It varies in length from 1 to 4 mm., and has an elongated, ovalish body with an acorn-shaped head, provided with two antennæ, prominent eyes, and a suckorial mouth. Attached to the thorax are six legs armed with claws and hairs. Its color is commonly grayish or ashy, but is said to vary according to the color of its host, in Eskimos appearing white, in negroes black, and in Chinese yellowish-brown. The ova ("nits") are pyriform or oval in shape, and are firmly attached to the hairs. The insect was formerly considered aperiens and refrigere, and was prescribed in jaundice, etc. [B., 180 (a, 35); G.]—P. corporis. See P. vestimenti.—P. feralis, P. inguinalis, P. pubis. See PHTHIRIUS pubis.—P. tabescentium. A form erroneously supposed to be a special variety of P. occurring in tabetic patients. [G.]—P. vestimenti. Ger., Kleiderlaus. The clothes or body louse; a variety closely resembling P. capitis but considerably larger in size. Its habitat is the clothing, while it obtains its food, in the same manner as P. capitis, upon the skin. The eggs are deposited in seams or folds of the clothing. [G.]

PEDICUS (Lat.), PEDIEUS (Lat.), n's m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2\text{a}^2\text{r}^2(\text{u}^2\text{l})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s}^2)$ ,  $\text{pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2\text{a}^2\text{r}^2(\text{u}^2\text{l})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s}^2)$ . PEDILANTHUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{a}^2\text{r}^2(\text{u}^2\text{l})^2\text{a}^2\text{r}^2(\text{ia}^2)\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s}^2)$ . From πῆλον, a sandal, and ἄνθος, a flower. Fr., pédilanthé. Ger., Schuhhülle. Slipper spurge; a genus of the Euphorbiæ. [B., 42, 121, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. padifolius. Fr., pédilanthé à feuilles de padus. A species found in South America and the Antilles; used as an antisyphilitic. The root is used for ipecac, and the acid, caustic juice of the plant is applied to warts, etc. [B., 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. pavonis. Sp., juinete [Mex. Ph.], candelilla [Mex. Ph.]. A species the milky juice of which is violently drastic, while the root is emetic, and the leaves are reputed emmenagogue and antisyphilitic. [J. M. Maisch, "Am. Jour. of Pharm.," Jan., 1886, p. 20.]—P. tithymaloides. Fr., pédilanthé à feuilles de myrte. Ger., Pantoffelbaum. Jew-bush, bastard ipecacuanha; a species found in the Antilles and South America, containing an acid, bitterish, milky juice which is purgative and emetic. In South America the branches and stems are used in syphilis, amenorrhœa, etc. [B., 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

PEDILIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Fr., pédile. A small prolongation of the pericarp in composites. [B., 1 (a, 35).] See COL de l'ovaire.

PÉDILUVE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{d}^2\text{e}^2\text{lu}^2\text{v}$ . See Foot-BATH.—P. alcalin. See BAIN de pieds alcalin.—P. chlorhydrique, P. irritant de Scott. See BAIN de pieds acide.—P. sinapisé [Fr. Cod.]. Lat., balneum sinapiatum. A mustard-foot-bath. The Fr. Cod. prescribes 150 grammes of mustard-flour for each bath, and directs that the temperature of the water should not exceed 40° C. [B.]

PEDILUVIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2\text{u}^2\text{v}(\text{i}^2\text{u}^2\text{v})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s}^2)$ . From pes, the foot, and luere, to wash. Fr., pédiluve. See Foot-BATH.

PEDIMANA (Lat.), n. n. pl.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{m}^2\text{a}^2\text{n}^2(\text{a}^2\text{n}^2)\text{a}^2$ . From pes, the foot, and manus, the hand. Ger., affenfüssige Beuteltiere. An order of marsupial mammals having the extremities of the four limbs adapted to use either as hands or as feet.

PEDIOCOCCUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{o}^2\text{c}^2\text{o}^2\text{s}^2(\text{a}^2)\text{ko}^2\text{k}^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{ku}^2\text{s}^2)$ . From πῆδιον, a plain, and κόκκος, a kernel. A genus of Schizomycetes with spherical or ovoid, quaternary cocci loosely united into small families covered with a thin, scarcely visible layer of mucus which quickly dissolves. Division of the cocci takes place in two directions. [B., 316 (a, 35).]—P. cerevisiæ. A species occurring in beer, malt, ale, etc. The cocci are spherical, hyaline, and disposed regularly into tetrads. On gelatin, which it does not liquefy, it forms colonies which are at first hyaline, but subsequently become yellowish or yellowish-brown. A temperature of 60° C. destroys it in eight minutes. [B., 316 (a, 35).]—P. Kochii. A species found in secretions from wounds. [B., 316 (a, 35).]—P. Maggioræ. A non-pathogenic organism occurring in the skin of the human foot and in the nasal and thoracic regions. The cocci, which are from 0.8 to 0.9 mm. in diameter, form on gelatin regular, circular, minute, somewhat elevated colonies of an orange-color, which in old cultures become reddish. The pigment is soluble in water. Not to be confounded with the Sarcina aurantiaca of Flügge. [B., 316 (a, 35).]

PEDION (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}$ . Gr., πῆδιον. Fr., pédion. Ger., Fusssohle. The sole of the foot. [L., 50, 84 (a, 14, 43).]

PEDORA, n. Of old writers, sordes of the eyes, ears, and feet. [A., 325.]

PEDUNCLE, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d}^2\text{i}^2\text{u}^2\text{n}^2\text{cu}^2\text{l}$ . Lat., pedunculus (dim. of pes, the foot). Fr., pédoncule. Ger., Pedunkel, Schenkel (1st def.), Blüthenstiel (4th def.). 1. A prolongation of nervous matter connecting one portion of the brain with another portion. [L., 29 (K).] 2. In brachiopods, the muscular process by which they are attached. [B., 28 (a, 27).] 3. In bryozoans, the stem or fleshy stalk which supports the body, or capitulum, and connects it with the fixed support. [L., 11 (a, 30).] 4. In botany, the stalk of a flower or fruit, especially of a flower-head. [B., 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).]—Anterior (cerebellar) p's. See Superior cerebellar p's.—Anterior p's of the pineal gland. Ger., Markknopschenkel, Kleinhirnstiele. Bundles of white nerve-fibres arising in the white matter of the hemispheres, passing first outward and then downward, forming portions of the lower lateral wall of the fourth ventricles, and finally reaching the medulla oblongata, where they become continuous with the corresponding restiform bodies. [I, 14 (K).]—Inferior p's of the pineal gland. Two slender bands of medullary fibres which pass vertically downward from the base of the pineal gland along the back part of the inner surface of the optic thalami. [I, 172 (a, 29).]—Middle cerebellar p's, Middle p's of the cerebellum. Lat., crura ad medullam oblongatam, crura cerebelli ad pontem (seu lateralia). Fr., pédoncules cérébelleux moyens. Ger., Brückenarme, Brückenschenkel, Vereinigungschenkel. Bundles of white nerve-fibres that issue from the sides of the cerebellar hemispheres, extend forward and outward, and enter the ventral portion of the pons Varolii. [I (K).]—Olivary p. Lat., pedunculus olivæ. Ger., Olivenkernstrang, Olivenkernstiel. A bundle of fibres which arises in the nucleus olivæ and passes partly to the lemniscus and partly to the tegmentum. [Meyer (a, 29).]—Partial p. Lat., pedunculus partialis (seu proprius). A secondary p., the stalk of an individual flower of a cluster. [B, 123 (a, 35).]—P's of the cerebellum. The superior, middle, and inferior p's of the cerebellum. [I, 172 (a, 29).]—P's of the septum lucidum. Ger., Stiele der Scheidewand. Certain bundles of fibres which project downward from the anterior extremity of the septum lucidum (being the prolongations of its laminae) in front of the anterior commissure, to enter the white substance of the frontal lobe, near the base of the lenticular nucleus. [I, 3, 17 (K).]—P's of the spinal marrow, Posterior (cerebellar) p's. See Inferior cerebellar p's.—Secondary p. See Partial p.—Superior cerebellar p's, Superior p's (of the cerebellum). Lat., crura cerebelli superiora (seu anteriora, seu ascendente, seu encephali, seu ad cerebrum, seu ad corpora quadrigemina, seu ad eminentias quadrigeminas). Ger., obere Kleinhirnschenkel. Bands of white fibres which arise from the medullary portions of the cerebellar hemispheres in their mesial aspects, and extend forward and upward to dip beneath the corpora quadrigemina. They at first form part of the lateral wall of the fourth ventricle, then a part of its roof. [I, 15 (K).]—Superior p's of the pineal gland. The two p's of the pineal gland which pass forward upon the upper and inner margin of the optic thalami to the anterior crura of the fornix, with which they become blended. [I, 172 (a, 29).]—Transverse p's. See Middle p's of the cerebellum.

PEDUNCULUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{d-u}^2\text{n}^2\text{k}(\text{u}^4\text{n}^2\text{k})\text{-u}^2\text{l}(\text{u}^4\text{l})\text{-u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^4\text{s})$ . PELADA, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{l-a}^2\text{-da}^2$ . Fr., pelade. 1. Alopecia of the scalp. 2. Alopecia syphilitica. [G, 15.]

PELADE (Fr.), n.  $\text{P}^2\text{l-a}^2\text{d}$ . 1. Pelada; calvities, alopecia. 2. Alopecia areata. [G, 26.]—P. achromatense. Of Bazin, a variety of alopecia areata in which the hairs before falling out become lustreless, discolored, and sometimes reddish, while the bald patches which finally remain are of a milk-white color. [G.]—P. décalvante. Alopecia areata which develops rapidly, in which the hairs undergo no change in their appearance before they fall out, and in which the resulting bald spots appear of the same color as the surrounding integument. [G.]

PELAGIAN, PELAGIC, adj's.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{l-a}^2\text{g}'\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2\text{n, -i}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., pelagianus, pelagius (from pelagus, the sea). Living in the open sea, away from the coast. [B, 28; L, 206 (a, 27).]

PELAGO (It.), n.  $\text{Pa-l-a}^2\text{-go}$ . A place in the province of Florence, Italy, where there is a gaseous spring. [L, 30, 49 (a, 14).]

PELARGONIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{l-a}^2\text{rg-o}^2\text{n}'\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Relating to or derived from the genus Pelargonium. [B.]—P. acid. Fr., acide pélargonique (ou nonoïque). Ger., Pelargonsäure. Syn.: nonylic acid. A monobasic crystalline acid,  $\text{C}_9\text{H}_{15}\text{O}_2$ , melting at  $125^\circ\text{C}$ . to an oily liquid and boiling at  $253.5^\circ\text{C}$ ; found in essential oil of Pelargonium roseum and obtained also by oxidation of the essential oil of Ruta graveolens and in other ways; used to flavor wines. An isomeric form of the acid is known as isononylic or methylhexyl-acetic acid, and occurs as a liquid boiling at about  $246^\circ\text{C}$ . [B, 4; B, 3, 270 (a, 38).]—P. anhydride. Fr., anhydride pélargonique. Ger., Pelargonsäureanhydrid. A brown oily body,  $(\text{C}_9\text{H}_{11}\text{O})_2\text{O}$ , solidifying below  $5^\circ\text{C}$ . [B, 4; B, 93 (a, 14).]

PELARGONIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{l-a}^2\text{rg-on}(\text{o}^2\text{n})\text{'i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . From πελαργός, a stork. Fr., pélargon, p. pélargonier. Ger., Kranichschnabel. Stork's-bill; a genus of the Pelargoniceæ (a tribe of the Geraniaceæ); so called because the beaked fruit resembles a stork's bill. [B, 19, 34, 42, 121, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. anceps. A species used in India as an emmenagogue and parturient. [B, 267 (a, 35).]—P. antidysentericum. A species growing in southern Africa, where the tubers are used in dysentery. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. cucullatum. Fr., pélargon (ou p. capuchon). A Cape-of-Good-Hope species. The aromatic leaves are used as an emollient and stimulant in colic. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. glossularioides. A species indigenous to southern Africa, growing half wild about

Potacamund, India. When moist it exhales a strong balmy odor agreeable to most people, but in some producing marked dyspnoea with precordial anxiety. [G. Bidie, "Brit. Med. Jour.," Nov. 28, 1885, p. 1016 (a, 50).]—P. graveolens. Rose-scented geranium; a purple-flowered species with very fragrant leaves. [B. 34, 180 (a, 35).] Cf. P. roseum.—P. inquinans. Scarlet geranium; an ornamental species having viscid leaves, and branches that exude a reddish, clammy moisture. [B. 34 (a, 35).]—P. odoratissimum. Nutmeg-scented geranium; a white-flowered, trailing herb indigenous to southern Africa, but cultivated in Turkey and France. The leaves yield a fragrant volatile oil of a pale brownish-yellow, known as geranium oil, or oil of rose geranium, used in adulterating oil of rose. Dissolved in alcohol, it forms extract of rose-leaf geranium. [B. 5, 19, 34, 180 (a, 35).]—P. peltatum. Fr. géraniun-lierre. The ivy-leaved geranium. The buds and leaves are eaten at the Cape of Good Hope. [B. 34, 181 (a, 35).]—P. radula. A species having a mint-like fragrance. The Kaffirs say that this and other species keep off snakes. [B. 34, 180, 314 (a, 35).] Cf. P. roseum.—P. roseum. Ger. Rosenkraut. Rose geranium; a fleshy-stemmed species sometimes considered a hybrid between P. graveolens and P. radula, but found wild at the Cape of Good Hope. It is cultivated in France under the name of rose de Linours. Its essential oil, geranium oil, is probably identical with that of P. odoratissimum. It contains pelargonic acid. [B. 5, 19, 180, 185 (a, 35).]

PELARIUM (Lat.), n. n. Pel(pal)-a(a²)/ri²-u²m(u²m). Gr. πηλάριον (from πῆλος, clay). Of old writers, a certain collyrium of a clayey consistence. [A, 325 (a, 48).]

PELICAN, n. Pel²/²-k'n. Gr. πελεκάν, a pelican. Lat., pelicanus. Fr., pélican. Ger., Pelikan. 1. A natatorial bird of the order Steganopodes, having a remarkable pouch under its long bill. [a, 48.] 2. A glass vessel or alembic with peculiarly shaped beaks. 3. An instrument formerly used for drawing teeth. [A, 322, 325 (a, 48); L, 41, 56 (a, 14).]

PELICOMETER, n. Pel¹/²-k-o²m/e²t-u²r. From πέλιξ, a bowl, and μέτρον, a measure. See PELVIMETER.

PELIDNEPHROSIS (Lat.), n. f. Pel¹/²-d-ne²f-i²d(ed)-ros-²s. Gen., -ros²/eos (-is). From πελιδνός, livid, and ἐφιδρωσις, epidrosis. See MELINEPHROSIS.

PELIDNOMA (Lat.), n. n. Pel¹/²-d-nom²/a². Gen., -nom²/atos (-atis). Gr., πελιδνώμα (from πελιδνός, to become livid). Syn.: pelionia, peliosis. A livid spot due to extravasated blood, usually from contusion. Cf. ECHYMOSES.

PELIDNUS (Lat.), n. m. Pel¹/²-d-nu²s(nu²s). Gr., πελιδνός. Ger., bleifarbigte Haut. A leaden-colored appearance of the skin, especially when due to splenic disease. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PELIONA (Lat.), n. n. Pel¹/²-d-om²/a². Gen., -om²/atos (-atis). Gr., πελιόνα (from πελιδνός, to become livid). See PELIDNOMA.—P. typhosum. The state of having bluish-red spots on the body and extremities. [A, 326 (a, 34).]

PELIONIS (Lat.), n. f. Pel¹/²-d-os²/²s. Gen., -os²/eos (-is). Gr., πελιόνις (from πελιδνός, to become livid). Fr., pélioise. See PELIDNOMA and PURPURA.

PELLAGRA (Lat.), n. f. Pel¹/²-la²(g-la²g)-ra². From pellis, the skin, and agra, a seizure. Fr., pellagre, pélagie, érythème endémique, mal asnerine (ou de nièvre), scorbut des Alpes, salsedine. Ger., lombardischer Ausatz, mailänder Rose. Syn.: dermatagra, erythematia italica, ergisipela periodicum nervosum chronicum, elephantia endemicum, griegopathia, lepra italica (ou lombardica, ou mediolanensis), argalyis scorbutica, pellis asgra, phagionia maitistica, scorbutus albinus. Italian leprosy, scurvy of the Alps; a chronic endemic disease affecting the lower classes of people in the northern part of Italy and adjacent regions, characterized by a slowly increasing cachexia attended with disturbances of the cutaneous, digestive, and nervous systems. The skin is affected with an erythematous eruption, especially of the exposed parts of the body, and sometimes with desquamation, erosion, or crusting. The digestive derangement may consist of anorexia, dyspepsia, vomiting, or diarrhoea. The nervous symptoms, which are usually grave, may assume the form of melancholia, mania, convulsions, or idiocy. The disease, although its cause is as yet undetermined, has by many been ascribed either to an exclusive diet of maize or to deleterious substances with which the maize may accidentally be combined. By others it has been attributed to a miserable mode of life, with insufficient nourishment. Some deny that it is an independent form of disease. [Wintermüt, "Vierteljahrsschr. f. Derm. u. Syph.," 1876, p. 151 (c); G, 73.]—Nervo-muscular p. Of Ponsié, p. paralytica. [a, 34.]—P. florida. P. in which the eruption is florid. [J. Arnaud, L. 87, 307, vol. xcii, p. 341 (a, 34).]—P. intermittens. P. in which the disease disappears for the season, to reappear the next year at the same time. [L. 87 (a, 50).]—P. occulta. P. without eruption; observed in persons who have not been exposed to the sun.—P. paralytica. Of J. Arnaud, the second degree of p., in which there is extreme debility, especially of the lower extremities. [a, 34.]

PELLAGRAZÉNE (Fr.), n. Pel¹/²-la²-gra²-za-en. An alkaloid extracted from a tincture of damaged maize. Its physiological effects are said to resemble those of strychnine, and it has been supposed to be the cause of pellagra. [Lombroso, "Rev. sci.," No. 4, 1882; "Lyon méd.," Feb. 19, 1882; "Lancet," Apr. 29, 1882.]

PELLENS (Lat.), adj. Pel¹/²-le²ns. From pellere, to drive. Foreleg, stimulant. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

PELLET, n. Pel²/²-²t. From pila, a ball. Fr., boulette. Ger., Kügelchen. A little ball or pill. [a, 34.]

PELLETIERINE, n. Pel¹/²-e²r-i²-e²r-en. Fr., pellétierine. Ger., Pelletierin. An alkaloid, C₁₄H₁₈NO, found, along with isop, methylp, and pseudop, in the root-bark of Punica granatum; a liquid soluble in water, alcohol, ether or chloroform, boiling at 195° C., and dextrorotary at a temperature less than 100° C. Isop is distinguished from p. only by being optically inactive. [B, 5, 270 (a, 38).]—P. sulphate. Fr., sulfate de pelletierine [Fr. Cod.]. A crystalline residue obtained by leaving exposed to concentrated sulphuric acid under a bell glass the aqueous solution of the sulphates of p. and isop obtained in the preparation of p. from pomegranate-root. It consists of the sulphates of both alkaloids. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—P. tannate. Lat., tannas pelletierinus. Fr., tannate de pelletierine [Fr. Cod.]. A preparation made by mixing with an aqueous solution of p. sulphate a solution of 325 parts of tannin to 100 of sulphate, neutralizing with ammonia, washing the precipitate with water until there is no reaction with barium nitrate, and drying the residue at a gentle heat; a powerful tænfuge. [B, 95 (a, 38); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxxi, p. 282 (a, 50).]

PELLICLE, n. Pel¹/²-i²-k'l. See PELLICULA.

PELLICULA (Lat.), n. f. Pel¹/²-i²k(u²l)-a². Dim. of pellis, a skin. Fr., pellicule. Ger., Häutchen, Deckhaut (4th def.). 1. A very thin membrane or scum. 2. See CUTICLE. 3. A valve of the heart. [L, 849.] 4. The outer covering of a seed. [B, 123 (a, 35).]—Angina p. See AMNION (1st def.).—P. summa, P. superior. The epidermis. [G.]—P. subtilis. See PIA.

PELOUS, adj. Pel²/²-us². Gr., πῆλός. Lat., pellus. Fr., pellé. Dark-colored (said of the skin). [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PELMA (Lat.), n. n. Pel¹/²-ma². Gen., pel²/matos (-atis). Gr., πέλμα. Fr., pelme. The plantar surface of the toes; also the entire sole of the foot. [L, 41, 343 (a, 43).]

PELOHÉMIE (Fr.), n. Pa-lo-a-me. From πῆλός, mud, and αἷμα, blood. Abnormal thickness of the blood. [A, 385 (a, 48).]

PELOPIC ACID, n. Pel¹/²-o²p-i²k. Ger., Pelopsäure. See NIOBIC ACID.

PELOPIUM (Lat.), n. n. Pel¹/²-op(o²p)-i²-u²m(u²m). Fr., pélopium. Of Rose, a supposed new metallic element, afterward found to be niobium. [B, 3.]

PELOR (Lat.), n. n. Pel(pel¹/²)-o²r(or). Gen., -or²/os (-or²/is). Gr., πέλωρ. A foetal monstrosity having some parts excessively large. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PELORIA (Lat.), n. f. Pel¹/²-or-i²-a². Fr., pélorie. From πέλωρ, a monster. The restoration of regularity in an irregular flower. Linnaeus first applied the term to a departure in Linaria vulgaris in which the flower (irregular because of the spur at the base of the corolla) reverted to the regular form by the development of four additional sacs or spurs. [B, 1, 19, 308 (a, 35).]

PELORIZATION, n. Pel¹/²-or-i²-za²-shu²n. From πέλωρ, a monster. Ger., Pelorienbildung. The development in an irregular flower of additional similar appendages so as to restore symmetrical regularity. [a, 35.] Cf. PELORIA.

PELOSINE, n. Pel¹/²-osen. Fr., pélosine. Cisampeline; identical with beberine and with buxine. [A, 1; B, 93 (a, 14).]

PELOTE (Fr.), n. P²-lot. A cushion, or pad.—P's tactiles. Ger., Tastballen. Dermic elevations on the palmar and plantar surfaces of mammals. The lines which contain tactile papillae on the palm of the human hand are of the same nature. ["Rev. des sci. méd.," July, 1889, p. 16 (a, 18).]

PELOTON (Fr.), n. Pel¹/²-lo-to²n. See GLOMERULE.—P. fille. See DISPIREME.—P. folliculaire. See GLOMERULE of the sweat-glands.

PELTONNEMENT (Fr.), n. P²-lo-to²n-ma²n². The folding of the lower limbs of the foetus upon the trunk and their compression against it, constituting the first step in the process of expulsion in breech presentations.

PELTALIS (Lat.), adj. Pel²-ta(a²)-lis². See THYREOID.

PELTATE, adj. Pel²-tat. Lat., peltatus (from pelta, a small shield). Fr., pellé. Ger., schildförmig, schildstielig (1st def.). 1. Of a leaf, etc., having the blade (usually rounded) attached to the petiole at some part of the lower surface and not at the basal margin. The Peltata of Hoffman are an order of cryptogams consisting of the genus Equisetum. 2. Of the apothecia of lichens, large, rounded, and disc-shaped, without a distinct thalline margin. The Peltati of Acharius are a division of the Homothalamei consisting of Umea, Collema, etc. [B, 123, 170 (a, 35).]

PELTATIFID, adj. Pel²-ta²-ti²-fid². Lat., peltatifidus (from pelta, a small shield, and fendere, to split). Of a peltate leaf, cut into subdivisions. [B, 19 (a, 35).]

PELTIGERA (Lat.), n. f. Pel²-ti²-j(i²g)-e²r-a². From pelta, a small shield, and gerere, to bear. Fr., p. peltigère. Ger., Schildflechte. A genus of lichens with peltiform apothecia, typical of the Peltigerae of Dumortier, a family of the Scutellina and Peltigere (Fr., peltigère), a tribe of the Phylloidi. [B, 19, 121, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—P. aphthosa. Fr., p. apthéus. Ger., warzige Schildflechte. A species formerly used in the rashes of children and as a vermifuge. It was official as muscus cumatilis, herba musci cumatilis, and lichen cumatilis. [B, 77, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. canina. Fr., peltigère des chiens, hépatique contre la rage, mousse de chien, pulmonaire de chien (ou de terre). Ger., Hundsflechte, Steinlebermoos. Ground-liverwort, dog-lichen; used in hydrophobia and asthma. [B, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. horizontalis. Ger., gemeine (oder wagrechte) Schildflechte. A species having the same official names as P. aphthosa and, like the latter, formerly used as an anthelmintic and in aphthae. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. polydactyla. Ger., viellappige Schildflechte. A species widely dispersed throughout Germany, formerly used like P. aphthosa. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

branches carry at one end a perpendicular blade or square, 5 to 6 ctm. high, and at the other end a grotchet, intended for moving the two branches and separating the squares. Being closed by the coming together of the two squares, the p. is introduced into the vagina, and the top of the posterior square is placed on the most salient part of the promontory. The anterior square is then drawn toward the posterior part of the pubic symphysis, and the length of the sacro-pubic diameter is indicated by the numbers shown by the slipping of the two branches. [L, 88 (a, 50).]—Creve’s p. A cord stretched from the apex of the subpubic arch to the promontory by means of a straight, stiff rod. [L, 88 (a, 50).]—Depaul’s p. A modification of Baudelocque’s calipers, capable of being transformed into an internal p. for use at the inferior strait. [A, 15.]—Direct p. A p. that is simultaneously applied to each extremity of the diameter which is to be measured. [Baillly (L, 87 (a, 34)).]—Hubert’s p. A p. forming an angle of a little more than 45°, consisting of an external and an internal branch. [L, 87 (a, 50).]—Indirect p. A p. in which one limb of the instrument is placed at an extremity of the diameter that is to be measured, the other limb being placed on a part that is near the other extremity. [Baillly, L, 87 (a, 34).]—Internal p. Fr., pelvimètre interne. A p. in which the measurements are made within the vagina. [a, 34.]—Koppe’s p. A leathern bracelet fixed on the forearm, to which is riveted a plate with a groove along which are traced the divisions. An index is moved in this groove by a thread which, after running through a ring intended for the forefinger, is attached to another ring in which the thumb is placed. When the fingers are separated they draw the thread and slider together, thus indicating the degree of separation on the scale. [L, 88 (a, 50).]—Küstner’s p. A very complicated form of p., being at the same time a pelvigraph. [L, 87 (a, 50).]—Ritgen’s p. A p. formed of a graduated branch with a plate at its top, to be applied to the base of the sacrum, and of a curved arm gliding along the first branch till it is close to the pubes. From the measure so found, half an inch is deducted for the thickness of the symphysis, the remainder being the antero-posterior pelvic diameter. [L, 88 (a, 50).]—Stark’s p. A simple cord provided with two running knots. [L, 88 (a, 50).]—Universal p. Van Huevel’s p. Fr., pelvimètre universel (de Van Huevel). A p. consisting of modified calipers one branch of which is to be introduced into the vagina and the other applied externally. The length of the external branch may be varied. [A, 15.]

PELVIS (Lat.), n. f. Pe<sup>2</sup>lv/i<sup>2</sup>s(wi<sup>2</sup>s). Gen., pel’ves, pel’vis. From πέλς, a basin. Fr., bassin. Ger., Becken. 1. The osseous structure formed by the innominate bones, the sacrum, the coccyx, and the ligaments uniting them. It articulates through the sacrum with the vertebral column, and serves as a support for the posterior limbs. 2. The cavity included within these bones. It is divided into a false, or superior, p., and a true, or inferior, p., by a plane passing through the promontory of the sacrum, the ilio-pectineal line, and the upper border of the symphysis pubis, the circumference of this plane constituting the inlet of the true p. The lower margin of the true p. is formed by the coccyx, the tuberosities of the ischia, the ascending rami of the ischia, the descending rami of the ossa pubis, and the sacro-sciatic ligaments. In the female all its diameters are slightly greater than in the male. [L, 31, 142, 332.] Cf. PELVIC AXES and the various diameters and planes of the p. under DIAMETER and PLANE. 3. Any basin-shaped structure or cavity. Cf. P. of the kidney.—Ankylosed transversely contracted p. Fr., bassin ankylosé rétréci transversalement. A p. in which the transverse diameter is contracted; usually the result of rachitis. [a, 34.]—Antero-posterior elliptical p. Ger., gerade-elliptisches Becken. That form of p. in which the normal difference between the transverse and the conjugate diameters of the inlet is increased.—Beaked p. See Triradiate p.—Bony p. Fr., bassin osseux. Ger., knöchernes (oder skeletisirtes) Becken. See P. (1st def.).—Caoutchouc p. Of Kilian, an osteomalacic p. in which the bones are curved, compressed, and shortened, and may be stretched without breaking. [a, 34.]—Cocked-hat p. Ger., spitzkegige Hutforn (oder spitzige Herzfigur) des Beckens [Osiander]. An infantile variety of the triangular p. [A, 85.]—Contracted infundibuliform p. Ger., engtrichterförmiges Becken. That form of p. in which the inlet is normal while the outlet is contracted. [A, 20.]—Contracted p. Fr., bassin rétréci (ou vicié par étroitesse). Ger., enges (oder verengtes) Becken, Beckenverengerung. A p. with any of its diameters below the standard measurement; applied particularly to contraction at the brim.—Cordate p. Fr., bassin cordiforme. Ger., stumpfe Kartenherzform des Beckens. The normal form of the pelvic inlet in women of the European races, the ratio of the conjugate to the transverse diameter being as 4 to 5. [A, 20.]—Cordiform p. Fr., bassin en forme de cœur de cartes à jouer. Ger., herzförmiges (oder kartenherzförmiges) Becken eingedrückte und zugespitzte Herzfigur des Beckens [Osiander]. Of Madame Lachapelle, an abnormal p. in which the inlet is heart-shaped. [a, 34.]—Coxalgic (oblique) p. Fr., bassin coxalgique (ou vicié par luxation, ou à type ilio-fémoral) [Guéniot]. Ger., coxalgisches Becken. Of Rokitsansky, a deformity of the p. due to dislocation of the head of the femur as the result of hip-joint disease.—Cuneiform p. Ger., keilförmiges Becken. A p. having a wedge-shaped inlet. [A. 34].—Dwarf p. Lat., p. nana. Fr., bassin de naine. Ger., Zwergbecken. That variety of the p. aequabiliter justo minor in which the p. preserves its feminine type, but is small in conformity with the general dwarfed state of the individual. [A. 61].—Dynamic p. Of Parvin, the p. in the living subject and in labor. [A. 34].—Elastic p. See Osteomalacic p.—Elliptical p. Fr., bassin en forme d'ellipse. See Rectangular p. and Wedge-shaped p.—Expanded infundibuliform p. Ger., weittrichterförmiges Becken. That abnormal form in which the inlet is expanded, the outlet retaining its usual dimensions. [A. 20].—False p. Fr., grand bassin, bassin abdominal. Ger., grosesse (oder grössere, oder obere) Becken. See under P. (2d def.).—Female p. See under P. (2d def.).—Fissured p. Fr., bassin fendu (ou avec fente symphysaire congénitale). Ger., gespaltenes Becken. That variety of the rhachitic p., described by Litzmann, in which, from lack of resistance to the weight of the body at the pubic symphysis, due to arrest of development at the symphysis, the iliac bones are forced forward and rendered nearly parallel. It is generally accompanied by eversion and exstrophy of the bladder. [A. 15].—Flat (rhachitic) p. Fr., bassin aplati (ou trop bas, ou moulé). Ger., plattes (rhachitischen) Becken, quergezogenes Becken. A p. contracted in the conjugate diameter, the transverse diameter being normal or less contracted. —Funnel-shaped p. See Infundibuliform p.—Generally contracted flattened p. Lat., p. nimis parva (Van Deventer). Fr., bassin généralement rétréci aplati (ou généralement et irrégulièrement rétréci). Ger., allgemein gleichmässig verengtes Becken. A combination of an antero-posteriorly contracted and generally contracted p.; the iliac bones are slightly in width, and the iliac alae are more horizontal and divergent than usual, the p. having a generally flattened appearance. [Spiegelberg (A. 34)].—Generally contracted p. See P. aequabiliter justo minor.—India-rubber p. See P. caoutchouc p.—Infantile p. See Dwarf p.—Inferior p. Fr., bassin inférieur. Ger., unteres Becken. The true p.—Infundibuliform p. Fr., bassin en entonnoir (ou infundibuliforme). Ger., Trichterbecken. The funnel-shaped p. a very rare deformity consisting in a gradual progressive narrowing of the pelvic canal from above downward, the inlet being either normal or but slightly contracted in all its diameters. [A. 22]. See also Reverse infundibuliform p.—Irregular generally contracted p. Ger., ungleichmässig allgemein verengtes Becken. A generally contracted p. in which there are unequally contracted diameters. [A. 34].—Justo minor p. See P. aequabiliter justo minor.—Kilian's p. See Osteomalacic p.—Kypho-scoliotic p. Fr., bassin rhachitique cypho-scoliotique. A kyphotic p. with the kyphosis situated very low, resulting in a marked difference in the inclination of the two lateral halves of the p. [A. 24].—Kyphotic (rhachitic) p. Fr., bassin (rhachitique) cyphotique. Ger., Kyphotisches (oder Kyphotisch-rhachitischen) Becken. A deformity of the p. due to kyphosis, characterized chiefly by changes in the form and direction of the sacrum, producing contraction of the pelvic cavity and outlets. [A. 22].—Kyphotic skolio-rhachitic p. Ger., Kyphotisch-skoliotisch-rhachitischen Becken. A kyphotic p. in which the kyphosis is situated low and is accompanied by skoliosis. It is asymmetrical and its particular form is governed by the skoliosis. [A. 61].—Malacostron p. See Osteomalacic p.—Male p. See under P. (2d def.).—Masculine p. Ger., männliches (starkes) Becken. That variety of the p. aequabiliter justo minor in which, while it may have the feminine form in general or resemble the male type, the promontory of the sacrum is high, the ilia are steep, the symphysis pubis is convex and erect, the sacrum is small, and the bones are of uncommonly heavy build. [A. 61].—Oblique ovate p. Lat., p. oblique ovata, p. ovato-obliqua. Fr., bassin obliquement (ou unilatéralement) étiré, bassin oblique ovalaire. Ger., schräg (oder einseitig) verengtes (ovales) Becken. That deformity of the p. which shows itself especially in the narrowing of one oblique diameter resulting from the anterior and posterior walls having been forced laterally in opposite directions, giving the appearance of the p. having been twisted. [A. 20].—Oblique p. of Nägele. A shortening of one oblique diameter, with complete ankylosis of one of the sacro-iliac synchondroses and imperfect development of the corresponding half of the sacrum and ilium. [A. 34].—Obstructive p. Ger., geburtshindliches Becken. The true p. in which the deformity is of such a character that the diminution of the diameters interferes with or prevents delivery. [A. 34].—Osteomalacic p. Fr., bassin ostéomalacique (ou ramolli [Stein, Jr.], ou elastique, ou de caoutchouc). Ger., osteomalakisches (ou halstetisches) [Kilian] Becken, Gummi-Becken. Distortion of the p. due to pressure while the bones are softened by osteomalacia. It is characterized chiefly by transverse contraction especially at the outlet. See also Pseudo-osteomalacic p.—Oval p. Fr., bassin oval (ou en forme de cœur de carreau à joint enroulé). A p. with the inlet in the form of the heart on a playing-card; one of the four typical forms of p. as defined by G. W. Stein and M. J. Weber. [A. 24].—Paderborn p. Lat., p. paderbornensis. A spondylolythic p. in a museum at Paderborn, Westphalia. [Spiegelberg (A. 34)].—P. aequabiliter justo major. Ger., allgemein zu weites Becken. Syn., nimis p. ampliatum. A p. in which all the diameters are above the standard in about the same proportions. —P. aequabiliter justo minor. Fr., bassin généralement et régulièrement rétréci (ou trop petit, bassin vicié par étroitesse absolue [Volpenn] (ou avec perfection des formes [Dubois])). Ger., allgemein verengtes (oder zu kleines) Becken, allgemeine Verengung des Beckens. Syn., justo minor p., p. ubique justo minor [Korten]. A p. in which all the diameters are below the standard in about the same proportions. [A. 22].—P. auris. P. aurium. An old term for the ossicle and concha of the ear. [F.].—P. cerea. Literally, a wax like p.; that form of the osteomalacic p. in which the bones are fatty, voluminous, and more or less softened. [A. 61].—P. eolatoria cerebri. See Ischmiolalic (2d def.) p.—P. coxitis. An oblique p. caused by coxitis. [A. 32] (A. 34).—P. ibna. See Fissured p.—P. fracturosa. That variety of the osteomalacic p. in which the

PELYCOMETRESIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{I}^2\text{k}^2\text{m}^2\text{o}^2\text{u}^2\text{re}^2$ . (n)  $\text{a}^2\text{p}^2\text{o}^2\text{v}$ . Gen., responso. From  $\text{p}^2\text{e}^2\text{u}^2$ , the pelvis, and  $\text{a}^2\text{p}^2\text{o}^2\text{v}$ , a measuring. Fr., pelvymètre. See PELVIMETRY.

PELYCOTOMIA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2l-i^2k(u^6k)-o(o^2)-tom(to^2m)^{i2}$ . a<sup>3</sup>. From  $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\upsilon\varsigma$ , the pelvis, and  $\tau\omicron\mu\acute{\alpha}$ , a cutting. See PUBIOTOMY.

PELYOCHEIOMETRESIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2l-i^2(u^6)-o(o^2)-kir(che^2-i^2r)-o(o^2)-me^2t-re(ra)^{i2}s$ . Gen.,  $-res'eos(-is)$ . From  $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\upsilon\varsigma$ , the pelvis,  $\chi\epsilon\iota\phi$ , the hand, and  $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\tau\rho\eta\sigma\iota\varsigma$ , measurement. Fr., pélyochirométrese. See Digital PELVIMETRY.

PELYOMETRESIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2l-i^2(u^6)-o(o^2)-me^2t-re(ra)^{i2}s$ . Gen.,  $-res'eos(-is)$ . From  $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\upsilon\varsigma$ , the pelvis, and  $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\tau\rho\eta\sigma\iota\varsigma$ , a measuring. See PELVIMETRY.

PELZ (Ger.), n.  $Pe^2lts$ . See FUR.—P'igsein. See FORMICATION.

PEMMICAN, n.  $Pe^2m/i^2k'n$ . Fr., p. Ger., Pemmikan. Dried and coarsely powdered meat, mixed with fat and currants and pressed; used especially by travelers in high latitudes, from its containing a very large proportion of nutritious matter and its property of remaining fresh and wholesome. [L. 30, 37, 41 (a. 14); L. (a. 48).]

PEMPHIGOID, adj.  $Pe^2m/i^2g-oid$ . Gr.,  $\pi\epsilon\mu\phi\iota\gamma\acute{o}\delta\eta\varsigma$  (from  $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\mu\phi\iota\varsigma$ , a pustule, and  $\epsilon\acute{\iota}\delta\omicron\varsigma$ , resemblance). Lat., pemphigodes, pemphigoides. Fr., pemphigode. Ger., pemphigusartig. Resembling pemphigus. [L. 50 (a. 43).]

PEMPHIGUS (Lat.), n. m.  $Pe^2m-i^2g(feg)^{i2}u^6s(u^4s)$ . From  $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\mu\phi\iota\varsigma$ , fièvre bulleuse, maladie bulleuse (ou vésiculaire), p. chronique disséminée, pemphix chronique. Ger., Blasenauerschlag. 1. A disease chiefly characterized by a continuous or intermittent eruption of serous, purulent, or sanious bullæ on the skin and adjacent mucous membranes, attended with itching and usually with fever. It is associated with more or less impairment of the general health. [G. 2. Of Wilson and Bateman, see P. acutus.—Arthritic p. Lat., p. chronicus. Fr., arthritide irrégulière bulleuse. P. due to gout. According to Bazin, arthritic p. differs from herpetic p. in that the bullæ are more apt to develop upon an erythematous and often eczematous base. The walls of the bullæ were said to be thicker and the contents oftener purulent, followed by the formation of crusts like those of impetigo, and were frequently associated with patches of eczema, furuncles, abscesses, or inflammation of the lymphatics. [G.]—Circinate p. Lat., p. circinatus. P. characterized by circular efflorescences. Lat., p. essentialis. P. idiopathicus. See P. (1st def.).—P. acutus. Fr., fièvre bulleuse (ou vésiculaire). Ger., Blasenfeber. Acute p.; p. of an acute course, ending either in spontaneous recovery or in death. The older writers and a few recent ones describe it as affecting adults, but most modern authors admit its occurrence in children only. [G.] See P. neonatorum.—P. acutus contagiosus. An acute contagious variety of p. neonatorum commonly occurring epidemically. [G.]—P. à petites bulles (Fr.). See HYDROA bulleux.—P. apyreticus. 1. P. unattended with fever and usually of a mild type. 2. Of Plenck, a form of p. observed in persons of depraved health. [G. 11.]—P. à tactu Colubri bicephali. Of Plenck, a variety of p. observed in Brazil, caused by contact with the Coluber bicephalus, whether alive or dead. The bullæ are said to persist for three months. [G. 11.]—P. benignus. P. of a mild type, as opposed to p. malignus. [G.]—P. brasiliensis. See P. à tactu Colubri bicephali.—P. bulleux successif (Fr.). See P. diutinus.—P. cachecticorum, P. cachecticus. P. occurring in cachectic, ill-nourished persons; usually a severe form. [G.]—P. cachecticus infantum. A form of p. in infants with an unhealthy condition of the surface exposed after rupture of the bullæ and a disposition to ulceration and to a croupous or diphtheritic exudation. [G.]—P. cachectique de Schuller (Fr.). See P. diutinus.—P. chronicus. Fr., p. chronique. See Arthritic p.—P. circinatus. See Circinate p.—P. composé (Fr.). See HERPES pemphigoides.—P. confertus. Fr., p. en groupes. P. in which the bullæ form in clusters. [G. 15.]—P. conjunctivæ. P. in which the bullæ form on the conjunctiva and lead to shrinking and finally to a condition resembling xerosis. [F.]—P. criticus. A pemphigoid eruption said to occur in certain acute febrile diseases at the period of the crisis. [G. 33.]—P. crouposus, P. diphtheriticus. See P. cachecticus infantum.—P. disseminatus. P. with efflorescences irregularly distributed over the surface. [G.]—P. diutinus. Fr., p. permanent et contenu, p. (bulleux) successif. A variety of p. vulgaris malignus in which the production of bullæ is uninterrupted and long continued. [G.]—P. diutinus hæmorrhagicus. A form of recurrent, papulo-bullous, hæmorrhagic urticaria described by Devergie, considered by Brocq a form of dermatitis herpeticiformis. ["Montsh. f. prakt. Dermat.," viii, 5, p. 235 (G.).]—P. en groupes (Fr.). See P. confertus.—P. epidemicus. See P. acutus contagiosus.—P. essentialis. See P. (1st def.).—P. febrilis. 1. P. attended with fever. 2. See P. acutus.—P. folliculeus. A grave and often fatal form of p. in which crops of imperfectly formed blebs with flaccid walls are formed in rapid succession over extensive portions of the cutaneous surface. They soon burst and dry into thin flaky scales or crusts, which are exfoliated in abundance. Between the succeeding crops the epidermis is never fully regenerated, and distinct bullæ soon cease to appear, leaving the surface of the skin covered with scabs and red, exuding erosions. [G. 30; "Am. Jour. of the Med. Sci.," Dec., 1891, p. 630.]—P. frambesiformis, P. frambesiolides. A form of p. in which fungiform growths form on the excoriations left by the rupture of the bullæ. [G. 3.]—P. gangrenosus. Syn., rupia eschscholtzii. The p. infantilis of Willan, vulgarly called "burnt-holes"; a form of p. that sometimes occurs as an epidemic among children in lying-in institutions or endemically among the badly nourished children of the poor. The blebs have dark areolæ and ichorous sanguinolent contents. After rupturing, they are succeeded by deep unhealthy or gangrenous ulcers. [Stokes (G. 67).]—P. gyratus. P. with efflorescences occurring in gyrate lines. [G.]—P. hæmorrhagicus. P. in which the bullæ have sanious contents.

[G.]—P. Hungariæ gangrenosus. Syn.: anthrax hungaricus, anthrax malignus hungaricus. A gangrenous form of p. or of anthrax said to be endemic in Hungary over the lowlands of the Theiss during summer and autumn.—P. hystericus. P. due to hysteria or to any derangement of the sexual organs in women. [G. 10.] See also P. solitarius.—P. idiopathicus dispersus infantum. See P.—P. infantilis. 1. The acute p. of infants. [G.] 2. Of Willan, see P. gangrenosus.—P. iris. See HERPES iris.—P. leprosus. A bullous eruption often preceding the appearance of the discolored spots that occur on the skin in anæsthetic leprosy. The bullæ soon break, leaving a scaly or crusted surface. [G.]—P. localis. A rare form of p. in which one or more bullæ occur confined to a limited portion of the skin, such as the fingers or toes. [G.]—P. major. See P. vulgaris.—P. malignus. P. of a severe or malignant type. [G.]—P. medicamentosus. See P. toxicus.—P. neonatorum. Fr., p. épidémique des nouveau-nés. Ger., Schälblattern, Schälhäutchen, Schälblasen. P. of new-born children or of infants. The term includes both the chronic forms of p. (p. vulgaris and p. folliculeus) and also several acute forms, such as p. acutus contagiosus and p. gangrenosus. ["Ztschr. f. Hygiene," 1891, p. 253 (G.).]—P. neonatorum syphiliticus. P. in new-born infants affected with inherited syphilis; a bullous eruption occurring most frequently on the palms and soles, also upon the thighs or buttocks or elsewhere, betokening a grave and usually fatal form of the disease. [G.]—P. nervosus. Ger., kramphafter Blasenauerschlag. See P. hystericus.—P. neuriticus. P. due to disease of the sensory nerves of the skin. [G.] Cf. ERYTHEMA neuriticum, of which it is a variety.—P. permanent et contenu (Fr.). See P. diutinus.—P. pruriginosus. P. attended with an unusual degree of itching, constituting clinically a distinct form. Urticaria precedes or accompanies the bullous eruption, giving rise to so much scratching that the bullæ are usually destroyed before they are fully formed, so that in their place only exuding erosions or crusts appear. It is regarded as one of the most malignant forms. [G.]—P. scorbuticus. A name given to the bullæ, containing bloody serum, that sometimes form over cutaneous extravasations of blood in scurvy. [G.]—P. serpiniginosus. P. in which the eruption extends at the periphery by the successive appearance of new efflorescences. [G.]—P. simulatus. Simulated p.; bullæ produced artificially to simulate p. [G.]—P. solitarius. A form of p. in which only a single bulla (usually of large size) is present at a time, but may be succeeded by others at intervals; described by Schönlein as p. hystericus. [G. 44.]—P. symptomaticus. P. occurring as a symptom of another disease. [G.]—P. syphiliticus. P. occurring as a manifestation of syphilis; most commonly a p. neonatorum syphiliticus; sometimes, improperly so called, a bullous eruption associated with a tubercular or ulcerating syphilide. [G.]—P. toxicus. A bullous eruption, resembling p., due to the toxic action of a drug administered internally. [G.]—P. vaccinicus. A p.-like eruption following vaccination. [G. 27.] See also EXANTHEMATA vaccinialia.—P. varioloides solidescens. See VARICELLA solidescens.—P. varioloides vesiculosus, P. varioloides. See VARICELLA.—P. vegetans. A grave and usually fatal form of p. especially characterized by the productions of fungous growths from excoriations and sores of the lips, mouth, and pharynx that may seriously interfere with swallowing. The vulva, anus, and rectum may be affected in the same way. Bullæ form upon various parts of the body which, instead of drying up, leave raw surfaces from which the vegetations spring, resembling condylomata and attended with an offensive discharge. It is regarded as identical with the herpes vegetans of Auspitz and (though not believed to be syphilitic) with the frambæsia syphilitica of Kaposi. ["Vrtlgesschr. f. Derm. u. Syph.," 1886, p. 157 (G.).]—P. foliaceus vegetans. See P. vegetans.—P. vegetans (frambæsiolides). See P. frambæsiolides.—P. vesicularis. See P. acutus.—P. vulgaris. Of Hebra, the commoner form of p., in which the blebs are full and tense, in contradistinction to the p. folliculeus of Cazenave. [G. 3.]—P. vulgaris benignus. P. vulgaris of a mild type. [G. 3.]—P. vulgaris malignus. P. vulgaris of a grave type. The term is applied to such forms as p. diutinus, p. crouposus, and p. pruriginosus. [G. 3.]

PEMPHIX (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2m/i^2x$ . Gen.,  $-phig'os (-phig'is)$ . Gr.,  $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\mu\phi\iota\varsigma$ . See PEMPHIGUS.

PEMPTÆUS (Lat.), n. m.  $Pe^2mpt-e'(a^3e^2)-u^6s(u^4s)$ . From  $\pi\epsilon\mu\pi\tau\omicron\varsigma$ , fifth. See QUINTAN FEVER.

PENÆA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2n-e'(a^3e^2)-a^3$ . Fr., p., sarcocollier [Lamarck]. Ger., Fischleimstrauch. A genus typical of the Penæaceæ (Fr., penæacées; Ger., Pendaceen) which are the sarcocollads, an order placed by Bentham and Hooker in the Daphnales. The Penæariæ of Reichenbach are a subdivision of the Santalacæ, and his Penæacæ are a division of the Thymelacææ, each corresponding to the Penæaceæ. [B. 19, 42, 121, 170 (a. 35).]—P. mucronata. Fr., p. en bouchier. A South African species said to produce sarcocolla. [B. 173, 180 (a. 35).]—P. sarcocolla. See SARCOCOLLA squamosa.—P. squamosa. A shrub growing at the Cape of Good Hope, closely allied to Sarcocolla squamosa; said to yield sarcocolla. [B. 180 (a. 35).]

PENÆAL, adj.  $Pe^2n-e'a^3l$ . Lat., penæalis. Resembling the genus Penæa; belonging to the Penæales or p. alliance (Lat., nexus penæalis) of Lindley, an alliance of the Tubiferaæ consisting of the Penæaceæ. [B. 170 (a. 35).]

PENCIL, n.  $Pe^2n'si^2l$ . Gr.,  $\sigma\tau\acute{\iota}\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ . Lat., penicillus, penicillum, stilus. Fr., crayon (1st def.), pinceau (2d def.). Ger., Stift (1st def.). 1. A pointed instrument used for writing or drawing; in pharmacy, a crayon. 2. A cluster of lines, hairs, rays of light, or the like, meeting in a point. [A. 38; a. 48.]—Ointment p. See STILUS unguens.—Paste p. See STILUS diluibilis.

PENDULOUS, adj.  $Pe^2nd'u^2l-u^6s$ . Lat., pendulus, pendulus (from pendere, to be suspended). Fr., pendant. Ger., häng-

end. Hanging, drooping as if from want of support; of an ovule or seed, hanging obliquely downward. [B, 1, 77, 123 (a, 35).]

PENETRANT, PENETRATING, adj's.  $Pe^{2n}e^{2t}r^{1n}t$ , -rat- $i^{2n}2$ . Lat., penetrans (from penetrare, to pierce). Fr., pénétrant. Ger., eindringend. Effecting or capable of effecting penetration, piercing; of an odor, sharp, pungent.

PENIAL, adj.  $Pe^{2n}i^{2a}2$ . From penis, the penis. Fr., penien. Pertaining to the penis. [L, 343.]

PENICIL, n.  $Pe^{2n}i^{2s}i^{2l}$ . See TENT.

PENICILLATE, PENICILLIFORM, adj's.  $Pe^{2n}i^{2s}i^{2l}at$ , - $i^{2l}i^{2}fo^{2}rm$ . Lat., penicillatus, penicilliformis, from penicillum, a painter's brush, and forma, form. Fr., penicillé, penicilliforme. Ger., pinselfig, pinselförmig, pinselförmig. Pencil-shaped; consisting of a tuft of hairs in the form of a camel's hair pencil; sometimes used erroneously for feather. [B, 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).]

PENICILLIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^{2n}pan^{12}i^{2s}i^{2l}(ki^{2l})i^{2}u^{2}m(u^{4}m)$ . From penicillum, a pencil. Pencil fungus, bread-mold; a genus of ascomycetous Fungi growing on organic substances. Brefeld places the genus in the Tuberaceae. [B, 19, 177, 121, 291 (a, 35).]—P. crustaceum. See under P. glaucum.—P. glaucum. Common mildew or blight, the type of the genus; a highly polymorphic fungus the mycelium of which produces an abundance of conidia in long chains. It is common on moldy bread and other moist substances, and one variety, P. crustaceum, is used in the barren myceloid stage in the domestic manufacture of vinegar from saccharine liquor, on the surface of which it forms a tough, leather-like substance known as the vinegar-plant. [B, 19, 76, 121, 291 (a, 35).]—P. roseum. A rose-colored species found on bread, reaching its full growth a few hours after the bread leaves the oven; probably a variety of P. glaucum. [B, 19 (a, 35).]

PENICILLUM (Lat.), PENICILLUS (Lat.), n's n. and m.  $Pe^{2n}(pan^{12}i^{2s}i^{2l}(ki^{2l})i^{2}u^{2}m(u^{4}m))$ , - $i^{2}u^{2}s(u^{4}s)$ . Dim. of peniculus, a little tail. See PENCIL, TENT, and LEMNISCUS (2d def.).

PENIDIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^{2n}pan^{12}i^{2d}i^{2}u^{2}m(u^{4}m)$ . Fr., pénide. Ger., Penidenzucker. Barley sugar the transparency of which has been destroyed by kneading it with a little almond-oil; generally sold in twisted sticks. [L, 30, 41, 49, 50 (a, 14).]

PÉNIEN (Fr.), adj.  $Pa-ne-a^{2n}2$ . Pertaining to the penis.

PÉNIL (Fr.), n.  $Pa-nel$ . See MONS Veneris.

PENILE, adj.  $Pen^{12}i$ . See PENIAL.

PENIS (Lat.), n. m.  $Pen(pan^{12})i^{2s}$ . Gen., pe'nis. Fr., pénis, verge. Ger., Ruthe, männliches Glied. It., asta virile, pene. Sp., pene. The organ of copulation in the male, consisting of the corpus spongiosum, the corpora cavernosa, and the glands; so called from its being pendulous when not erect. It lodges the urethra. In certain animals it contains a small bone. [L.]—P. captivus. A p. that is held fast in the vagina during copulation, in consequence of spasm of the female's perineal muscles. [L, 57 (a, 34).]—P. cerebri. See Pineal gland.—P. femineus. See CLITORIS.—P. lipodermis. See PARAPHIMOSIS.—P. lunatus. A p. curved in consequence of contractile bands. [Paullini (a, 34).]—P. muliebris. See CLITORIS.—P. osseus. A p. in which the corpora cavernosa seem to have undergone osseous or calcareous degeneration. [Paullini (a, 34).]—P. palmatus. A p. that is enveloped by the skin of the scrotum. [a, 34.]

PENISCHISIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^{2n}(pan^{12}i^{2s}ki^{2l}(ch^{2l}i^{2})-si^{2}s)$ . Gen., -schis/eos (-isch/iis). From penis, the penis, and σχίζω, a cleaving. A general term for epispadias and hypospadias. [Albrecht, "Ctbl. f. Chir.," June 12, 1886, Beilage, p. 68 (a, 34).]

PENITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^{2n}(pan^{12}i^{2e})i^{2}i^{2}s$ . Gen., -it'idos (-idis). Fr., pénitis. Inflammation of the penis. [L, 88 (a, 50).]

PENNA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^{2n}na^{2}$ . Written also pinna. Fr., penn, plume, aile. Ger., Schreibfeder, Flügelfeder, Flügel. A feather; generally a contour-feather as distinguished from a down-feather. [L, 343 (a, 43).]—Pennie plumas. See Contour-feathers.

PENNACEOUS, adj.  $Pe^{2n}a^{2}shu^{2}s$ . Lat., pennaceus (from penna, a feather). Fr., pennacé. Ger., gefiedert. Of a feather, complete in all its parts (i. e., consisting of a shaft, barbs, barbules, and barbed). [L, 221.] Cf. PLUMACEOUS.

PENNATE, adj.  $Pe^{2n}at$ . See PINNATE, and for words in penna not here given, see the corresponding words in Pinna.

PENNÉ (Fr.), adj.  $Pe^{2n}na$ . See PINNATE.

PENNISSETUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^{2n}ni^{2}set^{2}(sat)^{2}u^{2}m(u^{4}m)$ . From penna, a feather, and seta, a bristle. Fr., p., pennisète. Ger., Borstfedergras. A genus of the Pennisetaceae (a division of the Panicum). [B, 42, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—P. cereale. A Chinese species allied to P. spicatum, affording a millet-grain. [B, 314 (a, 35).]—P. holcooides. A species found in the East Indies, Cochinchina, and the Moluccas. The root is used as a diuretic and mild astringent. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. spicatum, P. typhloideum. Fr., maïs noir, maïs des nègres, douracelle, couscou. Ger., schwarzer Mais, schwarze Hirse. Gero corn; a grass found in tropical Asia and northern Africa. In the East Indies the leaves are used in colic and externally as an antiplogistic. The grain is eaten. [B, 42, 172, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]

PENNYROYAL, n.  $Pe^{2n}i^{2}roi^{2}a^{2}l$ . In old herbals, puloil royal, from puleion (see pulegium) regium, from its supposed efficacy in destroying fleas. The Mentha pulegium. [B, 5, 18, 19, 275 (a, 35).]—Oil of p. Lat., oleum pulegi (Belg. Ph.). Fr., huile volatile de pulioil commun. 1. A volatile oil obtained from Mentha pulegium. Its sp. gr. is 0.927, and it boils at 183° to 188° C. It contains no carvol. [B, 10; B, 5, 18 (a, 35).] 2. See Oil of HEDEOMA.

PENNYWORT, n.  $Pe^{2n}i^{2}wu^{2}rt$ . 1. The genus Hydrocotyle. 2. The Cotyledon umbilicus. 3. The Linaria cymbalaria. 4. The Sibthorpia europaea. [B, 19, 275 (a, 35).]

PENSÉE (Fr.), n.  $Pa^{2n}sa$ . See JACEA (1st def.).—Décoction de p. A preparation made by boiling 11 parts of wild pansy with water or milk enough to make 90 parts of decoction. [B, 119 (a, 35).]—Extrait de p. Lat., extractum jaceae. A preparation made by lixiviating the leaves of wild pansy and evaporating the resulting liquid, or by boiling wild pansy in 6 times its weight of water, expressing, straining, and evaporating. [B, 119 (a, 35).]—Infusion de p. See Tisane de p. sauvage.—P. sauvage [Fr. Cod.]. The Viola tricolor arvensis. [B, 121, 173 (a, 35).]—Sirop de p. sauvage [Fr. Cod.]. A preparation made by infusing 10 parts of dried wild pansy in 150 of boiling water for 6 hours, expressing, adding 18 parts of sugar for each 10 of clarified colature, boiling up quickly, and straining. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Tisane de p. sauvage [Fr. Cod.]. A strained infusion of 1 part of wild pansy in 100 parts of boiling water. [B, 95 (a, 38).]

PENSILE, adj.  $Pe^{2n}s^{12}i$ . Lat., pensilis (from pendere, to be suspended). See PENDULOUS.

PENTABASIC, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}ba^{2}si^{2}k$ . 1. Of acids and alcohols, containing in the molecule 5 atoms of hydrogen replaceable by bases. See P. ACID and P. ALCOHOL. 2. Of salts, formed from a p. acid by the replacement of 5 of the hydrogen atoms with bases. [a, 38.]

PENTABROMIDE, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}brom^{12}d(i)$ . A compound of 5 atoms of bromine and a certain definite quantity of an element or radicle assumed as the unit of comparison. [B.]

PENTACARPELLARY, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}kar^{2}p^{2}a^{2}ri^{2}$ . From πέντε, five, and carpellum, a carpel. Composed of five carpels (said of the gynœceum). [B, 296 (a, 35).]

PENTACETATE, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}s^{2}et^{2}at$ . A compound of a base with 5 molecules of acetic acid. [a, 38.]

PENTACHÆNIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}ken^{12}(ch^{2a}e^{2n})i^{2}u^{2}m(u^{4}m)$ . From πέντε, five, and achænum (q. v.). A dry, seed-like fruit composed of five carpels invested by an epigynous calyx and separating when ripe. [a, 35.]

PENTACHLORETHÉR, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}klor-eth^{12}u^{2}r$ . A substance of the composition  $C_4H_5Cl_5O$ . [a, 38.]

PENTACHLORIDE, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}klor^{12}d(i)$ . A chlorine compound analogous to a pentabromide (q. v.). [B.]

PENTACHLOROXETHYL, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}klor-o^{2}x-eth^{12}i^{2}l$ . See PENTACHLORETHÉR.

PENTACHOTOMOUS, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}kot^{2}o^{2}m-u^{2}s$ . Lat., pentachotomus (from πένταχα, fivefold, and τέμνω, to cut). Fr., pentachotome. Ger., fünfschnittig. In botany, dividing into five branches of nearly equal size. [a, 35.]

PENTACOCOCCUS, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}kok^{2}k-u^{2}s$ . From πέντε, five, and κόκκος, a kernel. Consisting of five separable carpels (cocci). [B, 19 (a, 35).]

PENTAD, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}d$ . From πέντε, five. A quinquivalent element or radicle. [B.]

PENTADACTYLOUS, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}da^{2}k^{12}ti^{2}i^{2}u^{2}s$ . Gr., πενταδάκτυλος. Fr., pentadactyle. Of animals, having five digits; of leaves, having five divisions. [B, 1, 114 (a, 35).]

PENTADELPHOUS, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}d-el^{2}f^{12}u^{2}s$ . Lat., pentadelphus (from πέντε, five, and ἀδελφός, a brother). Fr., pentadelphe. Ger., fünfrüderig. Having the stamens united into five sets. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PENTAFLUORIDE, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}flu^{2}o^{2}r^{12}d(i)$ . A fluorine compound analogous to a pentabromide (q. v.). [B.]

PENTAGONAL, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}g^{12}o^{2}n^{12}l$ . Lat., pentagonus (from πέντε, five, and γωνία, an angle). Fr., pentagone. Ger., fünfeckig. Having five angles or sides. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PENTAGYNOUS, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}j^{12}i^{2}n-u^{2}s$ . Lat., pentagynus, pentagynicus (from πέντε, five, and γυνή, a woman). Fr., pentagynie, pentagynique. Ger., fünfstempelig. Five-styled. The Pentagynia (Fr., pentagynie; Ger., Fünfstempelige, Fünfstempelige) are the fifth order in various classes of the Linnæan system, characterized by p. flowers. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PENTA-IODIDE, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}i^{2}od-i^{2}d(i)$ . An iodine compound analogous to a pentabromide (q. v.). [B.]

PENTAMEROUS, adj.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}m^{2}e^{2}r-u^{2}s$ . Lat., pentamerus (from πέντε, five, and μέρος, a part). Fr., pentamère. Consisting of or divided into five parts; of a flower, having five members, or a multiple of five, in each circle. [B, 123 (a, 35).]

PENTAMETHYL, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}me^{2}th^{12}i^{2}l$ . A chemical group,  $(CH_3)_5$ . [a, 38.]

PENTAMETHYLETHYL, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}me^{2}th^{12}i^{2}e^{2}th^{12}i^{2}l$ . See HEPTYL.—P. chloride. A substance,  $(CH_3)_5C_2Cl$  formed by the action of phosphorous pentachloride on p. alcohol. [B, 3.]—P. hydrate. See HEPTYL ALCOHOL.—P. iodide. A solid substance,  $(CH_3)_5C_2I$ , prepared by exposing heptyl alcohol to the action of hydriodic acid. [B, 3.]

PENTAMETHYLIDE, n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}me^{2}th^{12}i^{2}d(i)$ . An addition compound of a radicle with 5 molecules of methyl. [B.]

PENTAMYRON (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2}mya^{2}m^{12}i^{2}u^{2}m(u^{4}m)$ . Gr., πενταμύρον (from πέντε, five, and μύρον, ointment). Fr., p. Of Aetius, a certain ointment consisting of five ingredients. [A, 325.]

PENTANDRIAN, PENTANDRIC, PENTANDROUS, adj's.  $Pe^{2nt}a^{2nd}ri^{2}a^{2n}$ , - $ri^{2}k$ , - $ru^{2}s$ . Lat., pentander. Fr., pentandrique. Ger., fünfmännig. Having five stamens. The Pentandria (Fr., pentamérie; Ger., Fünfmännigkeit) are a Linnæan class with flowers so characterized. [B, 1, 123 (a, 35).]

PENTANE, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{an}$ . From πέντε, five. Ger., Pentan. A hydrocarbon,  $\text{C}_5\text{H}_{12}$ , of the paraffin series. [B, 5.]

PENTAPETALOUS, adj.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^3\text{-pe}^2/\text{a}^1/\text{u}^3$ s. Lat., pentapetalus (from πέντε, five, and πέταλον, a leaf). Of a corolla, pentapetalous. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PENTAPHYLLOUS, adj.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^3\text{-fi}^2/\text{u}^3$ s. Lat., pentaphyllus (from πέντε, five, and φύλλον, a leaf). Fr., pentaphylle. Ger., fünffolätzig. Five-leaved; of a calyx, corolla, or leaf, having five divisions. [B, 1, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PENTAPHYLLUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^3\text{-fi}^2/(\text{fu}^3)/\text{lu}^3\text{m}(\text{lu}^4\text{m})$ . 1. Of the ancients, the Potentilla reptans. 2. Of Gärtner, the genus Potentilla (in part). [B, 42, 114, 121 (a, 35).]—P. aquaticum [Ger. Ph.]. The Potentilla comarum. [B, 48, 121 (a, 35).]

PENTAPTEROUS, adj.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^2\text{pt}/\text{e}^2/\text{r}-\text{u}^3$ s. Lat., pentapterus (from πέντε, five, and πτερόν, a wing). Fr., pentaptère. Five-winged, having five alæ (said of certain fruits). [B, 1, 123 (a, 35).]

PENTASEPALOUS, adj.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^2\text{-se}^2/\text{p}^2/\text{a}^1/\text{u}^3$ s. From πέντε, five, and sepalum, a sepal. Of the calyx, pentaphyllous. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PENTASTICHOUS, adj.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^2\text{st}/\text{i}^2/\text{k}-\text{u}^3$ s. Lat., pentastichus (from πέντε, five, and στίχας, a row). Fr., pentastiche. Five-ranked; of the arrangement of leaves, having them disposed on the axes in five vertical ranks. [B, 1, 291 (a, 35).]

PENTASTOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^2\text{st}/\text{a}^2\text{st}/\text{o}^2\text{m}-\text{a}^2$ . Gen., -stomatous (-atis). From πέντε, five, and στόμα, the mouth. Fr., pentastome. Ger., Fünfmund. A genus of the Acaridae. [L.]—P. coarctatum. See Tænia solium.—P. constrictum. Fr., pentastome étreint. A species sometimes found in the liver of negroes and encysted in the abdominal cavity. It is about 6 lines long and 1 line wide, with a cylindrical body furnished with four claws and a blunt tail. [L, 17.]—P. denticulatum. Fr., pentastome denticulé. The larval stage of P. tenioides, also of a separate variety; of Rudolphi, the P. tenioides. It is found encysted in the ox and some other animals, and sometimes invades the human body. [L, 15, 17, 18.]—P. emarginatum. See P. tenioides.—P. ferum. See P. denticulatum.—P. serratum. See P. denticulatum and P. tenioides.—P. tenioides. A species the female of which is 3 to 4 in. long and  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. wide, the male being 8 to 10 lines long and  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. wide. The head is truncated and the mouth broad with a horny lip. There are four feet on the anterior segments of the body, which is marked by transverse rings and is flattened at the ventral surface. This parasite is found in man in the larval condition only. In the mature stage it inhabits the nostrils and frontal sinuses of the dog and wolf. [L.]

PENTASULPHIDE, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^2\text{-su}^3/\text{i}^2/\text{d}(\text{id})$ . A sulphur compound analogous to a pentabromide (q. v.). [B.]

PENTATHETON (Lat.), PENTATHETUM (Lat.), n's n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^2\text{th}(\text{a}^2\text{th})/\text{e}^2\text{t}-\text{o}^2\text{n}$ ,  $-\text{u}^3\text{m}(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . Gr., πεντάθετον (from πέντε, five, and τέθεινα, to place). Of Aetius, a certain plaster used for bruises, etc. [A, 325 (a, 48).]

PENTATHIONIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^3\text{-thi}-\text{o}^2\text{n}/\text{i}^2/\text{k}$ . Fr., acide pentathionique (ou hyposulfurique trisulfuré). Ger., Pentathion-säure. A dibasic acid,  $\text{H}_2\text{S}_2\text{O}_6$ . [B.]

PENTATOMIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{a}^2\text{-t}-\text{o}^2\text{m}/\text{i}^2/\text{k}$ . Fr., pentatomique. Containing 5 atoms of replaceable hydrogen in the molecule. [B.]

PENTENYL, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{e}^2\text{n}-\text{i}^2/\text{l}$ . See QUINTENYL.—P. alcohol. See QUINTENYL alcohol.

PENTINIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{i}^2\text{n}/\text{i}^2/\text{k}$ . A monobasic crystalline acid,  $\text{C}_5\text{H}_8\text{O}_4$ , or  $(\text{C}_5\text{H}_8\text{O}_4)_2 \cdot \text{H}_2\text{O}$ , or, more probably,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_8\text{O}_6 = \text{C}_6\text{H}_7\text{O}_6 \cdot \text{CO}_2\text{H}$ . [B, 3.]

PENTIODIDE, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{i}^2\text{-od}-\text{i}^2/\text{d}(\text{id})$ . See PENTA-IODIDE.

PENTIOIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{o}^2/\text{i}^2/\text{k}$ . Normal valeric acid. [B, 3, 4 (a, 38).] Cf. VALERIC ACID.

PENTOXIDE, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{o}^2\text{x}/\text{i}^2/\text{d}(\text{id})$ . An oxygen compound analogous to a pentabromide (q. v.). [B.]

PENTYL, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{i}^2/\text{l}$ . Fr., pentyle. Ger., P. From πέντε, five, and ἄλγ. material. A univalent hydrocarbon,  $\text{C}_5\text{H}_{11}$ . [B.] For pentyl alcohol and other derivatives, see the corresponding terms under AMYL.—Normal p. See AMYL, and cf. P.—P'-acetylene. See HEPTINE.—P'-ethylene. See HEPTYLENE.

PENTYLIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{i}^2/\text{l}/\text{i}^2/\text{k}$ . Of, pertaining to, or containing pentyl or amyl. [B.]

PENUMBRA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{pan}/\text{u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^4\text{m})/\text{bra}^3$ . From pæne, almost, and umbra, a shadow. Fr., pénombre. Ger., Halbschatten. The imperfect shadow which surrounds the border of a perfect shadow when the light comes from a luminous surface instead of a point. [F.]

PEONY, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{o}^2\text{n}-\text{i}^2$ . See PEONIA.—Extract of p. See Extrait de PIVOINE.

PEOTOMY, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2n}/\text{o}^2\text{m}-\text{i}^2$ . Lat., peotomia (from πίος, the penis, and τομή, a cutting). Fr., peotomie. Amputation of the penis. [E.]

PEPASTIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^{2p}/\text{a}^2\text{st}/\text{i}^2/\text{k}$ . Lat., pepasticus, pepasticus. Fr., pépastique. Of medicines, digestive. [L, 50, 56, 84 (a, 14, 43).]

PEPEROMIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^{2p}/\text{e}^2\text{r}-\text{om}/\text{i}^2/\text{a}^2$ . From πέπερι, pepper. Fr., pépéromie. Ger., Peperomie. The pepper-elder, a genus of the Piperaceæ. The Peperomia of Lindley (the Peperomia of Miquel) are a tribe of the Piperaceæ. [B, 19, 42, 121, 170, 275 (a, 35).]—P. crystallina. Ger., glasartige Peperomie. A Peruvian species used in colic. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. grandifolia. Fr.,

pepéromie à grandes feuilles. A species used as a stomachic tonic. [B, 121 (a, 35).]—P. hispida. Ger., kurzhaarige Peperomie. A West Indian species used as a stomachic tonic. [B, 121, 180 (a, 35).]—P. inaequilobata. Fr., pépéromie à feuilles inégales. Ger., ungleichblättrige Peperomie. A species found in Peru, where it is used as a stimulating drink and as a tea in colds and gastric and intestinal troubles. [B, 121, 180 (a, 35).]—P. rotundifolia. Fr., pépéromie à feuilles rondes, baume des chasseurs. Ger., rundblättrige Peperomie. A West Indian and South American species. The leaves are used as a diaphoretic and antispasmodic, and are also reputed vulnerary. [B, 121, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. trifolia. Fr., pépéromie à trois feuilles. Ger., dreiblättrige Peperomie. A South American species. The leaves are used in gastric complaints. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. umbellata. Fr., pépéromie à ombelles, bois d'anisette. Ger., doldendähriger (oder doldenformiger) Pfeffer. A South American species. An infusion of the root, radix pariparobo, is used in Brazil as a diuretic; the essential oil of the seed is used for atony of the stomach and in scurvy; the leaves are used in glandular swellings, and the buds and leaves in scurvy. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]

PEPIN (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}-\text{pa}^{2n}$ . The seed found in the centre of certain fleshy fruits. [A, 385 (a, 30).]

PEPLUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^{2p}/\text{lu}^3\text{s}(\text{lu}^4\text{s})$ . Gr., πέπλος. See PERITONAEUM and PEPLIS (1st def.).

PEPO (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^{2p}/\text{po}$ . Gen., peponis. Gr., πέπων. Fr., pépo (1st def.), pepon (1st def.), semences de potirons (2d def.). Ger., Kürbisfrucht (1st def.), Kürbissamen (2d def.). 1. The gourd-fruit; an indehiscent, many-seeded fruit with a thick, firm rind, partly or wholly formed by the superior calyx, and a fleshy interior; the characteristic fruit of the Cucurbitaceæ. 2. Of the U. S. Ph., the seed of Cucurbita p. 3. Of Tournefort, the genus Cucurbita. [B, 5, 19, 121, 291 (a, 35).]—Extractum peponis fluidum. A fluid extract prepared from pumpkin-seeds. [B, 81 (a, 38).]

PEPPER, n.  $\text{Pe}^{2p}/\text{u}^2\text{r}$ . Gr., πέπερι. Lat., piper. Fr., poivre. Ger., Pfeffer. 1. The fruit of various species of Piper, also the plants themselves. [B, 180, 275 (a, 35).] 2. Of the U. S. Ph., see Black p.—African p. 1. The fruit of Capsicum fastigiatum. [B, 19, 185 (a, 35).] 2. See HABZELIA aethiopica and HABZELIA undulata. 3. PEPSINA [Br. Ph., Fr. Cod.] (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{ps-in(en)}^{\text{a}}\text{-a}^2$ . See PEPSIN.

PEPSINE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{p-sen}$ . See PEPSIN.—Élixir de p. [Fr. Cod.]. A preparation made by mixing 50 parts of p. medicinale, 20 of p. extractive, 450 of water, and 400 of syrup, adding a solution of enough peppermint oil or other volatile oil to make the solution aromatic, in 150 parts of 80-per-cent. alcohol, macerating for 24 hours, filtering, adding to 20 grammes of the filtrate 60 of water, 10 of freshly dried fibrin, and 3 part of hydrochloric acid, and heating over the water bath at  $50^{\circ}\text{C}$ . for 6 hours, shaking every hour until the fibrin is completely dissolved. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Enolée de p. [Fr. Cod.]. See Vinum Pepsini.—P. amyliacée. See P. medicinale.—P. extractive [Fr. Cod.]. See under PEPSIN.—P. medicinale [Fr. Cod.]. Syn.: p. amyliacée. A mixture of p. extractive and starch; a grayish-white powder only partly soluble in water; 50 centigrammes should be capable of digesting 10 grammes of fibrin. [B.]—Vin de p. [Fr. Cod.]. See Vinum Pepsini.

PEPSINOGEN, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{ps-in}^2\text{n}^{\text{o}}\text{-je}^{\text{n}}$ . Fr., pepsinogène. A solid ferment contained in the pepsin cells of the oxyntic glands which is converted into or gives rise to pepsin. ["Compt. rend. hebdom. de l'acad. des sci.," Nov. 2, 1891 (a, 50).]

PEPSINUM [U. S. Ph., Ger. Ph., Finn. Ph., Gr. Ph., Swiss Ph.] (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{ps-in(en)}^{\text{a}}\text{-u}^{\text{m}}\text{-m}$ . See PEPSIN.—Essentia pepsini. See Vinum pepsini.—Liquor pepsini [U. S. Ph.]. A clear bright-yellow liquid prepared by dissolving 40 parts of saccharated pepsin in a mixture of 12 parts of hydrochloric acid and 548 of water, adding 400 of glycerin, allowing the mixture to stand 24 hours, and filtering. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Mixtura pepsini. Sp., mixtura de pepsina [Sp. Ph.]. A preparation made by triturating 15 parts of pepsine medicinale with 130 of water, adding 120 of syrup of orange-flowers and 40 of 80-per-cent. alcohol, macerating for some hours, and filtering. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—P. saccharatum [U. S. Ph.] (siccum [Russ. Ph.]). Sp., pepsina medicinal [Sp. Ph.]. Syn.: p. russicum solubile [Russ. Ph.]. Pepsin prepared from the stomach of the hog (or from the rennet-bag of the sheep or ox [Sp. Ph.]) and mixed with milk-sugar, so as to form a white powder of slight taste and smell, not wholly soluble in water. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Vinum pepsini [Ger. Ph., Hung. Ph. (2d ed.), Russ. Ph.]. Fr., vin (ou enolée) de pepsine. Ger., Pepsinwein. Sp., vino de pepsina [Sp. Ph.]. Syn.: essentia pepsini, vinum pepsicum. A preparation made by macerating 50 parts of pepsin (saccharated [Russ. Ph., Sp. Ph.], 50 of pepsine medicinale, or 20 of pepsine extractive [Fr. Cod.]) for 24 hours [Fr. Cod., Sp. Ph.] (6 days [Ger. Ph., Hung. Ph.]) with 1,000 parts of vin de Lunel [Fr. Cod.] (sherry wine [Sp. Ph.], 1,845 of white wine, 5 of hydrochloric acid, and 50 each of glycerin and water [Ger. Ph.], 2,000 of Malaga wine, 5 of dilute hydrochloric acid, and 50 of water [Hung. Ph.], or 2,250 of sauterne, 84 of dilute hydrochloric acid, and 100 of glycerin [Russ. Ph.]), and filtering. [B, 95 (a, 38).]

PEPSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{ps}^{\text{is}}$ . Gen., pep'sis (-sis). Gr., πέψις (from πέσσειν, to digest). Fr., pepsie. See COCTION.

PEPTIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{pt}^{\text{ic}}$ . Gr., πεπτικός. Lat., pepticus. Fr., peptique, peptique. Ger., peptisch. 1. Pertaining to pepsin or to digestion: producing pepsin. 2. In pathology, due to the action of the gastric juice (e. g., a p. ulcer). [K.]

PEPTOGEN, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{pt}^{\text{o}}\text{-je}^{\text{n}}$ . From πέσσειν, to digest, and γενάω, to beget. Fr., peptogène. A substance that promotes the production of pepsin. [A, 395 (a, 48).]

PEPTONE, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{pt}^{\text{on}}$ . Fr., caséine (ou matière gélatineuse de l'albumin grillé). Ger., Pepton. Of Lehmann, the principal product of gastric digestion; a proteid distinguished from others by its high diffusibility and non-precipitability by heat and acids. [K.]—A-p. Of Meissner, a p. precipitable from aqueous solutions by strong nitric acid and by potassium ferrocyanide in the presence of acetic acid. ["Ztschr. f. nat. Med.," vii, viii, x, xii, xiv (K.).]—Beef p. Ger., Fleischpepton. Of Wood, a preparation made by simmering 4 lb. of minced beef for two hours in a pint of water containing 30 grains of sodium bicarbonate, allowing to cool to about  $85^{\circ}\text{C}$ ., digesting at this temperature with a tablespoonful of liquor pancreaticus or 10 grains of pancreatic extract for three hours, decanting, and boiling. ["Drugg. Circ. and Chem. Gaz.,"

Nov., 1889 (a, 21).]—B-p. A p. differing from A-p. in not being precipitable by strong nitric acid. Potassium ferrocyanide only precipitates it from a solution rendered strongly acid by acetic acid. [K, 3.]—C-p. A p. which is not precipitable either by nitric acid or by potassium ferrocyanide. According to Foster, this is probably a true p., as distinguished from the A-p. and B-p., which are not entitled to that name. [K, 3.]—Gelatin p. Ger., Leimpepton. A variety of p. produced by the combined action of the pancreatic ferments and of putrefaction on gelatin. [B, 13.]—Mercuric p. See HYDRARGYRUM peptonatum.—Pancreatic p. A p. formed by the action of the pancreatic juice. It differs from a gastric p. in being precipitated by acids and acid salt. [K.]—P. anhydride. See ALBUMINATE.

PEPTONIZATION, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{pt-o}^2\text{n-i}^2\text{za}^{\text{shu}}\text{-n}$ . The process of conversion into peptones. [a, 48.]

PEPTONURIA, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{pt-o}^2\text{n-u}^2\text{r-i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πепτός, cooked, and ουρον, urine. Fr., peptonurie. Ger., Peptonurie. The excretion of peptones in the urine. It may occur in pneumonia, and is said to occur physiologically in the puerperal state. ["Am. Jour. of the Med. Sci.," Feb., 1892, p. 194; W. Fischel, "Ztschr. f. physiol. Chem.," x, p. 11; "Ann. di chim. e di farmacol.," cccxxii, p. 186 (B).]

PEPTOTOXINE, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{pt-o-to}^2\text{x-en}$ . Of Brieger, a very poisonous substance isolated from putrid albuminates and from peptonized fibrin. [B, 209 (a, 27); Schmidt's "Jahrbücher," 232, 1891, p. 113 (a, 50).]

PERAGUA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r-a}^2\text{g(a}^2\text{g)}^{\text{va}}\text{-a}^2$ . The Ilex vomitoria. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

PERBROMETHYLENE, n.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{(r)}^{\text{(brom-e}^2\text{th)}}\text{-en}$ . Ger., Perbromäthylen. See DICARBON tetrabromide.

PERBROMIDE, n.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{(r)}^{\text{(brom-i}^2\text{d)}}\text{(id)}$ . Fr., perbromure. See under PERCHLORIDE.

PERCA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{(r)}^{\text{(pe}^2\text{r)}}\text{-ka}^2$ . Gr., πέρα. Fr., perche. Ger., Barsch. A genus of fresh-water acanthopterygian fishes of the Percidae, which are the perches. [a, 48.]—Lapides percarum, Lapis perca. See under P. fluviatilis.—P. fluviatilis. Ger., Flussbarsch. The perch: a fish living in lakes and rivers throughout Europe, northern Asia, and North America. Two small bones extending on the sides of the back of the head to the spine were once official as lapis perca or lapides percarum. [a, 38.]

PERCALINE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r-ka}^2\text{-len}$ . Glazed calico. [A, 537 (a, 48).]—P. agglutinative. An adhesive plaster. [A, 385 (a, 48).]

PERCE-CRÂNE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{rs-kra}^2\text{-n}$ . An obstetrical perforator.

PERCE-LANGUE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{rs-la}^2\text{n}^2\text{g}$ . See GLOSSANTRAX.

PERCE-MEMBRANE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{rs-ma}^2\text{n}^2\text{-bra}^2\text{n}$ . An instrument for rupturing the fetal membranes. [A, 311 (a, 34).]

PERCE-OREILLE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{rs-o-re}^2\text{l-y}^2$ . See FORFICULA auricularis.

PERCHLORIC, adj.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{(r)}^{\text{(klor-i}^2\text{k)}}\text{-e}$ . Containing chlorine combined with a greater relative amount of oxygen than is present in the chloric compounds. [B.] Perbromic and periodic are analogous terms. P. acid. Fr., acide perchlorique. Ger., Perchlorsäure. A mobile, volatile liquid,  $\text{HClO}_4$ , colorless or of a slightly yellowish tint, having a strong affinity for water and very irritant to the skin. It is soluble in alcohol, and decomposes with explosion when brought into contact with certain organic compounds. [B, 3; B, 93 (a, 14).]—P. ether. Fr., ether perchlorique. See ETHYL perchlorate.

PERCHLORIDE, n.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{(r)}^{\text{(klor-i}^2\text{d)}}\text{(id)}$ . Lat., perchloridum. Fr., perchlorure. Ger., Perchlorür. That one of two or more compounds of chlorine with an element or radicle which contains the greatest relative amount of chlorine. [B.] Perbromide and periodide are analogous terms.

PERCHROMIC, adj.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{(r)}^{\text{(krom-i}^2\text{k)}}\text{-e}$ . Fr., perchromique. Containing chromium as a septivalent radicle. [B.]—P. acid. A monobasic acid,  $\text{HCrO}_4$  (or  $\text{Cr}_2\text{O}_7\text{H}_2$ ), obtainable in the form of a deep-blue aqueous or ethereal solution. [B, 3; B, 93 (a, 14).]

PERCLUSION (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^r\text{-klu}^e\text{-ze-o}^n\text{a}^2$ . From per intens., and claudere, to shut. Incapability to execute any movement. [a, 34.]

PERCOLATE, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'ko}^1\text{-at}$ . A solution obtained by percolation. [a, 38.]

PERCOLATION, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'ko}^1\text{-a' shu}^n$ . Lat., percolatio (from percolare, to strain through). Fr., p. Ger., Durchseihung. The process of making an extract or tincture of a drug by packing the drug (in powder) in a percolator (q. v.) and causing an aqueous or spirituous menstruum to pass through it. [B, 5 (a, 38).]

PERCOLATOR, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'ko}^1\text{-at-o}^2r$ . Fr., percolateur. Ger., P., Durchseier. A vessel in which it is to be packed a drug through which a liquid poured on above it is allowed to trickle through a small aperture at the bottom.

PERCUSSION, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'ku}^s\text{'shu}^n$ . Lat., percussio (from percutere, to strike through). Fr., p. Ger., P., Schlag. 1. A method of physical examination by tapping on the surface overlying a part or organ in order to ascertain its condition by the sounds elicited. 2. A therapeutic measure consisting of repeated tapping of a part, the blows being delivered by a mechanical contrivance by which their force and the rapidity of their succession may be regulated. Called also nerve-vibration. [Granville, "Brit. Med. Jour.," Mar. 11, 1882; "Lancet," June 10, 1882, p. 949.]—Auscultatory p. p. combined with auscultation by applying the ear directly to the part percussed.—Finger p. p. in which the fingers of one hand are used as a p. hammer, and a finger of the other hand is employed as a pleximeter. [a, 34.]—Immediate p. p. in which the region examined is struck directly with the finger. [a, 34.]—Mediate p. p. in which a pleximeter is used. [D.]—Palpatory p. Ger., pulpatorsche p. Of Wintrich, an examination of the thoracic or abdominal viscera with reference to the sensation of resistance communicated to the sense of touch. [L, 20 (a, 34).]

PERCUSSO-PUNCTATOR, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'ku}^s\text{'o'pu}^n\text{'kt'at-o}^2r$ . From percutere, to strike through, and punctus, pricked. An instrument devised by B. James for making multiple punctures with grouped needles, adjustable as to depth of penetration, in the treatment of rheumatism, lumbago, and neuralgia. ["Brit. Med. Jour.," July 25, 1885, p. 155.]

PERCUSSOR, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'ku}^s\text{'o}^2r$ . From percutere, to strike through and through. A small hammer used for percussion. [E.]

PERCUTEUR (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^r\text{'ku}^t\text{-u}^r$ . An instrument for making percussion (3d def.); also a person who applies percussion. ["N. Y. Med. Jour.," Apr. 2, 1892, p. 371.]

PERCYANIDE, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'si'a}^n\text{'i}^2\text{d}(\text{id})$ . Fr., percyanure. A cyanide containing more cyanogen than an ordinary cyanide. [B, 38 (a, 38).]

PERDEUTOXISULFURE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^r\text{'du}^s\text{'tox-e-su}^1\text{'fu}^r$ . That one of two oxy-sulphides which contains a greater relative amount of oxygen and sulphur, and which is also supposed to contain an excess of one or both of these elements. [B.]

PERDONIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'d}(\text{pe}^r\text{'d})\text{'on' i}^2\text{'u}^m(\text{u}^m)$ . Of Paracelsus, a medicated herb-wine. [A, 325 (a, 48).]

PEREIRINE, n.  $\text{Pe}^r\text{'ir'e}^n$ . Lat., pereirine. Fr., péireirine. A whitish-gray powder, an alkaloid of the probable formula  $\text{C}_{10}\text{H}_{12}\text{N}_2\text{O}$ , found in the bark of Geissospermum laeve. It is used along with quinine where cardiac depression is to be avoided. [B, 93 (a, 14); B, 270 (a, 38); "Nouv. rem.," Jan. 24, 1890, p. 41 (a, 50).]

PERENNANS (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Pu}^r(\text{pe}^r)\text{'e}^n\text{'na}^n\text{'nz}(\text{na}^n\text{'s})$ . From perennare, to last long. Ger., ausdauernd. 1. Evergreen (said of leaves). 2. Perennial. [B, 123 (a, 35).]

PERENNIAL, adj.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'e}^n\text{'i}^2\text{'a}^2$ . Lat., perennis (from per, through, and annus, a year). Ger., ausdauernd, perennierend. Of plants, living and fructifying year after year. [B, 1, 123 (a, 35).]

PERESKIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^r\text{'e}^s\text{'ki}^2\text{'a}^2$ . From Peiresc, a French writer. Ger., Pereskia. A genus constituting the Pereskia-cæ (the Pereskia of Lindley, the Pereskia of Reichenbach) of Salm Dyck, a tribe of the Cactææ. [B, 19, 42, 121, 314 (a, 35).]—P. aculeata. Fr., groseller d'Amérique (ou des Antilles). Ger., stachelige Pereskia. The American (or Barbadoes, or West Indian) gooseberry. The fruits are used as an expectorant and antisyphilitic in the Antilles. The cochineal insect can be reared on the plant. [B, 19, 173, 180, 314 (a, 35).]

PEREZIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pa}^r\text{'ath}^2\text{'i}^2\text{'a}^2$ . Fr., pérezie. A genus of composite herbs, of the Mutisiaceæ. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—P. adnata. A Mexican species the stringy roots of which form part of p. root (q. v.). [B, 19 (a, 35).]—P. moschata. Sp., yerva del zopilote. An aromatic and stimulant species found in Mexico. [B, 267 (a, 35).]—P. root. The root of P. adnata, P. nama, P. Wrightii, and perhaps of other species of P., growing in Mexico. They yield a chemical compound (see FITZARIC ACID) which has the odor of valerian and is said to be powerfully drastic. [B, 5, 19 (a, 35).]

PERFECT, adj.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'fe}^2\text{'kt}$ . Lat., perfectus (from perficere, to achieve). Fr., parfait. Ger., vollkommen. Complete; of a plant, having no part suppressed; of a flower, hermaphrodite. [B, 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).] For P. acid, see under ACID.

PERFOLIATA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pu}^r(\text{pe}^r)\text{'fol}(\text{fo}^2\text{'l})\text{'i}^2\text{'a}(\text{a}^2)\text{'ta}^2$ . From per, through, and folium, a leaf. See EUPLEURUM rotundifolium.—Oleum perfoliatum expressum. The expressed oil of the seed of Eupleurum rotundifolium. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

PERFOLIATE, adj.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'fo}^2\text{'l}^2\text{'at}$ . Lat., perfoliatus (from per, through, and folium, a leaf). Fr., perfolié, perfeuillé. Ger., durchwachsen (1st def.). 1. Of a leaf, having the two basal lobes so united around the stalk that the latter apparently passes through the substance of the leaf. 2. Having two opposite leaves so united at their bases as to present one foliaceous body through which the stem appears to pass. [B, 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).]—Connate-p. See P. (2d def.).

PERFORATION, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'fo}^2r\text{'a}^2\text{'shu}^n$ . Lat., perforatio (from perforare, to bore through). Fr., p. Ger., P., Durchbohrung. 1. The process of piercing or the condition of being pierced. 2. The process of opening the fetal head in craniotomy.

PERFORATOR, n.  $\text{Pu}^r\text{'fo}^2r\text{'at-o}^2r$ . Lat., perforatorium (from perforare, to pierce through). Fr., perforateur, perce-crâne. Ger., P., Durchbohrer. Any instrument or apparatus used for perforating; of Denman, an instrument for perforating the fetal skull in the operation of craniotomy. [A, 22.] See also Smellie's scissors.—Brain-ard's p. An awl for perforating the ends of bones in operations for ununited fracture. [E.]—Braun's trephine p. A trephine p. in which the instrument is curved near the trephine extremity, and a handle at the opposite extremity revolves the trephine. From  $\text{peri-}$ , around,  $\chi\omicron\upsilon\delta\rho\acute{o}\varsigma$ , cartilage, and

PERIGONE, n.  $Pe^2r^{12}gon$ . Lat., perigonium (from peri, around, and gon, generative parts). Fr., perigone. Ger., Perigon, Blüthenhülle. 1. See PERIANTH. 2. The leafy envelope surrounding the antheridia in the Muscineae. [B, 1, 19, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PERIGONIUM (Lat.), n.  $Pe^2r^{12}gon(go^2n)^{12}u^2m(u^4m)$ . 1. See PERIGONE. 2. The wall of a sporosac by which the generative elements are confined. [L, 193.]

PERIGRAPHS (Fr.), n. Pa-re-gra^f. See INSCRIPTIONES tendineae.

PERIGYNÆ (Lat.), n. f. pl.  $Pe^2r^{12}j^{12}g^{12}i^{12}n(u^6n)-e(a^2-e^2)$ . See under PERIGYNOS.

PERIGYNANDRA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}j^{12}n(gu^6n)-a^2nd(a^2nd)^{ra^2}$ . From peri, around, and gynē, a woman, and andrā, a man. Of Necker, the floral envelopes considered collectively. [B, 1 (a, 35).] —P. communis. Of Necker, the periclinium. [B, 1 (a, 35).] —P. exterior. The calyx. [B, 1 (a, 35).] —P. interior. The corolla. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PERIGYNIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^2r^{12}j^{12}n(gu^6n)^{12}u^2m(u^4m)$ . From peri, around, and gynē, a woman. Fr., périgynion. 1. The hypogynous scales, bristles, or sac surrounding the pistil in the Cyperaceae. 2. Of Nees, a bottle-shaped organ with a 2-toothed neck including the ovary in the Cariceae. 3. The envelope investing the archegonia in the Hepaticae. [B, 121; B, 1, 19, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PERIGYNOUS, adj.  $Pe^2r^{12}j^{12}n(u^2s)$ . Lat., perigynus. Fr., périgynus. Ger., perigynisch, umweibig, nebenweibig. Of stamens and petals, inserted on a cup of the torus around the pistil; of a flower, containing stamens and petals so inserted, growing up around and partially enveloping the pistils. The Perigynæ of Link are a subclass of the Erogenæ consisting of the Loranthæ, Cornaceæ, Hederaceæ, and many others with p. insertion. [B, 1, 19, 121, 123, 170, 291 (a, 35).]

PERIHEPATITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}he^2p(hap)-a^2t(a^2t)-i(e)^{ti^2s}$ . Gen., -it'idōs (-idis). From peri, around, and hēpar, the liver. Fr., périhépatite. Ger., Leberdeckenzündung. Inflammation of the peritoneal coat of the liver. [D, 1.]

PERILARYNGEAL, adj.  $Pe^2r^{12}la^2r^{12}n(je^2a^2l)$ . From peri, around, and larynx, the larynx. Situated about the larynx.

PERILARYNGITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}la^2r^{12}n(ja^2r^{12}n)-i(je)^{ti^2s}$ . Gen., -it'idōs (-idis). Inflammation of the connective tissue surrounding the larynx. [E.]

PERILYMPH, n.  $Pe^2r^{12}li^2mf$ . From peri, around, and lymph, lymph. Fr., périlymphe. Ger., P. A pale, limpid fluid which is poured into the labyrinth from the subarachnoid space through the foramina acustica and leaves the labyrinth through the aqueductus cochleæ. It is contained in the space between the osseous and membranous labyrinths. [F.]

PERILYMPHANGIAL, adj.  $Pe^2r^{12}li^2mf-a^2n(ji^2a^2l)$ . Situated around a lymph-vessel. [J.]

PERILYMPHANGIITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}li^2mf(lu^6mf)-a^2ma^2n(ji^2a^2l)-i(je)^{ti^2s}$ . Gen., -it'idōs (-idis). From peri, around, lymph, lymph, and angion, a vessel. Inflammation of the adventitia of a lymphatic vessel. [A, 326 (a, 34).]

PERIMADAROUS, adj.  $Pe^2r^{12}ma^2d(a^2r^{12}u^2s)$ . Gr., περιμάδαρος (from peri, around, and μαδάρος, bald). Lat., perimadarius. Fr., périmadare. Of ulcers, spreading with the epidermis scaling off in advance. [A, 311 (a, 17).]

PERIMENINGITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}me^2n(man)^{12}n(i^2n^2)-j(je)^{ti^2s}$ . Gen., -it'idōs (-idis). From peri, around, and meningē, a membrane. Fr., périméningite. Cerebral or spinal pachymeningitis. [a, 34.]

PERIMENINX (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}men(man)^{12}n(i^2n^2x)$ . Gen., -ing'os (-ingis). From peri, around, and meninx, a membrane. Fr., périméninx. Ger., umgebende Haut. An enveloping membrane, especially of the spinal cord. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PERIMETER, n.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2t u^2r)$ . From peri, around, and μέτρον, a measure. Fr., périmètre. Ger., P. Gesichtsfeldmesser (2d def.). 1. See CIRCUMFERENCE. 2. An instrument for determining the limits of the field of vision. Förster's p. consists of a semi-circle of 12 in. radius, which is graduated on its inner surface in degrees and is fastened at its vertex to a vertical rod, so as to describe a hemisphere when rotated. In the centre of this sphere should be the nodal point of the eye to be examined. There is erected opposite the first rod a shorter rod, with a hollowed-out chin-rest. From this runs upward a narrow rod, bent at the end, which end stands exactly  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. below and  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. in front of the centre of the arc of the p. To this end is fitted the lower orbital margin, which should also be  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. below and  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. in front of the nodal point. From the foot of this rod, and rotating around it, runs a wire bent as a quadrant, on the end of which is a small movable ivory ball. This serves as the object of fixation, while upon the arc a small white square is shoved forward from periphery to centre as a test-object of indirect vision. By rotation round its axis the arc can be fitted to every meridian of the eye, and upon its graduated scale may be read off the most extreme point at which the p. ripheral object is still visible. [F.]

PERIMETRITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}me^2t(mat)-ri(re)^{ti^2s}$ . Gen., -it'idōs (-idis). From peri, around, and μήτρα, the uterus. Fr., périmérite. 1. Inflammation of the peritoneal coat of the uterus. 2. See PARAMETRITIS. —Serosus p. P. with a collection of serum in a sac separated by lymph exudate from the general peritoneal cavity. [J. Williams, "Med. Times and Gaz.," June 27, 1885, p. 865.]

PERIMETRIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^2r^{12}me^2t(mat)-ri^2u^2m(u^4m)$ . From peri, around, and μήτρα, the uterus. Ger., Gebärmutterhülle. The peritoneal coat of the uterus.

PERIMORULA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}mo^2r(u^2a)^{12}la^2$ . From peri, around, and μόρον, a mulberry. An ovum in the morula stage, where the nutritive yolk is completely surrounded by a layer of cells derived from the formative yolk. [L, 146.] Cf. PERIBLASTULA.

PERIMENINGO-ENCEPHALITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}me^2n(man)-i^2n^2n^2go(go^2)-e^2n(e^2n^2)-se^2f(ke^2f)-a^2l(a^2l)-i(e)^{ti^2s}$ . Gen., -it'idōs (-idis). From peri, around, μήνινξ, a membrane, and ἐγκέφαλος, the brain. See PERIENCEPHALITIS.

PERIMYELITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}mi(mu^6)-e^2l(i)^{ti^2s}$ . Gen., -it'idōs (-idis). From peri, around, and μυελός, marrow. Spinal meningitis. [L, 57 (a, 34).]

PERIMYSIITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}mi^2s(mu^6s)-i(je)^{ti^2s}$ . Gen., -it'idōs (-idis). Fr., périmsyite. Inflammation of the perimysium. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PERIMYSIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^2r^{12}mi^2s(mu^6s)^{12}u^2m(u^4m)$ . From peri, around, and μῦς, a muscle. Fr., périmsyium. Ger., P. Muskelhaut, Muskelhülle, Muskelscheide. The areolar tissue of striated muscle. [J, 24, 26, 30, 33.] —P. externum. The areolar tissue enveloping an entire muscle. [J, 24, 26.] —P. internum. The areolar sheath of the muscular fasciculi. [J, 16, 24, 30.]

PERIN (Lat.), n. m.  $Pe(pa)/ri^2n(ren)$ . Gen., -in'os (-in'is). Gr., πρίν. 1. A small bag, especially the scrotum. 2. The perineum. [L, 14, 50, 84 (a, 43).]

PERINÆAUXESIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)-a^2x(a^2x)-e(a^2x)-i(s)$ . Gen., -es'os (-is). From perinaeov, the perineum, and αὐξησις, growth. The expansion of the perineum that takes place during labor.

PERINÆOCELE (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)-o(o^2)-se(ka)-le(-la)$ ; in Eng.,  $pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)-o(-o)-sel$ . Gen., -cel'es. From perinaeov, the perineum, and κύλη, a tumor. Fr., périnéocèle. Ger., Dammbruch. Perineal hernia. [E.]

PERINÆOPLASTY, n.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)-o(-o)-pla^2st-i^2s$ . From perinaeov, the perineum, and πλασσαν, to mold. Fr., périnéoplastie. Ger., Perineoplastik. A plastic operation on the perineum.

PERINÆORRHAPHY, n.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)-o(-o)-rra^2p-i^2s$ . Lat., perinæorrhaphia (from perinaeov, the perineum, and ράφω, a seam). Fr., périnéorrhaphie. Ger., Perinæorrhaphie, Dammnaht. The operation of suturing a ruptured perineum. [L, 88 (a, 50).] —Flap-p. Ger., Lappenperinæorrhaphie. P. in which flaps of various shape are dissected from the cicatricial region. [a, 34.] —Emmet's operation for p. The denudation of two elliptical surfaces, one in each lateral furrow of the vagina, beginning in the median line at the posterior commissure and extending upward laterally for two or three inches to the internal border of the posterior commissure to the lowest caruncle of the hymen on each side and to the crest of the proctocle in the centre. The edges of the lateral wound are united by deep sutures carried under the denuded surface, and there remains a shallow slit of mucous membrane that is united with silk. [a, 34.] —Fritsch's p. P. in which the septum is split, the rectum detached from the vagina, the sphincter incised laterally if the ends are retracted, the rectal mucous membrane sutured with separate catgut sutures tied at the bottom of the wound, the same sutures closing the vagina, the perineum being completed by a series of buried sutures on superposed planes. [Pozzi (a, 34).]

PERINÆOSYNTHESIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)-o(o^2)-syn^2thesis$ . Gen., -thes'os (-syn^2thesis). From perinaeov, the perineum, and σύνθεσις, synthesis. Of Langenbeck, the restitution of small defects of the perineum by perinæorrhaphy. [L, 57 (a, 34).]

PERINÆUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)-u^2m(u^4m)$ . Gr., περίναος. Fr., périnée. Ger., Perinæum, Mittelfleisch, Damm. The space bounded by the anus behind, the genital organs in front, and the ischial tuberosities laterally. [L, 323.]

PERINÆAL, adj.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)$ . Lat., perinæalis, perinæus. Fr., perinéal. Pertaining to or situated in the perineum. [C.]

PERINÆUS (Lat.), adj. and n. m.  $Pe^2r^{12}n(e^2n^2)-u^2s(u^4s)$ . Perineal; as a n., a muscle of the perineum. [L.]

PERISPERMIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-spu}^2\text{rm}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., perispermicus, perispermatus (1st def.). Fr., périspermique, périspermé (1st def.). 1. Albuminous, provided with perisperm (1st def.). The Perispermæ of Brongniart are an order of the Personæ; of A. Jussieu, a division of the Monocotyledonæ. 2. Of Richard, exalbuminous, deprived of perisperm (1st def.), provided only with perisperm (2d def.). [B, 1, 19, 71, 170 (a, 35).]

PERISPHINXIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-sfi}^2\text{n}^2\text{x}/\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -sphin'x'eos (-is). From peri, around, and σφίγξις, constriction. Fr., périssphynxis. Ligation. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PERISPLENITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-sple}^2\text{n}(\text{splan})\text{-i}^2(\text{e})/\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idos (-idis). From peri, around, and σπλήν, the spleen. Fr., périssplénite. Inflammation of the tissues surrounding the spleen. [a, 34].] —Capsular p. P. limited to the peritoneal covering of the spleen. [a, 34.]

PERISPORE, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-spor}$ . From peri, around, and σπόρος, a seed. Lat., perisporium. Fr., périsspore. 1. In cryptogams, the sporangium. 2. Of Richard and Persoon, the hypogynous setae of the Cyperaceæ. [B, 1, 19, 123 (a, 35).]

PERISPORIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-spo}(\text{spo}^2\text{r})/\text{ri}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . 1. See PERISPORE. 2. A genus of pyrenomycetous Fungi. The species live on wood, excrement, etc., and cause the decay of paper and vegetable tissue. The Perisporiæ are a section of the Perisporiacei, or Perisporiaceæ (Fr., périssporiacees), which are a division (family) of the Ascomycetes belonging to the Pyrenomyces. The Perisporiæ of Fries (or Perisporiei; Fr., périssporiées) are a tribe of the Perisporiacei. The Perisporii of Fries (1825) are a tribe of the Sclerotiacei. [B, 19, 121, 170 (a, 35).]

PERISSAD, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-sa}^2\text{d}$ . From περισσός, odd. An element whose atomicity is expressed by an odd number. [B.] Cf. ARTIAD.

PERISTACHYUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-sta}^2\text{k}(\text{sta}^2\text{ch}^2)/\text{i}^2(\text{u}^2)\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . From peri, around, and στάχυς, an ear of corn. Fr., péristachyon. Ger., Kelchbalg. In grasses, a glume. [B, 19 (a, 35).]

PERISTALSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-sta}^2\text{l}^2(\text{sta}^2\text{l})/\text{si}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -sta'l'seos (-is). From peri, around, and στάσις, a compression. Fr., action péristaltique. Ger., Peristaltik. The progressive vermicular and rhythmic motion of tubular organs of the body, especially of the intestines, due to the successive contractions of the circular muscular fibres from above downward, whereby the contents of the organs are carried onward. [K.]

PERISTALTIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-sta}^2\text{l}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Gr., περισταλτικός. Fr., péristaltique. Ger., peristaltisch. Pertaining to or of the nature of peristalsis. [a, 17.]

PERISTOME, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-stom}$ . Lat., peristoma, peristomium (from peri, around, and στόμα, the mouth). Fr., péristome. Ger., Peristom. 1. In zoology, the margin of the mouth, the lip; also the space around the mouth. [B, 28 (a, 27).] 2. In botany, the fringe, of either one or two rows, formed by the hair-like or fenestrate bodies (teeth) around the margin of the orifice (stoma) of the capsule of a moss. [B, 1, 19, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PERISTROMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-strom}/\text{a}^2$ . Gen., -strom'atos (-atis). Gr., περίστρομα (from περιστρώννυμι, to spread all round). Fr., péristrome. The outer or inner layer of the intestine. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PERISTYLIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-stil}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., peristylicus (from peri, around, and στυλος, a pillar). Fr., péristylique. Around the style; having the ovary completely inferior and the stamens inserted between it and the calyx, and more or less adherent to its top. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PERISYSTOLE (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-si}^2\text{st}(\text{su}^2\text{st})/\text{o}^2\text{l-e}(\text{a})$ . Gen., -syst'oles. From peri, around, and συστολή, a drawing together. Fr., périssystole. Ger., P. The slight interval between the systole and diastole of the heart. [K, 4.] Cf. PREDIASTOLE.

PERITASIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-ta}^2\text{s}(\text{a}^2\text{s})/\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -as'eos (-it'asis). Gr., περίτασις. Fr., péritase. Of Greek writers, extension or distention in all directions. [A, 311 (a, 17).]

PERITENDINEUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-te}^2\text{nd-i}^2\text{n}^2/\text{e}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . From peri, around, and tendere, to stretch out. See PERIDESIUM.

PERITERION (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-te}(\text{ta})/\text{ri}^2\text{-o}^2\text{n}$ . Gr., περιτήριον. See TREPHINE.

PERITESTIS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-te}^2\text{st}/\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -test'is. From peri, around, and testis, the testicle. See TUNICA albuginea testis.

PERITEXIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-te}^2\text{x}(\text{tax})/\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -tex'eos (-is). Gr., περιτήξις (from περιτρίβειν, to melt all round). The coagulation of an abscess. [L, 50, 94 (a, 45).]

PERITHECIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-the}(\text{tha})/\text{si}^2(\text{ki}^2)\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . From peri, around, and θήκη, a chest. Fr., périthécium, périthèque. 1. In ascomporous Fungi, one of the small roundish or cup-shaped receptacles containing asci. 2. Of Eschweiller, the envelope inclosing the gelatinous nucleus of which the fruit of lichens is regarded as usually consisting. [B, 1, 19, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PERITHELIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-thel}(\text{thal})/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . From peri, around, and θήλη, the nipple. Fr., périthélium. Ger., Perithel, Gefässperithel (1st def.), Adventitialzelle (2d def.). 1. The partial or complete sheath of a capillary, small artery, or vein, formed by the branched cells of the surrounding areolar or adenoid tissue, the branched cells being in intimate connection with the cells forming the proper wall of the vessel; also, one of those branched cells. 2. Of His (1860), a coating of fine retiform markings sometimes seen on isolated capillaries that pass through a part where there is suppurating retiform tissue, as in the lymphatic glands, etc. 3. Of Auerbach, the endothelium of blood-vessels. 4. Of J. Arnold, the tunica adventitia of capillaries. [C; J, 21, 30, 35.]

PERITHORACIC, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-thor-a}^2\text{s}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . From περί, around, and θώραξ, the thorax. Surrounding the thorax. [a, 48.]

PERITOME (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{m-e}(\text{a})$ . Gr., περιτομή (from περιτείνω, to cut round about). See CIRCUMCISION.

PERITOMY, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{m-i}^2$ . From περιτείνω, to cut round about. Ger., Peritomie. A cutting round about, or circumcision, especially of the cornea. [F.] —Furnari's p. Removal of a broad strip of ocular conjunctiva around the entire circumference of the cornea, together with as much of the thickened corneal tissue at the limbus as possible; done in cases of obstinate pannus in order to reduce the blood supply to the inflamed cornea. [F.]

PERITONÆUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{n-e}(\text{a}^2\text{-e}^2)\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . Gr., περιτόναιον. Fr., péritoine. Ger., Bauchfell. It., peritoneo. Sp., peritoneo. The largest serous membrane of the body which lines the abdominal cavity and furnishes a more or less complete investment for the abdominal viscera except the kidneys (which are extraperitoneal), and retains them in position by its duplicatures. It is divided into two portions—the parietal (that lining the wall of the abdomen) and the visceral (covering the viscera). It forms a closed sac except in the female, where it communicates with the exterior by means of the oviducts. Commencing above on the posterior portion of the liver, it descends upon the anterior lower surface of the diaphragm and lateral walls of the abdomen (being continuous on either side with that part which passes back to cover the posterior abdominal wall) to a point slightly above the crest of the pubes, where it is reflected upon the antero-superior surface of the bladder, the fundus and posterior portion of which it covers. From this portion are given off duplicatures constituting the false ligaments of the bladder. From the bladder the p. is reflected upon the rectum or in the female upon the uterus (forming by its folds in the latter case the anterior, broad, and posterior ligaments), and thence upon the rectum. Partially enveloping the rectum, it passes back on each side to the pelvis, forming the mesorectum, and ascends to about the level of the third lumbar vertebra, from which it is reflected down to the small intestine, around which it turns and ascends, the two layers closely united forming the mesentery, to about the level of the pancreas, where it again descends to the colon, which it partially envelops, forming the mesocolon. From this point it again descends and turns upon itself, forming the outer layer of the great omentum, to reach the lower margin of the stomach, the front of which it covers. From the stomach it passes to the lower surface of the liver, which it covers, forming a portion of the gastro-hepatic omentum, and then ascends upon the anterior surface to the point of beginning. Near the left posterior part of the liver the parietal p. is reflected down from the lower surface of the diaphragm to the inferior posterior surface of the liver, whence it passes to the stomach, completing the gastro-hepatic omentum. After covering the posterior surface of the stomach it descends, and after turning upon itself, forming the inner layers of the great omentum, ascends to the colon, which it covers in part, completing the mesocolon, and passes back to the posterior wall of the abdomen, upon which it passes to its point of commencement. From the stomach a secondary fold passes which invests the spleen and forms the gastro-splenic ligament. Other secondary folds in this situation form the ligaments of the liver. [L. 31, 142, 173, 332.]—Abdominal p. Lat., p. parietale. The portion of the p. which lines the inner surfaces of the abdominal parietes.—Genito-urinary p. The recto-vesical folds. [L. 87 (a. 50).]—Subduodenal p. The folds and ligaments of the p. below the duodenum. [L. 87.]—Supraduodenal p. The folds and ligaments of the p. above the duodenum.—Parietal p. See Abdominal p.—Visceral p. Lat., p. viscerale. The portion of the p. which invests more or less completely the abdominal organs except the kidneys. [L.]

PERITONEAL, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{n-e}^2\text{a}^2$ . Fr., péritonéal. Ger., peritonäal. Of or pertaining to the peritonæum. [C.]

PERITONEOTOMY, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{n-e-o}^2\text{-t}^2\text{o}^2\text{m-i}^2$ . From περιτόναιον, the peritonæum, and τομή, a cutting. Incision of the peritonæum. [L. 57 (a. 34).]

PERITONISM, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{n-i}^2\text{zm}$ . Fr., péritonisme (Gubler). 1. A sort of false peritonitis in which the symptoms are those of peritonitis, but soon yield to treatment, leaving no trace of their existence. [Terrillon, "Progr. méd.," Aug. 18, 1883, p. 645.] 2. An assemblage of grave and often fatal phenomena complicating peritonitis, or rather any lesions of organs having a peritoneal investment. [Le Dentu, "Roy. de chir.," Jan., 1885, p. 1.]

PÉRITONITE (Fr.), n. Pa-re-to-net. See PERITONITIS.—P. cholériforme. Peritonitis accompanied by symptoms like those of Asiatic cholera. [A. 55.]—P. des hypochondres. See Diaphragmatic PERITONITIS.—P. épipléique. Syn.: p. abdominale antérieure. A puerperal inflammation of the omentum, attributed by some authors to an unusual development of the omentum and to pressure of the gravid uterus upon it, with puerperal poisoning as the determining cause. [A. 89.]—P. herniaire. Peritonitis affecting a hernial sac. [L. 87 (a. 34).]—P. iétérique. Peritonitis with jaundice; one of the varieties of puerperal peritonitis admitted by Hervieux. [L. 87 (a. 50).]—Strumous p. See Tubercular p.—Syphilitic p. P. consecutive to syphilitic lesions of the viscera, but without any syphiloma in the inflammatory product. [L. 87 (a. 50).]—Tubercular p. P. caused by tuberculosis of the peritonæum or of the mesenteric glands. [a. 34.]

PERITONSILLITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{ns-i}^2\text{(le)}^2\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idios (-idis). From περί, around, and tonsilla, a tonsil. Inflammation of the tissue around the tonsils. [D. 18.]—P. abscedens. P. attended with the formation of an abscess. [D. 18.]

PERITONYDROCYST, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{n-id-ro-si}^2\text{st}$ . Lat., peritonydrocystis (from περιτόναιον, the peritonæum, ύδωρ, water, and κύστις, a bladder). An aqueous cyst in the peritonæum. [L. 50 (a. 14).]

PERITRACHEITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-tra}^2\text{ch(trach)}^2\text{-e}^2\text{(le)}^2\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idios (-idis). From περί, around, and τράχεια, the windpipe. Inflammation of the connective tissue about the trachea. [a. 34.]

PERITROPAL, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-tr}^2\text{o-p}^2\text{l}$ . Lat., peritropus. Fr., péritrope. Ger., umkreiswendig. Having the axis perpendicular to that of the pericarp. [B. 1, 19, 123, 308 (a. 35).]

PERITROPE (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-tr}^2\text{o(ro)}^2\text{-pe(pa)}$ . Gen., -it'ropes. Gr., περιτροπή (from περί, around, and τρέπω, to turn). Fr., peritrope. See CIRCULATION.

PERITOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-tom'a}^2$ . Gen., -om'atos (-atis). Gr., περιτομία. See PERISSOMA.

PERITYPHLITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-ti}^2\text{f(tu}^2\text{f)-li}^2\text{(le)}^2\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idios (-idis). From περί, around, and τυφλόν, the cæcum. Inflammation of the tissue about the cæcum. [a. 34.]

PERI-URETHRITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{r(ur)-e}^2\text{th(ath)-ri(re)}^2\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idios (-idis). Inflammation of the connective tissue surrounding the urethra. [A. 326 (a. 21).]—P. circumscripta. P. in which the inflammatory area is circumscribed. [L. 20 (a. 34).]

PERI-UTERINE, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{t'e}^2\text{r-i}^2\text{n}$ . From περί, around, and uterus, the uterus. Fr., péri-utérin. See PERIMETRIC.

PERIVAGINITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-va}^2\text{g(wa}^2\text{g)-i}^2\text{n(en)-i(e)}^2\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idios (-idis). From περί, around, and vagina (q. v.). See PARACOLPITIS.—P. phlegmonosa dissecans. Suppurative paracolpitis. [L. 20 (a. 34).]

PERIVASCULITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-va}^2\text{s(wa}^2\text{s)-ku}^2\text{(ku)}^2\text{(le)}^2\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idios (-idis). From περί, around, and vasculum, a small vessel. Inflammation of the adventitia of the vessels. [a. 34.]—P. nodosa. P. with tubercular indurations about the vessels. [L. 57 (a. 34).]—P. retinæ. Of Ivanoff, sclerosis with thickening and fatty degeneration of the coats of the blood-vessels of the retina. [F.]

PERIVESICAL, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-ve}^2\text{s'i}^2\text{-k'i}^2$ . From περί, around, and vesica, the bladder. Situated about the bladder. [a. 34.]

PERIVISCERAL, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-vi}^2\text{s'e}^2\text{-r'i}^2$ . From περί, around, and viscus (q. v.). Surrounding a viscus. [B. 28 (a. 27).]

PERIVITELLINE, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-vi}^2\text{t'e}^2\text{-l'i}^2\text{n}$ . From περί, around, and vitellus (q. v.). Surrounding the vitellus. [J.]

PERIWINKLE, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-wi}^2\text{n}^2\text{kl}$ . The genus Vinca. [B. 19, 275 (a. 35).]—Common p. The Vinca minor. [a. 35.]

PERIZOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-zo}^2\text{m'a}^2$ . Gen., -om'atos (-atis). Gr., περιζώμα (from περιζώννυμι, to gird round one's self). 1. See DIAPHRAGM. 2. See ZOSTER. 3. Of Fabricius Hildanus, a truss. [G. 16.]

PERIZOSTRA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-zo}^2\text{s(zos)'tra}^2$ . Gr., περιζώστρα. Fr., périsostre. A bandage, especially for the head, chest, or abdomen. [L. 50 (a. 14).]

PERKINISM, n.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{r}^2\text{-k'i}^2\text{-n-i}^2\text{zm}$ . From Perkins, an American physician. Fr., Perkinisme. Ger., Perkinismus. An obsolete form of suggestive therapeutics in which the treatment consisted in rubbing on the skin two "tractors," or pointed rods made of different metals. [a. 34.]

PERLA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{r}^2\text{(per'l)'a}^2$ . See PEARL.—Mater perlarum. See MOTHER-OF-PEARL.—Perle textiles. Fr., perles à l'once, semences de perles. A very small variety of pearls, sometimes employed in pharmacy. [B. 119 (a. 38).]—Sal matris perlarum. Calcium acetate prepared by the action of vinegar on mother-of-pearl. [B. 119.]—Tinctura matris perlarum. See TINCTURA CORALLIORUM.

PERLE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{l}$ . 1. See PEARL. 2. See LEUCOMA (4th def.).—P's à l'once. See PERLE textiles.—P. gélatineuse. See MEDICINAL PEARL.

PERLE (Ger.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{l'e}^2$ . 1. See PEARL. 2. See HORDEOLUM.—Französische P. See MEDICINAL PEARL.

PERLÈCHE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{-le}^2\text{ch}$ . An infectious ulceration of the lips of school-children. [J. Lemaistre, "Progr. méd.," Aug. 21, 1886, p. 215 (a. 34).]

PERLSUCHT (Ger.), n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{l'zucht}^2$ . Bovine tuberculosis. See also GARGET (2d def.) and MURRAIN.

PERMANGANATE, n.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{r}^2\text{-ma}^2\text{n}^2\text{'ga}^2\text{n-at}$ . Lat., perman-ganas. Ger., Permanganat. A salt of permanganic acid. [B.]

PERMANGANIC, adj.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{r}^2\text{-ma}^2\text{n}^2\text{'ga}^2\text{n'i}^2\text{q}$ . Lat., perman-ganicus, hypermanganicus. Fr., permanganique. Containing manganese combined with a great proportion of oxygen than in the manganic compounds. [B.]—P. acid. Fr., acide permanganique. Ger., Uebermangansäure. A monobasic acid,  $\text{HMnO}_4$ , known only in aqueous solution. [B.]—P. anhydride. See MANGANESE.

PERMEABLE, adj.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{r}^2\text{me}^2\text{a}^2\text{b}^1$ . Lat., permeabilis (from permeare, to pass through). Fr., perméable. Ger., durchdringbar. That can be passed through (said especially of solids that allow the passage of fluids through their interstices, or of strictures that admit an instrument). [a, 48.]

PERMISTIO (Lat.), PERMIXTIO (Lat.), n's f.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{r}^2(\text{pe}^2\text{r})\text{mi}^2\text{s}^2(\text{ti})^2\text{o}$ ,  $\text{mi}^2\text{x}^2\text{shi}^2(\text{ti})^2\text{o}$ . Gen., -on'is. From permiscere, to mingle together. 1. See PERMIXTION. 2. See COTITION.—P. metal-lorum. See ALLOY.

PERNOCTATION, n.  $\text{Pu}^2\text{r}^2\text{no}^2\text{kt}^2\text{a}^2\text{shu}^2\text{n}$ . Lat., pernoctatio (from per, through, and nox, night). Fr., p. Ger., Nachtwachen. Night-watching, sleeplessness. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PERO (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2(\text{pa})^2\text{ro}$ . Gen., -on'is. Of Wilder, the softer ectal layer of the olfactory lobe, from which the olfactory nerves arise. [I, 80 (K).]

PEROBRACHIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2(\text{pa})^2\text{ro}^2(\text{ro}^2)\text{bra}^2\text{k}^2(\text{bra}^2\text{ch}^2\text{y})^2\text{i}^2\text{a}^2$ . From πρῶς, maimed, and brachium, the arm. Ger., Pero-brachie. Arrested development of one or both of the upper limbs, constituting a congenital malformation.

PEROCORMUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2(\text{pa})^2\text{ro}^2(\text{ro}^2)\text{ko}^2\text{rm}^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . From πρῶς, maimed, and κορμός, the trunk. Fr., perocorme. Of Gurlt, a monster characterized by malformation of the trunk. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PERODACTYLUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2(\text{ro}^2)\text{da}^2\text{k}^2(\text{da}^2\text{k})^2\text{ti}^2\text{l}^2(\text{ti}^2\text{l})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . See FLEXOR digitorum pedis longus.

PERODACTYLY, n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{da}^2\text{k}^2\text{ti}^2\text{l}^2\text{i}^2$ . From πρῶς, maimed, and δάκτυλος, a finger. See ADACTYLIA.

PERODYNIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2(\text{pa})^2\text{ro}^2(\text{ro}^2)\text{di}^2\text{n}^2(\text{du}^2\text{n})^2\text{i}^2\text{a}^2$ . From πῖρα, a pouch, and δύνη, pain. See CARDIALGIA.

PEROMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2(\text{par})^2\text{om}^2\text{a}^2$ . Gr., πήρωμα (from πρῶν, to mutilate). See PEROSIS.

PEROMELIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2(\text{pa})^2\text{ro}^2(\text{ro}^2)\text{mel}^2(\text{me}^2\text{l})^2\text{i}^2\text{a}^2$ . From πρῶς, maimed, and μέλος, a limb. Fr., peromélie. Ger., Peromelie. A form of monstrosity in which one or more of the limbs are deformed or wanting in certain portions. [Rasori, "Gazz. degli ospit.," June 25, 1832, p. 403.]

PEROMELUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2(\text{par})^2\text{o}^2\text{m}^2\text{e}^2\text{l}^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . Fr., peromèle. A monster characterized by defective or misshaped limbs. [A, 326 (a, 21).]

PÉROMOPLASTIE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{mo}^2\text{pla}^2\text{s}^2\text{te}$ . From πήρωμα, mutilation, and πλάσσειν, to mold. The operation of forming a stump anew after an amputation when the end of the bone projects. [E, 24.]

PERONEUS (Lat.), adj. and n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}^2\text{e}^2(\text{a}^2\text{e}^2)\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . See PERONEUS.

PERONARTHROSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}^2\text{a}^2\text{rth}^2\text{ros}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -thros'eos (-is). From πéronē, the tongue of a buckle, and άρθρον, a joint. A joint in which the articular surfaces are both concave and convex, as in the carpo-metacarpal articulation of the thumb. [a, 34.]

PERONATE, adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}^2\text{at}$ . Lat., peronatus. In botany, covered with a woolly or mealy coat. [B, 308 (a, 35).]

PERONEDACTYLUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}^2\text{e}^2\text{da}^2\text{k}^2(\text{da}^2\text{k})^2\text{ti}^2\text{l}^2(\text{ti}^2\text{l})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . See PERONODACTYLUS.

PERONEO-CALCANEUS (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}^2\text{e}^2(\text{a})^2\text{o}^2(\text{o}^2)\text{ka}^2\text{l}^2(\text{ka}^2\text{l})^2\text{ka}^2\text{n}^2(\text{a}^2\text{n})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . From πéronē, the fibula, and calcx, the heel. Pertaining to or connected with the fibula and the os calcis; as a n. m., a muscle arising from the fibula and inserted into the os calcis, also the soleus, and, in solipeds, the peroneoprephalangæus. [L.]—P. e. externus anterior [Gruber]. A muscle arising from the tubercle of the tibia, from the fibula for nearly its whole length, and from the intermuscular ligament, and inserted into the anterior process of the calcaneum. [Arch. f. path. Anat. u. Phys. u. f. kl. Med., Feb., 1884 (L).]—P. e. internus. Fr., perónio-calcaneén. Of Macalister, a small muscle having its origin from the back of the fibula and its insertion in the tubercle on the os calcis. [C.]

PÉRONÉO-DACTYLIEN (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{na}^2\text{o}^2\text{da}^2\text{k}^2\text{te}^2\text{le}^2\text{a}^2\text{n}^2$ . See FLEXOR digitorum pedis longus.

PERONEO-TIBIALIS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}^2\text{e}^2(\text{a})^2\text{o}^2(\text{o}^2)\text{ti}^2\text{b}^2(\text{teb})^2\text{i}^2\text{a}^2(\text{a}^2\text{s})^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . From πéronē, the fibula, and tibia, the tibia. A small muscle described by W. Gruber which has its origin in the inner side of the head of the fibula and its insertion in the upper end of the oblique line of the tibia. It is constant in apes. [Arch. of Anat., 1877, p. 401, 1878, p. 484 (C).]

PERONEUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}^2\text{e}^2(\text{a})^2\text{u}^2\text{m}^2(\text{u}^2\text{m})^2$ . From περόνη, the fibula. See PERONE.

PERONEUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pe}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{n}^2\text{e}^2(\text{a})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . From πéronē, the fibula. Fr., peronier. Peroneal; as a n. m., a muscle connected with the fibula; also, specifically, the p. quinti digiti and, in solipeds, the peroneo-præphalangæus. [L, 18.]—P. accessorius. 1. An accessory muscle arising from the fibula between the p. brevis and p. longus and joining the tendon of the p. longus near the sole of the foot. [L, 332.] 2. See P. quinti digiti.—P. anticus. See P. brevis and P. tertius.—P. brevis. Fr., petit péronier de Winslow, court péronier latéral. Ger., kurzer Wadenbeinmuskel. A muscle arising from the lower two thirds of the external surface of the fibula, in front of and partially covered by the p. longus. It terminates in a tendon which passes behind the external malleolus in a compartment of the external annular ligament of the ankle, in company with but in front of that of the p. longus, to be inserted into the base of the fifth metatarsal bone. [L, 142, 332.]—P. digiti minimi pedis. See P. quinti digiti.—P. longus. Ger., langer Wadenbeinmuskel. A muscle arising from the external tuberosity of the fibula, the upper two thirds of the fascia of the leg, and the intermuscular septum on both sides. It terminates in a tendon which passes in common with the tendon of the p. brevis behind the external malleolus, and is inserted into the internal cuneiform and the bases of the first and second metatarsal bones. [L, 31, 142, 332.]—P. medius, P. parvus. See P. quinti digiti.—P. posticus brevis. See P. brevis.—P. posticus (longus), P. primus. See P. longus.—P. quartus. 1. See P. quinti digiti. 2. Of Otto, an anomalous muscle, probably a variation of the p. digiti quinti, which arises from the posterior surface of the fibula near the p. brevis and is inserted into the calcaneum. [L, 3, 142, 332.]—P. quinti digiti. Fr., péronier du cinquième orteil [Testut]. A muscle which is natural to some of the lower animals, but is unusual in man, arising from the p. brevis and inserted into a phalanx of the little toe, or into some portion of the metatarsophalangeal mechanism, or into the side of the peroneus longus. [Testut, "Progr. méd.," Dec. 13, 1884, p. 1029.]—P. secundus. See P. brevis.—P. sextus. See P. quartus (1st and 2d def's).—P. tertius. Fr., péronier antérieur (ou troisième). Ger., dritter Wadenbeinmuskel. A muscle arising from about the lower fourth of the anterior surface of the fibula, the interosseous ligament, and the adjacent intermuscular septa. It terminates in a tendon which accompanies those of the extensor digitorum pedis longus, to be inserted into the base of the fifth and occasionally of the fourth metatarsal bone. [L, 31, 142, 332.]

PÉRONIER (Fr.), adj. and n.  $\text{Pa}^2\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{ne}^2\text{a}$ . See PERONEUS.—P. antérieur. See PERONEUS tertius.—P's latéraux. The peroneus brevis and peroneus longus. [L, 31.]—Petit p. See PERONEUS tertius.

PERONODACTYLUS (Lat.), n. m.  $Pe^2r-o^2n-o(o^2)-da^2k(da^2k-ti^2)(tu^2)/i^2-u^2s(u^2)s$ . From perón, the fibula, and dáctulos, a finger. Fr., peronodactylus. See FLEXOR digitorum pedis longus.

PERONOSPORA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r-o^2n-o^2sp/o^2r-a^2$ . From perón, the tongue of a buckle, and σπόρα, a seed. A genus of Fungi giving its name to the Peronosporaceae (Fr., peronosporaceae), or Peronosporae (Fr., peronosporae; Ger., Peronosporaceae), or Peronosporae (Fr., peronosporae), a division of the Phycomycetes, subclass Oomycetes, parasitic mainly upon living phanerogams, the tissues of which they penetrate and destroy by means of peculiar organs of suction (haustoria) arising as lateral branches from their unicellular mycelium. [B. 19, 77, 121 (a, 35).]—P. effusa. A species found upon spinach and similar plants. [B. 61.]—P. gangliiformis. A species infesting lettuce, producing short oval conidia with papillae at the apex. [B. 61.]—P. hyoscyami. A species parasitic upon Hyoscyamus niger, but found also on other solanaceous plants. [B. 77 (a, 35).]—P. infestans. Ger., Kartoffelpilz. Potato (or potato-disease) fungus; a species producing potato gangrene. It grows within the tissue of the plant, but may be observed on the lower surface of the leaf as a white bloom around the margin of the dark diseased blotches which it produces. It is also parasitic on Solanum dulcamara and other species of Solanum, and is very destructive to the tomato. [B. 19, 77, 195, 275, 291 (a, 35).]—P. lutea. Of Carmona y Valle, a micro-organism discovered by him in yellow fever. [B. 19, 77, 195, 275, 291 (a, 35).]—P. viticola. A species similar to P. infestans, producing vine-mildew. [B. 185, 291 (a, 35).]

PEROPLASIA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe(pa)-ro(ro^2)-pla(pla^2)/zi^2(si^2)-a^2$ . From πρόσ, maimed, and πλάσσειν, to mold. A malformation caused by defective development. [a, 34.]

PEROPUS (Lat.), adj.  $Pe^2r(par)/o^2p-u^2s(u^2)s$ . From πρόσ, maimed, and πούς, the foot. A monster characterized by malformation of the feet. [a, 48.]

PEROSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r(par)-os^2is$ . Gen., -os^2eos (-is). Gr., πέρωσις (from πέρων, to maim). Mutilation, imperfection. [A, 311 (a, 30).]

PEROSMIC, adj.  $Pu^2r-o^2z/mi^2k$ . Containing osmium as an octavalent radicle. [B. 1.]—P.-acid. See Osmic acid.

PEROSOMUS (Lat.), n. m.  $Pe(pa)-ro(ro^2)-som^2u^2s(u^2)s$ . From πρόσ, maimed, and σώμα, the body. Fr., perosome. Of Gurit, a monster defective in the development of the whole body. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PEROSPLANCHNICA (Lat.), n. n. pl.  $Pe(pa)-ro(ro^2)-spla^2n^2k-(spla^2n^2ch^2)/ni^2k-a^2$ . From πρόσ, maimed, and σπλάνχνος, for the bowels. Congenital malformations of the viscera. [a, 34.]

PEROTIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Pe^2r-o^2t/i^2s$ . Fr., perotide. A genus of grasses, of the Zoysieae. The Perotideae of Nees are a tribe of grasses. [B. 121, 170 (a, 35).]—P. latifolia. A species the root of which is used as a diuretic and a mildly astringent hæmostatic. [B. 180 (a, 35).]

PEROXIDE, n.  $Pu^2r-o^2x/i^2d(id)$ . Lat., peroxidum, peroxydum. Fr., peroxyde. Ger., Peroxyd. Of two or more compounds of oxygen with the same element or radicle, the one which contains the greatest relative amount of oxygen. [B.]

PEROXYHYDRATE, n.  $Pu^2r-o^2x-i^2hid^2rat$ . The hydrate of a peroxide. [a, 38.]

PERPENDICULARIS (Lat.), adj.  $Pu^2r(pe^2r)-pe^2n-di^2k-u^2(i^2)-la(la^2)/ri^2a$ . Perpendicular; as a n., a structure consisting of fibres running perpendicularly to its surface.—P. externus lingue. See STRATUM musculare lingue perpendicularis.

PERPHOSPHORATUS (Lat.), adj.  $Pu^2r(pe^2r)-fo^2s-fo^2r-at-(a^2t^2)/u^2s(u^2)s$ . Fr., perphosphoré. Containing the greatest possible combining proportion of phosphorus. [B. 38 (a, 14).]

PERPLICATION, n.  $Pu^2r-pli^2k-a^2shu^2n$ . From per, through, and plicare, to fold. A method of closing the end of a severed blood-vessel by isolating the extremity, making a small hole in its side at a little distance from the end, introducing the points of a fine forceps through the puncture, seizing the free end, and drawing it backward through the puncture in the side. [E, 21.]

PERRICHES (Fr.), n.  $Pe^2r-ru^2sh$ . A place in the department of Cantal, France, where there is a saline and chalybeate spring. [L, 49 (a, 14).]

PERRY, n.  $Pe^2r/ri^2$ . Fr., poiré. Ger., Birne. A fermented liquor made from pears. [B. 5, 185 (a, 35).]

PERRY SPRINGS, n.  $Pe^2r/i^2$ . A place in Pike County, Illinois, where there are mineral springs. [A, 303 (a, 21).]

PERSEA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pu^2rs(pe^2rs)/a^2a^2$ . Gr., περσεία. Fr., avocatier. Ger., P. A genus of lauraceous trees or shrubs. The Perseeae of Benth and Hooker are a tribe of the Laurineae. The Persea of Nees are a division of the Laurae. The Persea of Milquod are a tribe of the Laurineae. [B. 19, 42, 121, 170 (a, 35).]—P. carolinensis, P. carolinensis. Fr., laurier rouge, bois labellé. Ger., rather Lorbeer. The alligator pear (tree), Isabella-wood of Carolina, red bay (or laurel), bay galls; a tree or shrub growing in American swamps. The leaves are aromatic. [B. 34, 180 (a, 35).]—P. drynifolia. A species used as tonic and stimulant. [B. 207 (a, 35).]—P. gratissima. Fr., avocatier, bois d'avis, laurier avocatier, poirier avocat (ou de la Nouvelle-Espagne). Ger., Avocado-baum. The alligator (or avocado) pear (tree), midshipman's-butter, vegetable marrow; indigenous to tropical America. The fruit is rich in sugar and fatty matter. The pulp, seasoned in various ways, is known as vegetable butter (Fr., beurre végétale), subaltern butter, etc., and is used both as a food and as a medicine, being supposed to increase the spermatic secretion. It yields 8 per cent. of a greenish oil. In the Antilles the leaves are used as a pectoral, vulnerary, and stomachic, and the buds are employed as an antispasmodic and as an application to bruises. The seeds are used in Demerara as a tonic. In Mexico and the Antilles the leaves and fruit are used as an emmenagogue, and the epicarp is employed as an anthelmintic. [B. 19, 173, 180, 267, 275, 314 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxiv, p. 77 (a, 50).]—P. indica. Canary-wood, East Indian bay-tree, venatica-wood. The bark, which has the taste and smell of cinnamon, is used as a stomachic, and the leaves, petioles, and young branches as an antidiysenteric. It is the Laurus indica of older botanists. [B. 180 (a, 35).]

PERSEITE, n.  $Pu^2r/se^2it$ . Fr., perséite. A saccharine substance,  $C_8H_{14}O_6$ , isomeric with mannite, obtained from the fruit of Persea gratissima. [A. Muntz and V. Marcano, "Ann. di chim. medico-farm. e di farmacol.," Mar., 1885 (B).]

PERSICA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pu^2rs(pe^2rs)/i^2k-a^2$ . From περσικός, Persian. Fr., pêcher. Ger., Pfirsichbaum. A genus of rosaceous trees, included by Benth and Hooker in Amygdalus. [B. 42, 121, 180 (a, 35).]—Flores persicae (seu persicarum). Peach-blossoms. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. laevis. Fr., brugnion. The nectarine; a variety of P. vulgaris having a fruit with a smooth shining skin. [B. 34, 180 (a, 35).]—P. vulgaris. Fr., pêcher. Ger., gemeiner Pfirsichbaum. The peach-tree, Amygdalus p., the Prunus p. of Benth and Hooker; a tree or shrub extensively cultivated in warm and temperate climates for its well-known fruit (the μήλον περσικόν of Dioscorides). The flowers, the leaves, the bark, and especially the kernels of the fruit, yield hydrocyanic acid, and most, it is believed, when there is least fruit. The leaves are laxative and anthelmintic; they are also considered slightly sedative, and their infusion is recommended in vesical irritation, vomiting, and pertussis. The flowers (see Syrupus florum persicorum) are used as a laxative for infants, though poisoning has occurred. The kernels are used for bitter almonds. Blanched and emulsified with cold water, they are employed in nervous coughs. The juice of the fruit is saccharine, and by fermentation and distillation yields peach brandy. The kernels yield a light yellowish oil (peach-oil) used to adulterate almond-oil. The dried fruit is a laxative food. [B. 5, 34, 42, 173, 180, 185 (a, 35).]—Syrupus persicae. See Syrupus florum persicorum.

PERSICARIA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pu^2rs(pe^2rs)-i^2k-a(a^2)/ri^2-a^2$ . From persicum, a peach. Fr., persicaire. 1. The Polygonum p. Polygonum hydropiper, and Polygonum orientale. 2. Of Tournefort, the genus Polygonum. 3. Of Linnaeus, a section of the genus Polygonum. [A, 511; B, 42, 121 (a, 35).]—P. minor, P. mitis. The Polygonum p. [B. 5 (a, 35).]—P. arens. The Polygonum hydropiper. [B. 5, 121 (a, 35).]

PERSICUS (Lat.), n. m.  $Pu^2rs(pe^2rs)/i^2k-u^2s(u^2)s$ . Gr., περσικός. See PERSICA vulgaris and JUGLANS regia.—Syrupus florum [Swiss Ph.]. persicorum [Belg. Ph.]. Fr., sirop de fleurs de pêcher [Fr. Cod.]. A preparation made by infusing 10 parts of fresh peach-blossoms in 150 of boiling water for 6 hours in a closed vessel [Fr. Cod.] (or macerating them in 15 of warm water for 12 hours [Swiss Ph.]), expressing, adding 18 parts of sugar for each 10 of clarified colature, and boiling up quickly and straining [Fr. Cod.] (evaporating over the water bath [Swiss Ph.]); or by bruising the blossoms in a marble mortar, expressing, filtering, and dissolving 665 parts of sugar in each 345 of filtrate [Belg. Ph.]. [B. 95, 119 (a, 38).]

PERSIL (Fr.), n.  $Pe^2r-se$ . 1. The genus Apium. 2. The Apium petroselinum (see CARUM petroselinum), also [Fr. Cod.] its fruit. [B. 5, 19, 121 (a, 35); B. 95 (a, 38).]—Extrait de p. See Extractum PETROSELINI.—Huile essentielle de p. See Oil of PARSLEY.

PERSIMMON, n.  $Pu^2r-si^2m^2u^2n$ . The Diospyros virginiana and other species of Diospyros or their fruit. [B. 5, 121, 275 (a, 35).]

PERSISTENT, adj.  $Pu^2r-si^2s^2t^2nt$ . Lat., persistens (from persistere, to persist). Fr., persistant. Ger., bleibend. Continuing, enduring; of leaves, remaining on the plant over winter; of a corolla or calyx, remaining unwithered till the fruit ripens. [B. 1, 19, 123, 291 (a, 35).] Cf. CADUCOUS, FUGACIOUS, DECIDUOUS, and MARCESCENT.

PERSONA (Lat.), n. f.  $Pu^2r(pe^2r)-son^2a^2$ . 1. A person; of Haeckel, a single individual, in the narrowest sense. 2. A shoot or bud of a plant.

PERSONARIA (Lat.), PERSONATA (Lat.), n's f.  $Pu^2rs-(pe^2rs)o^2nton(a^2)-a(a^2)/ri^2-a^2$ ,  $-ata^2/ta^2$ . From persona, a mask. An old name for various species of Lappa. [B. 121 (a, 35).]—Radix personariae (seu personatae). The root of Lappa major, Lappa minor, or Lappa tomentosa. [B. 180 (a, 35).]

PERSONATE, adj.  $Pu^2r/s^2n-at$ . Lat., personatus (from persona, a mask). Fr., personé. Ger., verlarvt, entstellt (1st def.), maskirt (2d def.). 1. Of a part or organ, changed so that the usual or normal structure is with difficulty recognizable. 2. Of a bilabiate corolla, having the throat closed by a prominence called the palate. The Personatae are the Scrophularineae, or, of Linnaeus, an order including the Verbenaceae, Gesneriaceae, Gentianaceae, etc. The Personae (Fr., personées) are the Scrophularineae, or, of Brongniart, a class of hypogynous Gamopetalae consisting of the Perispermaceae and Aperispermaceae. [B. 1, 19, 42, 121, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PERSPICILLUM (Lat.), n. n.  $Pu^2r(pe^2r)-spi^2s(sp)^2k-i^2pl^2u^2m$  (in m). From perspicere, to see through. Fr., lunette. Ger., Augenglass, Brille. An eyeglass; a magnifying glass or microscope; in the pl., perspicilla spectacles. [H, 12; L, 50, 107 (a, 14, 43).]

PERSPIRATION, n.  $Pu^2r-spi^2r-a^2shu^2n$ . Lat., perspiratio (from per, through, and spirare, to breathe), diplatio. Fr., p. sueur (3d def.), p. Ausdünstung (1st def.), Hauchathmung (3d def.), Schweiss (3d def.). 1. A physiological act or process by which fluids are emitted or exhaled from the skin, embracing the escape of gases and watery vapor by transudation and the production of sweat by secretion. 2. The respiratory function of the skin, which chiefly consists in the exhalation of watery vapor and carbonic acid and in the absorption of oxygen. 3. Sweat, the product of the secretion or transudation.—Insensible p. Ger., unmerkliche

Ausdünstung, Dunstschweiss. P. in which the matters exhaled are invisible; the normal excretion from the skin when the body is at rest, and not overheated. [K.]—Sensible p. Ger., merkbare Ausdünstung. P. in which the watery element collects on the skin in the form of visible moisture; also the moisture itself.

PERSULPHIDE, n. Pu<sup>r</sup>-su<sup>2</sup>-lf(i<sup>2</sup>d(id. Fr., persulfure. Ger., Persulfid. Of two or more compounds of sulphur with the same element or radicle, that one which contains the greatest amount of sulphur. [B.]

PETROSO-MASTOID, adj. Pe't-ro's'o-ma'st'oid. See PETRO-MASTOID.

PETRO-SPHENOID, PETRO-SPHENOIDAL, adj's. Pe't-ro-sfen'oid, -sfe'n-oid. From πέτρα, a rock, σφην, a wedge, and εἶδος, resemblance. Pertaining to the petrous portion of the temporal bone and the sphenoid bone. [a, 48.]

PETRO-SQUAMOSAL, PETRO-SQUAMOUS, adj's. Pe't-ro-skwa'm-o's'l, -skwa'm'u's. From πέτρα, a rock, and squama, a scale. Pertaining to the petrous and squamous portions of the temporal bone. [C.]

PETRO-STAPHYLINUS (Lat.), n. m. Pe't-ro(ro's)-sta'f-(sta'f)-i<sup>2</sup>(u'sl)-in(en)/u's(u's). From πέτρα, a rock, and σταφύλη, the uvula. Fr., pétro-staphylin. Pertaining to or connected with the petrous portion of the temporal bone and the palate. As a n. m., a muscle so connected; specifically, the levator palati. [L.]

PETROSUS (Lat.), adj. Pe't-ro's/u's(u's). 1. See PETROUS; as a n. n., petrosus, the petrosal bone. [A, 325 (a, 48).] 2. Of plants, growing in stony places. [B, 1, 19 (a, 35).]

PETROUS, adj. Pe't/ru's. Lat., petrosus (from πέτρα, a rock). Fr., petreux. Stony, hard; also pertaining to the p. portion of the temporal bone, so named on account of its hardness. [L.]

PETSAI (Chin.), n. A Chinese cabbage (Brassica chinensis) yielding an oil used as a purgative and in skin diseases. [B, 5, 121 (a, 35).]

PEUCEDANINE, n. Pu<sup>2</sup>-se'd/a'n-en. Fr., peucedanine. Ger., Peucedanin. A crystalline substance, C<sub>15</sub>H<sub>22</sub>O<sub>2</sub> (or C<sub>14</sub>H<sub>20</sub>O<sub>2</sub>), extracted from the root of Peucedanum ostruthium and Peucedanum officinale. It forms brilliant colorless prisms which melt at 76° C., and do not sublime. [B, 38, 48, 93 (a, 14).]

PEUCEDANUM (Lat.), n. n. Pu<sup>2</sup>-se'd(ke'd)/a'n(a'n)-u'm(u'm). Gr., πευκεδανον. Fr., peucedan. Ger., Haarstrang. 1. Of the ancients, see P. officinale (1st def.). 2. A genus of perennial (rarely annual) umbelliferous herbs or very smooth shrubs (rarely trees). To it Bentham and Hooker unite as sections Anethum, Oreoselinum, Pastinaca, and other genera usually considered distinct. The Peucedanaceae (Fr., peucedanées; Ger., Peucedaneen), the Peucedanidae of Lindley, are a division or tribe of the Umbelliferae, comprising Ferula, Dorema, P., Heracleum, and other genera in which the fruit is much compressed dorsally and the lateral ribs are expanded into a winged, much-swollen margin, entire before dehiscence. [B, 42, 104, 121, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—Ætheroleum peucedani. See Oleum peucedani aetherum.—Extractum peucedani. Fr., extrait de peucedan. A preparation made by boiling the root of P. officinale in 6 times as much white wine, repeating the process with more wine, and mixing and evaporating the liquids; or by infusing 1 part of the root in 4 parts of boiling water, repeating the process with fresh water, and mixing and evaporating the liquids. [B, 119 (a, 38).]—Oleum peucedani aetherum. Fr., oléule (ou huile essentielle) de peucedan. A preparation made by distilling 1 part of the root of P. officinale with 3 parts of water and collecting the oil upon the surface of the distillate. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—P. ambiguum. A North American species reputed stimulant and tonic. [B. 367 (a, 35).]—P. ammoniacum. See DOREMA ammoniacum.—P. cervaria. Fr., persil (ou carotte) de montagne, herbe aux cerfs. Ger., starrer Haarstrang, grosse Bergpetersilie, Hirschwurz, schwarzer Enzian. Mountain hart-wort; a species found in central and southern Europe. The fruit and root, radix et semen cervaria (seu gentiana nigra), were once official as diaphoretic, stimulants, and diuretic. The root is still used in veterinary medicine and empirically in intermittent fevers and abdominal complaints. It is sometimes gathered in place of that of Meum athamanticum. [B. 64, 173, 180, 267 (a, 35).]—P. galbanum. See BUXUS galbanum.—P. graveolens. Fr., persil (ou ache) des marais, ache d'eau. Ger., gemeiner Dill, Gartendill. Anet, dill seed; an herb indigenous to the Mediterranean regions, southern Russia, and the Caucasus, and cultivated elsewhere. The highly aromatic fruits (the dill or anethi fructus of the Br. Ph.) contain 3 or 4 per cent. of an essential oil (see OLEUM ANETHI), composed chiefly of anethene. The distilled water of dill (see AQUA ANETHI) is carminative and stomachic; it is used to mask the taste of disagreeable medicines. In India the seeds are used medicinally and in cooking. The leaves, moistened with oil and applied warm, are said to hasten suppuration. [B. 5, 18, 42, 64, 267, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. italicum. A stimulant and tonic species, used in southern Europe like the P. officinale of Linnaeus. [B. 180, 267 (a, 35).]—P. majus. See P. officinale.—P. montanum. A species the root of which was formerly used in epilepsy. [B. 267 (a, 35).]—P. officinale. Fr., peucedan officinal, fennel de porc (1st def.), queue de porceau (1st def.). Ger., gebrüchlicher Haarstrang, Himmeldill, Saufenchel, Schweifwurz (all 1st def.). 1. Of Linnaeus, sulphur-root (or-weed or-wort), harstrang, horestrang, hog's-fennel, the peucedan of the ancients; a perennial species found in central and southern Europe, northern Africa, and middle Asia. The root, radix peucedani (seu feniculi porcini, seu pinastelle), contains peucedanine, and was formerly esteemed for its aperitive, expectorant, and diuretic properties, but is now hardly used except in veterinary medicine. 2. Of Gouan, the P. italicum. 3. Of Thuillier, the P. parisiense. [B. 5, 42, 173, 180, 267, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. oreoselinum. Fr., persil de cerf (ou de montagne noir). Ger., Berghaarstrang, Bergeppig, Grundheil, Augenwurz, Vieltug, Bergpetersilie. Mountain parsley, the oreoselinum of Dioscorides. The root, herb, and fruits, radix, herba, et semen oreoselini (seu apii montani, seu petroselini montani, etc.), have been official. The fruit is very spicy, and was once used as a febrifuge. The herb is diaphoretic and stimulant, and is used in leucorrhœa, gonorrhœa, etc.; it still holds a place in some pharmacopœias. The root is used in constipation, etc. [B. 173, 180, 267 (a, 35).]—P. ostruthium. See IMPERATORIA ostruthium.—P. parisiense. A tonic and stimulant species found in southern Europe. PHACITIS (Lat.), n. f. Fa'c(fa'k)-i(ce)'ti's. Gen., -*i'id*os (-idis). Fr., p. An old term for inflammation of the crystalline lens or of its capsule or both; now used for capsitis. [F.]

PHACOCATAPTESIS (Lat.), PHACOCATATHESIS (Lat.), n's f. Fak (fa'k)-o(ce)-ka'2t(ku'2)-a'2-pi'p'i'e'sis, -a'th'e'sis. From φακός, a lentil, and καταπίπτω, a keeping down, or κατάθεσις, a laying down. Fr., phacocataptesis. See DEPRESSIO cataractæ.

PHACOCOPIIS (Lat.), n. f. Fak (fa'k)-o(ce)-k'op'i's. Gen., -*cop'i'id*os (-idis). From φακός, a lentil, and κοπίς, a chopper. A lenticular knife. [E.]

PHACODES (Lat.), adj. Fak(fa<sup>3</sup>k)-od'ez(as). Gr., φακώδης (from φακός, a lentil, and εἶδος, resemblance). Fr., phacoez. Ger., linsendähnlich (1st def.). 1. Resembling a lentil. 2. Of Hippocrates, freckled; as a n. f., a freckle. [A, 311 (a, 17); L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHACOIDOSCOPE, n. Fak'k-o'id-o-skop. From φακός, a lentil, εἶδος, resemblance, and σκοπεῖν, to examine. Fr., phacoi'doscope. Ger., Phakoidoskop. See PHACOSCOPE.

PHACOSCOPE, n. Fak'k-o-skop. From φακός, a lentil, and σκοπεῖν, to examine. Ger., Phakoskop. An instrument for measuring the changes in shape undergone by the crystalline lens during accommodation. It consists of a series of prisms so arranged that the observer sees two reflections of each image formed in the lens. The different positions of the lens are thus rendered more evident. [K, 8.]

PHAGOCYTE, n. Fa<sup>2</sup>g/o-sit. From φαγεῖν, to eat, and κύτος, a cell. Fr., p. Ger., Phagocyt, Fresszelle. Syn.: devouring or wandering cell, leucocyte, white blood-corpuscle. Of Metschnikoff, any amoeboid cell regarded as a structure capable of inclosing and digesting solid particles. In the body they act (1) in absorbing healthy tissues, as in the metamorphosis of batrachia and the development of bone; (2) in active degeneration of parts in disease; and (3) as scavengers, removing bacteria and minute solid masses that have accidentally reached the tissues. ["Quart. Jour. of Micr. Sci.," 1884, p. 111; T. Smith, "Med. Annals," 1885, p. 50 (J).]

PHAGOCYTOBLAST, n. Fa<sup>2</sup>g-o-sit'o-bla<sup>2</sup>st. From φαγεῖν, to eat, κύτος, a cell, and βλαστός, a sprout. Fr., phagocyto-blaste. Of Metschnikoff, the mesoderm; so called from its giving rise to the phagocytes. ["Quart. Jour. of Micr. Sci.," 1884 (J).]

PHAGOSITE, n. Fa<sup>2</sup>g/o-sit. From φαγεῖν, to eat, and σίτος, food. Of Van Beneden, an animal parasite (such as a leech or a flea) that feeds on but does not reside in or on its host. ["Amer. Nat.," v, 434 (a, 48).]

PHALANGIUM (Lat.), n. n. Fa<sup>2</sup>l(fa<sup>3</sup>l)-a<sup>3</sup>n<sup>2</sup>(a<sup>3</sup>n<sup>2</sup>)/ji<sup>2</sup>(gi<sup>2</sup>)-u<sup>3</sup>m(u<sup>3</sup>m). Gr., φάλαγγιον (originally a kind of spider). Fr., p. phalangère (2d def.). 1. Of Mattheus, the Czackia iliastrium. 2. Of Jussieu, a genus of the Liliaceae, referred in part to the genus Anthericum. [B, 42, 121, 173 (a, 35).]—P. illiagi, P. non ramosum. Fr., fleur de lis. Ger., Zaunlilie. St. Bernard's lily, branched spider-wort: a European species. The herb, flowers, and seed, herba, flores, et semen phalangii non ramosi, were formerly used medicinally. [B, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. ramosum, the φάλαγγιον of Dioscorides. The herb, flowers, and seed, herba,

PHENANTHRENE, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>-a<sup>2n</sup>th'ren. Fr., phénanthrène. A substance, C<sub>14</sub>H<sub>10</sub> = C<sub>14</sub>(H<sub>1</sub>H<sub>2</sub>H<sub>3</sub>H<sub>4</sub>H<sub>5</sub>H<sub>6</sub>H<sub>7</sub>H<sub>8</sub>H<sub>9</sub>H<sub>10</sub>), isomeric with anthracene, found in the portion of coal tar which boils between 310° and 350° C., occurring as colorless plates having a blue fluorescence. [B. 4 (a, 38).]—P-carbonic acid. An acid, C<sub>14</sub>H<sub>9</sub>/CO.OH, known in two forms. (1) α-p. a., crystallizing in colorless curved laminae melting at 266° C.; (2) β-p. a., crystallizing in star-shaped groups of colorless needles, melting at about 252° C. [B. 4 (a, 38).]—P-sulphonic acid. An acid formed by heating p. for a long time with concentrated sulphuric acid, occurring as a crystalline mass easily soluble in water. [B. 4 (a, 38).]—P. tetrahydride. A substance, C<sub>14</sub>H<sub>14</sub>, occurring as an oil soluble with difficulty in cold alcohol, and boiling at about 310° C. [B. 4 (a, 38).]

PHENANTHROL, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>-a<sup>2n</sup>th'rol. A substance, C<sub>14</sub>H<sub>8</sub>(OH), occurring as laminar crystals. [B. 4 (a, 38).]—P. acetate. A substance, C<sub>14</sub>H<sub>9</sub>(O.C<sub>2</sub>H<sub>5</sub>O), occurring as shining laminar crystals. [B. 4 (a, 38).]

PHENETHYL, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>-e<sup>2th</sup>/i<sup>2</sup>l. Ger., Phenäthyl. A univalent radicle, C(C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>)H<sub>2</sub>.CH<sub>2</sub>, or CH<sub>2</sub>.C(C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>)H = C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>. [B.]—P. alcohol. Fr., alcool phényl-éthylique. Ger., Phenäthylalkohol. A hydroxide of phenethyl; ethyl alcohol in which phenyl replaces hydrogen = C<sub>6</sub>(C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>)H<sub>4</sub>.OH. [B. 4.]

PHÉNIQUE (Fr.), adj. Fa-ne-ka. Combined with or containing carbolic acid; carbolized. [B.]

PHENOCOLL, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>/o-ko<sup>2</sup>l. From phenyl (q. v.), and κόλλα, glue (see GLYCOCOLL). Lat., phenocollum. Amidophenacetine, a substance bearing the same relation to phenacetine that glycoll bears to acetic acid. [B.]—P. hydrochloride. Lat., phenocollum hydrochloricum. A compound of p. and hydrochloric acid; used as an antipyretic and sedative in influenza, rheumatism, and neuralgia. ["Dtsch. med. Wchnschr.," No. 15, 1891 (B); "Schmidt's Jahrb.," 1891 (B).]

PHENOL, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>/o<sup>2</sup>l. Lat., phenolum. Fr., phénol [Fr. Cod.]. Ger., P. Phenyl alcohol, carbolic acid, C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>OH (see CARBOLIC acid and ACIDUM CARBOLICUM). As a generic term, this includes the homologues of ordinary p., and, in general, all the aromatic compounds in which hydroxyl replaces hydrogen which is in immediate combination with a carbon atom of the benzene-nucleus. The p's are monatomic, diatomic, or triatomic, according as one, two, or three atoms of hydrogen are replaced by one, two, or three molecules of hydroxyl. The chief monatomic p's are ordinary p., cresol, ethyl-p., phlorol, xylene, thymol, and carvacrol; the chief diatomic p's, pyrocatechin, resorcin, hydroquinone, orcin, iso-orcin, homopyrocatechin, hydrochlorophlorone, and thymhydroquinone; and the chief triatomic p's, pyrogallol and phloroglucol. [B.]—Camphorated p. See CAMPHORA carbolisata.—Cymic p. See CARVACROL.—P. blue. A coloring matter, C<sub>14</sub>H<sub>7</sub>/N<sub>2</sub>O, occurring in commerce in the form of paste. [B. 3 (a, 38).]—P-glucoside. A substance, C<sub>17</sub>H<sub>15</sub>/O(C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>), crystallizing from water as concentrically grouped needles, melting at about 172° C. It is the simplest known glucoside, and the first that was prepared artificially. [B. 3 (a, 38).]—P-glycerit (Ger.). See Glyceritum ACIDI CARBOLICI.—P-säure (Ger.). See CARBOLIC acid.—P-sulphonic acid. Ger., P'sulfonsäure. An acid, C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>4</sub>OH.SO<sub>3</sub>OH, formed by the action of sulphuric acid on p. Three isomeric varieties are known—ortho'sulphonic acid (see ASEPTOL), meta'sulphonic acid, occurring in fine acicular crystals, and para'sulphonic acid, occurring as a syrup. [B. 3 (a, 38).]—P-sulphuric acid. Ger., P'schwefelsäure. An acid, C<sub>20</sub>H<sub>12</sub>/O<sub>4</sub>S. Its barium salt is found in the urine after the ingestion of phenetol. [Kossell, "Ztschr. f. physiol. Chemie.," vii, 292 (B).]

PHENOLOGY, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>-o<sup>2l</sup>/o-ji<sup>2</sup>. From φαίνεν, to bring to light, and λόγος, understanding. The comparative study of the annual times of the foliation, flowering, and fruiting of plants, the migration of birds, etc. [Larrabee (a, 48).]

PHENOMALIC ACID, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>-o-mal'/i<sup>2</sup>k. Fr., acide phénomaliq. A colorless, amorphous, deliquescent acid, C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>10</sub>O<sub>6</sub>. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

PHENONE, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>/on. Fr., phénone. Ger., Phenon. An aromatic ketone containing phenyl and a univalent hydrocarbon of the fatty series, such as acetophenone, C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>-CO.CH<sub>3</sub>. [B. 4.]

PHENOQUINONE, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>-o-kwi<sup>2</sup>n'on. Fr., phénoquinone. Ger., Phenochinon. A substance, C<sub>14</sub>H<sub>8</sub>/O<sub>4</sub> = C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>4</sub>(O.O.C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>)<sub>2</sub>, obtained by oxidizing phenol, also by mixing phenol and quinone. [B. 4.]

PHENYL, n. Fe<sup>2n</sup>/i<sup>2</sup>l. Fr., phényle. Ger., P. A univalent radicle, C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>. [B. "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xi, p. 130 (a, 50).]—P. acetate. A colorless liquid, C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>(C<sub>2</sub>H<sub>5</sub>O<sub>2</sub>), boiling at 198°

C. It has the same refractive index as common soda-lime glass, thus rendering invisible a tube of such glass dipped into it. [B, 3 (a, 38); B, 4.]—P'acetic aldehyde. A liquid,  $C_2H_4O$ ,  $H_2O$ ,  $CH_3CO$ , boiling at about  $207^\circ C$ , a part of it then losing water and becoming a resinous mass. [B, 3, 4 (a, 38).]—P'acetonitrile. Benzyl cyanide; a colorless liquid,  $C_6H_5CH_2CN$ , boiling at  $232^\circ C$ , the chief constituent of the oils of Tropaeolum majus and Lepidium sativum. It is a violent poison, and is excreted by the urine as phenaceturic acid. [B, 3 (a, 38); B, 4; P. Giacosa, "Ztschr. f. phys. Chem.," viii, p. 95 (B).]—P'aceticuric acid. See PHENACETURIC.—P. alcohol. Carbolic acid. [B, 270.]—P. allophanate. Fr., allophanate de phényle. Ger., Allophanat, Allophansäure-Phenyl-ester. A substance,  $C_6H_5N_2O_2 = NH_2CO-NH-CO.O.C_6H_5$ , forming inodorous, tasteless, unctuous crystals, produced by the action of cyanic acid vapor on phenol. [B, 2.]—P'allyl alcohol. See CINNAMYL ALCOHOL.—P. amine. See ANILINE.—P'arsinic acid. A poisonous acid,  $C_2H_5AsO(OH)_2$ , crystallizing from alcohol as long prisms and compact masses easily soluble in hot water. [B, 3 (a, 38).]—P'boron chloride. A substance,  $C_2H_5BCl_2$ , occurring as a colorless liquid, fuming on exposure to air, decomposing violently when brought into contact with water, boiling at  $175^\circ C$ , and solidifying at the ordinary temperature to a crystalline mass. [B, 3 (a, 38).]—P. bromide. See MONOBROMBENZENE.—P. chloride. See MONOCHLOROBENZENE.—P. chloroform. A liquid,  $C_2H_5CCl_3$ , of penetrating odor. [B, 3 (a, 38).]—P. cyanide. See BENZONITRILE.—P. cyanimide. See CYANANILIDE.—P. cyanurate. A substance,  $(CN)_3(CO_2C_6H_5)_3$ , crystallizing from alcohol as long needles. [B, 3 (a, 38).]—P'cystine, P'cystine. Ger., P'cystin. The compound  $C_2H_5C_6H_5SNO_2 = C_6H_5SNO_2$ . [B.]—P. disulphide. See DIPHENYLDISULPHIDE.—P. ether. See DiP' ether.—P. ethyl. See PHENETHYL.—P'glucosazone. A substance,  $C_{10}H_{12}N_2O_4$ , occurring as fine yellow acicular crystals, formed by the action of phenylhydrazine hydrochloride and sodium acetate on the products of decomposition of glucose. [B, 3 (a, 38); C. Schilder, "Wien. med. Blätter," 1886, No. 13; "Ctbl. f. d. med. Wissensch.," June 12, 1886, p. 442 (B).]—P'glycuronic acid. A crystalline substance found in the urine after the ingestion of carbolic acid. It is levorotary, and on treatment with dilute acids is resolved into carbolic and glycuronic acids. [E. Kütz, "Arch. f. d. gesammte Physiol.," xxy, [B.]—P. hydrate. Carbolic acid. [B.]—P'hydrazine. A substance,  $C_6H_5NH-NH_2 = C_6H_5N_2$ , occurring as a colorless oily liquid, of slight aromatic odor, condensing when cooled to crystalline tablets, melting at  $23^\circ C$ . It acts as a monacid base, combining directly with acids to form addition compounds. It is a delicate test for sugar in urine. [B, 3 (a, 38); B, 4; P. 93 (a, 14); "N. Y. Med. Jour.," Apr. 9, 1887, p. 419 (a, 50).]—P'hydrazine hydrochloride. Ger., salzsaures Hydrazin. A substance,  $C_6H_5N_2H_3Cl$ , crystallizing from hot water as small shining thin plates. It is used as a reagent. [B, 3 (a, 38).]—P'hydrazinelevulinic acid. A crystalline substance,  $C_{11}H_{11}N_3O_2$ , formed by the action of levulinic acid on a solution of phenylhydrazine in dilute acetic acid. By heating to from  $160^\circ$  to  $170^\circ C$  it is transformed into its anhydride,  $C_{11}H_{12}N_3O$ , which is also crystalline. This compound is said to have antipyretic and antiseptic properties. ["Ann. d. chim. e. d. pharm.," Feb., 1887, p. 104 (B).]—P. hydride. Benzene. [B.]—P. hydrosulphide. P. mercaptan. [B.]—P'hydroxyacetic acid. See FORMOBENZOLIC ACID.—P. iodide. Moniodobenzene. [B.]—P. isocyanate. The compound  $CO.N.C_6H_5$ , occurring as a colorless liquid vapor of which causes lachrymation. [B, 3 (a, 38).]—P. mercaptan. A colorless oily liquid,  $C_6H_5SH$ , of disagreeable odor, having a vapor which attacks the eyes and causes dizziness. [B, 3 (a, 38).]—P. mercaptide. See DIPHENYL SULPHIDE.—P'mercaptopuric acid. An acid,  $C_{11}H_{11}SNO_2$ , obtained from bromophenylmercapturic acid by removing the bromine. [E. Baumann and C. Freusche, "Ztschr. f. physiol. Chem.," vi, p. 307 (B).]—P'methane. See TOLUENE.—P'methyl (Ger.). Benzyl. [B.]—P'methyl ketone. A liquid,  $C_6H_5CO.CH_3$ , having a strong odor resembling that of cherry-laurel or of new-mown hay, and giving when taken internally a peculiar, disagreeable odor to the breath. It is insoluble in water, soluble in glycerin. In doses of 2 to 4 drops it acts as a hypnotic: in large doses internally or hypodermically it causes coma and death. [Laborde, "Gaz. des hôp.," Dec. 15, 1885 (B).] See also HYPNOSIS.—P. oxide. See DIPHENYL ETHER.—P'propioic acid. An acid,  $C_6H_5O_2 = C_6H_5C = CCO.OH$ , occurring as colorless acicular crystals. Given internally, it has caused albuminuria and glycosuria, and in large doses vomiting, diarrhoea, and death, while ingestion of the sodium salt caused large discharges of potassium iodide (indium). [B, 3, 4 (a, 38); G. Hoppe-Seyler, "Dissert.," Berlin, 1883; "Ztschr. f. phys. Chem.," vii, p. 403 (B).]—P. salicylate. See SALOL.—P. pseudocyanate. See CARBOXYLPHENYLIMIDE.—P. sulphide. See DIPHENYL SULPHIDE.—P. sulphochloride. See BENZESULPHONIC CHLORIDE.—P'urea. Fr., phenyluric. Ger., Phenyluric. A substance,  $N(C_6H_5)_2.H_2CO-NH_2 = C_6H_5N_2O$ , forming monoclinic acicular crystals, prepared by the action of urea aniline, or of potassium cyanate on aniline hydrochloride or sulphate. [B, 3.]—P'urethane. Ethyl carbanturate (q. v.). It is antipyretic, antirheumatic, and analgesic. ["Am. Jour. of Pharm.," Aug., 1880, p. 389; "N. Y. Med. Jour.," Feb. 15, 1880; "Therap. Gaz.," Feb., 1880, p. 123 (a, 50).]

A neuritic phlegmon; a phlegmon due to nervous disease, especially to disease of the nervous centres: according to Auspitz, one of the forms of "neuritic necroses of the skin." [G.] See under Neuritic DERMATOSSES.—P. subareolaris. A phlegmonous inflammation of the tissue situated beneath the areola of the nipple.

PHLEGMYMEN (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{mi}(\text{mu}^2/\text{me}^2\text{n}(\text{man}))$ . Gen., -mymenos (-is). From  $\phi\lambda\epsilon\gamma\mu\alpha$ , phlegm, and  $\mu\eta\mu\eta\alpha$ , a membrane. A mucous membrane. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHLEGMYMENITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{mi}(\text{mu}^2/\text{me}^2\text{n-i}(\text{e})\text{ti}^2\text{s})$ . Gen., -it'idis (-idis). Fr., phlegmyménite, phléghyménite. Inflammation of a mucous membrane.

PHLEUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fl}^2(\text{fle}^2/\text{u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^4\text{m}))$ . Fr., fléau, fléole, phléole. Ger., Lieschgras. Cat's-tail grass; a genus of grasses. The Phleodeæ of Link are the Phalarideæ. The Phleoidæ (Fr., phléoides) are a subtribe of the Agrostideæ. [B, 34, 42, 64, 170, 173 (a, 35).]—P. alpinum. Fr., fléole des Alpes. Ger., Alpenliesch. Mountain herd's grass; a species growing in Europe and North America. [B, 34, 64 (a, 35).]—P. pratense. Fr., fléau (ou fléole) des prés, grosse mussette, munette, marsette (des prés), thimothee. Timothy, cat's-tail (or herd's) grass. [B, 34, 173, 314 (a, 35).]

PHLOBAPHENE, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{ba}^2\text{f'en}$ . Fr., phlobaphène. Ger., Phlobaphen. A dark-red amorphous substance,  $\text{C}_{50}\text{H}_{40}\text{O}_{25}$ , found in hops and the bark of various trees. [B, 5, 48, 93 (a, 14, 35).]

PHLOEM, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{e}^2\text{m}$ . From  $\phi\lambda\omicron\iota\omicron\varsigma$ , bark. Of Nägeeli, cribriform tissue; that portion of a fibro-vascular bundle which contains sieve tubes. [B, 229, 279, 291 (a, 35).] See SIEVE-CELL and cf. XYLEM.

PHLŒUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fl}^2(\text{fio}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\omicron\iota\omicron\varsigma$ . Bark. [B, 291 (a, 35).]

PHLOGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{oj}(\text{flog}^2/\text{i}^2\text{a}^2)$ . Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\iota\alpha$ . Inflammation. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHLOGISTIC, adj.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{oj}^2\text{-ist}^2\text{ik}$ . Lat., phlogisticus (from  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\iota\omicron\varsigma$ , inflammable). Fr., phlogistique. Ger., phlogistisch. 1. Pertaining to phlogiston. 2. Inflammatory. [a, 48.]

PHLOGISTICATED, adj.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{oj}^2\text{-ist}^2\text{ik-at-e}^2\text{d}$ . Fr., phlogistiqué. Ger., phlogistisirt. Containing phlogiston. [B.] See P. AIR, and cf. PHLOGISTON.

PHLOGISTON, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{oj}^2\text{-ist}^2\text{ik}$ . From  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\iota\omicron\varsigma$ , inflammable. Fr., phlogistique. Ger., Brennstoff. A hypothetical indispensable principle contained, according to Stahl, in all combustible substances, and by its liberation causing their combustion (when they were said to be dephlogisticated). [B.]

PHLOGMOCAUSUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{mo}(\text{mo}^2/\text{ka}^2\text{s}^2(\text{ka}^2/\text{u}^4\text{s})\text{-u}^2\text{su}^2\text{s})$ . From  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\mu\alpha$ , a flame, and  $\kappa\alpha\upsilon\sigma\omicron\varsigma$ , burning heat. See INFLAMMATORY FEVER.

PHLOGODES (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{od}^2/\text{ez}(\text{as})$ . Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\acute{\omega}\delta\eta\varsigma$  (from  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma$ , a flame, and  $\acute{\epsilon}\iota\delta\omicron\varsigma$ , resemblance). Fr., phlogode. Ger., entzündet. Inflamed. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHLOGOGENETIC, PHLOGOGENIC, PHLOGOGENOUS, adj's.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{o-j}^2\text{e}^2\text{n-o}^2/\text{ik}$ ,  $\text{je}^2\text{n}^2/\text{ik}$ ,  $\text{-o}^2/\text{je}^2\text{n-o}^2\text{u}^2\text{s}$ . From  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma$ , a flame, and  $\gamma\epsilon\gamma\eta\alpha\iota$ , to beget. Fr., phlogogène, phlogogénétique. Ger., phlogogen, phlogogenetisch. Productive of inflammation.

PHLOGOPYRE, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{o-pir}$ . Lat., phlogopyra (from  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma$ , a flame, and  $\pi\acute{\upsilon}\rho$ , fever). Fr., p. See INFLAMMATORY FEVER.

PHLOGOSIN, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{os}^2/\text{in}$ . From  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\omega\varsigma$ , phlogosis. Fr., phlogosine. Ger., P. Of Leber (1888), a non-nitrogenous principle found in cultures containing Staphylococcus aureus. It produces inflammation. [Brigier, "Arch. f. path. Anat. u. Physiol. u. f. klin. Med.," exv. p. 483 (B).]

PHLOGOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{os}^2/\text{is}$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\omega\varsigma$  (from  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma\omega\iota\upsilon$ , to burn). Fr., phlogose. Ger., Phlogose. 1. Inflammation. 2. Phlegmonous inflammation.

PHLOGOZELOTISM, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{o-ze}^2/\text{ot}^2/\text{izm}$ . Lat., phlogozelotismus (from  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma$ , a flame, and  $\gamma\epsilon\lambda\omicron\upsilon\iota$ , to be eager). Fr., phlogozelotisme. 1. A craze for discovering in every disease an inflammatory character and for using antiphlogistic remedies. 2. Of Schneider, phlebotomymania. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHLOGURGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{g}^2\text{u}^2\text{rur}^2/\text{j}^2(\text{gi}^2)\text{-a}^2$ . From  $\phi\lambda\omicron\gamma$ , a flame, and  $\epsilon\rho\gamma\omega\iota$ , work. See PHLOGOCHYMIA.

PHLOIOS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{o}^2/\text{is}$ . Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\omicron\iota\omicron\varsigma$ . See PHLEUM.

PHLOMIS (Lat.), n. m., f., and n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{om}(\text{fio}^2/\text{m}^2/\text{is})$ . Gen., phlom'idis. Fr., phlomide. Ger., P. Flitzkraut. A genus of the Stachydeæ. The Phlomisæ (Fr., phlomisées) of Reichenbach are a subdivision of the Marrubiaceæ. [B, 19, 34, 42, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—P. fruticosa. Ger., Jerusalem-Salbei, strauchartige P. Jerusalem sage. The  $\phi\lambda\omicron\mu\iota\varsigma$   $\acute{\alpha}\gamma\iota\alpha$  of Dioscorides: a shrubby species growing in southern Europe. The leaves were formerly used as a vulnerary. [B, 34, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. lychnitis. Fr., phlomide à feuilles de sauge, herbe aux mèches. Lamp-wick: a European species. The flowers and leaves are used as a stimulant and emmenagogue and applied to hæmorrhoids. [B, 34, 173, 275 (a, 35).]—P. tuberosa. Fr., phlomiside tubéreuse. Jerusalem sage; found throughout the whole of southern Europe, in Siberia, and in North America. The leaves are used in diarrhoea and dysentery. [B, 34, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

PHLOROGLUCIN, PHLOROGLUCINOL, PHLOROGLUCOL, n's.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{or-glu}^2\text{'sin, -si}^2\text{n-o}^2/\text{i, -ko}^2/\text{i}$ . Fr., phloroglucine. Ger., Phloroglucin. A triatomic phenol,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_3(\text{OH}_2) + 2\text{H}_2\text{O}$ , isomeric with pyrogallic acid, obtained by the action of caustic potash on phlorrhizin. It is said to be antiseptic, but this is doubtful. Its hydrochloride turns lignin red, and renders osseous tissue soft and plastic. It also delays the coagulation of blood. [B, 3 (a, 38); "Ctbl. f. d. med. Wssensch.," Mar. 22, 1884, p. 193 (B).]

PHLOROL, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{or}^2/\text{o}^2$ . A compound,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5(\text{CH}_3)_2\text{OH}$ , contained in creasote. [B, 5 (a, 35).]

PHLOROSE, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{or}^2/\text{o}^2$ . Of Hesse, a variety of glucose which has been shown to be identical with dextrose. [B; 3 (a, 88).]

PHLORRHETINIC ACID, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{or-re}^2\text{'t}^2\text{i}^2\text{n}^2/\text{ik}$ . Fr., acide phlorrhétinique. The substance  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5(\text{OH})\text{CO.OH}$ . [B, 3 (a, 38).]

PHLORRHIZIN, n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{or-riz}^2/\text{in}$ . Lat., phlorrhizinum, phloridzina. Fr., phlorizine, phloridzine. Ger., Phlorizin. A substance,  $\text{C}_{12}\text{H}_{22}\text{O}_{10} + 2\text{H}_2\text{O}$ , found in the root-bark of apple, pear, plum, and cherry trees. It is antiperiodic and febrifuge, produces glycosuria, and diminishes metabolism. [B, 3, 4 (a, 38); B, 10; B, 93 (a, 14); "Sem. méd.," Jan. 16, 1889, p. 30 (a, 50).]

PHLYCTENA (Lat.), PHLYCTÆNIS (Lat.), n's f.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{ikt}(\text{flu}^2\text{kt}(\text{a}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-na}^2, -ni}^2\text{s})$ . Gen., -tæn'æ, -tæn'idis (-idis). Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\kappa\tau\alpha\iota\alpha$  (from  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\epsilon\iota$ , to boil over). Fr., phlyctène. Ger., Frieselbläschen. An elevation of the epidermis by an accumulation of serous fluid; a blister, bulla, ampulla, or vesicle. [G.]

PHLYCTÆNOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{ikt}(\text{flu}^2\text{kt}(\text{a}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-e}^2\text{n}(\text{a}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-os}^2/\text{is})$ . From  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\kappa\tau\alpha\iota\alpha$ , a blister. Fr., phlycténose. Ger., Phlyktänose, Frieselkrankheit. A vesicular eruption. The Phlyctænoses (Ger., Phlyktänosen) of Hebra include herpes, miliaria, and pemphigus acutus. [G, 3.]—P. aggregata. An herpetic eruption with efflorescences closely aggregated together. [G.]—P. labialis. See HERPES facialis.—P. sparsa. An herpetic eruption with efflorescences rather wide apart. [G.]

PHLYCTENOID, adj.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{ikt}(\text{flu}^2\text{kt}(\text{a}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-e}^2\text{n}(\text{a}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-u}^2\text{a}^2)$ . Lat., phlyctenoides (from  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\kappa\tau\alpha\iota\alpha$ , a blister, and  $\acute{\epsilon}\iota\delta\omicron\varsigma$ , resemblance). Resembling or having the character of phlyctæna. [G.]

PHLYCTENULAR, adj. See PHLYCTENULAR.

PHLYCTIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{ikt}(\text{flu}^2\text{kt}(\text{a}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-i}^2\text{s})$ . Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\kappa\tau\iota\varsigma$ . See PHLYCTENA.

PHLYSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{ik}(\text{flu}^2\text{kt}(\text{a}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-i}^2\text{s})$ . Gen., phly'seos, phly'seis. Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\varsigma\iota\varsigma$  (from  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\epsilon\iota$ , to boil over). Fr., phlyse. A cutaneous eruption, usually pustular.

PHLYZACION (Lat.), PHLYZACIUM (Lat.), n's n.  $\text{Fl}^2\text{iz}(\text{-flu}^2\text{z}(\text{a}^2/\text{a}^2)\text{-i}^2\text{s}(\text{ki}^2)\text{-o}^2/\text{u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^4\text{m}))$ . Written also phlyzacia. Gr.,  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\text{z}\acute{\alpha}\kappa\iota\omicron\text{n}$  (from  $\phi\lambda\upsilon\text{z}\epsilon\iota$ , to bubble up). Fr., phlyzacie. 1. Of Hippocrates, see PHLYCTENA. 2. A deep-seated, rounded pustule, with a hard, red base, containing a sanious, purulent fluid which, on drying, forms a hard, thick, dark scab. [G, 7, 9.] Cf. PSYDRACIUM and ACHOR.—P. acutum. See ECTHYMA acutum.—P. chronicum. See ECTHYMA chronicum.

PHOBODIPSON (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{b-o-di}^2\text{'ps-o}^2/\text{n}$ . Gr.,  $\phi\omicron\beta\omicron\delta\iota\phi\sigma\omega\iota\text{n}$  (from  $\phi\omicron\beta\omicron\varsigma$ , fear, and  $\delta\iota\phi\sigma\alpha$ , thirst). See HYDROPHOBIA.

PHOBOPHOBIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{b-o}(\text{o}^2/\text{fo}^2\text{b}(\text{fo}^2\text{b})/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2)$ . From  $\phi\omicron\beta\omicron\varsigma$ , fear, and  $\phi\omicron\beta\epsilon\iota\alpha$ , to alarm. Fear of being afraid (a symptom of neurasthenia). [D.]

PHOCA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fok}^2/\text{a}^2$ . Gr.,  $\phi\acute{\omega}\kappa\eta$ . A genus of aquatic mammals of the Phocideæ, or seals. [a, 48.]—P. vitulina. The cavis marinus of old authors, the common European seal. Its fat, axungia phocæ (Swed. Ph.), is used medicinally. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

PHOCENA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fok}^2(\text{fo}^2\text{fok}^2/\text{e}^2(\text{a}^2/\text{e}^2)\text{-na}^2)$ . Gr.,  $\phi\acute{\omega}\kappa\alpha\iota\alpha$  (from  $\phi\acute{\omega}\kappa\eta$ , the seal). A genus of cetaceous mammals, of the Delphinideæ. [a, 35.]—P. communis. Ger., Meerschwein. The porpoise. [a, 35.]—P. globiceps. The round-headed dolphin. [L, 28 (a, 39).]

PHOCENIC ACID, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{-se}^2\text{n}^2/\text{ik}$ . Fr., acide phocénique. Ger., Phocensäure. See DELPHINIC ACID and VALERIC ACID.

PHOCENIN, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{-se}^2\text{n}^2/\text{in}$ . Fr., phocénine. See TRIVALENIN.

PHOCOMELIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fok}^2(\text{o}^2/\text{me}^2(\text{me}^2/\text{i}^2)\text{-a}^2)$ . From  $\phi\acute{\omega}\kappa\eta$ , the seal, and  $\mu\epsilon\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ , a limb. Fr., phocomélie. Ger., Phokomelie. A monstrosity in which one or both of the hands or feet, or all four of those members, or rudimentary semblances of them, are attached to the trunk like flippers, with little or no intervening structures. [Rasori, "Gazz. degli ospit.," June 25, 1882, p. 403.]

PHENICIN, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{n}^2/\text{is}$ . Fr., phénicine. 1. Of Crum, the coloring matter of the blood (see HÆMATOSIN). 2. See SULPHOPURPURIC ACID.

PHŒNICITES (Lat.), n. m. Fen(fo<sup>2</sup>-e<sup>2</sup>n)-i<sup>2</sup>s(ek)-it(et)/ez(as). Gen., -i<sup>2</sup>u(-æ). Gr., φοινικίτης. Ger., Judensteine. A calcareous stone or fossil, said to be the petrified spines of the sea-urchin, formerly brought from Palestine and used medicinally. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

parts of southern Europe. The highly saccharine and nutritious fruits have been used medicinally—the unripe fruits as a mild astringent, and the matured dried fruits, or dates, dactyli, tragemata, palmule, caryote, cariste, fructus palmule (seu dactyli), as a pectoral. The roasted seeds were formerly used in urinary complaints, and now furnish date coffee. The spathes are astringent; the leaf-buds are eaten; and the sap furnishes palm wine. [B, 5, 18, 173, 180, 185, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. farinifera. Fr., dattier palm. Ger., mehreiche Dattelpalme. An East Indian dwarf species. The pulp of the seeds is edible and the stem yields a somewhat bitter sago, not so nutritious as common sago. [B, 5, 173, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. silvestris. Wild date, East Indian wine palm; an Asiatic species regarded as the wild form of P. dactylifera. The sap yields sugar in abundance, and a spirituous liquor or arrack is made from it. The natives chew the berries with the betel-leaf and chunam. [B, 18, 173, 185, 275, 314 (a, 35).]

PHORONE, n. Fo<sup>2</sup>ron. Fr., p. Ger., Phoron. A body, C<sub>8</sub>H<sub>14</sub>O, derived from acetone. It occurs in prismatic crystals melting at 28° C., or as a colorless or yellowish liquid boiling at 196° C. [B, 4; B, 48, 93 (a, 14).]—CAMPHOR-P. Syn.: camphorone, camphorone, camphoryl, campheryl. An isomer of p, produced by heating calcium camphorate and otherwise. [B, 207.]

PHOSGENE, adj. Fo<sup>2</sup>s/jen. From φῶς, light, and γεννάν, to produce. Fr., phosgène. Producing light. [L, 41, 49 (a, 14).]—P. gas. See CARBONYL chloride.

basic phosphoric acid with 4 oz. of water, one of 923 grains of freshly slaked lime in 94 oz. of phosphoric acid with 14 of water, and one of 54 grains of sodium carbonate crystals and 72 of potassium carbonate in 4 oz. of phosphoric acid with 1 oz. of water, diluting the mixture with water to 38 fl. oz., adding 52 oz. of sugar, 85 grains of powdered cochineal, and 2 fl. oz. of water of orange-flowers, and further diluting to 64 fl. oz. [B. 81 (a, 38).]

PHOSPHATE, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fat}}$ . Lat., phosphas. Fr., p. Ger., Phosphat, phosphorsäures Salz. A salt of one of the phosphoric acids, especially of orthophosphoric acid (cf. METAPHOSPHATE and PYROPHOSPHATE). The ordinary p's are of three kinds: (1) normal, tribasic, or trimetallie p's,  $\text{R}''(\text{PO}_4)$ ,  $\text{R}'_2(\text{PO}_4)_2$ , and  $\text{R}_3\text{PO}_4$ ; (2) the dibasic, dimetallie, or monohydric p's,  $\text{R}''(\text{HPO}_4)$ ,  $\text{R}'(\text{HPO}_4)$  (or  $\text{R}'_2(\text{HPO}_4)_2$ ), and  $\text{R}_2(\text{HPO}_4)$ ; (3) the monobasic, monometallie, or dihydric p's,  $\text{Rn}(\text{H}_2\text{PO}_4)_2$ , where Rn is a radicle whose combining power is n. [B.]—Acid p. A dihydric or monohydric p. [B.] See under P.—Alkaline p. A p. (normal or acid) of one of the alkaline metals. The alkaline p's are present in the urine, etc. [B.]—Ammoniaeo-magnesian p. See MAGNESIUM and AMMONIUM p. [B.]—Bone p. Fr., p. d'os. Normal calcium orthophosphate. PHOSPHATIC ACID, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fat}}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., acide phosphatique. An old name for the mixture of phosphoric and phosphorous acids formed by the slow combustion of phosphorus. [B. 93 (a, 14).]

PHOSPHATURIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}(\text{fos})\text{-fa}^2\text{t}(\text{fa}^2\text{t})\text{-u}^2(\text{u})/\text{ri}^2\text{a}^2$ . From phosphas (q. v.), and opov, urine. Fr., phosphaturie. Ger., Phosphaturie. A state in which an excessive amount of phosphates is excreted in the urine.

PHOSPHENE, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fen}}$ . From phôs, light, and φαίνω, to appear. Lat., phosphania. Fr., phosphène. Ger., Phosphén. P. Of Serres d'Uzes, the sensation of light produced by mechanical irritation of the eye as a whole or of the retina. [F.]—P's of accommodation. P's produced by the effort of accommodation. [a, 29.]—Pressure-p. Fr., phosphène de pression. Ger., Druckphosphene. A p. produced in the retina by moderate pressure on the eyeball. [F.]

PHOSPHENYL, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fe}^2\text{n}}/\text{i}^2\text{l}$ . Ger., P. A compound of phosphorus and phenyl, a bivalent or quadrivalent radicle,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{-P}''$  or  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{-P}'''$ . [B.]—P. bromide. A liquid,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{PBr}_2$ , boiling at  $257^\circ\text{C}$ . [B. 3 (a, 38).]—P. chloride, P. dichloride. A colorless, strongly refracting, fuming liquid,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{PCl}_2$ , of penetrating odor. [B. 3 (a, 38); B. 4.]—P. oxychloride, P. oxydichloride. A thick liquid,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{POCl}_2$ , having a fruit-like odor. [B. 3 (a, 38); B. 4.]—P. tetrachloride. A substance,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{PCl}_4$ , occurring as white prismatic crystals. [B. 3 (a, 38).]

PHOSPHENYLIC ACID, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fe}^2\text{n}}/\text{i}^2\text{l}^2/\text{k}$ . Fr., acide phosphénylique. Ger., phosphénylige Säure. 1. Phosphenylous acid. 2. A strong dibasic acid,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{PO}(\text{OH})_2$ . [B. 3, 93 (a, 14, 38).]

PHOSPHENYLOUS ACID, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fe}^2\text{n}}/\text{i}^2\text{l}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}^2$ . Fr., acide phosphényleux. A monobasic acid,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{PO}_2\text{H}_2$ . [B. 3 (a, 38).]

PHOSPHIDE, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{f}^2\text{d}^2\text{d}}$ . Lat., phosphidum, phosphuretum. Fr., phosphure. 1. A compound of phosphorus with another element or a radicle. 2. A compound, analogous to an amide, formed by the replacement of one or more atoms of hydrogen in phosphine ( $\text{PH}_3$ ) by an acid radicle. [B. 2.]

PHOSPHINE, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fen}}$ . Fr., p. Ger., Phosphin. 1. Phosphoreted hydrogen,  $\text{PH}_3$ . 2. A base which bears the same relation to phosphoreted hydrogen that an amine does to ammonia. The p's are divided into primary, secondary, and tertiary, according as 1, 2, or 3 atoms of hydrogen in the molecule  $\text{PH}_3$  are replaced by equivalent radicles. 3. A yellow coloring matter obtained as a by-product in the manufacture of fuchsine. [B. 4, 6, 49.]—Dihydroxyl-p. Hypophosphorous acid. [B. 3.]

PHOSPHINIC ACIDS, n. pl.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{f}^2\text{n}}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., acides phosphiniques. Ger., Phosphinäsäuren. Acids produced by the oxidation of the primary or secondary phosphines. [B.]

PHOSPHITE, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{f}^2\text{l}}$ . Lat., phosphis. Fr., p. Ger., Phosphit. A salt of phosphorous acid. The normal p's, having the general composition  $\text{R}''(\text{PO}_3)$ ,  $\text{R}'_2(\text{PO}_3)_2$ , or  $\text{R}_3(\text{PO}_3)_3$ , are scarcely known. The dibasic p's, or monohydric p's, having the general composition  $\text{R}''(\text{HPO}_3)$ ,  $\text{R}'(\text{HPO}_3)$ , or  $\text{R}_2(\text{HPO}_3)_2$ , are known, as well as the monobasic p's or dihydric p's, having the general constitution  $\text{Rn}(\text{H}_2\text{PO}_3)_2$ , where Rn is a radicle whose combining power is n. [B.]

PHOSPHOBENZENE, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fo-be}^2\text{nz}}/\text{en}$ . See DIPHOSPHENYL.

PHOSPHODONE, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fo-don}}$ . A proprietary effervescent beverage said to contain hypophosphites of iron, etc.

PHOSPHOMOLYBDIC ACID, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fo-mo}^2\text{l-i}^2\text{b}}/\text{di}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., acide phosphomolybdique. Ger., Phosphormolybdäure. A compound of phosphoric acid with molybdenum trioxide. It forms either yellow prismatic crystals,  $2\text{H}_2\text{PO}_4 \cdot 22\text{MoO}_3 \cdot 20\text{H}_2\text{O}$ , or rhombic crystals,  $2\text{H}_2\text{PO}_4 \cdot 22\text{MoO}_3 \cdot 40\text{H}_2\text{O}$ , or cubical crystals,  $2\text{H}_2\text{PO}_4 \cdot 22\text{MoO}_3 \cdot 50\text{H}_2\text{O}$ . P. a. is used as a reagent in testing for alkalis. [B. 3.]

PHOSPHONIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fos}}/\text{fon}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}^2(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . A radicle,  $(\text{PH}_4)'$ , bearing the same relation to phosphorus that ammonium bears to nitrogen. [B.]—P. bromide. The compound  $\text{PH}_4\text{Br}$ . [B. 3.]—P. iodide. The compound  $\text{PH}_4\text{I}$ . [B. 3.]

PHOSPHOPLATINIC, adj.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fo-pla}^2\text{t-i}^2\text{n}}/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Containing both phosphorus and platinum. [B.]—P. chloride. The compound  $\text{PtCl}_2\text{PtCl}_3$ . [B. 16.]

PHOSPHORE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{for}}$ . See PHOSPHORUS.—Alcoolé de p. A preparation made by triturating 1 grain of phosphorus with 1 oz. of alcohol, and decanting. [B. 92, 119 (a, 38).]—P. blanc [Fr. Cod.], P. normal, P. ordinaire. Ordinary or colorless phosphorus. [B.]—P. rouge [Fr. Cod.]. Red phosphorus. [B.]—Sel de p. See PHOSPHORUS salt.

PHOSPHORESCENCE, n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fo}^2\text{r-e}^2\text{s}}/\text{e}^2\text{n}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., phosphorescentia (from phosphorus [q. v.]). Ger., Phosphorescenz. A mild luminosity (like that of phosphorus in the dark) without apparent heat. It is observed in certain Fungi and other plants, and in various animals, and is produced, or at least accompanied, by oxidation. [B. 121, 229 (a, 35); "Am. Nat.," v. p. 724, vi. p. 313 (a, 32).]

PHOSPHORETUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}(\text{fos})\text{-fo}^2\text{r-et}(\text{at})/\text{u}^2\text{m}^2(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . See PHOSPHIDE.

PHOSPHORIC, adj.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}^{\text{fo}^2\text{r-i}^2\text{k}}$ . Lat., phosphoricus. Fr., phosphorique. 1. Pertaining to phosphorus. 2. Containing phosphorus as a quivalent body. [B.]—P. anhydride. The anhydride of p. acid; phosphorus pentoxide. [B.]

PHOSPHORIC ACID, n. Lat., acidum phosphoricum. Fr., acide phosphorique. Ger., Phosphorsäure. An acid containing quivalent phosphorus. Three such acids are known—orthop'a. (commonly called p. a.), metap'a., and pyrop'a. For the two last mentioned, see the major list. Ordinary p. a., or orthop'a., is a tribasic acid,  $\text{H}_3\text{PO}_4$ , prepared usually by the action of sulphuric, hydrochloric, or nitric acid on bone-ash. When freed entirely from water it forms a thick syrup, from which the pure acid separates in six-sided prismatic or pyramidal crystals. These dissolve readily in water, forming a clear, colorless liquid of agreeable acid taste, which, when of the degree of concentration of the official acid, is of syrupy consistence. Official p. a. (Lat., acidum phosphoricum [U. S. Ph., Ger. Ph., Russ. Ph., Belg. Ph., Netherl. Ph., Swiss Ph., Gr. Ph., Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph.] (dilutum [Br. Ph., Dan. Ph., Finn. Ph., Norw. Ph., Swed. Ph., Russ. Ph., U. S. Ph.]); Fr., acide phosphorique officinal [Fr. Cod.]; Sp., ácido fosfórico [Sp. Ph.]; Roum., acidu phosphoricu licuidu [Roum. Ph.]) is an aqueous solution of p. a., containing 50 [U. S. Ph., Fr. Cod., Belg. Ph.], or about 62.4 [Sp. Ph.], or 53.5 to 53.8 [Belg. Ph.] per cent. of p. a. It is used in the preparation of an acid drink to allay thirst in fever, in combination with iron in the treatment of anæmia, and as a tonic and alterative in neurasthenic and scrofulous affections. [B. 7, 95 (a, 38); a, 34.]—Chloride of p. a. Phosphorus oxychloride. [B.]—Dibasic p. a. Pyrophosphoric acid. [B.]—Dilute p. a. Lat., acidum phosphoricum [Ger. Ph., Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph., Swiss Ph., Gr. Ph., Netherl. Ph., Belg. Ph.] (dilutum [U. S. Ph., Br. Ph., Dan. Ph., Finn. Ph., Norw. Ph., Swed. Ph., Russ. Ph.]). Fr., acide phosphorique officinal [Fr. Cod.]. Roum., acidu phosphoricu licuidu [Roum. Ph.]. P. a. diluted. It is usually obtained by oxidizing phosphorus with nitric acid, evaporating off the nitric acid, adding 3 or 4 times the amount of water, charging with sulphureted hydrogen, allowing to stand 2 or 3 days, filtering, expelling the remaining sulphureted hydrogen by heat, filtering again, and bringing with water to the required degree of dilution. The sp. gr. of the preparation should be 1.057 [U. S. Ph.], 1.062 [Russ. Ph.], 1.068 [Br. Ph., Dan. Ph., Norw. Ph., Swed. Ph.], 1.098 [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph.], 1.122 [Swiss Ph.], 1.120 [Ger. Ph.], 1.154 [Gr. Ph.], 1.156 to 1.160 [Netherl. Ph.], 1.16 [Finn. Ph.], 1.349 [Fr. Cod.], 1.35 [Belg. Ph.]. The U. S. Ph. recognized also a stronger variety having a sp. gr. of 1.347, the Russ. Ph. one having a sp. gr. of 1.130. The preparation contains 10 per cent. of orthop'a. [U. S. Ph.] (50 per cent. for the stronger variety), 11 per cent. [Russ. Ph.] (22 per cent. for the stronger variety), 13.8 per cent. [Br. Ph., Dan. Ph., Norw. Ph., Swed. Ph.], 16.6 per cent. [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph., Roum. Ph.], 20 per cent. [Ger. Ph.], 20.4 per cent. [Swiss Ph.], 26 per cent. [Finn. Ph.], 25.5 to 26 per cent. [Netherl. Ph.], 25 per cent. [Gr. Ph.], about 50 per cent. [Belg. Ph., Fr. Cod.]. PHOSPHORUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Fo}^2\text{s}(\text{fos})/\text{fo}^2\text{r}$ -u<sup>3</sup>s(u<sup>4</sup>s). From  $\phi\omega\varsigma$ , light, and  $\phi\phi\epsilon\iota\nu$ , to bear. Fr., phosphore (blanc [Fr. Cod.]). Ger., Phosphor. A name given at first to any phosphorescent substance (see Bononian p., etc.), and also used in the sense of pyrophorus, but now applied exclusively to a non-metallic element discovered by Brand in urine. It was afterward obtained from bone-ash, and is still so prepared. Its elementary nature was first pointed out by Lavoisier in 1772. Combined with calcium, aluminum, and iron, it occurs in nature forming various minerals, and is also an important constituent of the animal and vegetable organism, where it is found combined with calcium, magnesium, sodium, ammonium, and certain organic radicles. In the animal body it occurs more especially in the bones, teeth, and nervous tissue. P. presents several allotropic modifications. Ordinary or colorless p. is a colorless or slightly yellow, wax-like, translucent body of crystalline structure, and having a garlicky odor, but no taste. At ordinary temperatures it is soft and cuts readily with a knife, but at low temperatures it is brittle. It melts at  $44.3^\circ \text{C}$ . to a colorless or slightly yellowish liquid, which boils at  $290^\circ \text{C}$ ., forming a colorless gas. It also sublimates in a vacuum at ordinary temperatures, and recondenses in colorless crystals. It is almost insoluble in water, and soluble with difficulty in ether and in alcohol, but dissolves readily in carbon disulphide. It is readily inflammable, and possesses the property of becoming luminous in the dark when in contact with moist air, giving off at the same time white fumes of a garlicky odor. Its sp. gr. is 1.764. Red or amorphous p. is formed from ordinary p. by the action of heat or light and also by the presence of iodine in minute quantities. It is a hard, compact, reddish-brown solid, of a metallic lustre, devoid of taste and odor. It is insoluble in carbon disulphide, oxidizes with great difficulty, is non-luminous at ordinary temperatures, and is not poisonous. Its sp. gr. is 2.106. Metallic or rhomboidal p. is a modification of p. produced by heating it highly in a sealed tube together with metallic lead. It is a dark mass of bright metallic lustre, consisting of microscopic rhomboidal crystals. In thin laminae it has a red color. Its sp. gr. is 2.34. A fourth allotropic form of p. has been described by Thénard as black p. It is produced by quickly cooling melted p.; but it has been shown to consist merely of a phosphide of mercury or some other metal. The so-called white p. formed upon ordinary p. when immersed in water, has been shown to be only ordinary p. By some, however, these are still regarded as distinct varieties. A viscous variety of p. has also been described, formed by heating p. to near its boiling point and suddenly cooling. Houston has described a liquid p. formed by boiling p. with caustic potash. It remains liquid at ordinary low temperatures ( $3^\circ \text{C}$ .), and is regarded by its discoverer as another allotropic form of p. P. combines directly with other elements to form a series of compounds called phosphides. Combined with oxygen and hydrogen, it gives rise to the various hypophosphorous, phosphorous, and phosphoric acids and their salts. Its compounds have a strong chemical analogy with those of nitrogen; and it is the starting point of a series of phosphonium derivatives closely resembling the ammonium derivatives of nitrogen. In composition, p. is either trivalent or quivalent. P. is official under this name in the U. S. Ph., Br. Ph., Ger. Ph., Belg. Ph., Netherl. Ph., Norw. Ph., Swed. Ph., Russ. Ph., Gr. Ph., Swiss Ph., and Dan. Ph. It acts as an irritant poison, but the symptoms depend upon the state in which it is taken. There are usually a burning sensation in the throat and epigastric region, a garlicky odor to the breath, nausea, and vomiting of black fluid that has a garlicky or phosphorous odor. There may be purging and luminous stools and urine. The pulse is small, the skin is cold, and there are symptoms of collapse, that occurs rapidly in cases in which convulsions appear. In chronic poisoning there are nausea, vomiting, purging, arthralgia, hectic fever, fatty degeneration of the organs, and sometimes necrosis of bones. [Taylor (a, 34).] It has been employed in solution in oil, or in pill form, in cases of nervous debility, in cerebral or spinal paralyses, in hydrocephalus, and in osteomalacia. The dose is  $\frac{1}{16}$  to  $\frac{1}{4}$  of a grain. Atomic weight, 30.96; symbol, P. or Ph. [B, 3, 5, 9, 10, 16, 200; B, 95 (a, 38); a, 34.]—Acidum phosphoricum. Phosphoric acid. PHOTICS, n. sing. Fot/i<sup>2</sup>ks. Lat., photica (from  $\phi\omega\varsigma$ , light). See OPTICS.

PHOTOMECHANICAL, adj. Fot-o-me'k-a'n-i'z-k'l. From φῶς, light, and mechanical (q. v.). Ger., photomechanisch. Mechanical and produced by the influence of light. [B.]

PHOTOMETER, n. Fot-o'm-e't'r. Lat., photometrum (from φῶς, light, and μέτρον, a measure). Fr., photomètre. An instrument for measuring or comparing intensities of light. [F.]

PHOTONOSUS (Lat.), n. f. Fot-o'n-o's-u's(u's). From φῶς, light, and νόσος, disease. Fr., p. A disease, such as snow-blindness, produced by light. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHOTOPARETHÉSIE (Fr.), n. Fo-to-pa're-z's-ta-ze. From φῶς, light, παρά, beside, and αἰσθήσις, sensation. An extraordinary tolerance of light on the part of the visual apparatus, so that the person affected is capable, for instance, of gazing at the sun. [Raggi, "Arch. ital. per le mal. Nerv.," 5, 6, 1881; "Jour. de méd. de Paris," Feb. 18, 1882.]

PHOTOPHOBIA (Lat.), n. f. Fot-o(φ)-fob(fob'bi)/i'z-a. From φῶς, light, and φόβος, fear. Fr., photophobie. Ger., Photophobie. Aversion to or intolerance of light. [F.]

PHOTOPHOBOPHTHALMIA (Lat.), n. f. Fot-o(φ)-fob(fob'bi)-of-tha'l(m'ha'l)/m'i'z-a. From φῶς, light, φόβος, fear, and ὀφθαλμός, the eye. Nyctalopia. [F.]

PHOTOPHONE, n. Fot-o-fon. From φῶς, light and φωνή, voice. Ger., Photophon. An apparatus for the reproduction of electrical sounds by the impact of luminous rays. [A. G. Bell, "Pop. Sci. Month.," Oct., 1880, p. 821.]

PHOTOPSIA (Lat.), n. f. Fot-o'ps'i'z-a. From φῶς, light, and ὤψ, the eye. Fr., photopsie. Ger., Photopsie. An affection characterized by subjective sensations of light, such as sparks and flashes of fire, due to disease of the optic nerve and retina. They may also be caused by sudden pressure or blows on the eyeball. [F.]

PHOTOPTOMETRY, n. Fot-o'pt-o'm'e't-ri'z. Fr., photopométrie. Ger., Photometrie. The determination of the degree of illumination requisite for the recognition of an object. [F.]

PHOTORRHESIS (Lat.), n. f. Fot-o'r-re'z(rax)/i's. Gen., -rh'es/eos (-is). From φῶς, light, and ῥήσις, a breaking. Refraction of light. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHOTOTACTISM, n. Fot-o-ta'kt-i'z-m. From φῶς, light, and τάσσειν, to arrange. Of Sachs, the normal motile condition of a plant resulting from the alternation of day and night. [a, 35.]

PHOTOTONUS (Lat.), n. m. Fot-o'to'n-o-u's(u's). From φῶς, light, and τόνος, a straining. Of Sachs, the normal motile condition of a plant resulting from the alternation of day and night. [a, 35.]

PHOTOXYLIN, PHOTOXYLON, n's. Fot-o'x'i'l-i'n, -o'n. Pyroxyl made by digesting wood-pulp or cotton in a mixture of sulphuric acid and potassium nitrate. A solution of this in ether and alcohol has been recommended as a substitute for collodion. ["Am. Jour. of Pharm.," May, 1888, p. 225 (a, 50); "Therap. Gaz.," June, 1888, p. 380 (a, 50).]

PHOTURIA (Lat.), n. f. Fot-u'z(u')/ri'z-a. From φῶς, light, and οὖρον, urine. The excretion of phosphorescent urine. [K.]

PHOXOS (Lat.), n. m. Fo'x'o's. Gr., φῶξ. Ger., Spitzkopf. Of R. A. Vogel, a person having a peaked head. [L, 50, 84, 94 (a, 14, 43).]

PHRAGMA (Lat.), n. n. Fra'g(fra'g)/ma. Gen., phrag'matos (-atis). Gr., φράγμα. A partition or septum, especially a horizontal dissepiment in fruits which is not formed by the sides of carpels, also any other spurious dissepiment. [B, 19, 77, 308 (a, 35).]

PHRAGMIDIOTHRIX (Lat.), n. f. Fra'g(fra'g)-m'id-i'z(i'z)-o'th-ri'z. From φράγμα, a fence, ἴδιος, one's own, and θρίξ, hair. A genus of Schizomyces, allied to Beggiatoa. [B, 316 (a, 35).]—P. multiseptata. A micro-organism found in the form of filaments from 3 μ to 6 μ thick, dividing transversely into very short cylinders which are further separated by longitudinal division in two or more directions into minute coccus-like parts, from which are formed new filaments, at first extremely thin, but constantly growing broader. [B, 398, 316 (a, 35).]

PHRAGMITES (Lat.), n. m. Fra'g(fra'g)-mit(met)/ez(as). From φράγμα, a fence. Fr., phragmite. Ger., Rohrschilf. 1. Reed; a genus of the Festuceae. 2. Of Adanson, the genus Saccharum. [B, 34, 64, 42, 121 (a, 35).]—P. communis. Fr., junc de balais. Ger., gemeines Rohrschilf. Teichrohr. Common (or ditch) reed, bennels; a widely dispersed species having numerous economic uses. A fungus growing upon it produces by its spores severe headaches and other disorders in those who eat the reeds. In southern Utah the leaves are punctured by small insects, and a liquid of a sweetish, licorice-like taste exudes, which hardens gradually and is used as food by the Indians. The root of the reed, radix arundinis vulgaris, was formerly official as an alternative, especially in syphilitic complaints. It has a sweetish, mucilaginous taste, and is diaphoretic and diuretic. [B, 61; "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxvii (a, 50); B, 34, 42, 173, 180, 185, 275 (a, 35).]

PHREN (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n(fran). Gen., phren'os, phren'is. Gr., φρήν. 1. The diaphragm. 2. The mind. [A, 311, 322 (a, 48).]

PHRENALGIA (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-a'l(a'l)/i'z(i'z)-a. From φρήν, the mind (ist def.), or the diaphragm (2d def.), and ἀλγος, pain. Ger., Phrenalgie. 1. Moral pain or suffering; melancholia. [Guislain (a, 34).] 2. Neuralgia of the diaphragm. [A, 319 (a, 34).]—P. sine delirio. See Simple MELANCHOLIA and HYPOMELANCHOLIA.

PHRENATROPHIA (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-a't(ro'p)-ro'p'i'z-a. From φρήν, the mind, and ἀτροφία, atrophy. 1. Atrophy of the brain. [G.] 2. Of Guislain and Fuchs, Idiocy. [a, 34.]

PHRENESIA (Lat.), PHRENESIS (Lat.), PHRENETIASIS (Lat.), n's f. Fre'n-e(a)/zi'z(i'z)-a. Gen., -es'is, -es'eos, phren'es'is, -as'eos (-is). Gr., φρένησις, φρενῆσις (from φρήν, the mind). Fr., phrénésie. Ger., Phrenesie. 1. See ENCEPHALITIS. 2. See FRENZY.

PHRÉNIÂTRE (Fr.), n. Fra-ne-a'z'r'. Of Guislain, an alienist. [a, 34.]

PHRENIAITRIC, adj. Fre'n-i'z-a't'r'i'k. From φρήν, the mind, and ιατρός, a physician. Pertaining to phreniatrics, which is the therapeutics of diseases of the mind. [D.]

PHRENIC, adj. Fre'n'i'k. Lat., phrenicus. Fr., phrénique. Ger., phrenisch. 1. Pertaining to the mind. [a, 34.] 2. Pertaining to the diaphragm. [C.]

PHRENICULA (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-i'k(ek)/u'z(u')-la. From φρήν, the mind. Fr., phrénicule. Of Rust, brain fever. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHRENICUS (Lat.), adj. Fre'n'i'k-u's(u's). Phrenic; as a n., see DIAPHRAGM.

PHRÉNIE (Fr.), Fra-ne. Of Guislain, the mental state in its largest sense. [a, 34.]

PHRENISMUS (Lat.), n's m. Fre'n-i'z(i'z)/mu's(mu's). See ENCEPHALITIS.

PHRENITIC, adj. Fre'n-i'z(i'z)-i'k. 1. Pertaining to the mind. 2. Pertaining to phrenitis. [D.]

PHRENITIS (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-i'e(t'i's). Gen., -it'idos (-idis). From φρήν, the mind. Ger., P. 1. Encephalitis. 2. Meningitis. 3. Frenzy, acute delirium. [D: E.]—P. aphrodisiaca. Erotomania. [L.]—P. calentura. See SUNSTROKE.—P. latrans. See HYDROPHOBIA.—P. potatorum. See DELIRIUM tremens.

PHRENOBLABIA (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-o(φ)-blab(bla'bi)/i'z-a. From φρήν, the mind, and βλάπτειν, to injure. Fr., phrénoblabie. Dementia. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHRENO-COLIC, adj. Fre'n-o-kol'i'k. From φρήν, the diaphragm, and colic (q. v.). Pertaining to the diaphragm and the colon. [C.]

PHRÉNOCOME (Fr.), n. Fra-no-kom. Of Guislain, a hospital for the insane. [a, 34.]

PHRENOGASTRIC, adj. Fre'n-o-ga'st'r'i'k. Lat., phrenogastricus (from φρήν, the diaphragm, and γαστήρ, the stomach). Fr., phrénogastrique. Pertaining to the diaphragm and the stomach. [L, 30, 50 (a, 14).]

PHRENO-GLOTTISMUS (Lat.), n. m. Fre'n-o(φ)-glot'ti'z(i'z)-mu's(mu's). From φρήν, the diaphragm, and γλῶττα, the tongue. Fr., phrénoglossisme. Spasm of the glottis supposed to be of diaphragmatic origin. [Vogel (a, 34).]

PHRENOGRAPH, n. Fre'n-o-gra'f. From φρήν, the diaphragm, and γράφειν, to write. Fr., phrénographe. Ger., P. An instrument devised by Rosenthal (1862) to demonstrate and register the movements of the diaphragm. [J, 3, 5.]

PHRENOGRAPHY, n. Fre'n-o'g-ra'f-i'z. Of Guislain, psychology. [a, 34.]

PHRENOIN, n. Fre'n'o-i'n. Fr., phrénoïne. See PHRENOSIN.

PHRENOLEPSIA (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-o(φ)-lep'si'z-a. From φρήν, the mind, and λήψις, a seizure. See INSANITY.

PHRENOLOGY, n. Fre'n'o'l-o'j-i'z. From φρήν, the mind, and λόγος, understanding. Fr., phrénologie, crétinomanie. Ger., Phrenologie, Schädellehre. The doctrine that the different mental faculties have their seats respectively in particular tracts of brain surface, and that the relative predominance of the faculties can be diagnosed from the conformation of the parts of the skull overlying those tracts. [a, 48.]

PHRENO-MAGNETISM, PHRENO-MESMERISM, n's. Fre'n-o-ma'g-ne't-izm, -me's-me't-izm. See ANIMAL MAGNETISM.

PHRENO-NARCOSIS (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-o(φ)-nar'k-os'i'z-a. Gen., -cos'eos (-is). From φρήν, the mind, and νάρκωσις, narcosis. Fr., phrénonarcose. Ger., Phrenonarkose. Of Schultz, apoplexy. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHRENOPATH, n. Fre'n'o-p-a'th. Of Guislain, an alienist. [a, 34.]

PHRENOPATHIC, n. Fre'n-o-p-a'th'i'k. An insane person. [a, 34.]

PHRENOPATHY, n. Fre'n-o-p'a'th-i'z. Lat., phrenopathia (from φρήν, the mind, and πάθος, disease). Fr., phrénopathie. Ger., Phrenopathie. See PSYCHOPATHY.

PHRENOPLEGIA (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-o(φ)-ple'gi'a. From φρήν, the mind, and πληγή, a stroke. Fr., phrénoplégie. Ger., Seelenlähmung. Of Schultz, paralysis of the mind, as in cretinism, dementia, etc. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHRENOPLEXIA, n. Fre'n-o(φ)-ple'x-i'z-a. From φρήν, the mind, and πλέκειν, to twist. Of Guislain, moral excitement, ecstasy. [a, 34.]

PHRENORTHOSIS (Lat.), n. f. Fre'n-o'th-oz'i's. Gen., -thos'eos (-is). From φρήν, the mind, and ὀρθωσις, orthosis. See ORTHOPHRENY.

PHRENOSIN, n. Fre'n'o-sin. Fr., phrénosine. Ger., P. Of Thudichum, a body extracted from the white substance of the brain by fractional crystallization from alcohol. It crystallizes in white rosettes, and is decomposed by dilute sulphuric acid, forming cerebrose and neurostearic acid. [K.]

PHRENO-SPLENIC, adj. Fre'n-o-splen'i'k. Lat., phrenosplenicus (from φρήν, the diaphragm, and σπλήν, the spleen). Pertaining to the diaphragm and the spleen. [L, 41, 50 (a, 14).]

PHRENOTHERAPY, n. Fre'n-o-th'e'r-a'p-i'z. From φρήν, the mind, and θεραπεία, healing. Of Guislain, psychiatry. [a, 34.]

PHRÉNOTYRBE (Fr.), n. Fra-no-terb. Of Guislain, a trouble or disorder of the intellectual functions. [A, 34.]

PHRICASMUS (Lat.), PHRICIASIS (Lat.), n's m. and f. Frík(frek)-a²z(a³s)/mu²s(mu²s), -i(i²)/a²s(a³s)-i²s. Gen., -as'mi, -as'eos (-i²asís). Gr., φρικασμός, φρικιασμός (from φρίκη, a shivering). Fr., phricasme. See CUTIS anserina.

PHRICOGEN, n. Frík'o-je'n. Lat., phricogenium (from φρίκη, a shivering, and γεννᾶν, to produce). Fr., phricogène. Ger., Kältestoff. Of Eckartshausen, a supposititious principle of cold, or frigorific material. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHRONESIS (Lat.), n. f. Fro²n-e(a)/si²s. Gen., -es'eos (-is). Gr., φρόνσις. 1. Reason. 2. Of Hippocrates, sensory power, sensibility. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PTHALALCOHOL (Ger.), n. Fta³l-a³l-ko-ho²l. See XYLYLENE alcohol.

PTHALALDEHYDE, n. Tha²l-a³l-de²h-id. See PTHALIC ALDEHYDE.

PTHALALDEHYDIC ACID, n. Tha²l-a³l-de²h-i²di²k. An acid, C₆H₄(CO.H)(CO.OH). [B, 3 (a, 38).]

PTHALAMIC ACID, n. Tha²l-a³m-i²k. Fr., acide phtalamique, phtalamide. An acid, C₆H₄(CO.NH₂)CO.OH. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

PTHALÉIN, n. Tha²l-e²-i²n. Fr., phtaléine, phtaline. A coloring matter produced by the combination of a phenol and phtalic anhydride with the elimination of the elements of one or more molecules of water. [B, 2.]

PTHALIC, adj. Tha²l-i²k. A word syncopated from naphthalic and applied to certain naphthalene derivatives which do not belong to the regular naphthalene series. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

PTHALIC ACID, n. Tha²l-i²k. Fr., acide phtalique. Ger., Phtalsäure. An acid, C₆H₄O₄ = C₆(CO.OH.CO.OH.H.H.H.H.), crystallizing from hot water as thin laminae or shining rhombic prisms, somewhat soluble in water, and melting at a high temperature. The isomeric isophthalic or metaphthalic acid, C₆(CO.OH.H.CO.OH.H.H.H.), occurs as hair-like acicular crystals, somewhat soluble in water, easily soluble in alcohol, and melting above 300° C. Terephthalic or paraphthalic acid, C₆(CO.OH.H.H.CO.OH.H.H.H.), occurs as a micro-crystalline, tasteless powder, insoluble in ether or chloroform, almost insoluble in water or alcohol. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

PTHALIC ALDEHYDE, n. Tha²l-i²k. Fr., aldéhyde phtalique. A substance, C₆H₄O₂ = C₆H₄(CHO)₂, crystallizing from boiling water as needles, having a cinnamon-like odor, melting at 73° C., and boiling at 290° C. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

PTHALIC ANHYDRIDE, n. Tha²l-i²k. Fr., anhydride phtalique. Ger., Phtalsäure-Anhydrid. A substance, (C₆H₄)₂O, occurring as long white rhombic needles, prisms, or a hard crystalline mass, somewhat soluble in water, melting at 128° C., and boiling at 284° C. The isomeric forms isophthalic aldehyde and terephthalic aldehyde are oily liquids. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

PTHALIDE, n. Tha²l-i²d(i)d. Fr., phtalide. See PTHALIC ALDEHYDE.

PTHALIMIDE, n. Tha²l-i²m-i²d(i)d. Fr., phtalimide. A substance, C₆H₄O₂(NH), crystallizing from ether as six-sided prisms, melting at 228° C. [B, 3 (a, 38).]

PTHALIN, n. Tha²l-i²n. A colorless compound produced by deoxidizing phtalein by the action of nascent hydrogen. [B, 2.]

PTHALURIC ACID, n. Tha²l-u²r-i²k. A substance, C₁₀H₆NO₄, occurring as long colorless needles, fusible at 191° to 192° C. [B, 3 (a, 38); L, 87 (a, 50).]

PTHALYL, n. Tha²l-i²l. Fr., phtalyle. Ger., P. The bivalent radicle, C₆H₄(CO)₂, of phtalic acid. [B.]

PTHARMA (Lat.), n. n. Tha²r(ftha²r)/ma². Gen., phthar-matos (-atis). Gr., φθάρμα (from φθείρω, to corrupt). 1. A morbid change of structure. 2. Of Young, a genus of the Paraphymata. [L, 290.]

PTHARSIS (Lat.), n. f. Tha²r(ftha²r)/si²s. Gen., phtharsis-eos (-is). Gr., φθάρσις. Decomposition. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHTHEIR (Lat.), n. m. Thir(fthe²-i²r). Gen., phtheir'os, phtheir'is. Gr., φθειρ. See PEDICULUS.

PHTHEIRIACUS (Lat.), adj. Thir(fthe²-i²r)-i(i²)/a²k(a³k)-u²s(u²s). Fr., phthiriasique. Ger., läusesüchtig. Pertaining to or affected with phthiriasis. [L, 41, 50 (a, 14).]

PHTHEIRÆMIA (Lat.), n. f. Thir(fthe²-i²r)-em'(a²/e²m)-i²-a². From φθειρ, to destroy, and αἷμα, blood. A condition in which there is a diminution of the blood plasma. [a, 34.]

PHTHEIRIASIC, adj. Thir-i²-a²s-i²k. Fr., phthiriasique. Due to lice. Cf. PHTHEIRIACUS.

PHTHEIRIASIS (Lat.), n. f. Thir(fthe²-i²r)-i²-a(a³)/si²s. Gen., -as'eos (-as'is). Gr., φθειρίασις (from φθειρ, a louse). Fr., phthiriasie, maladie pédiculaire. Ger., P. Läusesucht, Läusekrankheit. Lousiness, lousy distemper; a disease in which pediculi multiply on the skin or the hair. The erroneous opinion formerly prevailed that pediculi were generated spontaneously in cutaneous ulcers or abscesses, constituting a sort of diathesis, and more recently that numbers of pediculi from the surface bored their way into the skin, producing ulcers or closed abscesses in which the lice bred and multiplied (cf. P. interna and Malis pedicularis (1st def.)). [G, 73; L, 90, 41, 44, 49, 50 (a, 14).]—P. ciliorum. Lousiness of the eyelashes, the lice being attached to the base of the cilia and depositing their eggs there. [F.]—P. interna. Fr., maladie pédiculaire interne (ou funeste). A disease in which lice and other vermin were said to escape from the various mucous orifices. It was attended with emaciation and terminated fatally. [G, 11, 17.]—P. palpebrarum. See P. ciliorum and P. superciliorum.—P. su- perciliorum. Lousiness in which the parasite is found on the hairs of the eyebrows. [F.]

PHTHEIRIUS (Lat.), n. m. Thir(fthe²-i²r)-i²-u²s(u²s). 1. A louse (see PEDICULUS). 2. More commonly, the crab-louse (see P. pubis).—P. inguinalis, P. pubis. Fr., morpion. Ger., Filzlaus, Schamlaus. The crab-louse; a variety of louse that inhabits the region of the pubes most commonly, but is also found about the hair of the perineum and of the axillæ, about the eyelashes, and in men about the hairy parts of the chest and abdomen. It is smaller, broader, and flatter than Pediculus capitis and Pediculus vestimenti, and attaches itself more firmly to the skin. Its eggs ("nits") are attached to the hairs like those of Pediculus capitis. [G.]

PHTHEIRIUS PUBIS. [A, 327.]

PHTHEIROCTONON (Lat.), n. n. Thir(fthe²-i²r)-o²kt'o²n-o²n. Gr., φθειροκτόνον (from φθειρ, a louse, and κτείνω, to kill). See DELPHINIUM staphisagria.

PHTHINODES (Lat.), adj. Thir²n(fthi²n)-od'(ez)(as). From φθίνω, to waste, and εἶδος, resemblance. Fr., phthineux. Hectic, phthisical. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHTHINOPLASM, n. Thir²n'o-pla²zm. From φθίνω, to waste, and πλάσμα, formed material. Of C. J. B. Williams, the degenerated protoplasm that irritates the tissues of the lungs and lymphatics, causing their phthisical degeneration, as opposed to that caused by tubercle. [a, 34.]

PHTHINOPORINOUS, adj. Thir²n-o²p-o²r-in'u²s. From φθίνω, to waste, and πόρος, autumn. Lat., phthinoporus. Fr., phthinopore. Ger., herbstlich. Pertaining to the close of autumn; autumnal. [A, 311, 322 (a, 48).]

PHTHIRIASÉ (Fr.), n., PHTHIRIASIS (Lat.), n. f. Te-re-a²z; thir(fther)-i²-a(a³)/sis. See PHTHEIRIASIS.

PHTHISIC, adj. Ti²z-i²k. See PHTHISICAL; as a n., a popular term for any chronic pulmonary disease causing dyspnoea and cough. [a, 34.]

PHTHISICAL, adj. Ti²z-i²k-l. Gr., φθισικός. Lat., phthisicus. Fr., phthisique. Ger., phthisisch, schwindsüchtig. Affected with or of the nature of phthisis.

PHTHISICUS (Lat.), adj. Ti²z(fthi²s)/i²k-u²s(u²s). See PHTHISICAL; as a n. (Fr., poitrinaire; Ger., Phthisiker), a person affected with phthisis. [a, 48.]—P. salax. Of Fürbringer, a p. whose disease gives rise to an excessive sexual appetite. [A, 319 (a, 34).]

PHTHISIE (Fr.), n. Te-ze. See PHTHISIS.—P. aiguë pleurale. Acute phthisis with pleurisy. [L, 25, 87 (a, 34).]—P. caséuse. See Acute pneumonic PHTHISIS.—P. charbonneuse. See ANTHRACOSIS (3d def.).—P. cottonneuse. See TABACOSIS.—P. dorsale. See TABES dorsalis.—P. galopante. See Acute TUBERCULOSIS.—P. granuleuse. See Miliary TUBERCULOSIS.—P. hépatique. Hepatic atrophy. [a, 34.]—P. laryngée dartreuse (Trousseau, Belloic). See Follicular ANGINA.—P. mélanique, P. noire. See ANTHRACOSIS (4th def.).—P. rapide. See Acute miliary TUBERCULOSIS.—P. vérolique. Of Astruc, syphilis of the lung. [a, 34.]

PHTHISIOLOGY, n. Ti²z-i²-o²-j-i². Lat., phthisiologia (from φθίσις, phthisis, and λόγος, understanding). Fr., phthisiologie. The pathology, etc., of phthisis. [L, 41, 50 (a, 43).]

PHTHISIOPHOBIA (Lat.), n. f. Ti²z(fthi²s)-i²-o(o²)-fob(fo²b)-i²-a². From φθίσις, phthisis, and φόβος, fear. Ger., Phthisiophobie. A morbid dread of phthisis. [D.]

PHTHISIOPNEUMONIA (Lat.), n. f. Ti²z(fthi²s)-i²-o(o²)-nu²(pnu²)-mon(mo²n)/i²-a². From φθίσις, phthisis, and πνευμονία, pneumonia. Fr., phthisiopneumonie. See PULMONARY PHTHISIS.

PHTHISIS (Lat.), n. f. Ti²(fthi²s)/i²s. Gen., phthisis'eos (-is). Gr., φθίσις (from φθίνω, to waste). Fr., phthisie, phthisie. Ger., Schwindsucht, Auszehrung, P. It., tise, etisia, ftisia. Sp., tisis. 1. Any wasting, atrophic process. See the various subheads and HELMINTHOPHTHISIS, CHYLOROPHTHISIS, GASTROPHTHISIS, etc. 2. As usually employed, pulmonary tuberculosis. [D.]—Acute (granular) p. See Acute miliary TUBERCULOSIS.—Acute pneumonic p. Acute pulmonary tuberculosis that begins with all the symptoms of acute lobar pneumonia. It pursues a rapid course, and the lungs present, post mortem, the appearance of gray hepatization with caseous foci and cavities. [a, 34.]—Amphibolestroid p. Atrophy of the retina. [D, 90.]—Arthritic p. Ger., Gicht-lungenschwindsucht. Pulmonary tuberculosis supposed to be due to gout. [L, 87 (a, 34).]—Asthmatic p. An old term for "a wasting of the body, occurring especially in old age, attended with dyspnoea and chronic in course"; perhaps pulmonary emphysema. [B, 117.]—Atheromatous p. See Gouty p.—Bacillary p. Pulmonary p. due to a bacillus.—Basal p. Of Fagge, chronic pneumonia. [a, 34.]—Basic p. Of Kidd, a rare variety of pulmonary tuberculosis in which the base of the lung is primarily affected. [a, 34.]—Black p. Fr., phthisie noire. See ANTHRACOSIS (4th def.).—Bronchial p. Tuberculosis of the bronchial glands. [a, 34.]—

Catarrhal p. See Acute pneumonic p.—Cerebral p. Tuberculosis affecting the brain or its membranes. [a, 34.]—Chronic pneumonic p. Fr., phthisie commune. Pulmonary p. in which there is a slow process of disintegration of indurated matter, or in which more or less of the lung tissue slowly undergoes gray induration. [Addison (D).]—Diabetic p. Ger., Harnruhrscheinducht. Pulmonary tuberculosis resulting from a caseating broncho-pneumonia appearing in a person affected with diabetes mellitus. [a, 34.]—Dyspeptic p. The wasting caused by malnutrition in chronic dyspepsia. [a, 34.]—Embolie p. Pulmonary p. in which pyemic deposits and suppurations, or formations of cheesy disintegrating matter, have followed the retention in the lungs of emboli from the liver, lymphatics, or veins. [D, 1.]—Epithelial p. Scrofulous p.; so called from the epithelioid cells thrown off in the process of disintegration. [D.]—Fibroid p. Fibrous p. 1. Interstitial pneumonia. 2. Pulmonary tuberculosis in which dense layers of fibrous tissues surround the cavity, usually in the upper lobe, the pleura is thickened, and the lower lobe is gradually invaded by the sclerotic change. Bronchial dilatation usually exists. [Osler (a, 34).]—Flax-dressers' p. Tabacosis occurring in flax-dressers. [a, 34.]—Galloping p. See Acute pneumonic p.—Glandular p. Tuberculosis of the lymphatic glands. [a, 34.]—Gouty p. A chronic inflammation of the air-passages attributed to gout. [a, 34.]—Granular p. See Acute miliary tuberculosis.—Granular pleural p. Chronic pleurisy associated with pulmonary tuberculosis. [D.]—Grinders' p. See Knife-grinders' p.—Hemorrhagic p. Pulmonary p. in which extravasated blood has undergone cheesy degeneration. [D.]—Hepatic p. 1. See P. hepatica. 2. Tuberculosis of the liver. [a, 34.]—Knife-grinders' p. Fr., phthisie des aiguiseurs. Chronic catarrhal bronchitis originating from mechanical irritation and developing into a wasting form of broncho-pneumonia. [D, 28.]—Lardaceous p. Pulmonary p. characterized by deposits of waxy or lardaceous matter. [D.]—Laryngeal p. Lat., laryngop. See Tubercular laryngitis.—Latent p. See Latent tuberculosis.—Mucous p. Ger., Schleimschwinducht. Miliary tuberculosis. [L, 50 (a, 14).]—Neurotic p. Pulmonary tuberculosis attributed to neurasthenia. [a, 34.]—Neuro-vascular p. Of Laycock, p. due to the neuro-vascular diathesis. [a, 34.]—Non-bacillary p. A condition similar to pulmonary tuberculosis, but not due to bacillus. [a, 34.]—Phlegmatic p. Of Laycock, p. occurring in persons who preserve a strong, well-nourished appearance during the early course of the disease. [a, 34.]—P. abdominalis. Ger., Bauchschwinducht, Unterleibschwinducht. Tuberculosis affecting the mesenteric glands or the intestines. [a, 34.]—P. ab hœmoptoe. Pulmonary p. following hæmoptysis.—P. bulbi. Rapid shriveling of the eyeball due to the suppuration and evacuation of its contents. [B.]—P. bulbi essentialis. See OPHTHALMOMALACIA.—P. calculeosa. Fr., phthisie calculeuse (ou calculeuse). A form of p. following catarrhal pneumonia, in which calcification has taken place in the smallest lobules of the lungs. The concretions thus formed pass outward after suppurating through the surrounding connective tissue. [D, 3.]—P. combinata. Of Waldenburg, acute pneumonic p.—P. cornæ. Replacement of the cornea with cicatricial tissue. [A, 319 (a, 20).]—P. cystica. See CYSTOPHTHISIS.—P. ex inanitione. General wasting of the body in consequence of inanition. [L, 57 (a, 34).]—P. florida. P. gallopicans. See Acute pneumonic p.—P. hepatica. 1. Of Berends, abscess of the liver. [a, 34.] 2. Atrophy of the liver.—P. intestinalis. See Intestinal tuberculosis.—P. lienis. Ger., Milzschwinducht. Abscess of the spleen. [a, 34.]—P. mammae. The destruction of the whole or a great portion of the mammary gland by suppuration. [a, 20.]—P. medullæ spinalis. See TABES dorsalis.—P. mesaraica. P. mesenterica. Ger., Gekröseschwinducht. Tuberculosis of the mesenteric glands. [a, 34.]—P. nodosa. Ger., knötige Schwinducht. Miliary pulmonary tuberculosis. [a, 34.]—P. oesophagica. An obsolete term for tuberculosis supposed to be due to oesophagitis. [L, 135 (a, 34).]—P. pancreatica. Ger., Magendrüsenwinducht. A condition resembling that caused by pulmonary tuberculosis, but due to pancreatitis. [a, 34.]—P. pharyngea. Pharyngeal tuberculosis. [L, 185 (a, 50).]—P. pituitosa. See Mucous p.—P. prostatica. Tuberculosis of the prostate gland. [a, 34.]—P. pulmonum. See Pulmonary tuberculosis.—P. renal. Tuberculosis of the kidney. [a, 34.]—P. splenica. See P. lienis.—P. testis. Tuberculosis of the testicle. [a, 34.]—P. trachealis. Tuberculosis of the trachea. [L, 135 (a, 50).]—P. tuberculosa. See P. nodosa.—P. tuberculosa lapidea. See P. calculeosa.—P. urinaria. See P. renal and PHTHISURIA.—P. uterina. See HYSTEROPHTHISIS.—P. ventriculi. A state resembling that caused by tuberculosis, but due to dyspepsia. [a, 34.]—P. vesicalis. See CYSTOPHTHISIS.—Placental p. Of Simpson, a wasting disease of the foetus due to disease of the placenta.—Pneumonic p. 1. Pulmonary p.; in Clark's scheme, that variety of pulmonary p. characterized by disintegration of old or new deposits which have occurred in vesicular, lobular, or lobar pneumonia, whether primary, secondary, or scrofulous. 2. Of Addison, senile p. [D.]—Pretubercular stage of p. Of E. Smith and others, that abnormal condition of the lungs, and of the body in general, which favors the deposit and growth of tubercles. [D.]—Primary tubercular p. See Acute miliary tuberculosis.—Pulmonary p. Lat., p. pulmonalis. Tuberculosis of the lungs. [a, 34.]—Rheumatic p. Of Laycock, p. imputed to the rheumatic diathesis. [a, 34.]—Scurbittic p. A wasting of the body attended with signs of scurvy. [B, 117.]—Senile p. Fr., phthisie des vieillards. Pulmonary p. occurring in the aged.—Specific p. See Pulmonary tuberculosis.—Stone-cutters' p. A wasting form of broncho-pneumonia due to the irritation of inhaled particles of stone. [D, 28.]—Syphilitic p. Pulmonary p. associated with syphilis, characterized by cheesy disintegration of the nucleo-fibrous tissue with diffuse infiltration and by deposits of

PHU (Lat.), n. n. indecl. Fu<sup>2</sup>(fu). The genus Valeriana; also Valeriana p. [B, 49, 121 (a, 35).]

PHYGETHLON (Lat.), n. n. Fi<sup>2</sup>g(fu<sup>2</sup>g)-e<sup>2</sup>th-lo<sup>2</sup>n. Gr., φύγεθλον. Fr., p., phygèthlon. 1. A swelling and inflammation of superficial lymphatic glands "not ending in suppuration." 2. An inflammatory nodule in the skin. [G, 8, 11.]—P. interdigital (Fr.). A little tumor that develops between the fourth and fifth toes, with an ulcerating, exuding surface. Cf. CLAVUS.

PHYLLANTHUS (Lat.), n. m. and f.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-la}^2\text{nth}(\text{la}^2\text{nth})\text{-u}^3(\text{u}^3\text{s})$ . From  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\alpha\nu\theta\omicron\varsigma$ , a flower. Fr., phyllanthé (1st def.). Ger., Blattblume (1st def.). 1. A genus of the Euphorbiaceae. The Phyllanthæ (Fr., phyllanthées), the Phyllanthideæ of Baillon, are a section (tribe) of the Euphorbiaceae. 2. Of Sprengel, a section of the genus Cactus. The Phyllanthideæ of Lindley (the Phyllanthoideæ of Salm-Dyck) are a tribe of the Cactaceæ. [B, 42, 121, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—P. conami. Fr., phyllanthé du Brésil, bois à enivrer. The tipsy-wood of Brazil. The leafy branches and bruised roots are used to stupefy fish. [B, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. disticha. Country gooseberry; a tree of the East Indies, where it is cultivated for its subacid fruit. The root is a violent cathartic, and the leaves are used as a sudorific. The seeds are purgative. [B, 172 (a, 35).]—P. emblica. See EMBLICA officinalis.—P. madraspatensis. A species the leaves of which are used in India for headaches, and the seeds as a demulcent. [B, 193 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxvii, p. 159 (a, 50).]—P. microphyllus. Fr., phyllanthé à petites feuilles. Ger., kleinblättrige Blattblume. A species growing on the Orinoco and in Brazil, where the leaves and seed are used in diabetes. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. multiflorus. Fr., phyllanthé multiflore. Ger., vielblüthige Blattblume. An East Indian species. The root is considered alterative, and is used in vesical affections. [B, 172, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. niruri. Fr., phyllanthé niruri, herbe du chagrin. Ger., weisse Blattblume. An Indian species. The root and leaves are used as a diuretic and deobstruent, especially in jaundice; the young shoots in dysentery; and the juice of the stem, mixed with oil, in ophthalmia. The leaves and herb are stomachic; pulverized with the root and combined with rice-water, they are used as a poultice for ulcers and swellings. [B, 172, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. oblongifolius. Ger., ovalblättrige Blattblume. An Indian species. The bark of the root, stem, and branches, together with the leaves and the fruits, are used in baths for gout, etc. The root-bark is used as a stomachic tonic. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. pedunculatus. Ger., langstielige Blattblume. A Malabar shrub used as a pectoral. The leaves and root are applied to swellings. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. retusus. A large East Indian tree. The root, which is astringent, is used, together with the leaves and fruit, as a pectoral. The bark is employed as a poultice. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. rhamnoides. Fr., phyllanthé rhamnoides. Ger., wegdornähnliche Blattblume. An East Indian species. The leaves are used as a discutient and, warm, with castor-oil, in anthrax. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. simplex. Ger., einfache Blattblume. A species the leaves of which are used in India for itch in children. [B, 172, 180 (a, 35).]—P. squamifolius. Ger., schuppenblättrige Blattblume. A Cochinchina species. The leaves, flowers, and fruits are reputed emollient and discutient. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. urinaria. Fr., phyllanthé urinaire. Ger., harntreibende Blattblume. A species closely allied to P. niruri. The entire plant is used in the East Indies as a powerful diuretic in syphilis, etc., and in Cochinchina as an emmenagogue. [B, 121, 172, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. virosus. Fr., phyllanthé viroseux. A species furnishing an East Indian fish-poison. The bark is astringent. [B, 173 (a, 35).]

PHYLLARIES, n. pl.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{a}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{z}$ . Lat., phyllaria (from  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf). The scales surrounding a flower-head in composite plants. [B, 77, 121 (a, 35).]

PHYLLARIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-la}(\text{la}^3)\text{-ri}^2\text{-u}^3\text{m}(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . See AMPHIGASTRUM and cf. PHYLLARIES.

PHYLLERYTHRIN, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{e}^2\text{r}^2\text{-i}^2\text{th-ri}^2\text{n}$ . From  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and erythrin (q. v.). See PHYTERYTHRIN.

PHYLLINE, adj.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{r}^2$ . Like a leaf. [a, 35.]

PHYLLITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-li}(\text{le})\text{-ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idis. An old name for ferns, especially those of the genus Scolopendrium. [B, 121 (a, 35).]

PHYLOCLADE, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-klad}$ . Lat., phylocladium (from  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\kappa\lambda\delta\omicron\varsigma$ , a branch). Fr., p. See CLADOBE.

PHYLOCYANIC ACID, PHYLOCYANIN, n's.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-si-a}^2\text{n}^2\text{i}^2\text{k}$ ,  $\text{-si}^2\text{a}^2\text{n}^2\text{i}^2\text{n}$ . The blue coloring matter of flowers, a substance obtained by the action of alkalies and alkaline earths on chlorophyll, of which, however, it is not a constituent. [B, 2.]

PHYLODE, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-d}$ . Lat., phyllodium (from  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\epsilon\lambda\delta\omicron\varsigma$ , resemblance). Fr., p. Ger., Blattstielblatt. A leaf-shaped petiole performing the functions of foliage. It differs from a true leaf in presenting its edges instead of its faces to the earth and sky. [B, 19, 121, 123 (a, 35).]

PHYLODYL, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-d-i}^2$ . The transformation of a flower-organ into a foliage leaf. [Gray (a, 35).]

PHYLOGEN, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-je}^2\text{n}$ . From  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\gamma\epsilon\upsilon\nu\alpha\nu$ , to produce. See PHYLOPHORE.

PHYLOMANIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-lo}(\text{lo}^3)\text{-man}(\text{ma}^2\text{n})\text{-i}^2\text{a}^2$ . From  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\mu\alpha\nu\iota\alpha$ , madness. Fr., phyllomanie. Ger., Blättertheit. The abnormal development of leaves (as regards either number or position). [B, 19, 308 (a, 35).]

PHYLOME, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-m}$ . Gr.,  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\mu\alpha$ . Lat., phylloma. Fr., p. The assemblage of incipient leaves in the bud; also, of the German botanists, a leaf-structure or part morphologically equivalent to a foliage-leaf (i. e., any appendage which accords with a leaf in origin, position, and arrangement on the axis). [B, 19, 77 (a, 35).]

PHYLOMORPHY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-mo}^2\text{r-f-i}^2$ . From  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\mu\omicron\phi\omicron\eta$ , shape. Fr., phyllomorphose. Phylloidy; also, a general term for the various modifications of leaves into scales, tendrils, or other forms which assume functions different from those of ordinary foliage-leaves, and for the various modifications of other parts, such as branches, petioles, etc., into leaf-like organs. [B, 121, 308 (a, 35).]

PHYLLON (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-lo}^2\text{n}$ . Gr.,  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ . 1. Of Hippocrates, an aromatic leaf used in medicine. [B, 78 (a, 14).] 2. The genus Mercurialis; of the ancients, the Mercurialis annua. [B, 121 (a, 35).]

PHYLOPHORE, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-for}$ . Lat., phylophorum (from  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\phi\omicron\phi\epsilon\iota\nu$ , to bear). Fr., p. Phyllogen; the budding top of a stem on which leaves are developed. [B, 77, 308 (a, 35).]

PHYLOPHOROUS, adj.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-f}^2\text{o}^2\text{r-u}^3\text{s}$ . Producing leaves or leaf-like structures. [B, 19, 121 (a, 35).]

PHYLOSTEOPHYTE, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-st}^2\text{e}^2\text{o-ft}$ . Lat., phylosteophytum (from  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf,  $\delta\omicron\sigma\epsilon\iota\nu$ , a bone, and  $\phi\omicron\nu\tau\acute{\omicron}\nu$ , a plant). Fr., phylosteophyte. Ger., Phyllosteophyt. Of Lobstein, a lamellated osteophyte. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHYLOTAXY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-ta}^2\text{x-i}^2$ . Lat., phyllotaxis (from  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\tau\alpha\sigma\sigma\epsilon\iota\nu$ , to arrange). Fr., phyllotaxie. Leaf-arrangement; the manner in which leaves are disposed on the stem. [B, 38, 93, 121, 291 (a, 35).]

PHYLOXANTHIN, n.  $\text{Phi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-x-a}^2\text{nth-i}^2\text{n}$ . See ETIOLIN.

PHYLOXERA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-lo}^2\text{x-e}(\text{a})\text{-ra}^2$ . From  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf, and  $\xi\eta\rho\acute{\omicron}\varsigma$ , dry. Fr., phyloxéra. A genus of the Aphidæ. [L, 41, 49 (a, 14).]—P. vastatrix. A destructive species which infests the grape-vine. [a, 48.]

PHYLLULA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-lu}^2(\text{lu}^4)\text{-la}^3$ . Dim. of  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf. Fr., phyllule. Ger., Blattnarbe. The scar remaining after the fall of the leaf. [B, 1, 123 (a, 35).]

PHYLOGENY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-g}^2\text{-en-i}^2$ . Lat., phylogenesis (from  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a tribe, and  $\gamma\epsilon\nu\epsilon\iota\varsigma$ , generation). Fr., phylogénèse. Ger., Phylogeneses, Philogenie, Stammesentwicklung. The science of tracing the development of species through a series of changes and its genetic relationship to other forms.

PHYLOGONY [Haeckel], n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{l}^2\text{o-g}^2\text{-on-i}^2$ . From  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a tribe, and  $\gamma\epsilon\nu\alpha\nu$ , to produce. Fr., phylogonie. Ger., Phylogenie, Stammesgeschichte. That department of embryology which relates to the origin of species by evolution. [A, 8.]

PHYLUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-u}^3\text{m}(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . Gr.,  $\phi\acute{\upsilon}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ . A grand division of the animal kingdom corresponding in general to the term subkingdom. [B.]

PHYMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-ma}^2$ . Gen., phymatos (-atis). Gr.,  $\phi\upsilon\mu\alpha$ . Fr., p. Ger., Knolle, Drüsengeschwulst. It., Sp., fma. A large, circumscribed elevation of the skin caused by a morbid deposit in the corium or in the subcutaneous connective tissue. The older writers understood by the term a tumor or tubercle of the skin with purulent contents; e. g., a large subcutaneous abscess (Celsus), or a deep-seated bulla filled with pus, and resembling a furuncle, but flatter, softer, and tending more rapidly to suppuration (Plenck). Fuchs, following Plenck, designated by this term a phlegmon of the skin similar to a furuncle, but without a core; Willan classed it with tubercula. Recent writers have employed the term as the designation of one of the primary lesions of the skin, and as signifying a circumscribed plastic elevation larger than the tubercle. The Phymata of Sauvages are an order of diseases including many unrelated affections of the skin, such as erysipelas, oedema, phlegmon, emphysema, scirrhous, etc.; those of Good are furuncular affections, including hordeolum, furunculus, syccosis, and anthrax. [G, 5, 11, 13, 17, 52, 76.]—P. anthrax. See ANTHRAX (3d def.).—P. anthrax terminatus. See TERMINATUS.—P. furunculus. See FURUNCULUS major.—P. hordeolum. See HORDEOLUM.—P. pernio. See PERNIO.—P. simplex. See FURUNCULUS minor.

PHYMATOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{m}(\text{fu}^1\text{m})\text{-a}^2\text{t}^2(\text{a}^2\text{t})\text{-os-i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -os'efos (-is). From  $\phi\upsilon\mu\alpha$ , a tumor. Fr., phymatose. A tubercular affection (i. e., one characterized by phymata).—P. acne. See GUTTA rosea.—P. lupus. See LUPIA cancrrosa.—P. verrucosa. See VERRUCA.

PHYMOCNIDOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{m}(\text{fu}^1\text{m})\text{-o}^2\text{k-ni}^2\text{d}(\text{ned})\text{-os-i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -os'efos (-is). For deriv., see PHYMA and CNIDOSIS. Fr., phymocnidoze. See ERYTHEMA nodosum.

PHYMOLEPRA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{m}(\text{fu}^1\text{m})\text{-o}^2\text{l'e}^2\text{p-ra}^2$ . From  $\phi\upsilon\mu\alpha$ , a tumor, and  $\lambda\epsilon\pi\mu\alpha$ , leprosy. Fr., phymolèpre. See TUBERCULAR LEPROSY.

PHYRAMA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1\text{r})\text{-a}(\text{a}^3)\text{-ma}^2$ . Gr.,  $\phi\upsilon\rho\alpha\mu\alpha$ . Of the ancients, a kind of gum ammoniac. [B, 121 (a, 35).]

PHYSA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2(\text{fu}^1)\text{-sa}^2$ . Gr.,  $\phi\upsilon\sigma\alpha$ . 1. See BELLOWS. 2. Of Rittgen, a gaseous cyst. 3. See BULLA and PUSTULE. 4. Of the ancients, intestinal flatus. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PHYSAGOGUE, adj.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}^2\text{-a}^2\text{go}^2\text{g}$ . Lat., physagogus (from  $\phi\upsilon\sigma\alpha$ , flatus, and  $\alpha\gamma\epsilon\iota\nu$ , to drive). Fr., p. See CARMINATIVE.

PHYSALIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})/\text{a}^2\text{l}(\text{a}^2\text{l})\text{-i}^2\text{s}$ . Gr., φυσάλις. Fr., coqueret. Ger., Blasenkirische, Schlott. Sp., tomate [Mex. Ph.]. Ground- (or winter-) cherry; a genus of solanaceous herbs. [B. 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. alkekengi. Fr., coqueret-alkéenge, coccolle, herbe à cloque, lanterne, physalide. Ger., gemeine Blasenkirische (oder Schlott), Judenkirische, Boberelle, Korallenkirische. Alkekengi, bladder-herb, red nightshade, red winter-cherry, strawberry tomato, the στρυχων δακρυβιον of Dioscorides; a perennial herb growing in the eastern hemisphere, said to have come originally from Persia. All parts of the plant, especially the leaves and the capsules enveloping the fruit, have a bitter taste due to physalin. The edible fruits, baccæ alkekengi, baccæ halicacabi (seu halicacabi), baccæ solani vesicarii, cevassa Judæorum, are aperient, diuretic, and febrifuge, and have been used in rheumatism and externally in erysipelas. [B. 5, 34, 173, 180, 185, 314 (a, 35).]—P. angulata. Ger., eckige Blasenkirische. Sp., tomatillo [Mex. Ph.]. 1. Toothed-leaved winter-cherry; a species indigenous to the West Indies and America, but cultivated or naturalized in other tropical countries. The edible berries are diuretic. [B. 34, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).] 2. Of Ruiz and Pavón, see P. lancifolia.—P. costomati, P. costomati. Sp., costomate, costomati [Mex. Ph.]. A diuretic and astringent species, used in diarrhoea and to suppress lactation. [“Am. Jour. of Pharm.” Feb., 1891, p. 74 (a, 50).]—P. edulis, P. esculenta. Edible Cape gooseberry; a native of tropical America. P. esculenta is an Australian variety. Both are cultivated for their fruit, which is eaten and used medicinally, and for their bitter, aperient, and diuretic root and leaves. [B. 19, 173, 180, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—P. flexuosa. Fr., coqueret fleuveux. The Withania somnifera. [B. 42, 172 (a, 35).]—P. indica. Ger., indische Blasenkirische. An East Indian species used in inflammations of the urinary passages and to hasten the eruption in small-pox. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. lancifolia. A Peruvian species used especially as a diuretic. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. pubescens, P. ramosa. Fr., coqueret pubescent. The camara of Brazil, an edible-fruited species. The leaves are diuretic. [B. 19, 34, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. viscosa. Yellow henbane, ground-cherry. The berries are said to be highly diuretic and somewhat sedative. [B. 5, 34, 180 (a, 35); “Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.,” vii (a, 50).]

PHYSCONIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-kon}^2/\text{a}^2$ . From φύσκη, the colon. Fr., physconie. Ger., Physkonie. Swelling of the abdomen, especially tympanites. [L. 50 (a, 14).]—P. adiposa. P. caused by fat. [L. 50 (a, 14).]—P. aquosa. See ASCITES.—P. bili-losa. Swelling of the gall-bladder. [L. 50 (a, 14).]—P. calculosa. P. caused by calculi. [L. 50 (a, 14).]—P. steatosa. P. in consequence of lipoma. [L. 50 (a, 14).]—P. strumosa. Scrofulous p. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

PHYSETER (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-etiat}^2/\text{n}^2\text{r}(\text{ar})$ . Gen., -er/os (-is). From φύσσω, to puff. Fr., physétère. Ger., Pottsch. A genus of cetacean mammals, of the Catodontidae, or sperm-whales. [a, 48].—P. macrocephalus. The common sperm-whale or cachalot. [a, 48]. See CETACEUM and AMBRA grisea.

PHYSETIC ACID, PHYSETOLEIC ACID, n's.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}\text{-e}^2\text{t}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ ,  $\text{-e}^2\text{t}^2\text{-o}^2\text{e}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . See HYPOGEIC ACID.

PHYSIOLOGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-i}^2\text{-a}^2(\text{a}^2)\text{-sho}(\text{si}^2\text{-o})/\text{lo}^2\text{i}^2\text{z}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From φύσις, nature, Ἀσία, Asia, and λόγος, understanding. Of J. W. Stintzing, the power of nature in healing Asiatic cholera. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

PHYSIATRIS, n. sing.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-a}^2/\text{ri}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., physiatrix (from φύσις, nature, and ιατρεία, medical treatment). Fr., physiatrice. Ger., Physiatrik. An old term for the vis medicatrix nature. [L. 50, 107 (a, 43).]

PHYSIAUTOCRACY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-a}^2\text{-o}^2\text{k}^2/\text{ra}^2\text{-si}^2$ . Lat., physi-autocratia (from φύσις, nature, αὐτός, of itself, and κρατεῖν, to rule). Fr., physiocratie. Ger., Physiokratie. The innate power of nature. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

PHYSIAUTOTHERAPY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-a}^2\text{-o}^2\text{-the}^2/\text{r}^2\text{-a}^2\text{-pi}^2$ . Lat., physiautotherapia (from φύσις, nature, αὐτός, of one's self, and θεραπεῖα, cure). Fr., physiathérapie. Ger., Naturheilung. Spontaneous recovery from disease. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

PHYSIC, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . From φυσικός, natural. Ger., Physik. 1. See MEDICINE. 2. Colloquially, a purgative. 3. Tin tetrachloride used as a mordant in dyeing. [B.]

PHYSICAL, adj.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Gr., φυσικός (from φύσις, nature). Fr., physique. 1. Pertaining to physics. 2. Material; bodily. [L. 343.]

PHYSICIAN, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-sh}^2/\text{n}^2$ . Gr., φυσικός. Lat., physicus. Fr., physicien (1st def.), médecin (2d def.). Ger., Physiker (1st def.), Physikus (2d def.), Arzt (3d def.). 1. Of the ancients, originally, a physicist or natural philosopher; secondarily, an experimenter with drugs. 2. A practitioner of medicine. [D.]

PHYSICO-CHEMICAL, adj.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}\text{-o}\text{-ke}^2\text{m}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-k}$ . Both physical and chemical. [B.]

PHYSICS, n. sing.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Gr., φυσική. Fr., physique. Ger., Physik. The science (often called natural philosophy) which takes cognizance of the properties of matter, the forces that act on material bodies, the conditions of their rest and motion, etc. In recent use the term excludes chemistry, which deals with the atomic constitution of material substances. [a, 48.]

PHYSIOGENY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{p}^2/\text{e}^2\text{n}^2\text{-i}^2$ . Lat., physiogenia (from φύσις, nature, and γεννᾶν, to produce). Fr., physiogenie. The production of things by nature. [L. 50, 107 (a, 43).]

PHYSIOGNOMY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{g}^2/\text{nom}^2\text{-i}^2$ . Gr., φυσιογνωμονία (from φύσις, nature, and γνώμων, a judge). Lat., physiognomia. Fr., physiognomie. Ger., Physiognomie (1st def.). 1. The art of judging character by examination of the features of the face. [L. 30, 41, 50 (a, 14).] 2. The countenance. [a, 48.]

PHYSIOLOGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-i}^2\text{-o}(\text{o}^2)\text{-lo}^2\text{j}(\text{lo}^2\text{g})/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . See PHYSIOLOGY.—P. universa. See General PHYSIOLOGY.

PHYSIOLOGICAL, adj.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{-lo}^2\text{j}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-k}$ . Lat., physiologicus. Fr., physiologique. Ger., physiologisch. 1. Pertaining to physiology. [K.] 2. Natural, not pathological.

PHYSIOLOGICO-HISTOLOGICAL, adj.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{-lo}^2\text{j}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}\text{-o}\text{-hi}^2\text{st-o}\text{-lo}^2\text{j}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-k}$ . Pertaining to the function and the minute structure of a part. [J, 42.]

PHYSIOLOGY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{j}^2/\text{o}^2\text{-ji}^2$ . Gr., φυσιολογία (from φύσις, nature, and λόγος, understanding). Lat., physiologia. Fr., physiologie. Ger., Physiologie. The science of life; the study of the functions of living organisms. [K.]—Animal p. The p. of animals.—Cellular p. The p. of the anatomical elements. [J.]—Comparative p. The comparative study of vital phenomena in animals and plants. [K.]—General p. Lat., physiologia universa. The science of life in the abstract, or of vital functions in animals generally. [K.]—Hygienic p. The study of the normal as distinguished from the pathological vital phenomena. [K.]—Pathogenetic p. Pathological p. See PATHOLOGY.—Special p. The p. of a special organ or set of organs, or in a particular species or group of animals. [K.]—Vegetable p. Ger., Pflanzenlebenlehre. The p. of plants. [K.]

PHYSIOLYSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{l}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})$ . From φύσις, nature, and λύσις, dissolution. The natural decomposition of dead matter. [a, 48.]

PHYSIO-MEDICALISM, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-o}\text{-me}^2\text{d}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-k}\text{-l}^2\text{-i}^2\text{zm}$ . A combination of Thomsonianism and eclecticism. [a, 34.]

PHYSIONOMY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}\text{-i}^2\text{-o}^2\text{n}^2/\text{o}^2\text{m}^2\text{-i}^2$ . Lat., physionomia (from φύσις, nature, and νόμος, law). Fr., physionomie. The science of the laws of nature. [L. 49, 50 (a, 43).]

PHYSIOPHILOSOPHY (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{z}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-i}^2\text{-o}(\text{o}^2)\text{-fi}^2\text{-lo}^2\text{-o}(\text{o}^2)\text{-so}^2\text{f}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . Fr., physiophilosophie. See PHYSICS.

PHYSCOLICA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-o}(\text{o}^2)\text{-kol}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}\text{-a}^2$ . From φύσα, flatus, and καλή, colic. Fr., physcolique. See FLATULENT COLIC.

PHYSOLOGY, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}\text{-o}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-j}^2$ . Lat., physologia (from φύσα, flatus, and λόγος, understanding). Fr., physologie. The pathology, etc., of flatulence. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

PHYSOMETRA, n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-o}(\text{o}^2)\text{-me}^2\text{t}^2(\text{mat})/\text{r}^2\text{n}^2$ . From φύσα, flatus, and μήτρα, the womb. Fr., physométric. Distention of the uterus with gas. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

PHYSONCUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-o}^2\text{n}^2\text{k}^2/\text{u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})$ . From φύσα, flatus, and δγκος, a tumor. Fr., physonc. See EMPHYSEMA.

PHYSOSCHOCOLE (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-o}^2\text{sch}^2(\text{o}^2\text{sch}^2)\text{-e}^2\text{-o}(\text{o}^2)\text{-so}^2\text{ca}^2/\text{le}(\text{la})$ ; in Eng., fls/o-sk/e-o-sel. Gen., -cel/les. For deriv., see PHISA and OSCHOCOLE. Fr., physoschocèle. Ger., Windbruch. Emphysema of the scrotum.

PHYSOSPASMUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-o}(\text{o}^2)\text{-spa}^2\text{z}^2(\text{spa}^2\text{s})\text{-mu}^2\text{s}(\text{mu}^2\text{s})$ . From φύσα, flatus, and σπασμός, a spasm. See FLATULENT COLIC.

PHYSOSTIGMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Fi}^2\text{s}(\text{fu}^2\text{s})\text{-o}(\text{o}^2)\text{-sti}^2\text{g}^2/\text{ma}^2$ . Gen., -stig/matos (-atis). From φύσα, a bladder, and στίγμα, a mark. 1. A genus of the Phasoleæ. 2. Of the U. S. Ph., Calabar bean (seed of P. venenosum). [B. 121 (a, 35).]—Extractum physostigmatis [U. S. Ph., Br. Ph., Russ. Ph.] (seu physostigmatos). Fr., extrait de fèves de Calabar [Fr. Cod.]. Roum., extractu de calabariu [Roum. Ph.]. Syn.: extractum Calabar [Dan. Ph., Netherl. Ph., Swed. Ph.], extractum fabæ calabarica [Ger. Ph. (1st def.)], Swiss Ph. (seu calabariensis [Belg. Ph.]). A preparation made by extracting Calabar bean with alcohol. The U. S. Ph. treats 100 parts of the bean in No. 40 powder with alcohol in a percolator, and evaporates to pilular consistence; the Br. Ph. treats 1 lb. of the bean in No. 40 powder with 4 pints of alcohol in a percolator, and evaporates to the consistence of a soft extract; the Fr. Cod. and Belg. Ph. use 1 part of finely powdered bean and 5 parts of alcohol, and evaporate to a pilular consistence [Fr. Cod.] (to the consistence of a solid extract [Belg. Ph.]); the other pharmacopoeias make a solid extract. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—P. venenosum. Calabar bean, chop-nut; indigenous near the mouths of the Niger and Old Calabar rivers of western Africa, and naturalized in India and Brazil. The fruit is an oblong, dehiscent legume, containing two or three irregularly kidney-shaped seeds (Calabar beans), each of about the size of a large horse-bean, and of a deep chocolate-brown color, verging into lighter tints toward the ridges bordering a furrow which runs along its convex margin. It has but little taste, and in the dry state no pronounced odor, but after boiling, or on evaporation of its alcoholic tincture, a smell somewhat like that of cantharides. It is a deadly poison, acting chiefly as a depressant on the motor tract of the spinal cord. It is used in Africa as an ordeal poison. It contains several poisonous alkaloids (see ESERINE and CALABARINE) and an indifferent substance, phytosterin, closely allied to cholesterol. P. is used in strychnine poisoning, tetanus, etc., for its sedative influence on the spinal cord, but chiefly as a miotic in glaucoma. It is antagonistic to atropine and hyoscyamine. [B, 5, 18, 19, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—Tinctura physostigmatis [U. S. Ph.]. Fr. teinture de fève de Calabar [Fr. Cod.]. Syn.: tinctura calabar [Dan. Ph.]. A preparation made by extracting Calabar bean in No. 40 powder with alcohol in a percolator [U. S. Ph.]; or by digesting the bean with ten times as much strong alcohol for 3 days [Dan. Ph.]; or by macerating it with five times as much 80-per-cent. alcohol for 10 days [Fr. Cod.]. [B, 95 (a, 38).]

PHYTOPHTHORA (Lat.), n. f. Fi't(fu't)-o'f'tho'r-a'. From φυτόν, a plant, and φθείρειν, to destroy. A genus of phycomycetous Fungi. [a, 35.]—P. infestans. See PERONOSPORA infestans.

PHYTOLOGICAL, n. Fit-o'f'i'z-i'z-o'i'-j'i'. Lat., phyto-physiologia. See Vegetable PHYSIOLOGY.

PHYTOPLASM, n. Fit-o'pla'z'm. From φυτόν, a plant, and πλάσμα, formed matter. Vegetable protoplasm. [a, 35.]

PHYTOSIS (Lat.), n. f. Fi't(fu't)-o's'i's. Gen., -o's'eos (-is). 1. See PHYTOGENESIS. 2. A morbid condition caused by the presence of a vegetable parasite, especially a dermatomycosis. [a, 35.]

PHYTOSTERIN, PHYTOSTERYL ALCOHOL, n's. Fit-o's'te'r-i'n, -i'z. Fr., phytostérine. Ger., P. A fat-like substance obtained from all or nearly all seeds and various other vegetable substances, and occurring as laminar crystals containing a molecule of water, or as anhydrous acicular crystals melting at about 133° C. It resembles cholesterol, with which it is perhaps homologous. [B, 3 (a, 38); H. Paschke, "Ztschr. f. physiol. Chem.," viii, p. 356; "Ctbl. f. d. med. Wissensch.," 1884, p. 638 (B).]

PHYTOCHNY, n. Fit-o'te'k-ni'. Lat., phytotechnia (from φυτόν, a plant, and τέχνη, art). Fr., phytochimie. 1. See Morphological BOTANY. 2. See Industrial BOTANY.

PHYTOMY, n. Fit-o't'om-i'. Lat., phytomyia (from φυτόν, a plant, and τέμνειν, to cut). See Vegetable ANATOMY.

PHYTOZOA (Lat.), n. n. pl. Fi't(fu't)-o(o')-zo-a(a')/ri'z-a'. From φυτόν, a plant, and ζῷον, an animal. Fr., phytozoaires. Ger., Pflanzenthiere. 1. Of Bory de Saint-Vincent, the Protista of Haeckel. See under PHYTOZOON (2d def.). 2. The Protozoa. [L, 41, 49 (a, 14); a, 35.]

PHYTOZOON (Lat.), n. n. Fi't(fu't)-o(o')-zo'o'z'n. Ger., Pflanzen-thier (2d def.). 1. An antherozoid in cryptogams. 2. An individual of the Protozoa, especially of the group (called Protista by Haeckel) containing unicellular animals and plants, and such unicellular organisms as may be regarded as either animals or plants. 3. One of various marine animalcules living in the tissues of plants. [B, 77, 308 (a, 35).]

PIA (Lat.), n. f. Pi(pi')/a'. Fr., pie (mère). Ger., Gefäßhaut, dünne (oder weiche) Hirnhaut. One of the cerebro-spinal meninges, a delicate network of connective tissue in immediate relation to the surface of the brain and of the spinal cord. [a, 29.]—Cerebral p. The p. of the brain. It contains in its meshes the ramifications of the cerebral vessels, closely follows the convolutions and gyri of the brain surface, lines the great fissures, and by some of them is continued into the ventricular cavities. [McClellan (a, 29).]—External p. The p. covering the exterior of the brain as distinguished from the part within the ventricles. [F, 62 (K).]—Internal p. The p. which extends into the ventricles of the brain. [I, 62 (K).]—Intima p. Of Key and Retzius, the inner layer of the spinal p. [I, 17.]—P. cerebri. See Cerebral p.—P. mater. See P. P. spinalis. Spinal p. The p. of the spinal cord. It is prolonged within the anterior and posterior median fissures, and forms the epineurium of each of the spinal nerves. [McClellan (a, 30).]

PIAN, n. Pi'a'n. See FRAMBOESIA (2d def.).

PIARRHÆMIA (Lat.), n. f. Pi(pe)-a'r(r'a'r)-rem'(ra'z'e'm)-i'z-a'. From πιαρ, fat, and αἷμα, blood. Fr., piarrhémie. See LIPÆMIA.

PIALEMENT (Fr.), n. Pe-o'l-ma'n't. A high-pitched, pulsing heart-murmur. [L, 49 (a, 14).]

PICA (Lat.), n. f. Pi(pe)/ka'. Fr., p. 1. A magpie. 2. An appetite or craving for unusual, unwholesome, even disgusting substances for food. [D, 5.]

PICACISMUS (Lat.), n. m. Pi'k-a's(a'k)-i'z(i's)/mu's(mu's). See under CALOTTE (1st def.).

PICAMARUM (Lat.), n. n. Pi'k-a'm(a'm)-ar(a'r)/u'm(u'm). From pic, pitch, and amarus, bitter. Fr., picamar. An oily substance obtained by Reichenbach in the distillation of wood-tar. It is of a fatty feel, feeble odor, and bitter and burning taste. [B, 78, 93 (a, 14).]

PICEA (Lat.), n. f. Pi's(pi'k)-e'a'. Fr., picéa. A genus of coniferous trees often identified with Abies. [B, 245.]—P. alba. The white spruce found in America; sometimes used for the preparation of spruce beer. [B, 180, 245.]—P. excelsa. The common fir or pitch-pine found in Europe, Norway spruce; one of the sources of resin and turpentine. [B, 180, 245.]—P. nigra. The black spruce or double spruce of America; a variety furnishing spruce beer (q. v.). [B, 180, 245.]—P. orientalis. A species found in the Levant, the transparent resin of which is exported as sapindus-tears. [B, 180, 245.]—P. vulgaris. See P. excelsa.

PICEALIS (Lat.), adj. Pi's(pi'k)-e'a(a')/li's. From pic, pitch. Due to the action of tar (a. g., acne p.).

PICEOUS, adj. Pi's'e'z-u's. Lat., piceus. 1. Pitchy; containing pitch or tar. [B.] 2. Pitch-colored, reddish-black. [L, 206 (a, 37).]

PICHI (Sp.), n. Pe'che. See FABIANA imbricata.

PICHURIM, n. Pi'ch-u'ri'm. Ger., P. A South American lauraceous tree, not certainly identified. [a, 35.] See NECTANDRA pichuray.—P. bark. Lat., cortex p. Ger., P'rinde. An aromatic bark with the odor of saffron, formerly imported into Europe; probably derived from the Ocotea cymbarum. [B, 180, 367 (a, 35).]—P. camphor. A constituent of p. fat, identified by Gerhardt with laurel camphor. [B, 5 (a, 35).]—P. fat. A buttery matter found in p. beans; it contains laurin and p. camphor. [B, 5 (a, 35).]—P'stearic acid, P'talgäure (Ger.). See LAURIC acid.

PICOLINE, n. Pi'k'o'l-en. Fr., p. Ger., Picolin. A liquid alkaloid, C<sub>8</sub>H<sub>7</sub>N = C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>4</sub>(CH<sub>3</sub>)N, or methylpyridine, found in animal tar and coal tar; also prepared synthetically. [B, 2, 4, 119; B, 270 (a, 38).]

PICOLINIC ACID, n. Pi'k-o'l-i'n'i'k. A monobasic acid, C<sub>8</sub>H<sub>7</sub>NO<sub>2</sub> = C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>4</sub>N.COOH, prepared from picoline and from various pyridine derivatives. [B, 79.]

PICOTE (Fr.), n. Pe-kot. A popular term for small-pox.

PICOTEMENT (Fr.), n. Pe-kot-ma'n't. A pricking sensation, such as that felt in the skin at certain periods in typhoid fever. [D, 74.]

PICRÆNA (Lat.), n. f. Pi'k-re'(ra'z'e)-na'. From πικρός, bitter. A genus of the Simarubaceæ. [B, 42, 121 (a, 35).]—P. excelsa. Fr., quassier de la Jamaïque, frêne amer. Ger., Bitteresche, Bitterholzbaum. Sp., cuasia de Jamaica [Mex. Ph.]. Bitter ash, Jamaica quassia, picrena-wood; indigenous to Jamaica and the Caribbean Islands. Its wood is the quassia (2d def.) of the U. S. Ph. [B, 5, 19, 42, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

PICRAMIC ACID, n. Pi'k-ra'm'i'k. Fr., acide picramique. Ger., Pikraminsäure. A monobasic acid, C<sub>8</sub>H<sub>7</sub>(NO<sub>2</sub>)<sub>3</sub>(NH<sub>2</sub>).OH = C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>5</sub>NO<sub>2</sub>. [B, 3, 4 (a, 38).]

PICRAMIDE, n. Pi'k-ra'm-i'd(id). Ger., Pikramid. An amide of picric acid; trinitraniline. [B.]

PICRAMNIA (Lat.), n. f. Pi'k-ra'm(r'a'm)/ni'a'. From πικρός, bitter. Fr., picramnie. Ger., Bitterstrauch. Bitter-wood; a genus of the Simarubaceæ. The Picramniae are a tribe of the Simarubaceæ. [B, 42 (a, 35).] See also CASCARA amara.—P. antididyma. Fr., brésillet d'Amérique. Ger., langtraubiger Bitterstrauch. The macary-bitter of the West Indies, major-bitter-tree, old woman's bitter; a bitter tonic species growing in Jamaica and Hayti, where the bark of the root and stem and the leaves are used in colic, syphilis, etc. [B, 19, 173, 180 (a, 35).]

PICRANISIC ACID, n. Pi'k-ra'n-i's'i'k. Fr., acide picranisique. See PICRIC acid.

PICRASMA (Lat.), n. f. Pi'k-ra'z(r'a's)/ma'. A genus of the Simarubaceæ. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—P. javanica. A Javanese species; tonic, antidiarrhetic, and febrifuge. [B, 267 (a, 35).]

PICRATE, n. Pi'k'rat. Lat., picras. Fr., p. Ger., Pikrat. A salt of picric acid. [B.]

PICRIA (Lat.), n. f. Pi'k'ri'a'. Fr., picrie. 1. Of Loureiro, a genus of plants referred by Benthams and Hooker to Curanga. 2. Of Schreber, the genus Contoubea. [B, 42, 121 (a, 35).]—P. fei terra. Fr., picrie fiel de terre. Ger., Gallenkraut. Chinese earth-gall; a plant (differing little from Curanga amara) cultivated in China, where the bitter leaves are used as a tonic, aperient, diuretic, and sudorific, and in suppressed lochia, intermittent fever, etc. [B, 42, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

PICRIC ACID, n. Pi'k'ri'k. Lat., acidum picricum (from πικρός, bitter). Fr., acide picrique (Fr. Cod.). Ger., Pikrinsäure, Trinitrophenol, Bittersäure, Kohlenstickstoffsäure. Trinitrophenol; a poisonous substance, C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>2</sub>(NO<sub>2</sub>)<sub>3</sub>.OH = C<sub>6</sub>(NO<sub>2</sub>)<sub>3</sub>(NO<sub>2</sub>).OH, formed by the prolonged action of nitric acid on phenol, salicylic acid, etc. It forms pale-yellow shining prismatic and laminar or columnar crystals, of an intensely bitter taste, odorless, sparingly soluble in cold water, easily soluble in hot water, in alcohol, and in ether, forming salts that are explosive when heated, and compounds with many substances of the aromatic group. It melts at 122° C., and explodes when heated much above this point. Its administration causes a yellowness of the skin and conjunctiva like that of jaundice. It has been used in intermittent fever, trichiniasis, and helminthiasis, as a test for albumin in the urine, and as a reagent in microscopy. [B, 4, 5; L. Lewin (A, 319).]

PICRIS (Lat.), n. f. Pi'k'ri's. From πικρός, bitter. Fr., picride. Ger., Bitterkraut. A genus of the Cichoriaceæ. [B, 170 (a, 35).]—P. repens. Fr., picride rampante. A species the roots of which are used in China as a deobstruent and febrifuge. [B, 173 (a, 35).]

PICROACONITINE, n. Pi'k-ro-a'k-o'n'i't-en. An amorphous, bitter, and slightly poisonous base, C<sub>3</sub>H<sub>4</sub>NO<sub>10</sub>, obtained from the bulbs of Aconitum napellus. [B, 46, 93 (a, 14, 50).]

PICROBALLOTA (Lat.), n. n. pl. Pi'k-ro(ro')-ba'l(ba'l)-lo'ta'. A very bitter substance obtained from Ballota nigra and Leonurus lanatus. Its bitterness is destroyed by heat. [a, 35.]

PICROCARMINATE, PICROCARMIN, n's. Pi'k-ro-ka'r-m'i'n-at, -ka'r-m'i'n. Fr., p. A liquor obtained by mixing a solution of carmin in ammonia with a concentrated solution of picric acid; used as a staining agent in microscopy. [B, 93 (a, 14).]

PICROCHOLIA (Lat.), n. f. Pi'k-ro(ro')-kol'ch'o'li'i'a'. From πικρός, bitter, and χολή, bile. Fr., picrocholie. An old term for a severe bilious disorder. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PICROCYAMIC ACID, n. Pi'k-ro-si'a'm'i'k. See ISOCURPIC ACID.

PICROERYTHRIN, n. Pi'k-ro-e'r'i'th-r'i'n. Fr., picroérythrine. A colorless, crystalline, bitter substance, C<sub>12</sub>H<sub>14</sub>O<sub>5</sub> + 3H<sub>2</sub>O, occurring as silky prismatic crystals of slightly sweet and very bitter taste, exceedingly soluble in hot water, insoluble in absolute alcohol, and melting at 158° C. [B, 2, 3, 93 (a, 14, 38).]

PICROGLYCIN, PICROGLYCION, n's. Pi'k-ro-gli's'i'n, -gli's'i'-o'n. Fr., picroglycine. Ger., Bittersüss. A substance extracted from the stems of Solanum dulcamara. It forms small crystals of bitter-sweet taste, melting at a low heat. According to some chemists, it is merely impure solanine. [B, 38, 78, 93 (a, 14).]

PICROLICHENIN, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{k-ro-li}^2\text{ke}^2\text{n-i}^2\text{n}$ . A bitter crystallizable principle, of the probable formula  $\text{C}_{12}\text{H}_{20}\text{O}_8$ , found in Varidaria amara. [B, 46, 93, 270 (a, 14, 38, 50).]

PICROMEL (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{k-ro-me}^1\text{l}$ . Gen., -mel'lis, -mel'itos (-itis). From  $\mu\pi\kappa\rho\acute{o}\varsigma$ , bitter, and  $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\iota$ , honey. Fr., p. Ger., Gallen-süss, Bitterhonig. A mixture of impure taurocholates and glycocholates, having a bitter taste and a sweetish after-taste. [The-nard (A, 301).]

PICRONITRIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{k-ro-nit}^1\text{ri}^2\text{k}$ . See PICRIC ACID.

PICROTIN, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{k-ro}^2\text{t-i}^2\text{n}$ . See under PICROTOXIN.

PICROTOXIC, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{k-ro-to}^2\text{x'i}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., picrotoxicus. Fr., picrotoxique. Of salts, derived from picrotoxin as a base.—P. acid. Picrotoxin. [B, 38 (a, 14).]

PICROTOXIN, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{k-ro-to}^2\text{x'i}^2\text{n}$ . Lat., picrotoxinum [U. S. Ph.], picrotoxina [Fr. Cod.] (from  $\mu\pi\kappa\rho\acute{o}\varsigma$ , bitter, and  $\tau\omicron\chi\acute{o}\varsigma$ , poisonous). Fr., picrotoxine [Fr. Cod.]. Ger., P. Syn.: picrotoxic acid, cocculin. A very bitter principle,  $\text{C}_{30}\text{H}_{34}\text{O}_{13}$ , found in Cocculus indicus, of which it forms the active principle. In its pure state it occurs in colorless needles, generally grouped in stars. It acts on the nervous centres, and especially on the motor, inhibitory, and respiratory centres of the medulla oblongata, provoking epileptoid seizures and spasmodic dyspnoea and lessening of the heart action. It is used for the night-sweats of phthisis, and has been recommended as a cholagogue and as an antidote to morphine. Applied externally, it seems to be dangerous. Treated with 20 times its weight of benzene, it splits into picrotoxinin,  $\text{C}_{15}\text{H}_{16}\text{O}_6 + \text{H}_2\text{O}$ , a body forming bitter, very poisonous, colorless plates, fusible at  $201^\circ\text{C}$ , and picro-ro-tin,  $\text{C}_{15}\text{H}_{18}\text{O}_7$ , forming colorless non-poisonous needles, fusible at about  $245^\circ\text{C}$ . [B, 93 (a, 14), 270 (a, 38).]

PIMENTA (Lat.), n. f. Pl[ur]. Pim-e-nt-a-s. Fr., piment (2d def.), poivre de la Jamaïque (2d def.), toute-épice (2d def.), piment des Anglais (2d def.). Ger., Piment, Nelkenpfeffer (2d def.), Nelkenköpfe (2d def.), Neugewürz (2d def.), Pimentosamen (2d def.). Sp., pimienta gorda [Mex. Ph.]. Syn.: semen amomi (2d def.), piper jamaicense (2d def.), fructus pimentæ (2d def.). 1. A genus of very fragrant myrtaceous trees of tropical America. 2. Of the U. S. and Br. Ph's, allspice; the dried, nearly ripe aromatic fruit of P. officinalis, a berry of about the size of a small pea. The berries are called allspice on account of their odor, which is compared with that of a mixture of cloves, cinnamon, and nutmeg. They are rich in tannin, and contain also gum, resin, sugar, etc., a fixed oil, and a volatile oil (see Oleum pimentæ). P. is used as a culinary spice. In medicine it is employed mainly to increase the warmth of tonics and purgatives, or to render them more agreeable to the taste. A distilled water is used, and a tincture has been recommended as a topical application in chilblains. [B. 5, 18, 19, 112, 173, 180, 185 (a, 35).]—Aqua pimentæ [Br. Ph., Belg. Ph.]. Fr., eau de piment de la Jamaïque. A preparation made by distilling 14 parts of allspice with 320 of water so as to obtain 160 parts of distillate [Br. Chinese (or Japanese) pine, the maty of Japan; a resinous turpentine-yielding species. In China the young bud-cones are highly valued as a medicine. The roots, burned with oil of Brassica orientalis, furnish Chinese lampblack. [B. 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. monophylla. Stone-pine, California nut-pine. The large edible seeds have an almond-like taste. The wood is very resinous. [B. 314 (a, 35).]—P. montana. See P. pumilio.—P. nigricans. A European species referred by Koch to P. pinaster. It yields the products of P. silvestris. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. palustris. See P. pinaster.—P. picea. See ABIES picea.—P. pinaster. Fr., pin maritime (ou de Bordeaux, ou des landes), grand pin. Ger., Strandkiefer, Strandfichte. The cluster- (or star-, or sea-side) pine; a Mediterranean species furnishing terebinthina gallica or terebinthina burgundensis. [B. 5, 18, 19, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. pinea. Fr., pin à pignon (ou bon, ou cultivé, ou de pierre, ou pinier, ou pignon), pignet, pigne, pinier. Ger., Pinienkiefer, Pinie, Pinienfichte, Nusskiefer. The (Italian) stone-pine; common in countries bordering on the Mediterranean. The wood is resinous. The bark was used by the ancient Greeks as an astringent in ulcers and mucous discharges. The nut-like seeds of the cones were formerly used as a demulcent. [B. 5, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. pumilio. Fr., pin de Briançon, pin-suffis, pin d'Austriche, pin naïm. Ger., Zwerg-Kiefer, Krummholz, Knieholz. The upright-coned mountain- (or knee-) pine; a recumbent bush closely allied to P. silvestris; found on the Alps and the Carpathians. It yields Krummholz oil (which is used as an external application in bruises, sprains, rheumatism, etc.) and Hungarian balsam. [B. 5, 77, 121, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. pungens. Table-mountain pine. A turpentine-yielding species. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. resinosa. The red pine of North America, rich in resin. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. rigida. Fr., pin hérissé (ou rude). Ger., Starkkiefer. The pitch- (or sap-) pine of the northern United States. It yields large quantities of pitch and tar. It will flourish in salt-marshes, and is recommended by von Müller for subduing miasmata. [B. 5, 77, 314 (a, 35).]—P. sabiana. The California nut- (or white-) pine, Digger pine. The seeds are used by the Digger Indians as food. Its resin yields abietene on distillation. [B. 5, 77, 314 (a, 35).]—P. serotina. The fox-tail (or pond-) pine growing in the southern United States. It is of value for protection against malaria in swamps. [B. 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. silvestris. Fr., pin d'Ecosse, pin de Russie (ou de mâture, ou de Norvège, ou du Nord, ou commun, ou suisse, ou sauvage). Ger., gemeine Kiefer, Föhre, gemeine Fichte. Birk apples, Scotch fir (or pine); a tree of middle and northern Europe and northern Asia; a source of pitch, tar, and turpentine. An essential oil, obtained by distillation from the leaves, is used in medicine (see Pine-needle oil). The young cones, which are balsamic and have a bitter resinous taste, are used in decoction in atony of the digestive organs, dropsy, rheumatism, syphilis, skin diseases, etc., either externally or internally. The sweet, mucilaginous sap beneath the bark is used as a vermifuge and antiscorbutic, and in skin and pectoral complaints. The resin is substituted for Burgundy pitch. [B. 5, 18, 19, 77, 173, 180, 185, 314 (a, 35).]—P. strobus. The pumpkin pine of Canada and the Weymouth (or white) pine of North America. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. tæda. Fr., pin tæda (ou de l'encens), pin raide. Ger., Weihrauchkiefer. The loblolly- (or frankincense-, or old field-, or rosemary-, or slash-, or swamp-) pine; a North American species which yields turpentine of somewhat inferior quality. The resin hardening on the trunk in cold weather resembles olibanum. [B. 5, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. pini [Dan. Ph., Norw. Ph., Swed. Ph.]. See PITCH.—Pyroleum pini [Dan. Ph., Norw. PIPER (Lat.), n. n. Pip(p'i'p'u't'r) (e't'r). Gen., pip'eris. Gr., πῖπερις, πῖπερις, πῖπερις. Fr., poivrier (1st def.), poivre (2d def.), poivre noir (ou commun) [2d def.]. Ger., Pfeffer (1st def.), schwarzer Pfeffer (2d def.). 1. A genus of the Piperaceæ (Fr., piperacées; Ger., Piperaceen), which are an order of the Piperales (see under PIPERAL). They are herbs, shrubs, or rarely trees, often with stimulant and aromatic qualities. The Piperacæ (Fr., pépéracées), or true peppers, include P. Zippelia, and other genera. They contain an acrid resin, an aromatic volatile oil, and a crystallizable principle, piperine, chiefly present in the root and fruit. 2. Of the U. S. Ph. the unripe fruit of P. nigrum. Black peppers are berry-like fruits having an aromatic smell and a hot, pungent taste. They contain piperine, a resin, an essential oil isomeric with oil of turpentine, gum, starch, lignin, etc. Black pepper is carminative and stimulant, but is used chiefly as a condiment. [B. 5, 18, 42, 121, 168, 170, 180, 185 (a, 35).]—Baccæ piperis. See P. (2d def.).—Confectio piperis [Fr. Ph.]. Electuarium piperis. Fr., confection (ou électuaire) de poivre. Ger., Pfefferlatwerge. A mixture of 2 parts of black pepper, 3 of caraway fruit, and 15 of clarified honey. [B. 81 (a, 21).]—Essentia piperis. See Tinctura piperis.—Essentia piperis cubebæ [Belg. Ph.]. A solution of 1 part of oleoresin of cubeb in 3 parts of 29-per-cent. alcohol. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Extractum piperis. See Oleo-resina piperis.—Fructus piperis [Belg. Ph.]. See P. (2d def.).—Fructus piperis nigri pulveratus [Fr. Cod.]. Black pepper dried, powdered, and sifted. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Herba piperidis. The leaves of Lepidium latifolium. [B. 180.]—Oleo-resina piperis [U. S. Ph.]. A preparation made by extracting 100 parts of black pepper in No. 60 powder with ether until 150 parts of liquid are obtained, distilling, evaporating off the ether until no further precipitation of piperine crystals takes place, and pressing the liquid through a muslin strainer. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—P. Afzelii. A tropical African species. Its red fruits constitute African cubebæ (q. v.). [B. 5, 18 (a, 35).]—P. album [Belg. Ph., Ger. Ph.]. See White pepper.—P. amalago. Fr., poivrier amalago. Ger., Amalago-Pfeffer. A Jamaica species. The fruits are used as a condiment like black pepper, the leaves and young branches as a discutient, and the root as a diuretic and diaphoretic. [B. 168, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. angustifolium. See ARTANTE elongata.—P. anisatum. Ger., anisartiger Pfeffer. A species growing on the Orinoco. The fruits and leaves are used in flatulent colic, etc., also in clysters and as a wash for ulcers. [B. 5, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. arborescens. Ger., baumartiger Pfeffer. A climbing shrub of the Moluccas and Java. The bark is pungent and caustic, and is used externally in rheumatism and gout, and internally in constipation. The leaves, bruised, are applied in headache. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. betel. Fr., bétel. Ger., Betelpfeffer. Beng., pan. Mal., vetta. Syn.: Chavica betel. Betel (or betle) leaf (or pepper); a climbing shrubby species growing wild in Java and cultivated in the East Indies for its leaf, which the natives use as a masticatory and digestive stimulant. It is used in combination with the areca-nut and chunam, or with camphor and other aromatics, and also with a mixture of quicklime. The juice is considered stomachic. According to Elliott, it sometimes produces a species of cancer, the betel-chewer's cancer. The leaves, warmed and smeared with oil, are applied over the chest in pulmonary affections and congestion of the liver and as a solvent in glandular swellings. The juice of the leaves is used as a febrifuge, and in Java as a pectoral. [B. 5, 18, 172, 173, 180, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—P. brasiliense. Brazilian pepper; the fruit of Capsicum annuum. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. caninum. Ger., Hundspfeffer. A species widely dispersed throughout the Malay Archipelago, sometimes confounded with P. cubeba. Its fruits are smaller than true cubebæ. [B. 18, 180 (a, 35).]—P. capense. Fr., poivrier du Cap, poivre à queue. A Cape-of-Good-Hope species, used as a stomachic. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. carpuia. P. carpuia. A Peruvian species. The leaves and fruit are used as a digestive. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. caudatum. Fr., cubèbe de Bourbon (1st def.), poivre à queue (1st def.). Ger., geschwånster Pfeffer (1st def.). 1. A species found in Brazil, Guiana, etc. The root is used as a diuretic and sudorific, and, together with the leaves, in baths for inflammatory swellings, etc. 2. Cubeb. [B. 5, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. chaba. Ger., Chaba-Pfeffer. An East Indian species. The fruit-spikes are used like p. longum. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. churumaya. Ger., Churumaya-Pfeffer. A Peruvian species. The leaves are used as a digestive. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. citrifolium. A Brazil and Guiana species; one of the plants used in Brazil under the name jaborandi. [B. 5, 18, 173,

PIPERIS (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{p}^{\text{e}^2\text{r}^1\text{id}}\text{s}$ . Gen., -per'idios (-idis). Gr., πίπερις. See PIPER.—Diatrion piperidon. Gr., διὰ τριῶν πίπεριδων. An old preparation made from three species of Piper (longum, album, and nigrum). [A, 325 (a, 21).]

PIPETTE, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{p}^{\text{e}^2\text{t}}$ . Fr., P. A glass tube or narrow vessel, with or without expanded portions, graduated or not, open at both ends, generally drawn out to a moderately small size at one end, used in chemical manipulations for conveying definite quantities of liquids.

PIPITZAHIC ACID, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{p}^{\text{id}}\text{ts}^2\text{a}^2\text{ho}^2\text{id}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., acide pipitzahique. A hydroxyquinone,  $\text{C}_{12}\text{H}_{10}\text{O}_5 = \text{C}_6\text{H}_3\text{O}_3(\text{C}_6\text{H}_5)$ , obtained from the root of the Triria fruticosa. [B, 3, 93, 270 (a, 14, 38); J. M. Maisch, "Am. Jour. of Pharm.," Feb., 1886, p. 72.]

PIRIFORM, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{p}^{\text{id}}\text{r}^1\text{f}^1\text{o}^2\text{rm}$ . Lat., piriformis. Fr., piriforme. See PYRIFORM.

PIRUS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{r}^1(\text{pi}^2\text{r}^1)/\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})$ . See PYRUS.

PISCIDIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{si}^2\text{id}^2\text{d}^2(\text{k}^2\text{id}^2\text{d})/\text{i}^2\text{a}^2$ . From piscis, a fish, and cavere, to slay. 1. A genus of leguminous trees, scarcely different from Loucheocarpus. [B, 42, 121 (a, 35).] 2. The root-bark of P. erythrina. [a, 48].—Extractum piscidia fluidum. A fluid extract made by treating p. in a percolator with a mixture of 3 parts of alcohol and 1 part of water. [B, 81 (a, 38).]—P. carthagenensis. Fr., p. de Carthage, bois à enivrer. Black dogwood, Jamaican bitch-wood. The branches and leaves are used to stupefy fish. A tincture of the root-bark is used for odontalgia. [B, 19, 173, 275 (a, 35).]—P. erythrina. Fr., bois à enivrer (ou de chien, enivrant). Ger., jamaikanischer Kornelkirschbaum, Hundsheerbaum. Jamaican white dogwood, fish-poison tree. The leaves, twigs, and root-bark have long been used to stupefy fish. The root-bark is narcotic, diaphoretic, and laxative, and is recommended in neuralgia, insomnia, whooping-cough, etc. It contains piscidin. [B, 5, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

PISCIDIN, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{s}/\text{si}^2\text{d}/\text{i}^2\text{n}$ . The active principle of Piscidia erythrina. It crystallizes in nearly colorless prisms, and has probably the formula  $\text{C}_{20}\text{H}_{24}\text{O}_8$ . It acts as a paralyzing agent on the sensory ganglia of the spinal cord, as an excitant of its motor centres, and as a cardiac depressant. [B; J, 270 (a, 38).]

PISIFORM, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{s}/\text{i}^2\text{fo}^2\text{rm}$ . Lat., pisiformis (from pisum, a pea, and forma, form). Fr., pisiforme. Ger., erbsenformig. Shaped like a pea. [C.]

PISI-PHALANGIEN (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}-ze-fa^2\text{-la}^2\text{n}^2\text{-zhe-a}^2\text{n}^2$ . See ABDUCTOR minimi digiti manus.

PISO (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pi}(\text{pe})/\text{so}$ . Gen., -on/is. A mortar. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PISO-HAMATUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pi}(\text{pi}^2\text{s})-\text{o}(\text{o}^2)-\text{ha}^2\text{m}(\text{ha}^2\text{m})-\text{at}$  ( $\text{a}^2\text{t}/\text{u}^2\text{s}/\text{u}^2\text{s}$ ). An anomalous muscle arising from the hooked process of the unciform bone and inserted into the pisiform bone. [Gruber, Virchow's "Arch.," Oct., 1881 (L).]

PISONIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pes-on}^2/\text{i}^2-\text{a}^2$ . From Pison, a traveler in Brazil. Fr., pisonie. A genus of the Pisonieae, which are a tribe of the Nyctagineae. [B, 42, 121 (a, 35).]—P. aculeata. The cockspur of the West Indies, used in gonorrhoea. [B, 19, 180, 314 (a, 35).]—P. fragrans. Fr., p. éclatant. A West Indian emetic species. [B, 19, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. morindifolia. The lettuce-tree of India; the leaves are used in elephantiasis. [A, 479 (a, 50).]

PISSASPHALT, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{s}-\text{a}^2\text{s}-\text{fa}^2\text{lt}$ . Gr., πίσασφαλτος (from πίσσα, pitch, and ἀσφαλτος, bitumen). Lat., piassasphaltum, piassasphaltus. Fr., piassasphalte. 1. See MALTHA. 2. Barbadoes petroleum. 3. Asphalt. [B, 307, 310 (a, 35).]

PISSÆLÆUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{s}-\text{se}^2\text{l}-\text{e}^2/(\text{e}^2/\text{e}^2)-\text{u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . Gr., πίσσελαιον (from πίσσα, pitch, and ἐλαιον, oil). Fr., piissélæon. Written also, but less correctly, piissæleum and piissæleon. 1. Of Dioscorides, see CEDRIA (1st def.). 2. An obsolete medicament compounded of oil and pitch. 3. Tar. 4. Oil of tar. 5. Asphalt oil. [B, 114, 121, 173, 307, 310 (a, 35).]

PISSENLIT (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pe}-\text{sa-n}^2/\text{i}^2-\text{le}$ . The Taraxacum dens-leonis; of the Fr. Cod., its leaves or root (see TARAXACUM [2d def.]). [B, 18, 95, 173 (a, 35, 38).]—Extrait de p. (feuille) [Fr. PISSEROS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{s}-\text{ser}(\text{sar})/\text{o}^2\text{s}$ . Gr., πίσσηρός. See CERATUM RESINÆ.

PISSITES (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{s}-\text{sit}(\text{set})/\text{ez}(\text{as})$ . Gen., -it/u(-æ). Gr., πίσσιτης. Fr., pissile. Ger., Pechwein. Wine flavored with pitch. [L, 41, 50 (a, 14).]

PISSOCOPIY, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{s}-\text{o}^2\text{k}/\text{op}-\text{i}^2$ . Gr., πίσσοκοπία (from πίσσα, pitch, and κόπτειν, to strike). Lat., piissocopia. Fr., piissocope. 1. The process of smearing with pitch. 2. Epilation by means of a pitch-plaster. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PISTACHE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{s}-\text{ta}^2\text{sh}$ . Of the Fr. Cod., see PISTACIA nuts.—Émulsion de p. [Fr. Cod.]. An emulsion consisting of 1 part each of pistacia nuts and white sugar and 20 of water. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Huile de p. de terre. See Oleum ARACHIS.—Noix de p. See PISTACIA nuts.

PISTACIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{st}-\text{a}^2(\text{a}^2)/\text{si}^2(\text{ki}^2)-\text{a}^2$ . Gr., πιστιάκία. Fr., pistachier. Ger., Pistacie. A genus of anacardiaceous trees or shrubs; in the pl., pistacie, p. nuts. The Pistacie of Adanson are a family of plants including Copaiba, Borbonia, Elemi, Fraxinella, Rhus, and other genera yielding balsamic or resinous products. The Pistacie (Fr., pistaciées) of Reichenbach are a section of the Sumachine comprising P. Schinus, and other genera of the Anacardiaceae. [B, 42, 121, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. cabulica. A form of P. terebinthus, growing in Beloochistan and Afghanistan; one of the sources of East Indian mastic. [B, 18, 77 (a, 35).]—P. lentiscus. Fr., pistachier lentisque. Ger., Mastic-Pistacie. Masticbaum. Common mastic-tree, indigenous to the shores of the Mediterranean. Its sap constitutes, after hardening, the mastic of commerce. This species was known as schinus (oxyvos) to the ancients, who used the wood, leaves, fruit, and root medicinally. The wood, lignum lentisci (seu lentiscinum, seu masticchia), was formerly used as a hæmostatic and astringent. [B, 5, 18, 19, 173, 180, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—P. nuts. Lat., pistacie, nucæ (seu fructus, seu semina, seu nucule, seu nuclei) pistacie (veræ), amygdalæ virides. Fr.,

pistaches [Fr. Cod.], noix de pistache. Ger., Pistacien, Pistacien-Nüsse, Pimpernüsse, syriache (oder welsche, oder levantische, oder grüne) Pimpernüsse. The edible cotyledons of the fruit of P. vera. The fruits themselves (which are also called p. nuts) are oblong drupes somewhat larger than olives, with a brittle shell containing the cotyledons. These have a greenish color and agreeable taste, and are much used as food, either dried like almonds or made into confections, etc. They contain sugar, and a fixed oil obtained from them by expression, and are a mild demulcent. They are official in the Fr. Cod. for catarrhal and pectoral complaints, but, as they readily turn rancid, are not much employed medicinally. Their oil is used in southern Europe as a cosmetic. [B, 19, 121, 173, 180, 185, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. terebinthus. Fr., pistachier térébinthe. Ger., Terpentin-Pistacie. Sp., cornicabra. Terebith or turpentine tree; a species common in the Mediterranean regions. Its resinous juice, according to Unger and Marchand, forms Chian turpentine. The bark, which is aromatic and serves as incense, and the leaves were formerly used in passive hæmorrhage, dysentery, etc. The fruits have an agreeable taste, and are eaten, though considered by Dioscorides as unwholesome. The branches of the tree are liable to the attacks of a species of insect which produces a gall or horn-like follicle, formerly used in dyeing and tanning as well as medicinally, and still used in pectoral and asthmatic affections. [B, 5, 18, 19, 173, 180, 185, 314 (a, 35).]—P. vera. Fr., pistachier [Fr. Cod.] (cultive, ou franc). Ger., wahre (oder ächte) Pistacie, Pimpernuss. Sp., alfonsigo, pistacho. It., pistacchio. Ar., jisuc. The p. (or pistachio) nut tree; a species indigenous to Western Asia and extensively cultivated in Mediterranean countries for its edible seeds or cotyledons and its aromatic bark (see P. nuts). [a, 35.]

PISTIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{st}/\text{i}^2-\text{a}^2$ . From πιστός, drinking. Fr., p. pistie. A genus of the Aroidæ. The Pistiacæ (Fr., pistiacées; Ger., Pisticeenæ) are: Of Humboldt, Bonpland, and Kunth, a section of the Aroidæ; of Lindley, the Lemnaceæ (in part). The Pistiacæ are: Of Reichenbach, a division of the Araceæ; of Bentham and Hooker, a subtribe of the Ariceæ. [B, 19, 42, 121, 173 (a, 35).]—P. stratiotes. Ger., schwimmende Muschelblume. Mal., coda-pail. Tam., agatamaray. Tropical duckweed, water-lettuce; a stemless floating herb common in warm countries, and, according to Browne, affecting drinking-water in Jamaica so as to cause dysentery. It is the σπαργώτης of the ancients, who used it as a vulnerary and in hæmaturia. The leaves are demulcent and refrigerant, and in the East Indies are used as a pectoral, in dysuria, dysentery etc., and externally in hæmorrhoids. The root is emollient and laxative. [B, 19, 34, 42, 172, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

PISTIL, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{st}/\text{i}^2\text{l}$ . Lat., pistillum. Fr., p. Ger., Pistill, Stempel. 1. The modified leaf or leaves (carpels) bearing the ovules. It consists in its perfect form of an ovary, a style, and a stigma. 2. Of Tournefort and others, the p's of a flower considered as a whole. [B, 1, 19, 123, 291 (a, 35).]—Angiospermous p. A p. forming a closed sac which envelops the ovules, as in most flowering plants. [B, 291 (a, 35).]—Compound p. A p. composed of several leaves (carpels) coalescent into one body. [B, 291 (a, 35).]—Gymnospermous p. A p. consisting of an open scale or leaf which does not inclose the ovules, which it bears. [B, 291 (a, 35).]

PISTILLATE, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{st}/\text{i}^2\text{l}-\text{at}$ . Lat., pistillatus. Fr., fe-melle. Ger., weiblich. Of a flower, female; having pistils but no stamens. The term is also, less correctly, applied to a flower with a pistil when the stamen is present. [B, 1, 77, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

PISTILLIDIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{st}-\text{i}^2\text{l}-\text{id}/\text{id}^2-\text{u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . Dim. of pistillum, a pistil. An organ in a cryptogamic plant having the apparent function of a pistil (e. g., an archegone). [B, 19, 77, 308 (a, 35).]

PISTILLIFEROUS, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{st}-\text{i}^2\text{l}-\text{id}^2/\text{e}^2\text{r}-\text{u}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., pistillifer-us. See PISTILLATE.

PISTILLUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{st}-\text{i}^2\text{l}/\text{lu}^2\text{m}(\text{lu}^2\text{m})$ . 1. A pestle. 2. See PISTIL.

PISTYAN, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{st}/\text{i}^2-\text{a}^2\text{n}$ . Written also Pistyani, Poesthéng. A place in Neutra County, Hungary, where there are gaseous, sulphurous, and saline springs, with bathing establishments. [L, 49, 37 (a, 14); "Brit. Med. Jour.," May 5, 1888, p. 945 (a, 50).]

PISUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}(\text{pi}^2\text{s})/\text{u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . Gr., πίσων, πίσος. Fr., pois. Ger., Erbsen. The pea; a genus of leguminous plants of the Viciæ. [B, 19, 34, 42 (a, 35).]—P. arvense. Fr., pois de champs. A species indigenous to either southern Europe or western Asia. It has the uses of P. sativum. [B, 42, 180 (a, 35).]—P. sativum. The common garden pea, of which there are numerous varieties in cultivation. The farinaceous edible seeds, semini pisi, were formerly used in medicine. [B, 19, 42, 173, 180 (a, 35).]

PIT, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}$ . See FOSSA, HOLLOW, and DEPRESSION.—Nasal p's, Olfactory p's. Two small depressions on the anterior cerebral vesicle, from which the nasal fossæ develop. [L, 142.]—P. of the stomach. 1. See INFRASTERNAL DEPRESSION. 2. See ANTICARDIAC.—Stomach p's. Ger., Magenrübchen. The openings or mouths of the gastric tubules seen in the mucous surface of the stomach; also called stomach-cells and stomach-ducts. [J.]—Sub-orbital p. Fr., larmier. A sebaceous gland beneath the eyes of all true deer, secreting a waxy odoriferous substance. [L, 300.]—Tear-p. See LACRYMAL SINUS.

PIT, v. intr.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}$ . To be or become marked with a pit or shallow depression; to p. on pressure is to preserve for a short time a depression made by pressure of short duration, as with the tip of the finger. [a, 48.]

PITAYINE, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t-a'en}$ . An alkaloid contained in some varieties of cinchona-bark. [B. 14.]

PITCH, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{ch}$ . A-S, pic. Gr., πίττα. Lat., pix. Fr., poix, goudron. Ger., Pech. The substance left behind in the distillation of tar. It is a shiny, black, solid substance which, on the application of moderate heat, becomes viscous and adhesive. It consists of fixed resin and volatile resinous principles. It was formerly official in the Br. Ph. as pix (pic nigra or pic arida). [B. 5.]

Artificial Burgundy p. A factitious product, devoid of the fragrance of Burgundy p., made by melting together p., rosin, and turpentine, or rosin and palm-oil or some other fat, and agitating the mixture with water to give it the necessary opaqueness. According to Hanbury, if treated with twice its weight of glacial acetic acid, it forms a turbid mixture, instead of dissolving like Burgundy p., and the oil soon forms a distinct layer above the other constituents. [B. 5, 18 (a, 35).] Cf. Poix blanche (2d def.).—Black p. Lat., pic nigra (Belg. Ph., Gr. Ph.) (seu sicca, seu solida [Netherl. Ph., Russ. Ph.], seu navalis [Ger. Ph., 1st ed.]). Fr., poix noire (ou navale). Ger., Schiffspech, Schusterpech, schwarzes Pech. See P. [B. 18 (a, 35).]—Burgundy p. Lat., pix burgundica [U. S. Ph. Br. Ph. Belg. Ph., Swiss Ph., Hung. Ph. (2d ed.)] (seu abietina). Fr., poix blanche (ou de Bourgogne, ou des Vosges, ou grasse, ou jaune [Fr. Cod.]). Ger., Fichtenharz, Tannenharz, burgundisches Pech. Sp., pez de Borgoña [Mex. Ph.]. Of the U. S. Ph. and Br. Ph., the prepared resin of Abies excelsa. In commerce the term includes the prepared turpentines of various other coniferous trees. When pure, it is a somewhat opaque, yellowish-brown, aromatic, strongly adhesive substance, differing from turpentine chiefly in its smaller proportion of volatile oil. It is very soluble in glacial acetic acid, in water, in absolute alcohol, and even in 75-per-cent. alcohol, but considerably less soluble when it contains water and essential oil. It breaks with a clear conchoidal fracture, and when cold is brittle and hard, yet eventually assumes the form of the vessel in which it is kept. It is used in the form of plaster as a mild rubefacient. [B. 5, 18 (a, 35).] "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc., xxvi, p. 324 (a, 50)."—Burgundy p. plaster. See Emplastrum picis (under Pix).—Canada p. Lat., pic canadensis [U. S. Ph.]. Hemlock p., the prepared resin of Abies canadensis; a hard, brittle, reddish-brown, opaque, nearly tasteless substance of a weak peculiar odor. It contains but a minute percentage of volatile oil. It is used like Burgundy p., but softens at a much lower temperature. [B. 5 (a, 35).]—Canada p. plaster. Hemlock p. plaster. See Emplastrum picis canadensis (under Pix).—Irritant p. plaster. See Emplastrum picis irritans (under Pix).—Jew's p. Mineral p. See ASPHALT.—P. plaster. See Emplastrum picis (under Pix).—Yellow p. Gallipot or barras purified by melting and straining. [B. 180 (a, 35).]

PITH, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{th}$ . A-S, piða. The medulla, or central portion of the stem of a plant. It consists chiefly of soft thin-walled cells, which become dry and light after the growing period. [B. 229 (a, 35).]—Hair p. See HAIR p.

PITHECOLOMIA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{th-e}^2\text{k(ak)-o(ə)-lob(ləb)l}^2\text{u}^2\text{m}^2\text{m}^2$ . From πίθος, an ape, and λόβος, a little lobe. A genus of leguminous shrubs or trees of the Leguv. They are astringent. [B. 42, 267 (a, 35).]—P. avaremotemo. The brincos de sahoim of the Brazilians; a species with a highly astringent bark forming one variety of barbatimao bark. [B. 121, 267 (a, 35).]—P. bigeminum. Soap-bark tree; a Malabar species. The bark and leaves are used in baldness, leprosy, and various skin diseases. [B. 42, 173, 180, 185 (a, 35).]—P. cyclocarpum. A species closely allied to, if not identical with, P. bigeminum. The fruit contains a fatty, sticky pulp, used in Caracas as a substitute for soap. [B. 19, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. dulce. The manilla tamarind-tree. It has an edible fruit. [a, 35].—P. latifolium. A broad-leaved, crimson-flowered species found in Jamaica and Trinidad.—P. saman. The Genisaro-tree, rain-tree of Venezuela and Brazil. The pods are edible. [B. 19, 275 (a, 35).]—P. unguis-cat. Black-head-shrub, cat's-claw; a tropical American species. The fruit is edible, and the juice of its seeds produces an abundant secretion of nasal mucus. The bark is used, in powder or in decoction, to heal ulcers, as a febrifuge, and in catarrhal disorders. [J. M. Muiseh, "Am. Jour. of Pharm.," Dec., 1885, p. 601; B. 19, 173, 180, 267, 275 (a, 35).]

PITTACIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t-tas}^2\text{t}^2\text{ky}^2\text{l}^2\text{u}^2\text{m}^2\text{m}^2$ . Gr., πίττακος (from πίττα, pitch). A pitch-plaster. [L. 50 (a, 14).]

PITTED, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{ed}$ . Having numerous shallow depressions or pits. [B. 19, 308 (a, 35).]

PITTING, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{p}^2\text{it}^2$ . The formation of pits. [a, 48.]

PITTIOSPORAL, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{-o}^2\text{sp}^2\text{-o}^2\text{r}^2\text{l}$ . Lat., pittiosporalis. Belonging to the Pittiosporales, which are Lindley's p. alliance (Lat., genus pittiosporalis of the Alismaceae, consisting of the Vitis, Pittiospora, etc. [B. 170 (a, 35).]

PITTIOSPORUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{-to}^2\text{sp}^2\text{-o}^2\text{r}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}^2\text{m}^2$ . From πίττα, pitch, and σπόρος, a seed. Fr., pittiospore. A genus of evergreen shrubs. The Pittiosporaceae (Fr., pittiosporaceae or Pittiosporae [Fr., pittiosporaceae) are an order of syncarpous thalamiflorous dicotyledonous plants having bitter, aromatic, and resinous properties. The fruits, though edible in a few species, have usually an austere, disagreeable flavor. [B. 19, 34, 42, 104, 121, 170 (a, 35).]—P. semina. Fr., bois de joli-cœur. A species found in the Isle of France, where the root is used in gonorrhœa. [B. 173 (a, 35); B. 192.]

PITTOTA (Lat.), n. n. pl.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t-to}^2\text{ta}^2$ . Gr., πίττατά (from πίττα, pitch). Old writers, medicines prepared with pitch. [A. 325 (a, 48).]

PITUITA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{(pet)-u}^2\text{n}^2\text{(a)-i}^2\text{(e)-ta}^2$ . Fr., pituïte. Phlegm, mucus. [K.]—P. alba. Anasarca. [L. 53.]

PITUITARY, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t-u}^2\text{t}^2\text{-a-r}^2\text{i}^2$ . From pituïta, phlegm or mucus. Pertaining to or secreting mucus. [a, 48.]

PITUITE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{-tu}^2\text{it}$ . 1. See PITUITA. 2. Catarrhal gastritis characterized by the vomiting of glairy matter. [D. 72.]

PITUITOUS, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{-u}^2\text{t}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}$ . From pituïta, phlegm. Fr., pituïteux. Containing or secreting mucus. [a, 48.]

PITURI, n. An Australian drug chewed by the natives; said to contain nicotine. [B. 8.]

PITURINE, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t-u}^2\text{r-en}$ . An alkaloid found by Gerrard in Duboisia Hopwoodii; a colorless oil, probably identical with nicotine. [B. 270 (a, 38).]

PITYIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{(i)u}^2\text{(s)-i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -yidos (-idis). Gr., πίτις. A pine-cone or its kernel (nut). [B. 114, 115, 121 (a, 35).]

PITYRIASIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{-i}^2\text{r}^2\text{(u}^2\text{r)-i}^2\text{-as}^2\text{(a)s}^2\text{/i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -as'eos (-ia's). Gr., πιτυρίασις (from πίτυρον, bran). Fr., herpes furfuraceus volatil, dartre furfuracée (ou farineuse), teigne furfuracée. Ger., Kleinausschlag, Kleiengrind. Exfoliation of the skin in the form of branny scales; formerly (and by some still) regarded as an independent disease, but now by most dermatologists considered only as a secondary condition incident to various cutaneous diseases. [G.]—Hebra's p. Chronic p. rubra. ["Un. méd. et sci. du Nord-Est." "Province méd.," Oct. 6, 1888, p. 577.]—P. acnéique. Of Bazin, p. characterized by the appearance of "a series of true acne-pustules, situated at the base of the hairs" at the circumference of scaling patches. [G.]—P. alba of the external ear. A rare mycosis of the external auditory canal sometimes attending p. capitis. [E.]—P. alba parasitaria (Fr.). The scaling stage of trinea trichophytia. [G. 26.]—P. cachecticoorum. See SEBORRHOEA.—P. capillitia, Fr., teigne, teigne furfuracée, crasse de la tête. Ger., Kopfschabe. P. of the scalp or head; dandruff. [G.] Cf. SEBORRHOEA.—P. chronique et circonscrite (Fr.). Of Bazin, a chronic circumscribed form of p., essentially identical in character with seborrhœa sicca. [G.]—P. circinata. Of Horand, see P. rosea.—P. circinata et marginata. A parasitic disease of the skin characterized by rose-colored or pale-brown patches on the trunk and extremities and in the axillæ. [Vidal, "Proc. of the Internat. Med. Cong.," 1881, iii, p. 167 (G).]—P. essentialis. Idiopathic p., p. rubra. [G.]—P. gravidarum. See CHLOASMA gravidarum.—P. indica. See P. nigra.—P. infantilis. P. of infants; according to Fuchs, an eruption affecting infants, attended not only with desquamation but also with vesicles, erosions, and moist exudation; probably eczema. [G. 5.]—P. inflammatoire (Fr.). Of Bazin, a chronic circumscribed form of p. occupying hairy parts of the body, and attended with a copious production of large adherent scales on a reddened surface. [G.] Cf. SEBORRHOEA congestiva.—P. maculata et circinata. Fr., p. rubra aiguë, p. maculée et circonscrite. Of Bazin, a form of p. described as "pseudo-exanthématique arthritique," characterized by red or rose-colored spots that coalesce to form either large patches or rings, and attended with furfuraceous desquamation. [G.] Cf. P. rosea and ROSEOLA furfuracea herpetiformis.—P. nigra. Fr., éphélide scorbutique. 1. See MELASMA. 2. Of Willan, a cutaneous affection observed in children born in India and afterward brought to England. It "commenced in a partial papulation of the skin, and terminated in a black discoloration with slight furfuraceous exfoliations." According to Rayer, p. is frequently associated with pellagra. 3. Of Bazin, a parasitic affection, p. versicolor of a darker color than usual. [G. 10, 15.]—P. rosea. 1. An acute inflammatory disease of the skin characterized by an eruption of pale-red or rose-colored scaly patches and rings. A macular form (p. maculata) and a circinate form (p. circinata) have been described. The macular form, which is the one first described by Gibert, occurs in rose-colored papules or in small reddish patches slightly scaling and but little elevated above the surrounding skin, appearing most commonly upon the neck or trunk and thence spreading. The circinate form represents a later stage of the disease, in which the patches, extending at the periphery, leave a smooth fawn-colored centre, with red and scaling borders. ["N. Y. Méd. Jour.," Dec. 24, 1887, p. 724, and Mar. 8, 1890, p. 278 (a, 17); G. 25.] 2. Cf. HERPES tonsurans maculosus, P. maculata et circinata, and P. circinata et marginata.—P. rubra. Ger., Rothkleie, rothe Kleinflechte. 1. A disease characterized by intense hyperæmia of the skin attended by very copious exfoliation of the epidermis. The affection may continue for years, producing atrophy and contractions of the skin and general marasmus. Many authors make a distinction between the p. rubra of Hebra, that arises independently of any antecedent cutaneous affections, such as psoriasis, and tends to a very protracted course with atrophy of the skin, and other less severe forms of disease that have been described under the name of exfoliativa dermatitis. 2. Of Bazin, p. inflammatoire. 3. A hyperæmic condition of the skin which sometimes follows eczema. [G.] 4. See P. maculata et circinata.—P. rubra pilaris. See LIENIS ruber.—P. senilis. P. of the aged. Of the older writers as generally used, eczema. [G.]—P. simplex. Fr., p. simple. P. not attended with hyperæmia or redness. The term is used to distinguish the simpler forms of p. (such as p. capitis, etc.) from p. rubra and p. versicolor. [G.]—P. tuberculentum. Seborrhœa. [G.]—P. versicolor. Ger., Kleinflechte. 1. An old name for certain forms of chromotosis. 2. More recently, dermatomycosis furfuracea.—P. vulgaris. See P. simplex.

PITYRISMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{-i}^2\text{r}^2\text{(u}^2\text{r)-i}^2\text{-s}^2\text{(i)s}^2\text{/ma}^2$ . Gen., -ia-matos (-atis). See PITYRIASIS.

PITYROID, adj.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{-i}^2\text{r-oid}$ . Gr., πιτυροειδής (from πίτυρον, bran, and είδος, resemblance). Lat., pityroides, pityrudes. Fr., pitryeux. Ger., kleienartig. Furfuraceous. [G. 30.]

PITYRON (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{t}^2\text{-ir}^2\text{(u}^2\text{r)-o}^2\text{n}$ . Gr., πίτυρον. 1. Bran. 2. See PITYRIASIS.

PIVOINE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{-voin}^2$ . See PEONIA.—Extrait de p. A preparation made by boiling peony-root in six times its weight of water, expressing, and evaporating. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—Hydrolat de p. See Aqua peonice.—P. officinale [Fr. Cod.] Sp., peonia [Sp. Ph.]. The flowers of Peonia officinalis [Fr. Cod.] or of Peonia fruticosa, and of Peonia corallina [Sp. Ph.]. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—P. officinale (semence) [Fr. Cod.] Sp., peonia (semilla) [Sp. Ph.].

The seed of Paeonia officinalis [Fr. Cod.], of Paeonia Broteri, and of Paeonia corallina [Sp. Ph.]. [B, 95 (a, 38).]

PIVOTING, n.  $\text{Pi}^2\text{v}^0\text{e}^2\text{t}^2\text{n}^2$ . An operation in dentistry which consists in fixing by means of an amalgam a barbed screw-headed pivot or pin of platinum into a root-canal, the crown, previously fitted to the root, being placed upon this pivot and retained immovably by a gold nut. [E.]

Syn.: emplastrum piceum (seu sticticum) [Dan. Ph.] (2d def.). 1. A plaster consisting of 2 parts of yellow wax and 18 of Burgundy pitch [U. S. Ph.]; or of 5 of yellow wax and 15 of Burgundy pitch [Fr. Cod., Belg. Ph., Sp. Ph.]; or of 5 of yellow wax and 15 of fir resin [Swiss Ph.]; or of 44 each of yellow wax and colophony, 13 of frankincense, 26 of Burgundy pitch, 1 of oil of nutmeg, 1  $\frac{3}{4}$  of olive-oil, and 2 of water, evaporated to the proper consistence [Br. Ph.]. 2. A plaster consisting of 16 parts of yellow wax with 16 each of black pitch and Burgundy pitch and 2 of mutton suet [Dan. Ph.]; or with 32 of black pitch, 48 of Burgundy pitch, and 10 [Finn. Ph.] (8 [Swed. Ph.]) of larch turpentine [Finn. Ph., Swed. Ph.]; or consisting of 30 parts of yellow wax, 27 of colophony, and 42 of black pitch [Netherl. Ph.]. Various older pharmacopœias had similar preparations. [B, 95, 119 (a, 38).] See also Ceratum resinæ.—Emplastrum picis burgundicæ [Belg. Ph.]. See Emplastrum picis (2d def.).—Emplastrum picis canadensis [U. S. Ph.]. Fr., emplâtre de poix de Canada. A plaster consisting of 1 part of yellow wax and 9 parts of Canada pitch. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Emplastrum picis compositum. A plaster, formerly official, consisting of Burgundy pitch, terebinthina cocta, wax, and oil of nutmeg, made up with frankincense or with colophony, water, and olive-oil. It resembled most closely the emplastrum picis of the Br. Ph. [B, 119 (a, 38).]—Emplastrum picis cum cantharide [U. S. Ph.]. Fr., emplâtre de poix cantharidée. Ger., Pechpflaster mit Canthariden. Syn.: emplastrum calefaciens. A plaster made by keeping 8 parts of cerate of cantharides at a temperature of 100° C. for fifteen minutes, straining, adding 92 parts of Burgundy pitch, and bringing to the proper consistence. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—Emplastrum picis irritans [Ger. Ph., 1st ed.]. Fr., vésicatoire de Janin. Ger., reizendes Pechpflaster. Irritant pitch-plaster, made by melting together 32 parts of Burgundy pitch and 12 parts each of yellow wax and turpentine, and adding 3 parts of finely powdered euphorbium. [B, 81 (a, 21).]—Emplastrum picis liquidæ [Fr. Cod., 1866, Swed. Ph., 1817, Hann. Ph., 1819, Sax. Ph., 1820]. Fr., emplâtre de goudron. A preparation made melting with gentle heat 1 part of Burgundy pitch, 8 parts of yellow wax and 16 of wood tar, and stirring continuously until cold [Hann. Ph., Sax. Ph.]; or by boiling to a paste 2 parts of rye flour with a sufficient quantity of vinegar, adding 1 part each of wood tar and melted resin, and allowing to thicken over the fire [Swed. Ph.]. PLACENTA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{s(pla}^3\text{k)-e}^2\text{nt}^0\text{a}^3$ . From πλακοῦς, a flat cake. Fr., arrièr-faix. Ger., Mutterkuchen, Gefässkuchen (1st def.), Nachgeburt (1st def.), Samenträger (4th def.). 1. The afterbirth; an organ which during fetal life, in nearly all mammals, performs the function of aerating the blood of the fetus by providing the mechanism necessary to a direct interchange of gases between the foetal and the maternal blood; consisting of a maternal portion (see Maternal p.) and a foetal portion (see Foetal p.) closely interwoven with each other, the whole organ, thus doubly constructed, being intimately connected with the internal organism by its implantation upon the interior of the uterine wall on the one hand and connected with the foetal circulation by the umbilical cord on the other. "In all mammals, so far as is yet known," says Allen Thomson, "excepting the Monotremata and Marsupials, the true placental structures consist in the establishment of a close relation between finely ramified foetal blood-vessels, derived originally from the outer or mesoblastic layer of the allantois, with minutely or widely distributed blood-vessels belonging to the uterus. Both of these are, originally at least, if not throughout the whole of gestation, accompanied and supported by cellular and other constituent elements of the foetal and maternal structures to which the blood-vessels respectively belong; while the uterine glands do not appear to take any direct or important part in this combination of foetal and maternal elements." The term p. was first used by Fallopius. In China the dried human p. is used as a tonic in phthisis. [A, 45; "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxiv, p. 760 (a, 50).] 2. Of Stein, a mass into which the segments may coalesce that have been formed by the breaking up of the endoplasts of two individual infusorians as the result of the conjugative act. [A, 12.] 3. branacea, and Villous p.—Discoid p. Ger., scheibenförmige P. That variety of p. in which, as in the human subject, it constitutes practically one mass, circumscribed in outline and more or less circular in form.—Disseminated p. See Villous p.—Dome-like p. That variety of p. in which the chorionic villi persist at the upper pole of the chorion and for some distance around that point, but disappear from the lower pole. [A, 11.]—Double p. A placental mass formed of the two placenta of a twin gestation. [A, 48.] Cf. p. dimidiata.—Fetal p. Lat., p. foetalis. Fr., p. foetal. Ger., Fruchtkuchen. That portion of the p. which is formed by the aggregation of chorionic villi and in which the umbilical vein and arteries ramify.—Free central p. See Basal p.—Fundal p. A p. that is attached to the uterine wall within the fundal zone. [A, 40.]—Gebärmutterp' (Ger.). See Maternal p.—Hauptp' (Ger.). The principal placental mass in a case of p. succenturiata, as distinguished from the outlying detached portion. [A, 19.]—Horseshoe p. Ger., hufeisenförmige P. A placental formation in which the two placenta of a twin gestation are united by a strip of placental tissue.—Hydatigenous p. Fr., p. hydatigène. Of Ercolani, the degeneration of the p. seen in the vesicular mole. [A, 15.]—Lateral p. A p. attached to the lateral wall of the uterus. [A, 40.]—Marginal p. Fr., p. marginal. In botany, a p. in which the ovules are borne on the infolded edges of the carpels. [B, 77, 291 (a, 35).]—Maternal p. Lat., p. materna. Fr., p. maternel. Ger., Mutterkuchen. That portion of the p. which originally consisted of the superficial part of the decidua serotina, forming a thin, translucent, whitish-gray layer attached to the uterine surface of the fetal p. so closely as to be separable only in small pieces. [A, 61.]—Membranous p. See p. membranacea.—Nebennp' (Ger.). An outlying lobe of a p. succenturiata. [A, 19.]—Nierenp' (Ger.). See p. reniformis.—Non-deciduate p. A p. of which the maternal portion is not shed at birth. [L, 201, 294.]—Parietal p. Fr., p. pariétal. In botany, a p. consisting of a portion of the wall of the ovary. Such placentation occurs when the several carpellary leaves of a compound pistil, instead of meeting in the centre, fold inward so slightly as to appear as projections on the wall of the ovary. [B, 1, 77, 291 (a, 35).]—p. biloba, p. bipartita [Hyrtl]. Ger., zweilappige P. See p. dimidiata.—p. cirsioides. A p. with a cirsioid arrangement of the branches of the umbilical arteries. [A, 19.]—p. diffusa. Fr., p. disséminé. The diffused p.; that variety of placental formation in which small, simple chorionic villi are scattered over nearly the whole outer surface of the chorion, without any aggregation. [A, 11.] Cf. Polycotyledonary p.—p. dimidiata. Ger., zweilappige P. A two-lobed p.; to be distinguished from the true double p. [A, 19.]—p. duplex. 1. A double p. 2. (Incorrectly) a p. dimidiata. [A, 19.]—p. evanida. Of Hyrtl, the p. of a blighted ovum after it has undergone such compression by the surviving ovum of a twin gestation as to be reduced to a mere brownish layer destitute of any remnant of placental structure; found by him associated with a fetus papyraceus. [A, 19.]—p. febrilis. See Acre cake.—p. fenestrata. A p. so formed that at some point not involving the periphery its substance is lacking, the chorion being free from villi at that point and transparent like a window. [A, 19.]—p. foetalis. See Fetal p.—p. incarcerata, p. inclusa. Fr., p. chatonné, p. encysté. Ger., eingeklemmt (oder eingesackter) Mutterkuchen. A p. retained in the uterus by irregular contraction of that organ. [E.]—p. in p. Of Hyrtl, a fanciful term for an incapsulated sarcoma imbedded in a p. and fed by an arterial branch more or less detached, so as to be likened by him to an umbilical cord. [A, 19.]—p. marginata. Fr., p. marginé. Of Kölliker, that variety of placental formation in which the chorion is attached to more or less of the middle only of the fetal surface of the p., leaving the margin free. [A, 8.]—p. materna. See Maternal p.—p. membranacea. Fr., p. membranéux. 1. Of the elder Stein, that form of p. in which, as is normal in the pachyderms, it is thin and scattered over the whole surface of the chorion. [A, 24.] 2. A pathological thinning of the p. from atrophy. —p. multiloba. Of Hyrtl, that form of p. in which it consists of more than three separate lobes in an animal that normally has a one-lobed p. [A, 8.]—p. obsoleta. Of Hyrtl, that condition in which the two placenta of a twin gestation are entirely separate from each other. [A, 19.]—p. pandureformis. Of Hyrtl, a modified form of the p. dimidiata in which the oval or round halves of the organ are so fashioned at their adjacent edges as to give the whole the shape of a violin. [A, 19.]—p. pravina. Ger., vorgefallene P., vorliegende Nachgeburt, herabgefallener (oder aufsteigender, oder vorliegender) Mutterkuchen. Syn.: placental presentation. The condition which the p. presents at parturition, being implanted on the lower segment of the uterus. See p. pravina centralis, p. pravina partialis, and p. pravina lateralis. —p. pravina centralis. That variety of p. pravina in which the centre of the p. so nearly coincides with the os uteri internum that after full dilatation of the cervix only the p. can be felt through the cervical canal. [A, 22.]—p. pravina cervicalis (seu lateralis, seu marginalis). That form of p. pravina in which the implantation of the p. extends to the os uteri internum, but not over it. —p. pravina partialis. Partial p. pravina; the variety in which, after full dilatation of the cervix, a portion of the membranes can be felt as well as the p. [A, 22.]—p. reniformis. Ger., Nierenp'. A kidney-shaped half of a p. dimidiata. [A, 19.]—p. sanguinis. A blood-clot. [K.]—p. seminal (Fr.). Of Gleichen, the perisperm, or albumen, of a seed. [B, 1, 4, 35.]—p. spuria. An outlying portion of p. which has not preserved its vascular connection with the decidua vera. [A, 24.]—p. succenturiata. Fr., p. succenturié, petit p. isolé. Ger., Nebennp', Nebenkeuchen. Of Hyrtl, one of the separate lobes which are sometimes formed near the general mass of the organ from which they are more or less detached. [A, 19.]—p. succenturiata obsoletacens (seu obsoleta). Of Hyrtl, a p. succenturiata that is in process of disappearing by retrograde metamorphosis. [A, 19.]—p. tripartita. Ger., dreigetheilter Mutterkuchen. Of Hyrtl, a p. consisting of three separate lobes; to be distinguished from the triple p. [A, 19.]—p. triquetra, p. unilobata. Of Hyrtl, a form of p. intermediate between the usual form and the p. succenturiata, characterized by a marked prominence at one portion of the border, as if a lobe were on the point of becoming detached. [A, 19.]—p. uteri, p. utérin (Fr.). See Maternal p.—Polycotyledonary p. That variety of placental formation in which, as in the ruminants, the chorionic villi are collected into a number of large separate tufts scattered over the surface of the chorion, each tuft being received into a crypt-like depression in a thickened portion of the uterine mucous membrane. [A, 11.]—Retained p. See p. incarcerata.—Ringförmige p. (Ger.). See Zonary p.—Scheibenförmige p. (Ger.). See Discoid p.—Superficial p. In botany, a p. in which the ovules are distributed over the inner surface of the carpels. [B, 291 (a, 35).]—Triple p. Ger., Drillingsp'. A placental mass formed of the three placenta of a triple gestation. Cf. p. tripartita.—Twin p. Fr., p. gémellaire. Ger., Zwillingsp'. See Double p.—Uterine p. See Maternal p.—Velamentous p. See under INSERTIO velamentosa.—Villous p. A placental formation in which the cotyledons are scattered and have the form of chorionic villi.—Vorgefallene p. (Ger.). See p. pravina.—Zonary p. Ger., ringförmige P. A p. in which the organ extends around the interior of the uterus in the form of a belt (zona) or ring surrounding the equator of the chorion.

PLACENTALIA (Lat.), n. n. pl.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{s}(\text{pla}^3\text{k})\text{-e}^2\text{nt-ai}(\text{a}^2\text{l})/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . Those mammals in which the development of the fecundated ovum is accompanied by the formation of a placenta; corresponding to Mammalia choriata.

PLACENTARY, adj.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{s-e}^2\text{nt-a-rj}^2$ . Pertaining to the placenta; as a n. (Lat., placentarium; Fr., placentaire), the placenta (4th def., a). [B, 1, 77 (a, 35).]

PLACENTATION, n.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{s-e}^2\text{nt-a'shu}^2\text{n}$ . Lat., placentatio (from placenta, a cake). Fr., p. Ger., Kuchenbildung. The process of the formation of the placenta, or the variety formed, as determined by the nature of the particular animal or plant.

PLACENTULA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{s}(\text{pla}^3\text{k})\text{-e}^2\text{nt-u}^2\text{l}(\text{u}^2\text{l})\text{-a}^2$ . Dim. of placenta, a cake. Fr., placentule. Ger., Placentchen. Lit. a little placenta. Of Hyrtl, a placenta succenturiata that is smaller than a pfennig. [A, 19.]—p. succenturiata. Ger., Nebenplacentchen. See p.

PLACOID, adj.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{k}^2\text{oid}$ . Gr., πλακώδης (from πλάξ, a plate, and εἶδος, resemblance). Plate-like; as a n., one of the irregular bony plates, grains, or spines which are formed in the skin of various fishes (Elasmobranchii). [B, 28 (a, 27).]

PLACUS (Lat.), n. m. and f.  $\text{Plak}(\text{pla}^3\text{k})\text{-u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})$ . Fr., p. A genus of composite plants referred by Bentham and Hooker to Blumea. [B, 42, 267 (a, 35).]—p. chinensis. A species used in China for ulcers and affections of the hairy skin. Its root, in combination with the betel-nut, is used in coughs. [B, 267 (a, 35).]

PLAGUE, n. Plag, Gr., πληγή. Lat., plaga. Fr., pluie, peste. Ger., Pest. It., piaga, peste. Sp., plaga, peste. Any destructive pestilence, especially a specific acute and malignant fever, which often prevails in Egypt, Syria, and Turkey, and has occurred epidemically at different times and places in the large cities of Europe. It is attended with nervous disturbance, and usually is accompanied by buboes or swellings of the inguinal or other lymphatic glands, and occasionally with carbuncles, pustules, spots, and petechiæ of various colors and distributed in different parts of the body. [D, 1, 71.]—Black p. The p. which ravaged Europe in the fourteenth century. [D, 20.]—Bubonic p. An epidemic, contagious disease of great virulence which has prevailed in different parts of the world from a very remote period. It begins with slight fever and thirst and within a few hours swellings appear in the axilla or groins or upon the neck. Intense fever and pain are rapidly followed by delirium, unconsciousness, and, in a large majority of cases, death. [Brit. Med. Jour., Nov. 3, 1883, p. 886 (D).]—Cold p. A malignant form of bilious pneumonia. [Med. Exam., III, 1847, p. 237 (a, 34).]—Hunger p. See Relapsing fever.—Indian p. See PALL.—Levantine p. See p. Lung.—The contagious pleuro-pneumonia of cattle. [N. Y. Med. Jour., Aug. 15, 1883, p. 413 (D).]—p. in the guts. The term by which malignant cholera was known in England in the seventeenth century. [D, 1.]—Swine p. 1. See Hog CHOLERA. 2. A disease of hogs in Europe, differing in character from the American swine p., or hog cholera. [B.]—Syrian p. See Aleppo BOIL.

PLAGULA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{g}(\text{pla}^2\text{g})\text{u}^1(\text{u}^1)\text{a}^3$ . Dim. of plaga, a curtain. See COMPRESS.

PLAIE (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pl}^2\text{e}$ . See WOUND.—P's anatomiques. Wounds received by the operator in an autopsy. [L, 41 (a, 14).]—P. d'arme (ou d'armes) a feu, P. d'arquebuse, P. d'arquebuse. A gunshot wound. [E.]—P. de l'Yémen. In Arabia, a variety of ulcer. [E, 24.]—P. envenimée. A poisoned wound; one in which septic matter has been deposited. [E.]—P. par arrachement. A lacerated wound.—P. par écrasement. A contused wound. [E.]

PLAISTER, n.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{st}/\text{u}^0\text{r}$ . See PLASTER.

PLAN (Fr.), adj.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}^2$ . See PLANE.

PLANEA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}(\text{pla}^2\text{n})\text{e}'(\text{a}^3/\text{e}^2)\text{a}^3$ . From planus, flat. Of Haeckel, the fourth stage of embryonic development, which is between the morula (or mulberry) stage and the gastrula. ["Am. Nat.," x (a, 39).]

PLANARTHRA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}(\text{pla}^2\text{n})\text{a}^3\text{rth}/\text{ra}^3\text{gr}^2\text{a}^3$ . From πλανᾶν, to cause to wander, ἄρθρον, a joint, and ἄρρα, a seizure. Wandering articular gout. [a, 34.]

PLANCHER (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}^2\text{-sha}$ . 1. See FLOOR. 2. The floor of the lateral ventricle of the brain. [I, 42 (K).]—P. du cerveau. See TENTORIUM.

PLANCUS (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}^2\text{k}(\text{pla}^2\text{n}^2\text{k})/\text{u}^3\text{s}(\text{u}^3\text{s})$ . Flat-footed. [A, 332, 325 (a, 48).]

PLANE, n. Plan. Lat., planum. Fr., plan. Ger., Ebene. 1. A level surface; a surface such that if any two of its points are joined by a straight line that line will lie wholly within the surface. [a, 35.] 2. An ideal plane as above defined, used as a basis or standard of reference by means of which the positions of the parts of a body or organism are indicated. [a, 48.]—Alveolcondylar p. The p. tangent to the alveolar point and most prominent points on the lower aspects of the condyles of the occipital bone. [L.]—Anterior focal p. See Focal p's.—Anterior (lateral) inclined p. of the pelvis. See Inclined p's of the pelvis.—Anterior principal p. See Principal p's.—Coccygeal p. The fourth parallel p. of the pelvis.—Diagonal p. Of a flower, any vertical p. which is not antero-posterior or lateral. [B, 279.]—Double-inclined p. Two boards united by hinges and resting upon a third; used to support the lower limb flexed in the treatment of fractures. [E.]—First focal p. See Focal p's.—First principal p. See Principal p's.—Focal p's. Two p's drawn respectively through the anterior and posterior principal foci of a dioptric system (e. g., the eye) and perpendicular to the line (axis of the system) connecting the two. The p. passing through the anterior focus is called the anterior (or first) focal p.; that passing through the posterior focus the posterior (or second) focal p. [B.]—Glabello-occipital p. The vertical p. of the maximum antero-posterior diameter of the skull. [L.]—Horizontal p. of van Ihering. See Van Ihering's p.—Inclined p. Ger., schiefe Ebene. A surface situated obliquely to the p. of the horizon; one of the elementary mechanical powers. [a, 48.]—Inclined p's of the pelvis. "The sciatic spines," says Lusk, "divide the pelvic cavity into two unequal sections. In the larger, anterior section, the lateral walls slope toward the symphysis and arch of the pubes, while posteriorly the walls slope in the direction of the sacrum and coccyx. The declivities in front of the spines are termed the anterior inclined p's of the pelvis, over which rotation of the occiput takes place in the mechanism of normal labor. Behind the spines the lateral slopes are known as the posterior inclined p's." [A, 22.]—Medial p., Median p., Mesial p. Lat., meson. Ger., Medianebene. A p., usually antero-posterior, which divides a body or organ into two equal and symmetrical parts. The median p. of the body is known as the meson. [L; a, 48.]—Naso-iniac p. The p. cutting the nasion and the inion. [L.]—Naso-opisthac p. The p. cutting the nasion and opisthion. [L.]—Orbital p. See PLANUM orbitale.—Parallel p's of the pelvis. P's intersecting the axis of the pelvic canal at right angles, and therefore in reality not parallel. Four such p's are distinguished; the first parallel p. of the pelvis is the p. of the superior strait; the second is the p. extending from the middle of the sacral vertebra to the level of the subpubic ligament; the third is the p. at the level of the spines of the ischia; and the fourth is the p. at the outlet. [A, 30.]—P. of refraction. A p. passing through a refracted ray of light and drawn perpendicular to the surface at which refraction takes place. [B.]—P. of regard. A p. passing through the centre of rotation of the eye and the fixation point. [Helmholtz (a, 29).]—P. of the chasma. Fr., plan du chasma. Ger., Chasmaebene. The p. tangent to the punctum spinæ nasalis posterioris and the punctum foraminis magni anterioris. [Lissauer (L).]—P's of the pelvis. Fr., plans du bassin. Imaginary p's touching the same parts of the pelvic canal on the two sides. [A, 22.]—Posterior focal p. See Focal p's.—Posterior principal p. See Principal p's.—Principal p's. Two p's drawn respectively through the anterior and posterior principal points of a dioptric system (e. g., the eye) and perpendicular to the line (axis of the system) connecting the two. The p. passing through the anterior principal point is called the anterior (or first) principal p.; that passing through the second principal point the posterior (or second) principal p. [B.]—Sagittal p. The median antero-posterior p. of the body. [a, 48.]—Second focal p. See Focal p's.—Second principal p. See Principal p's.—Single-inclined p. A support for the lower limb in the treatment of certain fractures, consisting of a board laid under the limb which is raised at the distal end and inclines downward to the buttocks.—Van Ihering's p. A p. tangent to the lower margin of the orbit and passing through the articular points. [L.]—Visual p. Fr., plan visuel. Ger., Visirebene, Blickebene. A p. passing through the visual axis. [B.]

PLANITIES (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plan}(\text{pla}^2\text{n})\text{-i}^2(\text{shi}^2(\text{ti}^2)\text{-ez}(\text{as}))$ . Gen., -ei. From planus, flat. 1. A plane. 2. The sole of the foot. [A, 322, 325 (a, 14).]

PLANOBLAST, n.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}^0\text{-bla}^2\text{st}$ . From planus, flat, and βλαστός, a sprout. See GONOCHEME.

PLANO-COMPRESSED, adj.  $\text{Plan}^0/\text{o-ko}^2\text{m-pre}^2\text{st}'$ . Lat., plano-compressus (from planus, flat, and comprimere, to compress). Ger., flach-zusammengedrückt. Of a seed or other organ, compressed so that the two opposite surfaces are flat. [B, 123 (a, 35).]

PLANO-CONCAVE, adj.  $\text{Plan}^0/\text{o-ko}^2\text{n-kav}'$ . From planus, flat, and concavus, hollow. Fr., plano-concave. At once plane and concave. [B.] See P.-c. LENS.

PLANO-CONVEX, adj.  $\text{Plan}^0/\text{o-ko}^2\text{n-ve}^2\text{x}'$ . From planus, flat, and convexus, convex. Fr., plano-convexe. At once plane and convex. [B.] See P.-c. LENS.

PLANODIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}(\text{pla}^2\text{n})\text{-od}(\text{o}^2\text{d})/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^3$ . From πλάνος, wandering, and ὁδός, a way. Fr., planodie. A false passage made by an instrument, e. g., a catheter. [E.]

PLANOGAMETE, n.  $\text{Plan-o-ga}^2\text{m}'\text{et}$ . See PLANO-GAMETE.

PLANT, n.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}$ . Gr., φύτον. Lat., planta. Fr., plante. Ger., Pflanze. A member of the vegetable kingdom; a vegetable, whether tree, shrub, herb, or fungus; any organism not belonging to the animal kingdom. [a, 35.] Cf. INDIVIDUAL (3d def.), PHYTON, and PHYTOMER.—Aerial p., Air p. An epiphyte (q. v., 2d def.), or any p. which derives its nourishment from the air alone. [B, 291, 296 (a, 35).]—Carnivorous p's. See Insectivorous p's.—Cellular p's. P's in which the tissues are wholly cellular (e. g., mosses and liverworts). [B, 77 (a, 35).]—Dysentery-p. See OLDENLANDIA globosa.—Embryo-p. See EMBRYO (2d def.).—Flowering p's. The phanerogams. [B, 19, 77 (a, 35).]—Flowerless p's. The cryptogams. [a, 35.]—Forcible p. See BUPLEURUM rotundifolium.—Humus-p. A saprophyte. [B, 229 (a, 35).]—Insectivorous p's. Carnivorous p's; p's, such as Drosera rotundifolia, Dionaea muscipula, Sarracenia, etc., which are provided with a specialized apparatus for the capture, digestion, and absorption of insects. [B, 229 (a, 35).]—Lactiferous p's. P's, such as the Papaveraceae, Campanulaceae, Asclepiadaceae, Urticaceae, etc., which exude a milky juice. [B, 229, 291 (a, 35).]—Litmus p. See CHROZOPHORA tinctoria.—Moving p. See HEDYSARUM gyanis.—Pitcher p's. P's, such as Sarracenia purpurea, Darlingtonia, etc., provided with ascidia. [a, 35.]—Rat-poison p. 1. In Sierra Leone, the Chaetilla toxicaria. 2. In the West Indies, the Hamelia coccinea. [B, 275 (a, 35).]—Sensitive p. Fr., p. sensitive. Ger., Sinnpflanze. The Mimosa pudica and other species of Mimosa. [B, 34 (a, 35).]—Vascular p's. P's, such as phanerogams, ferns, etc., in which vessels are formed. [B, 77 (a, 35).]

PLANTA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}^2(\text{pla}^2\text{n}^2)/\text{a}^2$ . 1. See PLANT. 2. The sole of the foot; the back of a bird's tarsus. [L.]—Plantæ calyptrate. The Musci. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—Plantæ capitata. See CEPHALOIDES.—P. mirabilis distillatoria. Of Grimm, the genus Nepenthes. [B, 121 (a, 35).]—P. noctis. See HYDROA.—P. pedis. The sole of the foot.—Plantæ meridiane. Plants the flowers of which open about midday. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

PLANTAGO (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{n}^2(\text{pla}^2\text{n}^2)/\text{a}^2(\text{a}^2)/\text{go}$ . Gen., -tag'inis. Fr., plantain, arnoglosse. Ger., Wegerich, Wegebreit, Wegtritt. A genus of the Plantaginaceae (Fr., plantaginacées), or Plantaginæ (Fr., plantaginées; Ger., Plantagineen), which are the ribworts, an order of corollifloral dicotyledons. The Plantaginæ of Jussieu are the same. The Plantagoideæ of Meissner are a class of the Diploclamydæ. [B, 19, 42, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—Aqua plantaginis. See Eau distillée de PLANTAIN.—Conserva plantaginis. A preparation made by triturating together 1 part of plantain-leaves and 2 parts of sugar. [B, 119 (a, 38).]—Folia plantaginis. The leaves of P. major. [B, 95 (a, 38).]—P. acuta, P. angustifolia. See P. lanceolata.—P. aquatica. See ALISMA p.—P. arenaria. Fr., plantain des sables [Fr. Cod.]. Ger., Sandflohkraut. A European species very similar to P. psyllium and, like it, furnishing bemen psyllii. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. Bellardi. Fr., plantain velu. An Alpine species with astrigent leaves and roots and emollient seeds. [B, 173 (a, 35).]—P. cordata. A North American species with properties like those of P. major. [B, 34, 293 (a, 35).]—P. coronopifolia, P. coronopus. Fr., corne de cerf, courtine, pied de corbeau (ou de corneille). Ger., fiederspaltiger Wegerich, Hirschhorn, Rabenfuss, Krähenfuss. Buck's-horn (or hart's-horn) plantain, herb Eve (or ivy), star-of-the-earth; a species growing on the sea-coasts of Europe, northern Africa, and Asia Minor, and cultivated in gardens for salad. It is one of the plants called by Dioscorides κορωνόριον, and in Greece is still used, after drying in the sun, as a diuretic. The herb, herba coronopi (seu cornu cervini), was formerly used in various diseases, especially hydrophobia. [B, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. cynops. Shrubby plantain. The seeds are used like those of P. psyllium. [B, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. decumbens, P. ispaghula. A species growing from the Canary Islands to India. The seeds, semen ispaghule, contain much mucilage, and in the East Indies are used as a refrigerant and demulcent drink, also in catarrhs, dysentery, and chronic diarrhoea. [B, 18, 172, 180 (a, 35); E. J. Waring, "Brit. Med. Jour.," June 6, 1885, p. 1145.]—P. lanceolata. Fr., plantain lancéolé, bonnes femmes, petit plantain, tête noire. Ger., lanzettblättriger Wegerich, Hundsruppe. Ribwort plantain, ripple-grass, chimney-sweeps, cock-grass, hen-plant; a species found in Europe, Asia, and North America, having the properties of P. major. The root, leaves, and seeds were formerly official as radix, herba, et semen plantaginis angustifoliae (seu plantaginis acutae, seu plantaginis minoris, seu plantaginis quinquevenariae). The leaves are styptic. [B. 5, 34, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxxi, p. 112 (a, 50).]—P. latifolia, P. major. Fr., plantain common, grand plantain. Ger., grosser Wegerich, grosses Wegbreit, Schafzungenkraut. Greater plantain, white-man's foot-print; a species growing in Europe, Asia, and North America. The root, herb, and seed, radix, herba, et semen plantaginis majoris, seu latifoliae, seu arnogiocossi, seu trinerviae, seu quinquevenariae, seu septinerviae, were formerly official, the root and leaves as a refrigerant, deobstruent, and mild astringent, and the seed as a demulcent. The ancients used the leaves in dysentery, consumption, hemorrhage (especially from the lungs), and other complaints. The root has a sweetish, saline taste. The leaves, which are still used empirically in venomous bites and as an outward stimulant application to sores and wounds, have a saline, bitterish, austere taste. They contain resin, wax, albumin, pectin, and citric and malic acids. [B. 5, 34, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," vii, p. 73; xii, p. 107 (a, 50).]—P. maritima. Fr., plantain maritime. Ger., Meerstrandswegerich. Sea-side plantain. In northern Europe the fleshy leaves are eaten and are used in calculous affections. [B. 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. media. Fr., plantain moyen, langue d'aiguë (ou blanc). Ger., mittlerer Wegerich, Schafzunge. Hoary plantain, lamb's-tongue, fire-weed; a species having the properties of P. major and formerly used like it. [B. 5, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. minor. See P. lanceolata.—P. psyllium, P. psyllium, P. pulicaria. Ger., Flohsamenwegerich, Flohkräut. Flea-wort plantain, the ψύλλιον of Dioscorides; a species growing in northern Africa and southern Europe. The small, shining flea-colored seeds, semen psyllii (seu pulicariae), contain much mucilage, and are used as refrigerants and demulcents. [B. 5, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. quinquevenaria. See P. lanceolata.—P. septinervia, P. trinervia. See P. major.

PLANTAIN, n. Pla<sup>2</sup>n't'n. Fr., p. (1st and 3d def's). 1. The genus Plantago. 2. The Musa paradisiaca or its fruit. 3. In the Fr. Cod., the official term for the flowering plant of Plantago major, Plantago media, and Plantago lanceolata. [B. 95 (a, 38); B. 275 (a, 35).]—Eau (distillée) (Fr. Cod.) de p. Sp., agua de lantén [Sp. Ph.]. A preparation made by crushing 1 part of the flowering plant of Plantago major, media, or lanceolata (fresh leaves of Plantago major [Sp. Ph.], pouring upon it 2 parts of water, and distilling 1 part. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Extrait de p. (Fr.). A preparation made by boiling 1 part of p. leaves in 6 parts of water, expressing, and evaporating; or by simply evaporating p. juice. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—P. des sables [Fr. Cod.] (Fr.). PLANTAL, adj. Pla<sup>2</sup>n't'l. Lat., plantalis (from plantago [q. v.]). Belonging to the Plantales, Lindley's p. alliance (Lat., nexus plantalis), of the Aggregate, consisting of the Plantagineae and Globularineae. [B. 170 (a, 35).]

PLASMA (Lat.), n. n. Pla<sup>2</sup>z(pla<sup>2</sup>z)-ma<sup>3</sup>. Gen., plasmatos (atis). Gr., πλάσμα (from πλάσσειν, to mold). Fr., p. Ger., p. 1. Of Haeckel, the animal or vegetable substance which is the seat of all vital activity. [J.] See PROTOPLASM (2d def.). 2. The blood and lymph exclusive of the corpuscles. [J.] See Blood p. 3. See (Glycerium AMYLL.—Assimilationsp' (Ger.). See NUTRITIVE p.—Blood p. The clear transparent fluid in which the blood-corpuscles float. When withdrawn from the vessels it rapidly undergoes a change, the fibrin-ferments forming fibrin and the serum remaining. [Landois, Stirling (a, 34).]—Germ-p. Ger., Keimplasma, Keimprotoplasma, Keimsubstanz. Syn.: germinal nucleoplasm, mother protoplasm, germinal substance. 1. A substance of peculiar chemical and complicated molecular structure whose office is to perpetuate the species. At every ontogenesis a portion of the germ-plasma which the parent germ-cell contains is not used in the formation of the offspring, but is reserved unchanged to produce the germ-cells of the following generation. It is therefore as deathless as the species itself. The germ-plasma of each species is supposed to vary in complexity of chemical and molecular structure in direct proportion to the complexity of structure of the individuals of the species. PLASMATIC, PLASMATICAL, adj's. Pla<sup>2</sup>z-ma<sup>3</sup>'t'ik, -i<sup>2</sup>k'l. Gr., πλασματικός (from πλάσμα [see PLASMA]). Lat., plasmaticus, plasmicus. Fr., plasmatique. Ger., plasmatisch. Pertaining to or of the nature of plasma, especially the blood-plasma; containing plasma. [J.]

PLASMENT, n. Pla<sup>2</sup>z-me'nt. From plasma (q. v.). A proprietary jelly-like substance made from Cetraria islandica; used as a soothing application and as a lubricant.

PLASMIN, n. Pla<sup>2</sup>z-mi<sup>2</sup>n. From πλάσμα, plasma. Lat., matéria fibrogena. Fr., plasmine. Of Dewis, a supposed fibrin-producing substance in the blood. According to his view, coagulation is due to the conversion of p. into fibrin (as a decomposition product). [K.; L. 40 (a, 14).]

PLASMOCHYMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{z}(\text{pla}^2\text{s})\text{-mo}^2\text{k}(\text{mo}^2\text{ch}^2)\text{-i}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})\text{-a}^2$ . Gen., -chymatos (-atis). From  $\pi\lambda\acute{\alpha}\sigma\mu\alpha$ , plasma, and  $\chi\acute{\upsilon}\mu\alpha$ , a fluid. Ger., Plasmochym. See PARAPLASM (2d def.) and CYTOCHYME.

Gen., -es-eos (-er-esis). From  $\pi\lambda\acute{\alpha}\sigma\mu\alpha$ , plasma, and  $\delta\iota\alpha\epsilon\iota\text{r}\epsilon\iota\text{v}$ , to cleave in twain. Fr., plasmodiërese. The division of the cell-body, in contradistinction to the division of the nucleus. [Quart. Jour. of Micr. Sci., 1886 (J).]

PLASMODIBLAST, n.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{z-mod}^2\text{-bla}^2\text{st}$ . From plasmodium (q. v.), and  $\beta\lambda\alpha\sigma\tau\acute{o}\varsigma$ , a sprout. See TROPHOBLAST.

PLASMODIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pla}^2\text{z}(\text{pla}^2\text{s})\text{-mod}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}(\text{u}^2\text{m})$ . From  $\pi\lambda\acute{\alpha}\sigma\mu\alpha$ , plasma, and  $\epsilon\iota\delta\omicron\varsigma$ , resemblance. Fr., plasmodie, p., plasmode. Ger., Plasmodie. Syn.: symplast, syncytium. 1. A protoplasmic mass formed by the fusion of the cell-bodies of several cells, especially Monera, the nuclei remaining unfused, and the general appearance being that of an enormous multinucleated amoeboid cell. [A, 12; J, 9, 15, 34.] 2. The protoplasmic nucleated body of a myxomycetous Frugis when in the amoeboid stage of development. [B, 77, 121 (a, 35).]—P. malarie, P. malaricum. Fr., hémato plasmode (ou plasmode) malarique. Ger., Malaria plasmodien, Plasmodien der Malaria. A structure discovered by Marchiafava and Celli in 1883 and found by Councilman in all of 16 cases of malarial fever in the red blood-corpuscles; absent in non-malarial cases. These hematozoaria are said to occur in four forms: spherical, crescentic, flagellate, and segmented or "en rosacee." According to Crudell, it is no parasite, but only an altered form of the red blood-corpuscles produced (probably) by the presence of a Bacillus. It is, however, a distinct organism belonging to the Sporozoa. [Trans. of the Assoc. of Am. Phys., 1886, p. 89; "Ctbl. f. d. med. Wssnsch." 1887, p. 319 (B); "Ctbl. f. Bacteriol. n. A p. consisting of a solution of 30 grammes of isinglass in water enough to make 360 grammes, spread in two portions (one alone, the other with 120 grammes of alcohol and 3 of glycerin) thinly and very smoothly upon a silk backing so as to adhere to the skin when moistened, the silk being painted on the reverse side with tincture of benzoin [U. S. Ph., Ger. Ph., Russ. Ph.]; the Gr. Ph. directs that 6 parts of isinglass and 1 part each of benzoin and sugar be dissolved by digestion in 72 parts of dilute alcohol, strained, and spread on silk. The Norw. and Swed. Ph.'s use 10 parts of white gelatin, 110 of boiling water, spread half upon silk, and to the other half 40 parts of alcohol and 1 part of glycerin before spreading it upon the silk, and paint the reverse of the plaster with tincture of benzoin [Norw. Ph.] or balsam of Tolu [Swed. Ph.]. The other pharmacopœias direct as follows: 100 grammes [Austr. Ph., Roum. Ph.], 90 [Dan. Ph.], 80 [Hung. Ph.], 50 [Fr. Cod.], 1 part [Sp. Ph.] of isinglass, 2,000 grammes [Austr. Ph., Roum. Ph.] (1,500 [Hung. Ph.]), enough to make 1,000 [Dan. Ph.], 400 [Fr. Cod.], 8 parts [Sp. Ph.] of water, 100 grammes [Austr. Ph.] (90 [Roum. Ph.]), 350 for half the colature [Dan. Ph.], 400 diluted [Fr. Cod.], 80 [Hung. Ph.], 8 parts diluted [Sp. Ph.] of alcohol, with 10 grammes of clarified honey, and the necessary amount of a mixture of 1 part of balsam of Peru, with 4 of tincture of benzoin [Austr. Ph.] (5 grammes of glycerin, and the necessary amount of a mixture of 1 part of balsam of Peru and 10 of tincture of benzoin [Roum. Ph.], 5 of glycerin [Dan. Ph.], 6 of glycerin [Hung. Ph.]). The Dan. Ph. paints the reverse of the plaster with tincture of benzoin, the Sp. Ph. with concentrated tincture of balsam of Peru. PLATINOUS, adj. Plat't'i'n-u's. Fr., platinieux. Ger., platinigauer. Containing platinum as a bivalent radicle. [B.]

PLATINUM (Lat.), n. n. Plat't(platt)'i'n-u'm(u'm). Fr., platine. Ger., Platin. A metallic element first described in 1750 by Watson and again in 1756 by Scheffer, who was the first to write of it as platina or white gold. It occurs in nature uncombined in grains, crystals, and metallic masses, and combined with other metals in various ores and minerals. It is a soft, ductile, and very malleable white metal, which is infusible at all temperatures ordinarily obtainable, but melts in the oxyhydrogen flame. It is very heavy, its sp. gr. being 21.5. Spongy p. (Fr., éponge [ou mousse] de platine; Ger., Platinschwamm) is a porous mass obtained by heating chloride of p. and ammonium. P. black (Fr., noir de platine; Ger., Platinmohr, Platinschwarz) is very finely divided metallic p., forming a soft black powder. P. has a marked capacity for absorbing hydrogen and for condensing oxygen upon its surface, and this property is especially pronounced in the case of the two varieties just described. P. is not oxidizable by exposure to air, oxygen, or water. It is not attacked by nitric acid, but is dissolved by nitrohydrochloric acid. It is attacked by the alkalies and alkaline cyanides and by potassium nitrate. It forms with several metals alloys which are fusible at temperatures much below its own melting point. In composition it acts partly as a dyad, forming platinous salts, partly as a tetrad, forming platonic salts. Symbol, Pt; atomic weight, 196.7. [B, 3.]—Ammoniacal compounds of p. Fr., composés ammoniacaux de platine. Ger., ammoniakalische Platinverbindungen. A great number of these compounds are known which may be regarded as derivatives of various radicles made up of p. and ammonium, or of ammonium residues. [B.] See PLATINAMMONIUM and Fulminating p.—Bichloride of p. A name formerly given to p. tetrachloride, because it contained twice the amount of chlorine found in the platinous chloride. [B.]—Fulminating p. A brownish mass,  $Pt_2O_3(NH_3)_2$ , which explodes on heating. [B, 3.]—P. and ammonium chloride. See AMMONIUM PLATINOCHLORIDE and AMMONIUM PLATINICHLORIDE.—P. and phosphorus chloride. 1. A substance,  $PtCl_4 + PCl_5$ , forming brown acicular crystals; sometimes called phosphoplatinic chloride. 2. A substance,  $PtCl_4 \cdot 2PCl_5$ , forming deliquescent prismatic crystals, sometimes called diphosphoplatinic chloride. [B, 3, 16.]—P. arsenide. A brittle substance,  $PtAs_3$ . [B, 3.]—P. bichloratrum. See P. dichloride.—P. black. See under P.—P. bromide. See P. dibromide and P. tetrabromide.—P. chloratrum. See P. dichloride.—P. chloride. A compound of chlorine and p. The p. chlorides are p. dichloride and p. tetrachloride, together with their derivatives the platinochlorides and platinichlorides. The term chloride of p. is, however, often applied to chloroplatinic acid. [B.]—P. chloriodide. A substance,  $PtCl_3I$ , forming red deliquescent crystals. [B, 16.]—P. cyanide. A compound of cyanogen with platinum. Platinous cyanide,  $Pt(CN)_2$ , is known as a greenish-yellow, absolutely insoluble substance. [B, 270 (a, 38).]—P. dibromide. Ger., Platinbromür. Platinous bromide,  $PtBr_2$ ; a brownish mass forming double salts called platinobromides. [B, 3.]—P. dichloride. Ger., Platinchlorür. Platinous chloride,  $PtCl_2$ ; a greenish-gray powder, forming double salts with phosphorus trichloride (see P. and phosphorus chloride), with carbonyl (see CARBONYL CHLOROPLATINITE), and with the alkaline chlorides (see PLATINCHLORIDE). [B, 3.]—P. dihydroxide. Ger., Platinoxydhydrat. Platinous hydroxide,  $Pt(OH)_2$ . [B, 3.]—P. diiodide. Ger., Platinjodür. Platinous iodide; a black powder,  $PtI_2$ . [B, 3.]—P. dioxide. Ger., Platinoxyd. Platinic oxide; a black powder,  $PtO_2$ . [B, 3.]—P. diphosphide. A mass,  $PtP_2$ , of metallic lustre, soluble in aqueous ammonia. [B, 3.]—P. disulphide. A substance,  $PtS_2$ , black or gray according to the mode of its preparation. It combines with basic sulphides to form double salts called thioplatinates. [B, 3.]—P. hydrate. P. hydroxide. See P. dihydroxide and P. tetrahydroxide.—P. iodide. A compound of p. and iodine. [B.] See P. diiodide, P. tetraiodide, P. chloriodide, and PLATIN-IOXIDE.—P. monosulphide. A greenish powder or crystalline mass,  $PtS$ . [B, 3.]—P. monoxide. Ger., Platinoxydul. Platinous oxide; a gray powder,  $Pt_2O$ . [B, 3.]—P. muriaticum. See P. dichloride.—P. nitride. Ger., salpetrigsaures Platinoxydul. A compound,  $Pt(NO_2)_2$ , occurring in composition with the nitrides of other radicles to form the platinonitrides. [B.]—P. oxide. See P. monoxide and P. dioxide.—P. perchloride. See P. tetrachloride.—P. phosphide. See P. diphosphide.—P. præcipitatum nigrum. P. black. [a, 38.]—P. sesquisulphide. A gray crystalline powder,  $Pt_3S_4$ . [B, 3.]—P. sulpharsenate. See P. thioarsenate.—P. sulphate. Ger., schwefelsaures Platinoxyd. A compound of p. and sulphuric acid. Platinic sulphate,  $Pt(SO_4)_2$ , is a brownish mass. [B, 3.]—P. sulphide. Ger., Schwefelplatin. See P. monosulphide, P. disulphide, and P. sesquisulphide.—P. sulphite. Ger., schwefligsaures Platinoxydul. A compound of p. and sulphurous acid, known only in composition with other sulphites. [B.] See PLATINOSULPHITE.—P. tetrabromide. Ger., Platinbromid. Platinic bromide,  $PtBr_4$ ; known only in the form of compound salts. [B.] See BIOMOPLATINIC ACID and PLATINIBROMIDE.—P. tetrachloride. Ger., Platinchlorid. Platinic chloride, formerly called bichloride of p.; a substance,  $PtCl_4 + 5H_2O$ , forming reddish crystals. It combines with hydrochloric acid to form chloroplatinic acid, and with other chlorides forms the double salts called platinichlorides. It is much used as a reagent in chemical analysis. [B, 3.]—P. tetrahydroxide. Ger., Platinoxydhydrat. Platinic hydroxide,  $Pt(OH)_4$ ; a yellowish solid, acting both as a base and as an acid. It forms the platinate salts and the platinites. [B, 3.]—P. tetraiodide. Ger., Platinjodid. Platinic iodide,  $PtI_4$ ; a black or dark-brown amorphous powder. Its derivatives are iodoplatinitic acid and the platini-iodides. [B.]—P. thioarsenate. A black-brown precipitate, obtained by adding ferrous sulphate to a solution of a p. salt previously treated with neutral or basic sulpharsenate of sodium. [B, 2.]—P. thiocyanate. Ger., Platinthiocyanat. Platinous thiocyanate (Ger., thiocyansaures Platinoxydul),  $Pt(SCN)_2$ , and platinitic thiocyanate (Ger., thiocyansaures Platinoxyd),  $Pt(SCN)_4$ , are known in composition with other thiocyanates. [B.] See PLATINOTHIOCYANATE and PLATINITHIOCYANATE.—Solution of perchloride of p. [Br. Ph.] A solution of p. tetrachloride in 20 times as much water. [B, 81 (a, 38).]—Spongy p. See under P.

PLÄTTCHEN (Ger.), n.  $Plat'ch'e^2n$ . See LAMINA and LAMELLA.—Blutp'. 1. See Bizzozero's CORPUSCLE. 2. See BLOOD-PLAQUES.

See LAMINA terminalis (2d def.).—Senkrechte P. The perpendicular plate of the ethmoid bone. [L, 304.]—Sichel-förmige P. An embryonic lamina in the vicinity of the Sylvian fissure which develops into the lateral convex surface of the hemisphere. [I, 17 (K).]—Siebp'. See Cribiform PLATE of the ethmoid bone and Anterior perforated SPACE.

PLATTFUSS (Ger.), n.  $Plat'tfuss$ . See FLAT-FOOT.

PLATULA (Lat.), n. f.  $Plat't(pla't)u^2l(u^4l)-a^2$ . From  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , broad. See PATHEIRIA pubis.

PLATYCEPHALIA (Lat.), n. f.  $Plat't(pla't)-i^2(u^6)-se^2f(ke^2f)-a^2(a^2l)^2-a^3$ . From  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , flat, and  $\kappa\epsilon\phi\alpha\lambda\eta$ , the head. A deformity of the head characterized by flattening of the sinciput and diminution of the vertical diameter. [Broca (D, 43).]

PLATYCEPHALIC, PLATYCEPHALOUS, adj's.  $Plat't-i^2-se^2f-a^2l^2i^2k$ ,  $-se^2f-a^2l^2u^2s$ . Lat., platycephalus. Fr., platycephale. Ger., plattköpfig. Affected with platycephalia; of a skull, having the index of height less than 70 per cent. [L, 14; a, 48.]

PLATYCNEMIA (Lat.), n. f.  $Plat't(pla't)-i^2k(u^6k)-nem(nam)^2-i^2-a^2$ . From  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , broad, and  $\kappa\eta\mu\eta$ , the leg. Fr., platycnémie. A transverse flattening of the upper two thirds of the tibia, with transformation of the posterior face of the bone into a more or less rounded border, as found in negroes and races whose occupations (e. g., climbing and hunting) bring much into play the tibialis posticus, etc. [Kuhlf., "Rev. d'anthrop.", 1881, 2; "Rev. des sci. méd.", Apr., 1882; A. Thomson, "Jour. of Anat. and Phys.," xxlii, p. 633 (a, 32).] Cf. EURYCNÉMIE.

PLATYCELIAN, PLATYCELOUS, adj's.  $Plat't-i^2-sel^2-i^2-a^2n$ ,  $-u^2s$ . From  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , flat, and  $\kappa\epsilon\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ , hollow. See OPISTHOCELOUS.

PLATYCORIA (Lat.), PLATYCORIASIS (Lat.), n's/f.  $Plat't(pla't)-i^2(u^6)-kor(ko^2r)^2-i^2-a^2$ ,  $-ko^2r-i^2(i^2)-as(a^2s)^2i^2s$ . Gen., -cor'ie -as'eos (-ia'sis). From  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , broad, and  $\kappa\omicron\rho\eta$ , the pupil. Fr., platycorie, platycoriase. Ger., Platycorie. See MYDRIASIS.

PLATYELMINTHES (Lat.), PLATYHELMINTHES (Lat.), n's/f. pl.  $Plat't(pla't)-i^2(u^6)-el^2-mi^2nth(ez^2e^2s)$ ,  $-hel^2-mi^2nth(ez^2e^2s)$ . A class of the Vermes having a flat, more or less elongated body, with a cerebral ganglion, and often provided with hooks and suckers. They are usually hermaphrodite, and include flatworms, flukes, and tape-worms. [L, 353 (a, 39).]

PLATYHERIC [Turner], adj.  $Plat't-i^2-hi^2-e^2r-i^2k$ . From  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , broad, and  $\epsilon\pi\acute{\epsilon}\rho\varsigma$ , sacred. Of a sacrum ( $\epsilon\pi\acute{\epsilon}\rho\eta\nu\ \delta\sigma\tau\epsilon\acute{\epsilon}\rho\eta\nu$ ), having the transverse diameter the greatest. ["Jour. of Anat. and Phys.," xx, p. 317 (a, 32).]

PLATYNOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $Plat't(pla't)-i^2n(u^6n)-os^2i^2s$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). Gr.,  $\pi\lambda\alpha\tau\acute{\upsilon}\nu\omega\varsigma$  (from  $\pi\lambda\alpha\tau\acute{\upsilon}\nu\eta\nu$ , to make broad). See AMPLIFICATION (3d def.) and cf. STENOSIS.

PLATYOPHTHALMION (Lat.), n. n.  $Plat't(pla't)-i^2(u^6)-o^2f-tha^2l(thai^2l)^2mo^2n$ . Gr.,  $\pi\lambda\alpha\tau\acute{\upsilon}\phi\theta\alpha\lambda\mu\acute{\iota}\omega\nu$  (from  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , broad, and  $\phi\theta\alpha\lambda\mu\acute{\iota}\omega\varsigma$ , the eye). Antimony trisulphide, used as a pigment. [B, 98.]

PLATYPELLIC, adj.  $Plat't-i^2-pe^2l-i^2k$ . From  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , broad, and  $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\lambda\alpha$ , a basin. Having the transverse diameter of the pelvic brim greatly in excess of the conjugate. [W. Turner, "Jour. of Anat. and Phys.," xxi, p. 480.]

PLATYPHYLLOUS, adj.  $Plat't-i^2-fi^2l-i^2s$ . Lat., platyphyllus (from  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , broad, and  $\phi\upsilon\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ , a leaf). Broad-leaved. The Platyphyllae of Nees are a subtribe of the Jungermannieae. [B, 170, 308 (a, 35).]

PLATYPODIA (Lat.), n. f.  $Plat't(pla't)-i^2(u^6)-pod(po^2d)^2-i^2-a^2$ . From  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , flat, and  $\pi\upsilon\delta\varsigma$ , the foot. Fr., platypodie. See FLAT-FOOT.

PLATYRRHINE, adj.  $Plat't-i^2-r-i^2n$ . Lat., platyrrhinus (from  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , broad, and  $\rho\acute{\iota}\varsigma$ , the nose). Having the nose broad and flat. The Platyrrhini are a family of the Simiidae so characterized. The partition between the nostrils is not so narrow as in the Catarrhini. [A, 13 (a, 48).]

PLATYSMA (Lat.), n. n.  $Plat't(pla't)-i^2z(u^6s)^2ma^2$ . Gen., -ys'matos (-atis). Gr.,  $\pi\lambda\acute{\alpha}\tau\upsilon\sigma\mu\alpha$  (from  $\pi\lambda\alpha\upsilon\varsigma$ , to widen). Fr., platysme. A broad flat structure.—P. myodes, P. myoides. Fr., large du cou. Ger., breiter Halsmuskel, Hautstalsmuskel. A flat, thin, quadrangular, oblong layer of muscular fibres, external to the deep cervical fascia, which arises from the acromion, the clavicle, and the fascia covering the deloid, pectoralis major, and trapezius, and is inserted into the outer surface of the inferior

PLESSIMETER, n. Ple<sup>2</sup>a-jim'et-u<sup>6</sup>r. From πλήσσειν, to strike, and μέτρον, a measure. Fr., plessimètre. Ger., P. See PLEXIMETER.

PLEURISY, n. Plur'itis f. (Gr., νόσος πleuritis (or τὴν πleurῆν). Lat., pleuritis. Fr., pleurésie. Ger., Brustfellentzündung. Inflammation of the pleura. [D.]—Acreolar p. See Multilobular p.—Bilious p. See Bilious-PNEUMONIA.—Calcareous p. Fr., pleurésie calcaree. [a. 34.]—Dry p. Lat., pleuritis sicca. Fr., pleurésie sèche. p. with but little, if any, exudation. [a. 34.]—Dyscratic p. (Of F. Weber, a condition frequently found in still born infants, in which both pleural sacs, and usually the peritoneum and pericardium, contain a dirty, opaque, and foetid exudate; according to

Vogel, found only in lying-in hospitals and at the climax of epidemics of puerperal fever. [D, 39.]—Encysted p. P. with the effusion limited by adhesions. —Gangrenous p. Empyema with necrosis of the pleura. [a, 34.]—Ichorous p. Purulent p.—Infectious p. P., either primary or secondary, occurring as a localization of a general infection. [Comby, "Progr. méd.," Aug. 18, 1883, p. 652 (D).]—Interlobar p. P. affecting an interlobar space. [Hardy, "Med. and Surg. Rep.," June 8, 1882, p. 589.]—Hæmorrhagic p. P. attended by hæmorrhage, usually produced by coughing or muscular strain and due to rupture of the bands of organized matter which have been formed during the inflammatory process. 2. Purulent p. in which the effusion is rosy or red from contained blood-corpuses. [D; L, 49, 87, 88 (a, 50).]—Latent p. Fr., pleurésie torpide. P. in which general symptoms are absent, although auscultation and percussion reveal the presence of the disease, which may be severe, with considerable effusion. [B. F. Westbrook, "N. Y. Med. Jour.," Sept. 4, 1886, p. 253 (D).]—Mediastinal p. Fr., pleurésie médiastine. Inflammation of the pleura about the mediastinum. [a, 34.]—Metapneumonic p. P. occurring as a result of pneumonia. [a, 34.]—Milk p. Ger., Milchpleuritis. An old term for a form of p. attributed to milk metastasis. —Multifocal p. A form of encysted p. in which there are several compartments in the pleura, shut off from each other by septa formed of exudate. [B.]—P. root. The Asclepias tuberosa. [B, 215.]—Post-pneumonic p. See Metapneumonic p.—Pulsatile p. Pulsating p. See Pulsating empyema. —Purulent p. P. with purulent effusion. —Sclero-calcareous p. Chronic p. with circumscribed calcareous degeneration of the pleura. [L, 87 (a, 34).]—Secondary p. An infectious p. consequent upon specific inflammation in some part of the body. [a, 34.]—Serofibrinous p. Fr., pleurésie franchée. P. in which there is serous exudation with fibrinous organization within the pleural cavity. [a, 34.]—Spurious p. See PLEURODYNIA. —Subacute p. P. of lesser intensity than in the acute form. [D, 28.]—Suppurative p. See Purulent p.—Tuberculous p. P. due to tuberculous. [a, 34.]

PLEURITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-i}(\text{e})^2\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -it'idis (-idis). Ger., pleuritis (from πλευρά, the side). Fr., pleurite. Ger., P. See PLEURISY. —P. carcinomatosa. Of Mader, carcinoma of the pleura. [a, 34.]—P. deformans. The fibro-cartilaginous thickening of the pulmonary pleura occurring in cirrhosis pulmonalis. [A, 326 (a, 34).]—P. duplicata. Double pleurisy. —P. exquisita. P. idiopathica. See P. vera. —P. incapsulata. See Encysted pleurisy. —P. legitima. See P. vera. —P. pericardica, P. pericardii. See PERICARDITIS. —P. periodica. Of Sauvages, tertian fever accompanied by pleurodynia. [a, 34.]—P. pulsans. See Pulsating empyema. —P. sanguinea. See P. vera. —P. spuria. See PLEURODYNIA. —P. vera. Simple uncomplicated pleurisy. [L.]

PLEUROCARPOUS, adj.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o-ka}^2\text{rp-u}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., pleurocarpus (from πλευρόν, a rib, and καρπός, fruit). Of mosses, having the fruits (archegones) borne laterally in the leaf-axils, either on the main stem or on the branches. [B, 19, 170, 229, 291 (a, 35).]

PLEUROCELE (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}(\text{o})^2\text{-se}(\text{ka})^2\text{le}(\text{a})^2$ ; in Eng., plu'r-o-sel. Gen., -cel'es. From πλευρά, the side, and κήλη, a hernia. Fr., pleurocèle. 1. Lit., hernia of the pleura; more properly, hernia of the lung. [E.] 2. An effusion of serous fluid into the pleural cavity. [a, 34.]

PLEUROCCENADELPHUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}(\text{o})^2\text{-sen}(\text{ko}^2\text{-e}^2\text{n})^2\text{-a}^2\text{d}(\text{a}^2\text{d})^2\text{-e}^2\text{if}(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2\text{u}^2\text{s}$ . From πλευρά, the side, κοινός, common, and ἀδελφός, a brother. Fr., pleuroccenadelphie. Of Gurlt, a double monster with two nearly perfect bodies united laterally at the trunks. [L, 49 (a, 14).]

PLEURO-CUTANEOUS, adj.  $\text{Plur-o-ku}^2\text{t-an}^2\text{-e}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}$ . From πλευρά, the side, and cutis, the skin. Of a fistula, passing through both pleura and integument.

PLEURODYNE (Lat.), PLEURODYNIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{d-i}^2\text{n}(\text{u}^2\text{n})^2\text{-e}(\text{a})^2$ ,  $\text{-o}(\text{o})^2\text{-di}^2\text{n}(\text{u}^2\text{n})^2\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πλευρά, the side, and δύνη, pain. Fr., pleurodynie. Ger., Brustschmerz, Pleurodynie. Neuralgic pain localized at some spot in the chest-wall not in relation with the intercostal nerves. By some it is regarded as a myalgia caused by rheumatism of the thoracic muscles and fasciæ; by others as a neuralgia of the nerves of the pleura. [B; D, 1.]

PLEUROGYNE (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{g-i}(\text{o}^2\text{g})^2\text{i}^2\text{n}(\text{u}^2\text{n})^2\text{-e}(\text{a})^2$ . Gen., -og'ynes. Fr., p. A genus of gentianaceous herbs. [B, 121 (a, 35).] —P. rotata. A species the leaves of which are used as a vulnerary by the Tartars, and internally as a hemostatic in Russia. [B, 215; B, 173 (a, 35).]

PLEUROGYNOUS, adj.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{g-i}^2\text{n-u}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., pleurogynus (from πλευρόν, the side, and γυνή, a woman). Fr., pleurogyne. Ger., seitweibig. Of a stamen, standing by the side of and on the same level with the pistil. [B, 123 (a, 35).]

PLEUROGYRATE, adj.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{-ji}^2\text{r'at}$ . Lat., pleurogyratus (from πλευρόν, a rib, and γύρος, a circle). Of ferns, having the spore-case provided with a transverse annulus. [B, 19, 170 (a, 35).]

PLEUROMELUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{m-e}^2\text{l-u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . From πλευρά, the side, and μῆλος, a limb. Fr., pleuromèle. A monster characterized by accessory thoracic limbs whose scapulae are in contact with those of the normal limbs. [L, 49 (a, 14).]

PLEURON (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{n}$ . Gr., πλευρόν. 1. A rib. 2. The side of the body, especially of the thorax. [a, 48.] 3. See EPIMERE (1st def.).

PLEUROPATHY, n.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{p-a}^2\text{th-i}^2$ . Lat., pleuropathia (from πλευρά, the side, and πάθος, a disease). Fr., pleuropathie. Ger., P. Any disease of the pleura or of the respiratory organs. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

PLEURO-PERITONEAL, adj.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{-pe}^2\text{r-i}^2\text{-to}^2\text{n-e}^2\text{-a}^2\text{l}$ . From πλευρά, the side, and περιτόναιον, the peritonæum. Pertaining to or connected with the pleura and the peritonæum. [L.]

PLEUORRHAGIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{-ra}^2\text{g}(\text{ra}^2\text{g})^2\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πλευρά, the side, and ῥήγναι, to burst forth. Hæmorrhage from the pleura. [a, 34.]

PLEUORRHEA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{-re}(\text{ro}^2\text{e}^2)\text{-a}^2$ . From πλευρά, the side, and ῥέω, a flowing. Fr., pleurorrhée. A collection of fluid in the pleural cavity. [a, 34.]

PLEURORTHOPNEA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{rth-o}^2\text{p-ne}(\text{no}^2\text{-e}^2\text{a}^2)$ . From πλευρά, the side, ὀρθός, straight, and πνοή, breath. Fr., pleurorthopnée. Orthopneæ caused by pleurisy or pleurodynia. [a, 34.]

PLEUROSOMIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}(\text{o})^2\text{-som}^2\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πλευρά, the side, and σῶμα, the body. A form of monstrosity in which one side of the abdomen and thorax is open, the opening being covered by a membrane only. [L, 41, 44 (a, 14).]

PLEUROSPASMUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}(\text{o})^2\text{-spa}^2\text{z}(\text{spa}^2\text{s})^2\text{-mu}^2\text{s}(\text{mu}^2\text{s})^2$ . From πλευρά, the side, and σπασμός, spasm. Fr., pleurospasme. Spasmodic pain in the chest. [L, 41, 50 (a, 14).]

PLEUROSTOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{st-os}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -os'eos (-is). From πλευρά, the side, and στέον, a bone. Fr., pleurostose. Calcification of the pleura. [L, 41, 44, 50 (a, 14).]

PLEUROTHOTONOS, PLEUROTHOTONUS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{th-o}^2\text{t-o}^2\text{n-o}^2\text{s}$ ,  $\text{-u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . From πλευρόθεν, from the side, and τόνος, a straining. Fr., p. A form of tetanus in which the body is bent to one side by tonic spasm. [D; E.]

PLEUROTOMY, n.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{r-o}^2\text{t-o}^2\text{m-i}^2$ . From πλευρά, the side, and τομή, a cutting. An incision into the pleural cavity. [E.]

PLEXIFORM, adj.  $\text{Pl}^2\text{e}^2\text{x'i}^2\text{-fo}^2\text{rm}$ . Lat., plexiformis (from plexus [q. v.], and forma, form). Fr., plexiforme. Ger., geflechtartig. Having the form of a plexus.

PLEXIMETER, n.  $\text{Pl}^2\text{e}^2\text{x-i}^2\text{m-e}^2\text{t-u}^2\text{r}$ . Lat., pleximetrum (from πλῆξ, a stroke, and μέτρον, due measure). Fr., pleximètre. Ger., Percussionsmesser. A thin, flat piece of some hard substance to be placed upon a part to be percussed, in order to receive the taps of the hammer in mediate percussion. [E.]

PLEXUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pl}^2\text{e}^2\text{x-u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})^2$ . Gen., plex'us. From plectere, to twist. Fr., p. Ger., Geflecht. Lit., a braiding or twining. A complex or intricate collection of vessels or nerves. [C.] —Abdominal aortic p. Lat., p. aortic abdominalis. Fr., p. aortique abdominale. Ger., Bauchortaengeflecht. A sympathetic p. situated along the abdominal aorta. [L, 332.]—Äusserer weisser Nervenp. (Ger.). Of Krause, a p. of nerve-fibres in the second layer of the cortex cerebri. [L, 7 (K).]—Anterior coronary p. Lat., p. coronarius anterior. Ger., vorderes Kranzgeflecht des Herzens. A p. formed of fibres from the deep and superficial cardiac p's, situated between the aorta and pulmonary artery, and distributed concomitantly with the anterior coronary artery. [L, 143, 332.]—Anterior gastric p. Lat., p. gastricus anterior. Ger., vorderes Magengeflecht. The portion of the gastric p. lying upon the anterior surface of the stomach, made up of branches of the pneumogastric nerve and connected with the œsophageal p. [L, 332.]—Anterior pulmonary p. Lat., p. pulmonalis anterior. Ger., vorderes Lungengeflecht. A p. formed by the union of the anterior pulmonary branches of the pneumogastric nerve with the sympathetic nerves around the pulmonary artery. [C.]—Anterior uterine p. Lat., p. uterinus anterior. Ger., vorderes (oder unteres) Gebärmuttergeflecht. A p. formed by branches from the inferior hypogastric p., distributed to the cervix and anterior surface of the uterus. [L, 332.]—Basilar p. Of Virchow, the transverse sinus. [C.]—Brachial p. Lat., p. brachialis. Ger., Achselgeflecht. Armgeflecht. A nervous p. made up of the anterior branches of the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth cervical and first dorsal spinal nerves. The branches of the fifth and sixth cervical unite to form a single cord; those of the eighth cervical and the first dorsal also unite; but that of the seventh cervical remains single. At the outer border of the scapula each cord divides into an anterior and a posterior branch, and all the posterior branches unite to form the middle or posterior cord of the p. The anterior branches of the cord formed from the fifth and sixth cervical nerves and from the seventh cervical nerve unite to form the outer or upper cord. The inner or lower cord of the trunk, formed by the union of the eighth cervical and first dorsal nerves, remains single. In the upper part of their course all the trunks are close together, and are external to the axillary artery and vein, but lower down they are situated one behind the axillary artery, another on its inner side, and the other on its outer side. Above the clavicle the posterior thoracic and suprascapular nerves and unimportant branches to the muscles in the vicinity are given off. From the outer cord the musculocutaneous nerve and the outer root of the median nerve are given off; from the inner the nerve of Wrisberg, the ulnar and internal cutaneous nerves, and the inner root of the median nerve; and from the posterior the circumflex, musculo-spiral, and subscapular nerves. [L, 31, 142, 172, 332.]—Cardiac p. A nervous p. connected with the heart, especially by the superficial cardiac p. [L.]—Carotid p. Lat., p. caroticus. Fr., p. carotide. Ger., inneres Kopfadergeflecht. A sympathetic p. situated in the carotid canal, on the outer side of the internal carotid artery; connected with the sixth cranial nerve and the Gasserian and superior cervical ganglia, and distributed to the internal carotid artery. [L, 142, 332.]—Cavernous p. Lat., p. cavernosus. Fr., p. cavernosus. A sympathetic p. in the cavernous sinus, upon and below the highest portion of the internal carotid artery, which furnishes branches to that vessel and connects with the third, fourth, and fifth cranial nerves. [L, 142, 332.]—Cervical p. Lat., p. cervicalis, cervicalplex. Fr., p. cervical. Ger., Halsgeflecht. A p. made up of the union of the anterior divisions of the four upper cervical nerves, lying in front of the upper ends of the scalenus medius and levator scapulae and beneath the sternocleidomastoideus. Each nerve is united to the one above and the one below by an ascending and a descending branch, which join to form a loop, except the first, which has a descending branch only. It gives off superficial branches supplying the integument of the neck and the platysma myoides, and deep branches which are almost exclusively muscular. [L, 31, 142, 332.]—Choroid p. Ger., chorioidisches Geflecht. Adernetze, Gefäßhaut, Wundernetz. Vascular prolongations of the pia, best marked in the lateral ventricles of the brain, where they are covered with villous projections. Histologically they are covered with a layer of large epithelial cells and spheroidal corpuscles, filled with pigment and fat-drops. The third and fourth ventricles contain similar p's. [I, 15 (K).]—Ciliary p. See CANAL of Schlemm.—Coccygeal p. Ger., Steissgeflecht. A small p. (one on each side) on the posterior surface of the coccyx and the lower end of the sacrum. It is formed of branches from the fourth and fifth sacral and coccygeal nerves, and the anococcygeal nerves are derived from it. [L, 332.]—Coeliac p. See SOLAR p.—Cranial p. Ger., Kopfgeflecht. Any nervous or venous p. within the cranium. [L.]—Crural p. 1. See LUMBAR p. 2. Branches of the anterior crural nerve surrounding the upper portion of the femoral artery. [L, 332.]—Cystic p. A p. formed from branches of the hepatic p. which accompanies the cystic artery to the gall-bladder. [C.]—Deep cardiac p. The deep portion of the superficial cardiac p. [L, 31.]—Diaphragmatic p. Ger., Zwerchfellgeflecht. A sympathetic p. formed by the nerves of the upper part of the solar p., situated on the lower surface of the diaphragm, to which it is principally distributed. [L, 31, 332.]—Epigastric p. See SOLAR p.—External carotid p. Ger., äusseres Kopfadergeflecht. A p. on the lower portion of the external carotid artery, intimately connected with the pharyngeal p., superior cardiac nerve, and superior cervical ganglion; distributed to the external carotid artery and its branches. [L, 332.]—External maxillary p. A derivative of the external carotid p. following the distribution of the submaxillary artery. [L, 332.]—Fibrilliplex (Ger.). A p. or network of the fibrils of a nerve-fibre at its termination. [Kühne, "Ztschr. f. Biol.," 1896, p. 100 (J).]—Ganglion p. The plexiform arrangement of the two roots of origin of the inferior maxillary nerve. [L, 7, 31.]—Ganglion p. Fr., p. ganglionnaire. Ger., Gangliengeflecht. A nervous p. containing ganglion cells in its meshes. [L, 7.]—Gastric p. Ger., Magengeflecht. A prolongation of the oesophageal p. which distributes branches to the anterior and posterior surfaces of the stomach. [L, 31, 332.]—Gastroduodenal p. An offshoot of the solar p. distributed to the duodenum and the adjoining portion of the stomach. [L.]—Gastro-epiploic p. A sympathetic p. formed by branches from the coeliac p., and following the gastro-epiploic artery. [C.]—Gefässp. (Ger.). See VENOUS p.—Grundp. (Ger.). A principal p., such as that of nerves distributed to muscular-fibre cells. [J, 35.]—Hæmorrhoidal p. 1. A nervous p. made up of branches from the middle hæmorrhoidal nerves and of the pudendal p.; distributed to the lower half of the rectum. 2. A freely anastomosing venous p. immediately beneath the mucous membrane of the lower part of the rectum, from which the inferior, middle, and superior hæmorrhoidal veins arise. [L, 142, 332.]—Hepatic p. Ger., Lebergeflecht. A nervous p. derived from the solar p. It enters the liver with the hepatic vessels, and is distributed with the hepatic artery and portal veins. [L, 142, 332.]—Hypogastric p. Ger., Beckengeflecht. An unpaired nervous p. derived from the abdominal aortic p. and the lumbar ganglia of the sympathetic nerve, situated in front of the last lumbar vertebra, and between the common iliac arteries. It divides into two portions, which descend on the two sides of the rectum, forming the inferior hypogastric p's. [L, 142, 332.]—Hypogastric p. of lymphatics. Lat., p. lymphaticus hypogastricus. A lymphatic p. within the pelvis. [L, 332.]—Iliac p. Ger., Krummdarmgeflecht. A lymphatic p. upon the internal and external iliac arteries. [L, 332.]—Inferior dental p. Ger., unteres Zahngeflecht. A nervous p. formed by branches from the dental branches of the inferior dental nerve. [C.]—Inferior hypogastric p. Ger., unteres Beckengeflecht. The prolongation (one on each side) of the hypogastric p. on the side of the rectum in the male and of the vagina in the female. It receives branches from the first, second, third, and fourth sacral nerves, and is distributed to the pelvic viscera. [L, 31, 142, 332.]—Inferior maxillary p. See INFERIOR DENTAL p.—Inferior mesenteric p. Ger., unteres Gekrösgeflecht. An unpaired p. derived from the left side of the aortic abdominal p. and distributed to the descending colon, the sigmoid flexure, and the upper portion of the rectum. [L, 31, 142, 332.]—Inferior ovarian p. A nervous p. lying between the folds of the broad ligament and distributed to the ovary and the round ligament. [L, 7.]—Infra-orbital p. Lat., pes anserinus minor. A nervous p. formed from the terminal branches of the infra-orbital nerve and branches of the facial nerve. [C.]—Innerer weisser Nervenzp. (Ger.). The sixth layer of the cortex cerebri. [I, 17 (K).]—Interlaminar p. [Auerbach]. A lymphatic p. in the muscular coat of the intestines. [L, 142.]—Interlobular biliary p. A p. formed by the interlobular biliary ducts or canals. [L, 332.]—Interlobular venous p. The p. formed by the interlobular veins of the liver. [L.]—Intermesenteric p. See ABDOMINAL AORTIC p.—Intermuscular intestinal p. See P. of Auerbach.—Internal carotid p. See CAROTID p.—Internal maxillary p. A p. on the internal maxillary artery derived from the external carotid p. [L, 332.]—Intrarachidian p's. The venous p's within the spinal canal. [L.]—Ischiadic p. See SACRAL p.—Jugular lymphatic p. Ger., Drosselgeflecht. A lymphatic p. on the side of the neck, lying over the jugular veins. [L, 332.]—Lateral choroid p's. The choroid p's of the lateral ventricles. [I, 29 (K).]—Lateral hypogastric p's. The inferior hypogastric p's. [L.]—Lingual p. A derivative of the external carotid p. following the lingual artery. [L, 332.]—Lumbar p. Lat., p. lumbalis (seu lumbaris). Fr., p. lombaire. Ger., Lendengeflecht. A nervous p. formed by the anterior divisions of the four upper lumbar spinal nerves. It lies behind or within the substance of the psoas magnus and in front of the transverse processes of the four upper lumbar vertebrae. It is united with the last dorsal nerve by a small nerve, and with the sacral p. by a branch between the fourth and fifth lumbar nerves. From the first lumbar nerve are given off the iliohypogastric and ilio-inguinal nerves, and a branch to the second lumbar nerve; from the second lumbar nerve, the external cutaneous and genito-crural nerves and a branch to the third lumbar nerve; from the third lumbar nerve, a branch to the fourth nerve, one to the anterior crural nerve, and another to the obturator nerve; and from the fourth, branches to the anterior crural and obturator nerves and to the fifth lumbar nerve. [L, 31, 142, 172, 332.]—Lumbo-sacral p. Ger., Lendenkreuzgeflecht. The lumbar and sacral p's regarded as one. [L, 332.]—Lymphaderp (Ger.). Lymphatic p. A network of lymphatic vessels and glands. [L.]—Malleal p. Manubrial p. A venous p. about the manubrium mallei. [a, 29.]—Median hypogastric p. See HYPOGASTRIC p.—Median meningeal p. A p. derived from the external carotid p., and following the distribution of the middle meningeal artery. [L, 332.]—Medullary-spinal p. The venous p. surrounding the spinal cord. [L, 332.] Cf. Medullary-spinal veins.—Meissner's p. See P. of Meissner.—Mesenteric p's. Ger., Gekrösgeflechte. See INFERIOR MESENTERIC p. and SUPERIOR MESENTERIC p.—Myenteric p. See P. of Auerbach.—Naso-palatine p. Lat., p. naso-palatina. Ger., Nasengangengeflecht. A p. uniting the naso-palatine nerves in the incisive foramen. [L, 332.]—Oesophageal p. Ger., Schlundgeflecht. A nervous p. formed of branches of the pneumogastric nerve and the dorsal ganglia of the sympathetic nerve surrounding the oesophagus. [L, 142, 332.] Cf. P. oesophageus anterior and P. oesophageus posterior.—Ovarian p. 1. See PAMPINIFORM p. 2. A p. derived from the hypogastric p. which follows the course of the ovarian artery. [L, 7.]—Pampiniform p. Ger., traubenförmiges Geflecht. 1. A venous p. which, receiving blood from the uterus, the oviduct, and the ovary, becomes condensed into a single trunk on each side, the internal spermatic vein, which empties into the renal vein on the right side, and into the ascending vena cava on the left side. [A, 32.] 2. In the male, the spermatic p. [L.]—Pancreatico-duodenal p. A sympathetic p. formed by branches of the coeliac p., and following the distribution of the coeliac artery. [C.]—Parotid p. Ger., Ohrdrüsengeflecht. See PES ANSERINUS MAJOR.—Patellar p. Lat., p. patella. A p. formed over the patella by the union of branches from the patellar branch of the internal saphenous and the internal, middle, and external cutaneous nerves. [C.]—Pelvic p. Ger., Beckengeflecht. See INFERIOR HYPOGASTRIC p.—Perineal p. A venous p. consisting of two parts: one, superficial, formed by the veins of the labia majora and some of those from the preputium clitoridis and bulb, passing to the superficial epigastric and pudic and the external obturator veins; the other, deep, receiving the veins of the corpus cavernosum clitoridis, veins from the bulb, and a branch descending from the dorsal vein of the clitoris along the inferior ramus of the pubes, and terminating in the internal pudic trunk, which is joined by the superficial perineal and the inferior hæmorrhoidal veins as it runs backward to open into the internal iliac trunk. [Tschausow, "Arch. f. Anat.," Nov., 1885; "Am. Jour. of the Med. Sci.," Apr., 1886, p. 571 (a, 29).]—Pharyngeal p. Ger., Schlundkopfgeflecht. 1. A nervous p. on the side of the pharynx, nearly on a level with the middle constrictor, derived from the pneumogastric and glossopharyngeal nerves and the superior cervical ganglion. 2. A venous p. around the pharynx. [L, 332.]—Phrenic

pany with their arteries. [L. 31, 142, 332.]—Spermatic p. Ger., Samengeflecht. Rankengeflecht (2d def.). 1. A derivative of the abdominal aortic and renal p's, distributed to the same parts as the spermatic artery. 2. The p. of convoluted veins around the spermatic cord. [L. 142, 332.]—Spinal p's. Venous p's along the anterior aspect of the spinal column. [L. 332.] See P. spinalis anterior and P. spinalis posterior.—Splenic p. Ger., Milzgeflecht. A p. made up of branches from the left semilunar ganglion and the right pneumogastric nerve, and distributed to the spleen along with the splenic artery and its branches. [L. 142, 332.]—Submucous intestinal p. See P. of Meissner.—Superficial cardiac p. Ger., Herzgeflecht. Hernnervengeflecht. A p. derived from the sympathetic nerve, situated in the middle of the upper portion of the chest, between the arch of the aorta and the base of the heart, and re-enforced by branches of the inferior, middle, and superior cardiac, hypoglossal, and pneumogastric nerves. [L. 332.]—Superior dental p. Ger., oberes Zahngeflecht. A p. of nerves formed by the union of branches from the superior dental nerves and distributed to the teeth and gums. [C.]—Superior hypogastric p. Ger., oberes Beckengeflecht. See Hypogastric p.—Superior mesenteric p. Lat., p. mesentericus. Ger., oberes Gekrösgeflecht. A p. derived from the solar p. It receives a branch from the right pneumogastric nerve, surrounds the superior mesenteric artery and is distributed along with it and its branches. [L. 31, 142, 332.]—Supramaxillary p. Fr., p. supra-maxillaire. Ger., Oberkiefergeflecht. A nervous p. or ganglion situated above the root of an upper incisor tooth, containing nerve-cells. [L. 332.]—Suprarenal p. Fr., p. surrénal. Ger., Nebennierengeflecht. A p. accessory to the renal p., also receiving fibres from the diaphragmatic and solar p's, and distributed to the suprarenal capsules. [L. 332.]—Sympathetic p. A p. of branches of the sympathetic nerve. [a. 48.]—Thoracic aortic p. Ger., Brustartengeflecht. A sympathetic p. derived from the thoracic ganglia of the sympathetic nerve and the cardiac p. It surrounds the thoracic aorta and connects with the solar p. through the aortic opening in the diaphragm. [L. 332.]—Tympanic p. Ger., Paukengeflecht. tympanisches Nervengeflecht. The tympanic portion of the tympanic nerve; so called because it contains so great a number of large ganglion cells, either solitary or grouped, and thus makes numerous connections with other important ganglia and nerves. [F. 4.]—Urethro-vesical p. A p. of veins which lies on the front and sides of the urethra and lower part of the bladder. Into it enter the dorsal vein of the clitoris, the right and left pudic veins, short veins from the corpora cavernosa clitoridis, a communicating branch with the obturator vein, and slender branches from the wall of the urethra and neck of the bladder. [Tschausow, "Arch. f. Anat.", Nov., 1885; "Am. Jour. of the Med. Sci.", Apr., 1886, p. 571 (a. 29).]—Uterine p's (of nerves). Ger., Gebärmuttergeflecht. See Anterior uterine p. and Posterior uterine p.—Uterine (venous) p. Lat., p. uterinus. Fr., p. utérin. The venous p. which, receiving blood from the uterus alone, extends between the folds of the broad ligament and empties into the hypogastric vein. [A. 22.]—Utero-vaginal p. A venous p. surrounding the vagina, the cervix uteri, and the body of the uterus. It includes the uterine and vaginal p's. [L. 332; Tschausow, "Arch. f. Anat.", Nov., 1885; "Am. Jour. of the Med. Sci.", Apr., 1886, p. 571.]—Vaginal p. Ger., Mutterscheidengeflecht. A venous p. surrounding the vagina and communicating freely with the hæmorrhoidal and vesical p's. [C. L. 142.]—Vascular p. Ger., Gefäßgeflecht. Gefäßknäuel. A p. of intercommunicating blood-vessels. [L.]—Venous p. Ger., venöses Geflecht. Venengeflecht. Adergeflecht. Aderstranggeflecht. Gefäßp. A network of intercommunicating veins. [L.]—Vertebral p. Lat., p. vertebro-basilaris. A nervous p. surrounding the vertebral artery, in the vertebral canal, derived from the first dorsal ganglion of the sympathetic nerve and the upper cervical nerves. It is prolonged into the cranium, following the basilar artery. [L. 332.]—Vesical p. Ger., Blasengeflecht. Geflecht der Harnblasenvenen (2d def.). 1. A nervous p. derived from the inferior hypogastric p's, and distributed to the fundus of the urinary bladder. 2. A venous network external to the muscular coat of the bladder, which communicates freely with the hæmorrhoidal and prostatic p's in the male and with the vaginal p's in the female. [L. 142, 332.]

PLUMACEOUS, adj.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{m-a}^2\text{-shu}^2\text{s}$ . From pluma, a feather. Of feathers, intermediate in structure between pennaceous and filopennaceous, having a short weak stem, a soft rachis, barbs, and long slender barbules, with no hamuli. [L. 221.]

PLUMALE (Lat.), n. f. pl.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{m}(\text{plum})^2\text{-al}^2(\text{a}^2)\text{-e}^2(\text{a}^2\text{-u}^2)$ . From pluma, a feather, and ala, a wing. See DOWN FEATHERS.

PLUMBAGIN, n.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{m}^2\text{ba}^2\text{-j}^2\text{-in}$ . Fr., plumbagine, plombagine. A substance having at first a sweetish and afterward a sharp taste, found in Plumbago europæa. [B. 5, 38, 93, 270 (a, 14, 38).]

PLUMBAGO (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{m}(\text{plu}^2\text{m})^2\text{-ba}^2(\text{ba}^2)\text{-go}$ . Gen., -agin. From plumbum, lead. Fr., dentelaire (2d def.). Ger., Bleiwurz (2d def.). 1. See GRAPHITE. 2. Leadwort; a genus of the Plumbaginaceae. The Plumbagaceae (Fr., plumbagées) are a tribe of the Plumbaginaceae. The Plumbaginaceae of Lindley (Fr., plumbaginacées) are an order of the Cortusales agreeing essentially with the Plumbaginaceae. The Plumbagineae are: Of Jussieu, the Plumbagineae; of Endlicher, a class of gamopetalous Acramphibrya. The Plumbaginaceae (Fr., plumbaginées; Ger., Plumbagineen) are the leadworts, an order (Bentham and Hooker) of the Primulales. Some species are astringent, others acid or escharotic. [B. 19, 34, 42, 170, 180 (a, 35)]. —P. europæa. Fr., dentelaire d'Europe, herbe au cancer (ou de la vache), malthère. Ger., europäische Bleiwurz, Zahnwurz, Antonskraut. European leadwort. The entire plant is acid and, when fresh, vesicatory. It contains plumbagin. The root and herb, radix et herba dentariae (seu dentariae majoris, seu dentillariae, seu plumbaginis, seu plumbaginis europæae), were formerly official, the former being also known as radix squamale (seu squamarie), radix Antonii sancti, and radix ambliati, and the latter as herba Sancti Antonii. The root is still used in France in toothache, and its decoction in olive-oil is recommended in skin diseases, especially itch. [B. 5, 19, 173, 180, 185 (a, 35)]. —P. lapathifolia. 1. See P. europæa. 2. A species resembling P. europæa in properties. It is the επιβαλίων of Dioscorides, the root of which was used in dropsy. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35)]. —P. rosea. Fr., dentelaire rose. Ger., rosenrothe Bleiwurz. The rose-colored leadwort of the East Indies, where the root, bruised and mixed with oil, is used as an embrocation, and internally in rheumatism and paralysis. The leaves are applied to buboes and incipient abscesses. In Java the root is used as a vesicant and in rheumatism, leprosy, ulcers, etc. The plant is an acro-narcotic poison. Hindoo women are said to introduce pieces of the wood into the uterus in order to produce abortion. [B. 172, 173, 180 (a, 35); J. Clarke, "Ind. Med. Gaz.," June, 1885, p. 187.] —P. scandens. Fr., dentelaire grimpante, herbe au diable (ou d'amour). Ger., klimmende Bleiwurz. Sp., yerba del alacrán [Mex. Ph.]. Devil's-herb, the toothwort of the West Indies and South America. The leaves and root are irritants, applied externally; the former are a dangerous emetic, and the latter is a purgative, taken internally. They are both used in snake-bites and skin diseases. [J. M. Maisch, "Am. Jour. of Pharm.," Apr., 1886, p. 168; B. 173, 180, 185, 275 (a, 35)]. —P. zeylanica. Fr., dentelaire de Ceylan. Ger., ceylonische Bleiwurz. Beng., chitra. Hind., chita. An East Indian species having properties like those of P. rosea, but milder. The root is sudorific, stomachic, and vesicatory, and is applied to buboes, etc. The powdered root is also said to be used by the natives to produce abortion. The root-bark is recommended as an antiperiodic. [B. 172, 173, 180 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxviii, p. 118 (a, 50).]

PLUMBAL, adj.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{m}^2\text{b}^2\text{-l}$ . Lat., plumbalis (from plumbum, lead). Of the Plumbales, which are Lindley's p. alliance (Lat., plumbalis) of the Aggregatae, consisting of the Plumbaginaceae. [B. 170 (a, 35).]

PLUMBEOUS (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{m}(\text{plu}^2\text{m})^2\text{-be}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{e})$ . In botany, lead-colored. [B. 296 (a, 35).]

PLUMBIC, adj.  $\text{Plu}^2\text{m}^2\text{b}^2\text{-ik}$ . Lat., plumbicus. Of or pertaining to lead; containing lead (designating that one of two similar chemical compounds which contains the lesser proportion of lead). [B.]. —P. acid. Fr., acide plombique. Ger., Bleisäure. A dibasic acid,  $\text{PbO}(\text{OH})_2$ , produced in the electrolysis of the lead salts. [B. 3.]

Ph.]), emplastrum oxydi (seu oxidi [Swed. Ph.]) plumbici [Dan. Ph., Netherl. Ph., Norw. Ph.], emplastrum plumbicum [Finn. Ph.], emplastrum simplex. Lead plaster, the basis of many pharmaceutical plasters; consisting of a lead soap made by saponifying 60 parts of olive-oil with 32 of lead oxide and boiling with water till the whole is reduced to a homogeneous, white, tenacious mass, which should be completely soluble in oil of turpentine [U. S. Ph.]. The Br. preparation is made by boiling together 1 part each of lead oxide and water and 2 parts of olive-oil. The preparations of the Belg., Ger., Netherl., and Russ. Ph.'s are made up of equal parts of lead oxide, olive-oil, and lard, with enough water. The Fr. preparation, emplâtre simple, is made by mixing 1 part each of lard, and olive-oil with 2 parts of water, heating, adding 1 part of powdered lead oxide, and boiling the mixture till it attains a uniform consistence, when the water is removed by expression. The preparations of the Austr., Hung., Roum., Sp., Swed., and Norw. Ph.'s have twice as much lard [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph., Roum. Ph.] (olive-oil [Sp. Ph., Swed. Ph., Norw. Ph.]) as lead oxide, and enough water. The Swiss preparation contains 9 parts each of lard and either olive-oil or sesame-oil, with 10 of lead oxide, and enough water; the Dan., Finn., and Gr. Ph.'s direct 9 parts of olive-oil with 5 of lead oxide and enough water. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Emplastum plumbi carbonatis. Plaster of carbonate of lead. Of the U. S. Ph., 1890, a preparation made by boiling together 1 lb. of lead carbonate and 2 pints of olive-oil and adding 4 oz. of yellow wax, 1 lb. of lead plaster, and 9 oz. of Florentine orris. [B. 5.] Cf. Emplastum CERUSÆ [Ger. Ph.].—Emplastum plumbi carbonatis ustum. Ger., Bleicarbonatpflaster. Sp., emplasto de cerusa quemado [Sp. Ph.]. A plaster made of 72 parts of olive-oil, 12 of powdered lead carbonate, 6 of tatty, heated together, mixed with 8 parts of yellow wax, heated again, and before solidifying, mixed with 1 part of liquid balsam of Peru. Similar preparations containing also iris, marsh-mallow, and sweet-flag, were formerly official as the emplastrum benedictum Musitani, etc. [B. 95.]—Emplastum plumbi compositum [Swiss Ph., Russ. Ph.]. Fr., emplâtre diachylon gommé [Fr. Cod.]. Sp., emplasto de plomo compuesto (y gomado) [Sp. Ph.]. Roum., emplastru de plumb compus [Roum. Ph.]. Syn.: emplastrum ammoniaco-galbanicum [Finn. Ph.] (seu diachylon compositum [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph.], seu diachylon gummosum [Belg. Ph., 2d ed.], seu gummi-resinosum [Dan. Ph., Norw. Ph., Swed. Ph.], seu gummosum [Netherl. Ph.], seu lithargyri compositum [Ger. Ph., Gr. Ph.]). Compound lead plaster, consisting chiefly of lead plaster and wax, with which the different pharmacopœias incorporate small quantities of other ingredients. With 24 parts of lead plaster are incorporated 3 [Finn. Ph., Ger. Ph., Gr. Ph., Russ. Ph., Swiss Ph., Netherl. Ph.] (4 [Dan. Ph.], 8 [Swed. Ph.]) of yellow wax, 2 each [Ger. Ph., Gr. Ph., Russ. Ph., Swiss Ph., Dan. Ph.] (1 each [Finn. Ph.], 3 each [Netherl. Ph.], 4 each [Swed. Ph.]) of powdered ammoniac and powdered galbanum, with 1 part of turpentine [Finn. Ph.] (2 of turpentine and enough water [Ger. Ph.], 2 of turpentine [Gr. Ph., Russ. Ph.], 2 of larch turpentine [Swiss Ph., Netherl. Ph.]), the plaster being colored with annatto rubbed up with alcohol, which is afterward evaporated off [Dan. Ph.]; or 30 parts of yellow wax (32 [Hung. Ph.]) are incorporated with 200 of lead plaster, 16 of resin, 25 of powdered ammoniac, and 8 of turpentine [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph.]; or 716 parts of lead plaster with 71 each of yellow wax, powdered ammoniac, powdered galbanum, and larch turpentine [Belg. Ph.]; or 35 of lead plaster with 6 of yellow wax, 1 of dilute alcohol, and 3 each of powdered ammoniac, powdered galbanum, and turpentine [Norw. Ph.]; or 141 of lead plaster with 24 of yellow wax, 12 of colophony, 17 of powdered ammoniac, and 6 of turpentine [Roum. Ph.]. The emplâtre diachylon gommé of the Fr. Cod. is made by mixing 62 parts each of lard, olive-oil, and litharge with 125 of water, evaporating off most of the excess of water, adding to the warm mixture a further mixture of 10 parts each of bruised ammoniac and galbanum, 6 of oil of turpentine, and 4 times as much water, previously heated into an emulsion, strained, and evaporated to the consistence of honey, and also a melted and strained mixture of 12 parts each of yellow wax, white resin, and larch turpentine, and stirring till cool. The emplasto de plomo compuesto of the Sp. Ph. contains 72 parts of lead plaster, 4 of purified suet, and 1 part of isinglass dissolved in water, the moisture being afterward dissipated by evaporation, and 4 parts each of yellow wax and resin and 6 of turpentine, previously melted together and strained, being added; the emplasto de plomo gomado consists of 1,035 parts of the emplasto de plomo compuesto plus a finely powdered mixture of 30 parts each of ammoniac and bdellium, 40 of galbanum, and 15 of asafoetida. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Emplastum plumbi iodidi [Br. Ph.]. (see iodati). Fr., emplâtre d'iodure de plomb. Ger., Jodbleipflaster, Bleiiodürpflaster. Syn.: emplastrum ioduretii plumbi [Belg. Ph.]. Plaster of lead iodide; made by melting together 1 part of colophony and 8 parts of litharge plaster, and adding 1 part of lead iodide [Br. Ph.]; or consisting of 80 parts of Burgundy pitch plaster, 40 of powdered lead iodide, and 6 of olive-oil. The Br. preparation contains 10 per cent. and the Belg. Ph. 14 per cent. of lead iodide. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Emplastum plumbi molle [Russ. Ph.]. See Emplastum LITHARGYRI molle.—Emplastum plumbi nigrum. Fr., emplâtre de plomb noir. A plaster consisting of 57 parts each of lead sulphide and litharge, 29 each of lead carbonate and crude antimony, 1,035 of oil of roses, and 259 of white wax. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—Emplastum plumbi rubrum. A preparation made by boiling together 115 parts each of red-rose petals, myrtle berries, the root and herb of Symphytum majus, and the tops of Hypericum perforatum and 3,105 of water, straining, adding to a part of this colature a mixture of 690 parts of powdered litharge, 1,380 of olive-oil, and 180 of mutton suet, boiling with the rest of the colature to plaster consistence, evaporating off the moisture, melting with 345 parts of yellow wax and 90 of turpentine, and, when cool, adding 58 parts each of mastic and oilbanum, 85 of dragon's blood, 115 of Armenian bole, and 175 of red lead oxide (all in powder). [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Emplastum plumbi subcarbonatis compositum. A preparation made by boiling together 393 parts of lead carbonate and 946 of olive-oil and adding 590 of simple plaster and 125 of yellow wax, and when these are melted, 280 of powdered iris. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—Extractum plumbi. See Liquor plumbi subacetatis.—Flores plumbi. See Flowers of lead.—Glycerinum plumbi subacetatis [Br. Ph.]. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Glycerinum tannatis plumbi [Belg. Ph.]. A preparation made by mixing a solution of 5 parts of finely cut oak-bark in 24 of water (heated for 2 hours over the water-bath and strained) with 2 of solution of lead subacetate, gathering the precipitate on thick linen cloth, expressing gently, and adding to the residue two thirds as much glycerite of starch [Belg. Ph.]. The Swed. Ph. orders the oak-bark, steamed in water enough to obtain 50 parts of colature, to be precipitated with the lead solution 2 parts by weight, and to this 1 part of glycerin added. The Sp. Ph. triturates 1 part of lead tannate with glycerin, and adds 15 parts of hog's lard. The other preparations consist of 5 parts of tannic acid with 10 of solution of lead subacetate and 85 of lard [Ger. Ph.] (or of vaselin [Hung. Ph.]), or with 5 of alcohol, 30 of the lead solution, and 150 of simple ointment [Swiss Ph.], or with 10 of alcohol, 30 of lead solution, and 120 of wax ointment [Russ. Ph.]. Vinegar of lead, Goulard's extract, solution of sub-acetate of lead : made by adding 12 parts of lead oxide to an aqueous solution of 17 parts of normal lead acetate, and mixing with water up to 100 parts [U. S. Ph.]. The preparation of the Br. Ph. is almost exactly identical in strength with that of the U. S. Ph., each containing about 25 per cent. of the mixed basic acetates of lead. In both the Ger. Ph. and the Fr. Cod. the proportion of lead acetate to lead oxide is 3 to 1, but in the preparation of the Ger. Ph. the lead is dissolved in 10 parts of water, and in that of the Fr. Cod. in 7 parts of water. The Dan., Norw., and Swed. preparations contain 20 per cent. of the acetates. The preparations of the other pharmacopœias have essentially the same proportions as the Ger. and Fr. preparations, except that the Dutch consists of 16 parts of crude lead acetate, 9 of lead oxide, and 62 of boiling water, the Hung. and Roum. have two parts instead of 3 of lead acetate to 1 part of the oxide, and the Finn. Ph. dissolves in 16 parts of water. Some of the older pharmacopœias dissolved litharge, red lead oxide, or lead carbonate in 4 times as much vinegar. [B; B. 95, 119 (a, 38).]—Liquor plumbi subacetatis dilutus [U. S. Ph., Br. Ph.]. Fr., lotion à l'acétate de plomb, lotion dite de Goulard [Fr. Dilute solution of subacetate of lead, lead water : made by diluting the solution of subacetate of lead with water. For 1 part of the solution of subacetate of lead are used 32 parts of water [U. S. Ph.], 61.2 of water, and 0.657 part of alcohol [Br. Ph.], 49 parts of water for the lotion à l'acétate de plomb, or 45 of water and 4 of alcohol vulnèraire for the lotion dite de Goulard [Fr. Cod.]. The other pharmacopœias direct as follows : with one part of the solution of subacetate of lead 20 parts [Netherl. Ph.] (24 [Gr. Ph.]) of water (45 of water and 4 of alcohol [Dan. Ph., Norw. Ph., Swed. Ph.], 45 of water and 4 of dilute alcohol [Finn. Ph.], 86 of water and 1 of alcohol [Sp. Ph.], 46 of water and 24 of alcohol [Roum. Ph.]); or 50 parts of water [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph.] (49 [Ger. Ph., Swiss Ph., Russ. Ph.], 324 [Belg. Ph.]) for aqueous dilutions, and 50 of water and 2 of alcohol [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph.] (49 of water and 1 of alcohol [Swiss Ph.], 45 of water and 4 of alcohol [Ger. Ph., Russ. Ph.], 50 of water and 1 of alcohol [Belg. Ph.]) for spirituous dilutions. But, as the strength of the undiluted solution of the subacetate of lead and of the alcohol differs in different pharmacopœias, the above-mentioned ratios are not strictly comparable with each other. An ointment consisting of 3 parts of litharge with 9 of olive-oil and 4 of vinegar (with 12 of oil of roses and 6 of vinegar, with 3 of lead carbonate, 8 of vinegar, and 18 of oil, or with 1 part of lead carbonate, 3 parts of vinegar and 6 of oil of roses); or of 4 of litharge with 1 of lead carbonate, 2 of vinegar, and 5 of oil of roses. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—Unguentum carbonatis plumbi. Unguentum oxydi plumbi carbonati. See Unguentum plumbi carbonatis.—Unguentum oxydi plumbi rubrum. An ointment consisting of 154 parts of red lead oxide, 43 each of lead carbonate and litharge, 518 of oil of roses, and 115 of white wax. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—Unguentum plumbi [Ger. Ph., Swiss Ph.]. Sp., cerato de Saturno [Sp. Ph.]. Syn.: unguentum plumbi aceticum [Russ. Ph.], seu plumbicum [Gr. Ph.], seu subacetatis plumbi [Belg. Ph.], seu subacetatis plumbici [Finn. Ph., Swed. Ph.]. Ointment of lead subacetate, consisting of 8 parts of solution of lead subacetate with 92 of lard [Ger. Ph.] or with 96 of simple ointment [Gr. Ph.]; or of 9 parts of the solution with 30 of white wax and 78 of olive-oil [Finn. Ph.] or with 28 of yellow wax and 72 of olive-oil [Russ. Ph.]; or of 10 parts of the solution with 20 of white wax, 60 of olive-oil, and 10 of rose-water [Swiss Ph.]; or of 12 of the solution with 90 of the cerat de Galien [Sp. Ph.]; or of 15 of the solution with 25 of yellow wax and 60 of olive-oil [Swed. Ph.]; or of equal parts of the solution, lard, and olive-oil [Belg. Ph.]. Cf. Ceratum plumbi subacetatis. [B. 95 (a, 38).]—Unguentum plumbi acetatis [Br. Ph.]. Ger., Bleiacetatsalbe. Roum., unguentu de acetatu de plumbu [Roum. Ph.]. Syn.: unguentum acetatis plumbici [Dan. Ph., Norw. Ph.], seu plumbi aceticum [Austr. Ph., Hung. Ph., 2d ed.]. Ointment of lead acetate, consisting of 2 parts of lead acetate mixed with 73 of benzoated lard [Br. Ph.]; or of 6 parts of lead acetate with 100 of white wax, 300 of lard, and 20 of water [Austr. Ph.]; or of 5 parts of lead acetate with 9 of white wax and 36 of olive-oil [Dan. Ph.] (with 80 of white wax, 240 of lard, and 16 of water [Hung. Ph.], with 25 of yellow wax and 70 of olive-oil [Norw. Ph.], or with 40 of white wax, 190 of lard, and 15 of water [Roum. Ph.]). See Unguentum plumbi.—Vitrum plumbi. Fr., plomb vitreux. Ger., Bleiglas. A yellow or fire-red transparent glass obtained by thorough melting of lead oxide. [B, 48, 270 (a, 14).]

PLUMERIA (Lat.), n. f. Plu<sup>m</sup>-er-i<sup>a</sup>-a<sup>2</sup>. From Plumier, an American botanist. Fr., frangipanier, franchipanier. Ger., Plumerie. A genus of tropical American trees, of the Plumeriaceae, which are a tribe of the Apocynaceae. [B, 19, 42, 173 (a, 35).]—P. acuminata. A species indigenous to China and Cochinchina. In Java the root, which contains an acrid caustic juice, is used as an evacuant. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. alba. Fr., frangipanier blanc, bois de lait. Sp., flor del cuervo [Mex. Ph.]. West Indian pagoda-tree, white noregay-tree, frangipani-plant; a species the milky juice of which is acrid and sometimes quite poisonous, and is used as a drastic purgative and as an application to ulcers, warts, etc. The flowers are used as an emollient and to perfume pomades and cosmetics. [A, 447 (a, 21); B, 168, 173, 180, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—P. drastica. Fr., frangipanier drastique. Ger., purgirende Plumerie. A Brazilian purgative species. The milky juice is used in small doses in intermittent fever, constipation, jaundice, dropsy, etc. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. lanceifolia. The agoriada of Brazil. The bark furnishes agoriadin. [a, 35].—P. niven, P. obtusa. Fr., frangipanier obtuse. An East Indian species. The root is used in Java as a cathartic. [B, 173 (a, 35).]—P. phagedenica. Fr., frangipanier phagedénique. A Brazilian species. The milky, caustic juice is applied to warts and used as a wash for foul ulcers. It is also used internally as an anthelmintic. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. rubra. Fr., frangipanier rouge. Ger., Jasminbaum. Sp., flor de Yucatán [Mex. Ph.], flor del cuervo [Mex. Ph.]. Red noregay-tree, frangipani-plant, jasmine mango (or tree); an edible-fruited species found in the West Indies and South America, having about the same properties as P. alba. The milky juice is used as a corrosive application to warts and by the natives of the West Indies as a drastic purgative in dropsy, syphilis, chronic skin diseases, etc. A pectoral syrup is prepared from the flowers. [A, 447 (a, 21); "Nouv. rem.," May 8, 1889, p. 23 (a, 35); B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]

PLUMULE, n. Plu<sup>m</sup>-ul<sup>a</sup>. Lat., plumula (dim. of pluma, a feather). Fr., p. Ger., Federchen. 1. A little-plume (Ger., Federhaar); a hair or small plume in a plumose organ. 2. The primary terminal bud of a vegetable embryo. In some plants, such as the bean, it consists of a rudimentary pair of leaves, while in others it is only a rudimentary stem, the leaves developing some time after germination. [B, 1, 19, 123, 291 (a, 35).]

ing at the apex and passing down to the base, and then often attacking the other lung in a similar way, or starting at the base of the lung and making its way to the apex." [J. Dreschfeld, "Med. Chron., Aug., 1885, p. 353.]—Croupous p. See Lobar p.—Desquamative p. P. characterized by an increase of embryonal connective tissue in the intra-alveolar tissue and by an abundant new formation of cells and nuclei in the adventitia of the smallest arterial branches, which in different parts forms nodules or diffuse swellings. [D. 3.]—Dissecting p. Lat. p. dissecans. A suppurative inflammatory process which begins in the circumlobular and peribronchial tissue, dissects out the lobules, and destroys the parenchyma. The symptoms are principally those of abscess. [D. 47.]—Embolie p. P. caused by embolism of the bronchial arteries. [a. 34.]—Epithelial p. See Desquamative p.—Erysipelato-phlegmonous p. P. which, instead of being limited to its original area, involves other portions in a manner analogous to that seen in phlegmonous erysipelas. [D. 72.]—Erysipelatous p. P. of a severe and intractable type sometimes occurring after exposure to erysipelas, the poison of the latter disease evidently influencing the course of the former. [D. 7.]—Fibrinous p. See Lobar p.—Fibroid p. See Fibrous p. See Interstitial p.—Food p. Ger., Schluckpneumonie. P. caused by particles of food reaching the smaller bronchial tubes in consequence of faulty deglutition. [a. 34.]—Gangrenous p. Gangrene of the lungs. [a. 34.]—Gouty p. P. occurring in a gouty person. The symptoms of p. rapidly disappear when the gout attacks some other locality. [W. R. Thomas, "Lancet," 1885, ii, p. 376 (a. 34).]—Hepatic gastro-p. Of Kunkler, bilious p. [a. 34.]—Hypostatic p. A form of p. frequently complicating other troubles, especially when the circulation is weak and the patient lies long in the dorsal decubitus. It attacks the lowermost portions of each lung. [D.]—Intermittent p. See Bilious p.—Interstitial p. A chronic form involving chiefly the pulmonary connective tissue. The fibrinous exudate crowds the air spaces, and secondary contraction of the new material may lead to bronchiectasis. The disease is almost invariably secondary to a bronchitis caused by the inhalation of irritating substances, the long-continued use of alcohol, etc. By Bayley it is considered a form of phthisis, by Addison a result of unresolved p., by Wilks a peculiar hypertrophy, and by Feltz a pulmonary cirrhosis. [D. 1.]—Latent p. P. in which the ordinary physical signs are wanting; usually subacute or chronic. [D.]—Lobar p. An acute form of p. in which the air vesicles are the seat of an inflammatory deposit of coagulable fibrin, which fills them and paralyzes their action. This process is very likely to begin at the root of a lung, from which it quickly spreads, involving a lobe or an entire lung, or even terminating in the involvement of both lungs. When uncomplicated by constitutional or specific disease, it runs a fixed course, with sudden and severe febrile symptoms initiated by a sharp chill, which begin to improve, in favorable cases, between the fifth and tenth days, though the inflammatory condition of the lung may still be severe. When the disease follows a typical course it passes through consecutive stages of engorgement, red and gray hepatization, and finally more or less rapid resolution, the inflammatory exudate being gradually broken down and absorbed, and the lung restored nearly or quite to its normal condition. If there is any constitutional or specific disease, this normal course is more or less modified; also there may be contamination of the blood in the course of the absorption of the exudate, and, instead of resolution and convalescence, extension of the inflammation to the other lung, pleurisy, pericarditis, or blood coagula in the heart or great vessels. The disease is very often fatal, especially among the aged, and prevails most extensively during cold weather. According to Niemeyer, the morbid process is identical with that of tracheal and laryngeal croup. [D. 1.]—N. Y. Med. Jour., Feb. 9, 1889, p. 161.]—Lobular p. 1. P. that limits itself to scattered groups of lobules, the intervening tissue remaining sound. [Walshe (a. 34).] 2. Pyemic infiltration of the lung. [a. 34.]—Malarial p. See Bilious p.—Massive p. 1. See Croupous bronchitis. 2. Of Grancher, a form of pneumonia in which a large portion of the lung is involved and in which the exudate is so abundant and dense that the diseased portion appears like a solid mass, yielding upon auscultation no sign but that of absolute silence (no souffle, râle, or rhonchus). [a. 18.]—Milk p. Ger., Milchpneumonie. An old term for a form of p. attributed to milk metastasis.—Periodic p. See Bilious p.—Plastic p. See Lobar p.—Pleurogenic p., Pleurogenous p. P. consequent on pleurisy. ["Asclepiad," Oct., 1885, p. 350.]—Spleno-p. P. in which the pulmonary congestion gives the subjective and objective signs of pleurisy, but thoracentesis shows there is no effusion. There are gummy expectoration, persistence of Traube's space, absence of sternal deviation, gradual reappearance of fremitus toward the apex, sometimes fine crepitations toward the base of the lung and ægophony; so called because the congested lung tissue looks like splenic tissue. [a. 34.]—Traumatic p. 1. P. due to direct injury of the lung, as from a wound or the presence of a foreign body. 2. P. following experimental section of both vagi, and consequent paralysis of the œsophagus. [Landois (K).]—Stripe-p. Ger., Streifenpneumonie. A form of hypostatic p. in which the affected portion of the lung is in the form of a stripe lying parallel with the vertebral column.—Syphilitic p. See White p.—Tubercular p. P. caused by tubercles. It follows the course of catarrhal p., and results in pulmonary tuberculosis. [D.]—Typhoid p. Fr., pneumonie typhoïde, pneumo-typhoïde. P. with adynamic symptoms. It must not be confounded with pneumo-typhus. [a. 34.]—Vagus p. Fr., pneumonie par section du vague. Ger., Vaguspneumonie. Gen., -somatos (-atis). From ποικίλος, mottled, and πέρισσωμα, superfluity. Fr., pecilopérissome. An exuberant growth of heterogeneous tissues. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

POGONIASIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Pog}^2-\text{o}^2\text{n}(\text{on})-\text{i}^2\text{l}^2\text{i}^2\text{as}^2(\text{a}^2\text{s})-\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -as/eos (-as/ie). From πώγων, the beard. Excessive growth of the beard; also, its presence in women. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

POGONIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Pog}^2-\text{o}^2\text{n}(\text{on})-\text{i}^2\text{l}^2\text{i}^2\text{u}^2\text{m}^2$ . Gr., πώγωνιον (dim. of πώγων, the beard). Fr., pogonium. Ger., Bärtchen. 1. A little beard. 2. The vane of a feather. [L, 50, 343 (a, 48).]

POGONOPUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pog}^2-\text{o}^2\text{n}(\text{on})/\text{o}^2\text{p}^2-\text{u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{us})$ . From πώγων, the beard, and πούς, the foot. A genus of rubiaceae trees and shrubs. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—P. febrifugus. A South American species yielding a bitter tonic bark, containing the alkaloid howardine and a bitter principle. [B, 19, 42 (a, 35).] Cf. CHRYSOXYLON febrifugum.

POGOSTEMON (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pog}^2-\text{o}^2\text{s}^2\text{-stem}(\text{stam})/\text{o}^2\text{n}(\text{on})$ . Gen., -stem/onos (-is). From πώγων, the beard, and στῆμων, a thread. Fr., pogostémon. A genus of labiate herbs. The Pogostemeeae of Endlicher (the Pogostemoneae of Reichenbach) are a subtribe of the Menthæeae (Menthoidae), and of Benth and Hooker a subtribe of the Satureineae. [B, 42, 170 (a, 35).]—P. patchouli. The patchouli, or pucha pat, of the East Indies; indigenous to Silhet, Penang, and the Malay Peninsula, and cultivated at Singapore and other places in the East for the volatile oil (see Oil of PATCHOULI) obtained from its leaves and flowering tops. The leaf is used as an ingredient in smoking tobacco. [B, 5, 19, 172, 314 (a, 35).]

POIKILOCYTES, n. pl.  $\text{Poik}^2/\text{i}^2\text{l}^2-\text{o}^2\text{-s}^2\text{its}$ . From ποικίλος, many-colored, and κύτος, a cell. Ger., Poikilocyten. Of Quincke, red corpuscles of irregular shape, supposed to be characteristic of the blood in pernicious anemia, but found in many other conditions. They have all the physical properties of ordinary red blood-corpuscles. [J. Jour. of Anat. and Phys., xxv, p. 363 (a, 32).]

POIKILOCYTOSIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Poik}^2-\text{i}^2\text{l}^2-\text{o}^2(\text{o}^2)-\text{s}^2\text{it}(\text{ku}^2\text{t})-\text{o}^2\text{s}^2\text{i}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -os/eos (-is). Ger., Poikilocytose. A condition of the blood in which many of its cells are partly broken up or altered into peculiar shapes. [D, 48.]

POIKILOTHERMAL, POIKILOTHERMIC, adj's.  $\text{Poik}^2-\text{i}^2\text{l}^2-\text{o}^2\text{-th}^2\text{er}^2\text{m}^2\text{l}$ ,  $-\text{m}^2\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . From ποικίλος, many-colored, and θερμ, heat. Varying in temperature (said of cold-blooded animals, because their temperature is so easily affected by their surroundings). [K.]

POIL (Fr.), n.  $\text{Pwa}^2\text{l}$ . 1. See HAIR. 2. See EPHEMERA puerperalis.—Fr's accidentals. See HYPERTRICHOSIS acquisita.

POILEUX (Fr.), POILU (Fr.), adj's.  $\text{Pwa}^2\text{-lu}^2$ ,  $-\text{lu}^2$ . See PILOSE.

POINT, n. Point, Gr., κέντρον. Lat., punctum, apex (1st def.). Fr., p., pointe (1st def.). Ger., Punkt, Spitze (1st def.). 1. The sharp end or fine tapering extremity of any object. 2. That which has position, but no extension; hence, position in space, time, or degree. [a, 48.]—Absolute near p. Fr., p. rapproché absolu. Ger., absoluter Nahepunkt. The nearest p. to which a single eye can be accommodated and still retain distinct vision. [F.]—Alveolar p. The middle p. of the inferior margin of the upper alveolar arch. [C.]—Anterior focal p. See Focal p's and Anterior focus.—Anterior nodal p. See Nodal p's.—Anterior principal p. See Principal p's.—Apophysal p. Fr., p. apophysaire. Ger., Apophysenpunkt. The tender spot over a vertebral spinous process, under which neuralgic nerves have their exit.—Auricular p. The centre of the external orifice of the auditory canal. [L, 149.]—Binocular near p. The nearest p. upon which the accommodation, with simultaneous convergence of the visual axes, can be directed. [C.]—Bolling p. Ger., Siedepunkt. The temperature at which a liquid passes into vapor with ebullition. [a, 48.]—Cardinal p's. Fr., p's cardinales. Ger., Kardinalpunkte. Six p's which determine the direction of the rays emerging from and entering a series of refracting media (e. g., the eye). See Principal p's, Focal p's, and Nodal p's. [B.]—Corresponding retinal p's. Covering p's. See Identical retinal p's.—Critical p. of gases. A temperature, fixed for every gas, at or above which it can no longer be liquefied by pressure alone. [B, 6.]—Critical p. of liquids. That temperature above which no amount of pressure is sufficient to retain a body in a liquid form. [B, 158 (a, 24).]—Deaf p's of the ear. Fr., p's sourds (ou de surdité) de l'oreille. Ger., Taumpunkte des Ohrs. Certain p's near the ear, discovered by Urbantschitsch, at which a vibrating tuning fork held perpendicularly in front of the ear can not be heard when started from the lower edge of the zygoma and moved backward toward the occiput. The position of the first p. is at the lower end of the tragus; the second is where the helix intersects the line of motion given above. [F, 33.]—Dew p. Ger., Thaupunkt. The temperature at which the moisture in cooling air begins to be deposited as dew. [a, 48.]—Disparate retinal p's. Those p's on the retina the images of which are not concentrated on the same p., but projected to different p's in space. [F.]—External orbital p. The most prominent p. at the outer edge of the orbit immediately above the fronto-malar suture. [L, 150.]—Eye-p. Ger., Augenpunkt. 1. An eye-spot, an ocellus. 2. The bright circle at the crossing p., or nearest approximation of the rays above the ocular of a microscope. It is best seen with a strong illumination for the microscope, and a piece of ground glass or thin paper above the ocular for a screen. [J.]—Far p. Lat., punctum remotum. Fr., p. lointain, p. écarté. Ger., Fernpunkt. The farthest p. of distinct vision; situated in the emmetropic eye at infinity, in the myopic eye at a finite distance in front of the eye, and in a hypermetropic eye situated beyond infinity (i. e., behind the eye). [B; F.]

—First focal p. See Focal p's.—First nodal p. See Nodal p's.
—First principal p. See Principal p's.—Fixation p. Fr., p. de regard. Ger., Fixierungspunkt. That point on the visual axis at which an object is most clearly seen. [a, 48.]—Focal p's. The anterior and posterior principal foci of a compound dioptric system. The anterior (or first) focal p. of the eye is the p. to which rays that are parallel in the vitreous would converge in front of the eye; the posterior (or second) focal p. is the p. of the back of the eye to which rays that are parallel as they impinge upon the cornea converge. [B.]
—Fusing p. Fusion p. See Melting p.—Growing p. Lat., punctum vegetationis. The soft centre of a bud or terminal portion of an organ with permanent apical growth. It consists of primary meristem. [B, 10, 229, 291 (a, 35).]
—Hystero-epileptogenous p's. Hystero-genic p's. Of Charcot, circumscribed regions of the body pressure or rubbing on which produces the symptoms of an hysterical aura, and eventually causes an hysterical attack. They are found on the upper and lower extremities, but most frequently at the base of the sternum, below the clavicle, between the breasts, over the ovaries, in the inguinal region, between the shoulders, and in the lumbar regions. [a, 34.]—Identical retinal p's. Those p's in the two retine the images of which are projected to the same spot in space. [F.]—Intersuperciliary p. In craniometry, the central p. of a line connecting the most prominent p. of one superciliary arch with that of the other. [L, 150 (a, 50).]
—Jugal p. The p. where the posterior border of the frontal process of the malar bone is cut by a line tangent to the upper border of the zygoma. [L, 149, 150.]—Malar p. The most prominent p. of the outer surface of the malar bone. [L, 149.]—Maximum occipital p. A spot on the maximum antero-posterior diameter of the skull most remote from the glabella. [L, 149.]—McBurney's p. A p. about 2½ in. distant from the anterior-superior spine of the ilium on a line drawn from that process to the umbilicus; thought by C. McBurney to be usually the p. of greatest tenderness in cases of inflammation due to a lesion of the appendix caeci.
—Melting p. Fr., p. de fusion. Ger., Schmelzpunkt. The temperature at which a body begins to melt. [L, 41 (a, 21).]
—Metopic p. See GLABELLA.—Motor p. The p. corresponding to that at which a motor nerve enters a muscle, where an electrode must be placed to produce the maximum amount of electrical contraction of that muscle. [a, 29.]—Nasal p. See NASION.—Near p. (of distinct vision). Lat., punctum proximum. Fr., p's rapproché. Ger., Nähepunkt. The nearest p. at which the eye can accommodate for distinct vision. [F.]—Nodal p's. Fr., p's nœuds. Ger., Knotenpunkte. Two p's, called respectively the first (or anterior) nodal p. and the second (or posterior) nodal p., situated on the optical axis of a dioptric system, and so related that every incident ray which is directed toward the first p. is represented after refraction by a ray emanating from the second p. and having a direction parallel to that of the incident ray. The nodal p's of the schematic human eye very nearly coincide, the anterior being situated about 7 mm. behind the cornea (or just in front of the posterior pole of the lens), and the second 7.38 mm. behind the cornea, or just behind the posterior pole of the lens. (Donders, Helmholtz (B).)—Occipital p. See Occipital POLE.—Ophryon p. See OPHRYON.
—Painful p's. Lat., puncta dolorosa. Fr., p's douloureux. The p's at which a neuralgic nerve is tender on pressure. They usually indicate (anatomically) the passage of the affected nerve through a foramen or fascia and its approach toward the surface. [D, 35.]
—Physiological middle-p. of the retina. The fovea centralis. [F.]—P. de regard (Fr.). See Fixation p.—P's lacrymaux (Fr.). See Lacrimalis PUNCTA.—P. loutain (Fr.). See Far p.
—P. of dispersion. Ger., Zerstreuungspunkt. See Virtual focus.
—P. of ossification. Lat., punctum ossificationis. Fr., p. d'ossification. See CENTRE OF OSSIFICATION.—Posterior focal p. See Focal p's and Posterior focus.—Posterior nodal p. See Nodal p's.
—Posterior principal p. See Principal p's.—Pressure p's. Ger., Druckpunkte bei Blepharospasmus. The p's of emergence of the infra-orbital and supra-orbital, and sometimes also of branches of the facial nerve, upon the face in the vicinity of the margins of the orbit, pressure upon which will sometimes arrest an attack of blepharospasm. [L, 57.]—Principal p's. Ger., Hauptpunkte. Two p's situated on the optical axis or the line connecting the centres of curvature of the various refracting surfaces of a compound dioptric system, and so related that the final emergent ray bears the same relation to the second (or posterior) principal p. (E') that the initial or incident ray would bear to the first (or anterior) principal p. (E) after having undergone refraction through a single refracting surface of determinate curvature situated at E. In the schematic human eye, when at rest, the anterior principal p. is situated at 1.75 mm., the posterior at 2.11 mm. behind the posterior surface of the cornea. (Gauss (B); Helmholtz (B).)—Second focal p. See Focal p's.—Second nodal p. See Nodal p's.—Second principal p. See Principal p's.—Vital p. See Respiratory CENTRE.

POINT, v. intr. Point. Fr., aboutir. Ger., zusitzen, reifen. Of an abscess, to be about to break at a certain portion of its periphery that has approached a free surface.

POISON, n. Poi<sup>2</sup>z'n. Gr., φάρμακον. Lat., venenum. Fr., p. Ger., Gift. Any substance that acts upon a living organism in such a way as to destroy its life or decidedly impair its processes.
—Arrow p. One of the numerous preparations used by savages on their arrow-heads (e. g., in Africa the juice of Euphorbia heptagona, Euphorbia virosa, and other species of Euphorbia; in Brazil, the juice of Euphorbia cotinifolia; in Guiana, curare; in Java, the tienté tjetet, etc.). [B, 5, 19, 185 (a, 35).]
—Bish p. See under ACONITUM JEROZ.—Frog p. A powerful arrow p., acting like curare, obtained by the Indians of Colombia from a small animal, neard, considered by André a variety of Thylobates bicolor. ["Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.", xxix (a, 14).]
—Gaboon p. See INF.—Hamatic p. See BLOOD-POISONING.—Morbid p. Ger., Krankheitsgift. The p. of a specific disease. [a, 34.]—Muscle p's. Toxalbumins formed during muscular action. [a, 34.]—Ordeal p. Fr., p. d'épreuve. Any one of the various poisons, such as physostigma, tanghinia, etc., used by savage tribes to test the guilt or innocence of accused individuals. [a, 35.]—P. pulmonaire (Fr.). A volatile p. contained in the breath, supposed to be a ptomaine. [Brown-Séquard (a, 18).]
—Vascular p. Ger., Gefässgift. A p. which acts by increasing or diminishing the blood-pressure in the vessels. [B, 270.]

POIVRE (Fr.), n. Pwa<sup>2</sup>vr'. Pepper, especially black pepper; also, the genus Piper. POIZOU (Fr.), n. Pwa<sup>2</sup>-zu. A place in the department of the Vienne, France, where there is a gaseous and sulphurous spring. [L, 49, 87 (a, 14, 50).]

—P. felina. See CLEOME FELINA.—P. graveolens. Fr., polanisia graveole. False mustard, stink-weed, common clammy-weed, clammy mustard, worm-weed; a viscid, strong-scented herb found throughout Canada and the United States. According to Rafinesque, it is anthelmintic. [B, 34.]

POLAR, adj. Pol'a-r. Fr., polaire. Ger., polarisch. Pertaining to a pole. [A, 17.]

POLARIMETER, n. Pol-a-r-i-z'm'e-t-u-r. From polaris, polar, and μετρον, a measure. Ger., P. An apparatus for measuring the degree of polarization, the proportion of polarized light present in a beam of light, or the amount by which the plane of polarization is rotated by the passage of a polarized ray through an optically active substance. [B.] Cf. POLARISCOPE and SACCHARIMETER.

POLARISCOPE, n. Pol-a-r-i-z'-skop. From polaris, polar, and σκοπεῖν, to examine. An instrument used for investigating the phenomena of polarization and the changes produced in these phenomena by the interposition of certain substances in the path of the polarized ray. It consists essentially of a polarizer which puts the light in a state of polarization, and of an analyzer which, by quenching the polarized ray when placed in certain positions, throws the location of the plane of polarization. A change in the location of this plane or the presence of other phenomena induced by the interposition of a substance between the polarizer and analyzer is indicative of the structure or composition of the substance so interposed. [B.]

POLARISTROBOMETER, n. Pol-a-r-i-z'-stro'b-o-m'e-t-u-r. From πῶλος, an axis, στροβός, a whirling round, and μέτρον, a measure. A variety of polarimeter in which the plane of polarization is indicated with great delicacy by the disappearance of a set of parallel black lines which are produced by passing the light through a double interference plate of calcite. [B.]

POLARITY, n. Pol-a-r-i-z'-ti-ty. From polaris, polar. Fr., polarité. Ger., Polarität. The property of having poles or of being under the influence of forces acting in the direction of poles. [A, 48.]

POLARIZATION, n. Pol-a-r-i-z'-a-shu'n. From polaris, polar. Fr., polarisation. Ger., Polarisation, Polarisierung. 1. In optics, the induction of a peculiar condition by virtue of which a ray of light, instead of vibrating as usual in all planes transverse to its direction, vibrates in one plane only (plane of p.). P. may be induced by reflection from surfaces placed at a special angle (angle of p.), or by transmission through certain media, the doubly refractive crystals especially. [B.] 2. Of a galvanic battery, the collection of bubbles of hydrogen on the negative plate, whereby the generation of the current is interfered with.—Chromatic p. accompanied by a peculiar play of colors; a phenomenon observed when doubly refracting crystals or singly refracting substances, which have undergone distortion of their structure, are seen by polarized light. [B.]—Circular p. Fr., polarisation rotatoire. Ger., kreisförmige Polarisation. The rotation of the plane of p. to the left or right. [B, 118.]—Dielectric p. The condition of a non-conductor when strained under the action of two adjacent charges of positive and negative electricity. [A, 49.]—Electrolytic p., Galvanic p. See P. (2d def.).

POLARIZER, n. Pol'a-r-i-z'-u-r. That portion of a polariscope which polarizes the light; consisting usually of a Nicol's prism, but sometimes of a reflecting plate of unsilvered glass. [B, 164; A, 49.]

POLE, n. Pol. Gr., πόλος (originally, an axis). Lat., polus. Fr., pôle. Ger., Pol. It., Sp., polo. The extremities of any axis around which a body or the forces acting on it are more or less symmetrically disposed. [A, 48.]—Antigerminal p. The p. of an ovum opposite the germinal p. At this p. is situated the food-yolk. [J, 1, 30.]—Cephalic p. Ger., Kopfende. Of the focus, that end of the ovoid formed by it at which the head is situated.—Geminous p. See Hologone.—Germinal p., Germineative p. The p. of an ovum at which the development of the embryo takes place. This term and antigerminal p. are especially applicable to ova in which a large amount of food-yolk is present, as in those of birds and reptiles. [J, 1, 30.]—Lower p. (of an egg). See Antigerminal p.—Negative p. That electrode or other portion of the terminal apparatus of a battery which is connected with the electro-positive element in the galvanic cell. [B.]—North p. That extremity of a magnet which is directed toward the north. [B.]—Nuclear p. See Polar figure.—Nutritive p. See Antigerminal p.—Occipital p. Lat., extremities occipitales [Pausanias]. Fr., pôle occipital. The posterior pointed extremity of the occipital lobe. [I.]—Pelvic p. Ger., Steissende. Of the focus, that end of the ovoid formed by it at which the breech is situated.—Placental p. of the chorion. That p. of the chorion at which the dome-like placenta, when present, is situated.—P's of the chorion. The upper and lower extremities of the chorion, corresponding to the fundus uteri and the os uteri.—P's of the eye. The anterior and posterior extremities of the optic axis. [A, 29.]—Positive p. That electrode or other portion of the terminal apparatus of a battery which is connected with the electro-negative element in the galvanic cell. [B.]—South p. That extremity of a magnet which is directed toward the south. [B.]—Upper p. (of an egg). See Germinal p.—Vitelline p. See Antigerminal p.

POLEI (Ger.), n. Pol-i. See MENTHA pulegium and TEUCRIUM polium.

POLEMOACOPHTHALMIA (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-e-m-o-o-ph'thalmi-a. From πόλεμος, war, κακός, evil, and ὀφθαλμός, the eye. See Military OPHTHALMIA.

POLEMONIUM (Lat.), n. n. Pol-i-e-m-on-i-um. From πόλεμος, war. Fr., polémoine. Ger., Sperkräut. Greek valerian;

MALUS'S POLARISCOPE.
[A, 376.]

A, the polarizer; B, the analyzer; CC, the basis of rotation of the analyzer on a vertical axis.

a genus of polemoniaceous herbaceous or climbing plants. The Polemoniaceae (Fr., polemoniacees) of Venterat, the Polemonia and Polemoniaceae (Fr., polémóniacées) of Jussieu, the Polemoniidae (Fr., polémóniariées) of Reichenbach, and the Polemoniidae (Fr., polémóniides) of Persoon are an order of hypogynous gamopetalous dicotyledons included in the cohort Polemoniales of Bentham and Hooker. The Polemoniaceae (Fr., polémóniacées) are a division (tribe) of the Polemoniaceae. [B, 19, 34, 42, 163, 170, 173, 180 (A, 35).]—P. æræum. Fr., polémoine à fleurs bleues, échelle de Jacob, valériane bleue (ou grecque). Ger., gemeines (oder blaues) Sperkräut, Himmelsleiter, Jacobseiter. (Common) Jacob's ladder, charity, Greek valerian; a species growing in southern and middle Europe and in Asia, and cultivated elsewhere in gardens; perhaps the polémónios of Dioscorides. The herb and leaves, herba valerianæ græcæ, are used externally in Siberia for syphilitic tumors, ulcers, etc., and in Russia a decoction of the plant is employed in hydrophobia. The astringent root is used in dysentery. [B, 19, 34, 163, 173, 180 (A, 35).]—Radix polemonii. The root of Valeriana officinalis. [B, 180 (A, 35).]

POLYEMPHALMIA (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-e-m-o-f-tha'l-(tha'l)-mi-a. From πόλεμος, war, and ὀφθαλμός, the eye. Fr., polémophthalmie. See Military OPHTHALMIA.

POLENTA (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-e-n't-a. 1. Of Galen, peeled barley. 2. In modern Italy, porridge of maize-meal. [L, 30, 50 (A, 14).]

POLEY (Ger.), n. Pol-i. See MENTHA pulegium.

POLFELD (Ger.), n. Pol-fe'l'd. See CHAMP polaire.

POLIATER (Lat.), n. m. Pol-i-a-(a³)-tu-r(tar). Gen., -er'os (-is). From πόλις, the city, and ιατρίη, a physician. Of old writers, a medical practitioner licensed by the authorities of a city. [A, 323, 325 (A, 48).]

POLICE, n. Pol-es'. Gr., πολιτεία (from πόλις, a city). Lat., politia. Fr., p. Ger., Polizei. In medicine, an organization intrusted with the care of all matters affecting the public health; also the work of such an organization. [A, 48.]

POLICLINIC, n. Pol-i-z'-kli-n'i-jik. Lat., poli-clinice (from πόλις, a city, and κλίνη, a couch). Fr., p. Ger., Poliklinik, Stadtklinik. An institution for medical instruction maintained at the public expense. [D.] Cf. POLYCLINIC.

POLIENCEPHALITIS (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-e-n'n(e²n²)-se-f'(ke²f)-a²l(a²l)-i(e)-t'is. Gen., -it'idus (-idis). From πολιός, gray, and ἐγκέφαλος, the brain. Of Strümpell, inflammation of the gray matter of the cerebral cortex. [A, 34.]—P. acuta. Of Strümpell, infantile cerebral paralysis of obscure origin, but analogous to that of poliomyelitis. [A, 34.]

POLIO-ENCEPHALITIS (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-z'-o(o²)-e-n(e²n²)-se-f'(ke²f)-a²l(a²l)-i(e)-t'is. See POLIENCEPHALITIS.

POLIOMYELENCOPHALITIS (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-z'-o(o²)-mi(mu²)-e²l(e²n²)-se-f'(ke²f)-a²l(a²l)-i(e)-t'is. From πολιός, gray, μυελός, marrow, and ἐγκέφαλος, the brain. Poliomyelitis associated with poliomyelitis. [A, 34.]

POLIOMYELITIS (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-z'-o(o²)-mi(mu²)-e²l(i-e)-t'is. Gen., -it'idus (-idis). From πολιός, gray, and μυελός, marrow. Inflammation of the gray matter of the spinal cord. [D.]—Acute anterior p. Ger., spinale Kinderlähmung. A destructive inflammation of the larger multipolar ganglion cells in the anterior cornua of the spinal cord, occurring chiefly in children during their first dentition. It deprives certain muscles and often an entire limb of muscular power, and the parts affected undergo rapid atrophy. [A, 530 (A, 29).]—P. anterior chronica. Progressive muscular atrophy. [Ross (A, 34).]—P. anterior subacuta cervicalis circumscripta. P. in which the lesion is situated in the anterior horns of gray matter in and about the cervical enlargement. [Eisenlohr, "Neurolog. Ctrbl.", 1, 1882, p. 410 (D, 35).]

POLIOMYELOPATHY, n. Pol-i-z'-o-mi-e²l-op'a²th-i². From πολιός, gray, μυελός, marrow, and πάθος, a disease. Any disease of the gray matter of the spinal cord. [D.]

POLIOPLASMA (Lat.), n. n. Pol-i-z'-o(o²)-pla²z(pla²s)'ma². Gen., plas'matos (-atis). From πολιός, gray, and πλάσμα, matter. Fr., polioplasmie. Granular protoplasm. [B, 121 (A, 35).]

POLIOLIS (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-z'-os'i²s. Gen., -os'eos (-is). Gr., πολιώσις (from πολιόν, to become gray). Canities. [G, 4.]

POLIOTES (Lat.), POLIOTHRIX (Lat.), n's f. Pol-i-i(z²)'o²t-e²z(a²), -i(z²)'o²th-r'i²x. Gen., -el'os(-is), -ol'ricos (-is). Gr., πολιότης, πολιοθήριξ (from πολιός, gray, and θηρίξ, hair). See CANTITIES.

POLITIA (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-ti(e)-i(e)-a². See POLICE.

POLITZERATION, POLITZERIZATION, n's. Pol-i²ts-u²-a²-shu²n, -i²z-a²-shu²n. From Poltzer, the inventor of the method. Treatment by Politzer's bag. [E.]

POLIUM (Lat.), n. n. Pol-i-po²l-i²-u²m(u²m). Gr., πόλιον. Fr., polion. 1. Of the ancients, the Teucrium p. 2. Of Matthæus, the Teucrium capitatum. 3. Of Mönch, the genus Teucrium. [B, 42, 114, 121 (A, 35).]—P. angustifolium, P. creticum. See TEUCRIUM creticum.—P. erectum. See TEUCRIUM p.—P. luteum. The Teucrium aureum and Teucrium flavescens. POLIZEI (Ger.), n. Pol-ets-i. See POLICE.

POLLAKIURIE (Fr.), n. Pol-a²-ke-u²-ra. From πολλάκις, often, and οὐρῆς, to urinate. Unnatural frequency of urination. [Dielschlag, "Gaz. hebdom. de méd. et de chir.", May 19, 1882, p. 321.]—P. brightie. P. due to Bright's disease.

POLLEMPHYTEUSIS (Lat.), n. f. Pol-i-le²m-fi²t(fu²t)-u²s'i²s. Gen., -eus'eos (-is). From πολλός, many, and ἐμφυτεύειν, to implant. Fr., vaccine par dissémination. Repeated vaccination in different parts of the body. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

POLLEN (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{e}^n$ . Gen., pol'linis. Fr., p. corpuscule fécondant, poussière fécondante. Ger., Blütenstaub, P. Befruchtungsstaub. It., polline. Sp., polén. The fecundating substance produced within the loculi of an anther (see P. CELL and P. grains); also, of Jussieu, the spores of the Ophioglossaceae; of Linnæus, the powdery substance in the spores of mosses. [B, 1, 19, 123, 291 (a, 35); B, 198.]—P. grains. Ger., P'körner. The microspores of phanerogams. They consist of particles either forming a powder or united by means of a viscid matter into a mass (see POLLINIUM). They are usually yellow, of various forms, generally spheroidal, but always uniform in the same plant. Each grain is a cellular body, usually a single cell. [B, 1, 19, 77, 121, 123, 229, 291 (a, 35).]—P. mass, P'masse (Ger.). See POLLINIUM.

POLLEX (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{le}^x$ . Gen., pol'licis. Gr., ἀντίχειρ. The thumb; in birds, the digit that bears the alula, corresponding to the index finger. [L, 341 (a, 27).]

POLLINARIS (Lat.), adj.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{li}^2\text{-n}^2\text{-a}^2/\text{ri}^2\text{s}$ . Fr., pollinaire. Covered with a dust or powder as fine as pollen. [B, 1 (a, 35).]

POLLINARIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{li}^2\text{-n}^2\text{-a}^2/\text{ri}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}^2(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . Fr., pollinaire. Ger., Pollinarie (1st def.), Pollenmasse (2d def.). 1. See CYSTIDIUM (1st def.). 2. See POLLINIUM.

POLLINATION, n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{li}^2\text{-n}^2\text{-a}^2/\text{shu}^2\text{n}$ . The conveyance of pollen to the receptive surface of the female organs. [B, 229, 291 (a, 35).]

POLLINIC, adj.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{li}^2\text{-n}^2/\text{k}$ . Lat., pollinicus. Fr., pollinique. Ger., blumenstaubartig, pollinisch. Pertaining to or consisting of pollen. [B, 123 (a, 35).]

POLLINIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{li}^2\text{-n}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}^2(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . Fr., pollinie. Ger., Pollenmasse. A pollen mass; a body composed of the pollen grains of an anther-loculus more or less coherent, as in orchids. [B, 121, 291 (a, 35).]

POLLINODIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{li}^2\text{-n}^2\text{-od}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}^2(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . From pollen (q. v.), and diōs, resemblance. In Ascomycetes and Peronosporae, the antheridium; so called because it usually conjugates with the oosphere by means of a delicate tubular outgrowth. [B, 77, 104, 279 (a, 35).]

POLONICA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{o}^2\text{-n}^2/\text{k}^2\text{-a}^2$ . See PLICA p.

POLONYCHIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{o}^2\text{-n}^2/\text{k}^2(\text{u}^2\text{ch}^2)/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολύς, many, and ὄνυξ, the nail. Congenital hyperonychosis. [G.]

POLSTER (Ger.), n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{st}^2/\text{e}^2\text{r}$ . See CUSHION (3d def.), ECPLEROMA, PULVINAR, and STROMA.—Fettp. A layer of fatty tissue, especially the subcutaneous fat.—Kehledeckelp. See TUBERCULUM epiglottidis.—P. der Sehnhügel. See PULVINAR.—Tastp. See Digital pulp.

POLURIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{u}^2/\text{r}^2(\text{ur})/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . See POLYURIA.

POLUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Pol}(\text{po}^2/\text{u}^2/\text{s}^2(\text{u}^4\text{s}))$ . 1. See POL. 2. The patella. [F. B. Stephenson, "N. Y. Med. Jour.," July 24, 1886, p. 92.]

POLY, n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2$ . From πολύς, gray. See TEUCRIUM polium.

POLYACIDE (Fr.), adj.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{le}^2\text{-a}^2\text{-sed}$ . Of a base, saturating with one of its molecules several molecules of an acid. [B, 38 (a, 14).]

POLYADELPHOUS, adj.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2\text{d}^2\text{-e}^2/\text{i}^2\text{f}^2/\text{u}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., polyadelphus from πολύς, many, and ἀδελφός, a brother). Fr., polyadelphie. Ger., vielbrüderig. Having the filaments united more than two sets (phalanges); of the Polyadelphia (Fr., polyadelphie), a Linnæan class of plants so characterized. [B, 17, 170 (a, 35).]

POLYADENIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-a}^2\text{d}^2(\text{a}^2\text{d}^2)\text{-en}^2(\text{e}^2\text{n}^2)/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολύς, many, and ἀδην, a gland. See PSEUDOLEUCÆMIA.

POLYADENOMA (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-a}^2\text{d}^2(\text{a}^2\text{d}^2)\text{-e}^2\text{n}^2\text{-om}^2/\text{a}^2$ . Gen., -om'atos (-atis). From πολύς, many, and ἀδην, a gland. Fr., polyadénome. Ger., Polyadenom. See Multiglandular ADENOMA.

POLYÆMIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-em}^2(\text{a}^2\text{e}^2\text{m}^2)/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολύς, much, and αἷμα, blood. Fr., polyémie. Ger., Polyämie. See PLETHORA.—P. aquosa. Excess of water in the blood, occurring physiologically after drinking a large amount of fluid. [K, 16.]—P. serosa. Excess of serum or water in the blood of an animal, brought about by the injection of blood serum into the veins. [K, 21.]

POLYÆSTHESIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-e}^2\text{s}^2(\text{a}^2\text{e}^2\text{s}^2)\text{-the}^2(\text{tha})^2/\text{zi}^2(\text{si}^2)/\text{a}^2$ . From πολύς, much, and αἴσθησις, perception by the senses. Ger., Polyästhesie. Of Fischer, a peculiar condition of sensation in which a single point touching the skin is felt as more than one. [D, 35.]

POLYALTHIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-a}^2/\text{li}^2\text{th}^2(\text{a}^2/\text{li}^2\text{th}^2)/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολυαλθία, curing many diseases. Fr., p. polyalthie. Ger., Heilstrauch. A genus of the Anonac. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—P. acutifolia. Species having properties similar to those of P. sempervirens. The first is found in the East Indies, the second in Jamaica. [B, 42, 180 (a, 35).]—P. Corinti. An East Indian species. The bark is used in intermittent fever, cardialgia, diarrhoea, dysentery, etc. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. macrophylla. Fr., p. a grandes feuilles. A Java species. The bark is used in typhoid and eruptive fevers. [B, 180, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. sempervirens. A Malabar species. The leaves are used in intermittent fever and rheumatism. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. subcordata. Ger., flügeliger Heilstrauch. A Java species with aromatic fruits which are used in spasmodic colic. The bark, especially that of the root, is also highly aromatic. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

POLYAMMONIUM (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-a}^2\text{m}^2(\text{a}^2\text{m}^2)\text{-mon}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{m}^2(\text{u}^4\text{m})$ . See AMMONIUM base.

POLYANDROUS, POLYANTHEROUS, adj's.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2\text{nd}^2/\text{ru}^2\text{s}$ ,  $\text{-a}^2\text{nth}^2/\text{u}^2\text{r}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., polyandrus, polyantherus (from πολύς, many, and άνδρ, a man, or άνθος, blooming). Fr., polyandre. Ger., polyandrisch. Having the stamens indefinite in number. The Polyandra of Scopoli are a tribe, and the Polyandria of Linnæus a class, of plants so characterized. [B, 1, 123, 170, 296 (a, 35).]

POLYARTHRITIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-a}^2/\text{r}^2\text{th}^2\text{-ri}^2(\text{e}^2)/\text{ti}^2\text{s}$ . Gen., -thrit'idos (-idis). From πολύς, many, and άρθρον, a joint. Fr., polyarthrite. Ger., P. Inflammation, especially acute rheumatism, affecting several joints at once. [D, 6.]

POLYATOMIC, adj.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2\text{t}^2\text{-o}^2\text{m}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . From πολύς, many, and άτομος, an atom. Fr., polyatomique. Ger., mehratomig. Containing more than one atom of replaceable hydrogen; of a radicle, requiring the addition of more than one atom of hydrogen to saturate its combining capacity. [B.]

POLYBASIC, adj.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-bas}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., polybasique. Ger., mehrbasisch. 1. Of acids or alcohols, containing in the molecule more than one atom of hydrogen replaceable by a base. 2. Of salts, formed from a p. acid by the replacement of more than one hydrogen atom by a base. [a, 38.]

POLYBLENNIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-ble}^2\text{n}^2/\text{ni}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολύς, many, and βλέννα, mucus. Fr., polyblennie. Secretion of abnormal quantities of mucus. [L, 41, 50 (a, 43).]

POLYBRACHIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-bra}^2\text{k}^2(\text{bra}^2\text{ch}^2)/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολύς, many, and βραχίων, the arm. A monstrosity characterized by one or more supernumerary arms. [L, 41 (a, 14).]

POLYBREPHIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-bre}^2\text{f}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολύς, many, and βρεφος, an infant. 1. See POLYCYESIS. 2. The condition of having many young. [L, 50 (a, 48).]

POLYBROMURES (Fr.), n. pl. Po-le-bro-mu'r. A mixture of several bromides.

POLYCARPÆ (Lat.), n. f. pl.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-ka}^2/\text{rp}^2\text{-e}^2(\text{a}^2\text{-e}^2)$ . From πολύς, many, and καρπός, fruit. 1. Of Fuchs, a genus of skin diseases, including eruptions attended with plastic lesions (or "fruits"), such as papules, vesicles, pustules, etc.; regarded by Fuchs as synonymous with Flechtenausschläge, dartres, and tetter, and doubtless meant to include for the most part eczematous and herpetic eruptions. [G.] 2. Of Batsch, an order of the Liliaceae; of Lindley, a cohort of the Monopetalæ.

POLYCARPÆA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-ka}^2/\text{rp}^2\text{-e}^2(\text{a}^2\text{-e}^2)\text{-a}^2$ . Fr., polycarpée. Ger., Vielsamenkraut. A genus of Caryophyllaceae herbs. The Polycarpæe of De Candolle are a tribe of the Paronychieæ. The Polycarpæe (Fr., polycarpées) are: Of Reichenbach, a subdivision of the Paronychieæ; of Bentham and Hooker, a tribe of the Caryophyllaceæ. [B, 42, 170, 180 (a, 35).]—P. corymbosa, P. spadicea. East Indian and Malabar species used in hypochondriasis and snake-bites. A plant described by Loureiro under the name of Polia arenaria, identified by some authors with the second species, is used in Cochinchina in chronic cough, catarrh, and fevers. [B, 180 (a, 35).]

POLYCARPIC, adj.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-ka}^2/\text{rp}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Lat., polycarpicus. Fr., polycarpien, polycarpique. 1. Of a plant, fruiting repeatedly; bearing year after year. 2. Bearing many distinct fruits or carpels in each flower. The Polycarpiceæ are: Of Bartling, a class of the Gymnoblasi; of Eichler, an order (cohort) of the Helobia. [B, 1, 19, 170, 296 (a, 35).]

POLYCARPON (Lat.), n. n.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-ka}^2/\text{rp}^2/\text{o}^2\text{n}$ . Fr., polycarpe. Ger., Nägelskraut. A genus of Caryophyllaceae herbs. [B, 42 (a, 35).]—P. tetraphyllum. All-seed; an herb growing in South Carolina and southern Europe. It is identified with the παρωνυχία of Dioscorides, and has been used in paronychia and indurated swellings. [B, 34, 180 (a, 35).]

POLYCEPHALOUS, adj.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-se}^2\text{f}^2/\text{a}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}$ . Lat., polycéphalus (from πολύς, many, and κεφαλή, the head). Fr., polycéphale. Consisting of or bearing numerous capitula. [B, 1, 296 (a, 35).]

POLYCEPHALUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-se}^2\text{f}^2(\text{ke}^2\text{f}^2)/\text{a}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^4\text{s})$ . A genus of the Tæniade in the larval state. [Zeder (L, 36).]—P. cerebralis, P. cœnurus. See CENURUS cerebralis.—P. echinococcus, P. granulosus, P. hominis, P. humanus. See ECHINOCOCCUS hominis.—P. ovinus. See CENURUS cerebralis.

POLYCERUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-k}^2\text{e}^2\text{r}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s}^2(\text{u}^4\text{s})$ . From πολύς, many, and κέρας, a horn. Fr., polycère. See MEGALOCERUS.

POLYCHEZIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-kez}^2(\text{ch}^2\text{e}^2\text{z}^2)/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολύς, much, and χέζειν, to evacuate the bowels. Fr., polychézie. Chronic diarrhoea. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

POLYCHOLIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-u}^2(\text{u}^4)\text{-kol}^2(\text{ch}^2\text{o}^2/\text{i}^2)/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From πολύς, much, and χολή, bile. Fr., polycholie. Ger., Polycholie. Excessive secretion of bile. [D.]

Ger., Knöterig. Knot-grass; a genus of herbs with ochreate-jointed stems. The Polygonaceae (Fr., polygonacées) are an order of the Curvembryae. The species are astringent and acid, and some are cultivated for their edible fruits. The Polygonatæ of Necker include Rumex, Scleranthus, Herniaria, and P. The Polygonæe (Fr., polygonées; Ger., Polygonen) are the Polygonaceae, and also a tribe of the latter. The Polygonoidæ of Brongniart are a class of hypogynous Dialypetalæ including the Polygonæe (Polygonaceae). [B. 42, 121, 170 (a, 35).]—P. acre. 1. Smart-weed; a species with a caustic juice, by some identified with the P. hydropiperoides of Michaux; used as an astringent and febrifuge. 2. Of Lamarek, P. hydropiper. [B. 5, 34, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. alpinum. Alpine knot-weed. The herb is used in diarrhoea and dysentery. [B. 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. amphibium. Fr., renouée amphibie. Ger., Wechselknöterig, Wasserknöterig, Sommerlack. Amphibian knot-weed, water persicaria, willow-grass. The root and herb were once official as radix et herba persicariæ acidiæ (seu polygoni amphibii [seu aquatici]), the former as a mild astringent, diuretic, and alterative in skin complaints, and the latter in calculous affections. The roots are said to contain over 20 per cent., and the stem over 17 per cent., of tannic acid. [B. 5, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. anthemorrhoidale. Fr., renouée anti-hémorrhoidale. A Brazilian species used externally in gout and hæmorrhoids. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. aquaticum. See P. amphibium.—P. aviculare. Fr., renouée des oiseaux (traînasse), achée, crépinnette, centinodé, corrigiolle, fausse senille, sanguinaire, herniôle, herbe à cochon. Ger., Vogelknöterig, Sauvages, Blaukraut, Angerkraut, Weggras, Tausendknoten. The πολύγονον ἀβήρον of Dioscorides; armstrong, beggar-weed, common (or bird's) knot-grass, knotwort, crab-grass (or weed), iron- (or wire- or goose-) grass, ninety-knot, pink-weed, sparrow-tongue, swine's-grass; a common weed in nearly all lands. It is a mild astringent, and was formerly used as a febrifuge, vulnerary, and styptic, under the name herba centumnodie (seu polygoni, seu sanguinariae, seu graminis porcini, etc.), and recently has been used in bronchial catarrh, asthma, and whooping-cough. The root, called false polygala root, is sold along with that of Polygala amara. [B. 5, 34, 173, 180 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxxiv, p. 389 (a, 50).]—P. barbatum. Fr., renouée barbue. Ger., bartiger Knöterig. A species found in China, Japan, India, and southern Africa. All parts, especially the leaves, are used in India in colic, and at the Cape of Good Hope in oedema of the feet. The seeds are carminative. [B. 172, 173, 180, 293 (a, 35).]—P. Bellardi. A South European species having properties resembling those of P. aviculare. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. bistorta. Fr., bistorte, feuille-lotte, serpentaire mâle (ou femelle, ou rouge). Ger., Wiesenknöterig, Natterwurz, Otterwurz, Schlangenwurz, Drachenwurz, Krebanwurz, Gift- (oder Schluppen-) Wurzel. Bistort, dragon-wort, Easter giant (or ledges, or mangiants), gentle (or patient, or patience)-dock, red-legs, snake-weed; a species common in Europe and northern Asia, and said to be found in Connecticut. The root, radix bistortæ (seu colubrinæ [vulgaris], seu serpentariae rubræ [seu vulgaris]), radix rumicis anserini, is astringent. [B. 5, 173, 180, 275, 293 (a, 35).]—P. fagopyrum. See FAGOPYRUM esculentum.—P. glabrum. Ger., kahler Knöterig. An East Indian species. The root is purgative, the leaves are diuretic, and the entire plant is used as an antarthritic application. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. hydropiper. Fr., renouée poivrée, poivre d'eau, herbe à crapaud, curage, persicaire âcre (ou brûlante), piment aquatique (ou brûlant, ou d'eau). Ger., scharfer Knöterig, Wasserpfeffer, Mückenkraut, brennendes Flöckkraut, Pfefferknöterig, Flöckpfefferkraut, Pfauenkraut, Bitterlingkraut, Scharf, Pfauenspiegel, Mönchskraut.

Ciderage, culrage, curage, lake-weed, red-knees, smart-weed, water-pepper; the ὑδροπέρις, of Dioscorides. The leaves or herb, herba hydropiperis, herba persicaria (urentis), were formerly employed as a diuretic and antiscorbutic, but are now chiefly used by the veterinarians as a wash for ulcers. They contain polygonic acid, have a biting and burning taste, and inflame the skin if rubbed on it. [B. 5, 180 (a, 35).]—P. hydropiperoides. 1. Of Michaux, the mild water-pepper, smart-weed of North America, having properties like those of P. hydropiper and sometimes used as a wash for old ulcers, and internally in calculous affections. It is used in amenorrhœa, and the dried leaves in decoction as a topical application in mercurial salivation and the sore mouth of nursing women. [B. 5, 34 (a, 35).] 2. See P. acre (1st def.).—P. orientale. Fr., renouée d'Orient (ou du Levant), bâton de Saint-Jean, cordon de cardinal, grande persicaire, monte-au-ciel, persicaire du Levant. Ger., orientalischer Knöterig. The prince's-feather of Asia, Australia, and South Africa. The leaves are mildly astringent and mucilaginous. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. persicaria. Fr., curage, persicaire (douce), piéd rouge, fer-à-cheval. Ger., Flöckknöterig, Rötsch, Pfeischkraut. Persicaria, red-shanks, crab's-claw, lady's-thumb, peach-wort. The herb, herba persicariæ mitis (seu minoris), is considered antiseptic, and has been used as a vulnerary and internally as a diuretic. In Norway the juice is used in toothache. [B. 5, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. Sieboldii. A species found in China and Japan, where its root is used as a tonic. [B. 93 (a, 14).]—P. stypticum. Ger., styptischer Knöterig. A Brazilian species. The root and herb are used as a styptic. [B. 180 (a, 35).]

POLYPNÉE (Fr.), n. Po-lep-na. A nervous condition characterized by rapid breathing and sometimes by a sense of suffocation in the throat or by a feeling of internal compression seeming to interfere more or less with the thoracic movements. [Huchard, "Union méd.," June 17, 1882, p. 989.]

huala, calaguala, was formerly used as a respiratory stimulant, a diaphoretic, and a diuretic. It is still employed in Peru and Mexico as an astringent, diaphoretic, and pectoral. [B. 168, 173, 180 (a, 35); "Proc. of the Am. Pharm. Assoc.," xxiv, p. 769 (a, 50).]—P. crassifolium. A species found in the West Indies, Mexico, and South America. The rhizome was formerly substituted for that of P. calaguala, and was known as calaguala femina. [B. 180 (a, 35); B. 249.]—P. dryopteris. Moss- (or oak-) fern, ternate polypody, found in Europe, India, Japan, the northern United States, etc. Its root is astringent, but is rarely if ever used. [B. 34, 173 (a, 35); B. 249.]—P. dulce. Ger., süsser Tüpfelfarn. A West Indian species. The stock is used like that of P. vulgare. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. lanceolatum. Sp., lengua de ciervo [Mex. Ph.]. A species found in the mountains surrounding the valley of Mexico. The properties of the fronds are regarded as like those of Scolopendrium officinarum. [J. M. Maisch, "Am. Jour. of Pharm.," Jan., 1886, p. 20.]—P. ligulatum. Ger., zungenförmiger Tüpfelfarn. A species resembling Scolopendrium officinarum; used medicinally in China. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. Loureiri. Fr., polypode goudrounne. Ger., chinesischer Tüpfelfarn. A species found in China, where the stock is used as an anthelmintic and in passive hemorrhages and indolent ulcers. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. perussum. Ger., feinspitziger Tüpfelfarn. A species found from Colombia to Peru and Brazil. The stock is used like that of Aspidium filix mas. [B. 249; B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. quercifolium, P. quernum. Ger., eichenblättriger Tüpfelfarn. A species found in China, the East Indies, and Australia. In India the root and the fronds are used in malarial disease, ophthalmia, and gonorrhoea. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. Rheedii. Ger., Rheede's Tüpfelfarn. A species found in the East Indies, where the stock is used as an anthelmintic, and the leaves as an emmenagogue, sometimes producing miscarriage. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. simile. Fr., polypode semblable. A Chinese species used as a tonic and anthelmintic. [B. 173 (a, 35).]—P. suspensum. Fr., polypode pendante. Ger., überhängender Tüpfelfarn. A tropical American species. The stock is used in the West Indies as an aperient in hepatic disorders and as a resolvent in tumors of the scrotum. The powdered plant is used by the negroes in gonorrhoea. [B. 19, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. vulgare. Fr., polypode commun (ou de chêne), reglisse sauvage, fougerole, polypode. Ger., gemeiner Tüpfelfarn, wildes Süßholz, Engelsüßes, Süßkraut, Eichenfarn, Kropfwurzel, Steinfarn, Baumfarn, Tropfkraut, Steinlakeritzen, Korallenwurzel. Common (or golden, or rock) polypody, brakeroot, adder's- (or wall-, or wood-) fern, golden locks (or maidenhair), fern-root, female fern, the πολυπόδιον of the ancients; a species found throughout North America, Europe, northern Asia, and southern Africa. The rhizome, radix polypodii (vulgaris, seu quercini, seu querni), radix polypodii (seu filicis [dulcis]), was employed by the ancients as a purgative in melancholia and mania, and is still occasionally used as a mild laxative and pectoral. In strong decoction it is recommended as a vermifuge for children. It is also used as an application to ringworm and as a poultice in rheumatism. [B. 5, 34, 173, 180, 275, 293 (a, 35).]

POLYPOID, adj.  $\text{Po}^2\text{I}^2\text{-poid}$ . From πολύπους, a polyp, and είδος, resemblance. Resembling a polyp or a polypus. [A. 17, 39.]

POLYPORUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Po}^2\text{I}^2\text{-p(u}^2\text{p}^2\text{-o}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s(u}^2\text{s))}$ . From πολύς, many, and πόρος, a passage. Fr., polypore. Ger., Löcherpilz. A genus of hymenomycetous Fungi allied to Boletus, but distinguished from it by the tubes being inseparable from each other. The Polyporeae (Fr., polyporées), Polyporei (Fr., polyporés), or Polypori are a division of the Hymenomycetes. [B. 76, 121, 173, 180, 291 (a, 35).]—P. adustus. Ger., angebrannter Löcherpilz. A European species growing on trees. It is sometimes found in the shops with the Exidia auricula Jude, which it closely resembles in its dried state, but does not, like it, soften in water. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. annosus. A species used against serpent bites. [Loudon (B).]—P. anthelminticus. A Burmese species growing at the foot of old bamboos; used as a vermifuge. [B. 76 (a, 35).]—P. beilius. Fr., polypore du bouleau. Sap-ball fungus; used in Siberia in the preparation of amadou, and in northern Europe said to be burnt and used to aromatize tobacco. [B. 173 (a, 35).]—P. cerinus. Ger., Hirschbrunst. 1. Of Persoon, a fawn-colored species remarkable when young for its large pores and rigid dissepiments; found on fallen branches of beech-trees. 2. An old pharmaceutical name for the Elaophomyces granulatus. [B. 180, 297 (a, 35).]—P. confluent. An esculent species highly esteemed in Europe. [B. 76 (a, 35).]—P. destructor. Ger., trockner Hausschwamm. A species the mycelium of which causes dry rot in wooden structures. [B. 19 (a, 35).]—P. fomentarius. Ger., Zunderpilz, Zunderschwamm. Amadou, German (or vegetable) tinder, moxa, touchwood; a species, a foot or more in diameter, growing on the trunks of trees, especially the beech. It is used in Europe especially to prepare amadou. The Ostiaks and Kamtchatskans use its ashes as snuff, perhaps to prevent frost-bite by keeping up an irritation of the mucous membrane. [B. 19, 76, 168, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).] See also under MOXA.—P. frondosus. Fr., coquille, barbasin, couveuse, orcion, roule des bois, bouquet. Ger., Klapperschwamm, Eichhase. A European species growing at the root of old oaks. It has a mouse-like odor, but is eaten after long cooking. [B. 105; B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. hirsutus. Fr., polypore velue. A European species used as a yellow dye. [B. 173 (a, 35).]—P. hybridus. Dry-rot fungus; a species that attacks ships built of oak. [B. 19, 185, 275 (a, 35).]—P. igniarius. Fr., (polypode) amadouvier, agaric officinal. Ger., Feuerschwamm. Hard amadou (or German tinder); a species used in the preparation of an amadou which is said to be inferior to that of P. fomentarius (with which some botanists identify this species). It is dried and used with snuff by the Ostiaks. [B. 76, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]—P. marginatus. A corky species growing on the trunks of fir-trees; it furnishes an inferior amadou. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. officinalis. Fr., polypore du mélèze, agaric blanc (ou purgatif, ou des médecins). Ger., gebräuchlicher Löcherpilz, Lärchenschwamm. White (or purging) agaric, the ἀγαρικόν of Dioscorides; a species sometimes as large as a child's head, found especially on the trunks of larch-trees. It occurs in commerce as a light, white, spongy, friable mass, of a sweetish-bitter taste. It contains resinous matter, bitter extractive, metacellulose, a nutritious substance, and a crystalline principle (see AGARICIN). Externally it is used as a hemostatic. Internally it was formerly used as an anthelmintic and in jaundice and dropsy. In over-doses it purges. It is now used to check sweating in phthisis. A tincture of the agaric of the Canadian larch has been used in rheumatism. [B. 5, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. pes capre. Fr., (polypore) pied de chèvre, pied de mouton noir. A European species, eaten after maceration in vinegar. One variety, P. pes capre, var. asprellus (Fr., escuarde, savatelle-truffe), resembles the truffle in color, odor, and taste. [B. 105; B. 173 (a, 35).]—P. senex. A gigantic species found in Chile. It has been used as a styptic and for night-sweats. [Grossi, "Rif. med.," "Gazz. degli ospit.," "N. Y. Med. Jour.," July 11, 1885, p. 56.]—P. squamosus. Fr., miellin, oreille de Malchus (ou d'homme, ou d'orme), oreille tigrée de l'orme. Ger., Menschenohr, schuppiger Löcherpilz. Sap-ball fungus; a European species growing on elms, walnuts, etc. It is tough and leathery, though it is eaten when young. It contains fungic acid. [B. 105; B. 70, 173 (a, 35).]—P. suaveolens. Fr., polypore agréable. Ger., wohlriechender Löcherpilz, Weidenschwamm, Anispilz. A species once official as boletus (seu fungus) salicis (seu suaveolens), used especially in lung troubles. It is found on the stems of willows, and when fresh has an odor like that of anise or orris-root. It has been considered aphrodisiac. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. sub-squamosus. An edible European species. [B. 173 (a, 35).]—P. sulphureus. Fr., polypore sulphurine. A species yielding a yellow dye. It is not eaten, though not considered poisonous. [B. 76, 173 (a, 35).]—P. tuberaster. Fr., polypore tubéaste. Ger., trüffelfartriger Löcherpilz, Mergelpilz. Chin., fo-tim. An esculent species growing in mountains in Italy. It is procured in Naples by watering the pietra funguaria, or fungus stone, a kind of tufa in which the mycelium is imbedded. [B. 19, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. ulmarius. A dry-rot fungus growing on the elm. [B. 275 (a, 35).]—P. umbellatus. Ger., doldenartiger Löcherpilz. An esculent species growing in Europe on beach- and oak-trees. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. versicolor. Fr., polypore bigarré. Ger., bunter Löcherpilz. A poisonous species growing on the trunks of trees and shrubs in Europe, Asia, and America; often confounded with Exidia auricula Jude. [B. 173, 180 (a, 35).]

POLYPOSIA (Lat.), POLYPOSIS (Lat.), n's f.  $\text{Po}^2\text{I}^2\text{-i(u}^2\text{-poz(po}^2\text{s)/i}^2\text{-a}^2\text{-i}^2\text{p(u}^2\text{p}^2\text{-o}^2\text{s-i}^2\text{s))}$ . Gr., πολυψοσία (from πολύς, much, and ψοίς, a drinking). Fr., polyposie. See DIFSIOMANIA.

POLYPOTOME, n.  $\text{Po}^2\text{I}^2\text{-p-o-tom}$ . Lat., polypotomus, polypotome (from πολύπους, a polyp, and τομή, cutting). Fr., p. Ger., Polypotom. A polypus knife; an instrument for cutting off and removing a polypus. [E.]

POLYPTOME, n.  $\text{Po}^2\text{I}^2\text{-p-tom}$ . 1. See POLYPOTOME. 2. An instrument devised by Simpson for the removal of uterine polypi; resembling Ramsbotham's decapitator. [A, 69.]

POLYPTRITE, n.  $\text{Po}^2\text{I}^2\text{-p-trit}$ . From πολύπους, a polyp, and τερέω, to triturate. An instrument for removing a polypus by crushing. [A, 48.]

POLYPUS (Lat.), n. m.  $\text{Po}^2\text{I}^2\text{-p(u}^2\text{p}^2\text{-u}^2\text{s(us))}$ . Gr., πολύπους (from πολύς, many, and πούς, the foot). A tumor arising by a hyperplastic process, especially from or beneath a mucous membrane. The term is generally applied to pedunculated excrescences. [a, 34.]—Blood-p. See Placental p.—Bronchial polyp. Casts of greater or smaller size, and of varying consistence, of the bronchial tubes. [D, 63.] Cf. Croupous BRONCHITIS.—Cancerous p. See Scirrhus p.—Cellulo-fibrous p. An old term for a p. partly fibrous and partly mucous in structure. [A, 42.]—Fibrous p. A polypoid body within the uterus, consisting of fibrin deposited from retained blood, generally attached either to certain parts of the ovum left by an incomplete abortion or to thrombi projecting at the site of the placental attachment.—Fibrous p, Fleshy p. Lat., inopolypus. A p. composed of fibrous tissue; most frequently found in the uterus, pharynx, rectum, or intestine. [E.]—Follicular p. Of Schröder, a p. containing mucous follicles. [a, 34.]—Fungous p. Fr., polype fungueux. An obsolete term for a small fungous excrescence. [a, 34.]—Gelatinous p. A p. that has undergone myxomatous degeneration. [a, 34.]—Glandular p. 1. Adenoma. [L, 88 (a, 50).] 2. Of Thomas, a p. consisting of hypertrophied Nabothian glands. [a, 34.]—Granular p. An old term used by some writers as synonymous with spongy p. (q. v.) and by others for polypi of a truly granular structure. [A, 42.]—Lardaceous p. A p. that has undergone lardaceous degeneration. [L, 41 (a, 34).]—Lipomatous p. A pedunculate lipoma. [L, 88 (a, 50).]—Malignant p. Lat., p. malignus. Ger., bösartiger Polyp. A malignant growth having the appearance of a p. [a, 34.]—Muco-lymphatic p. See Cellulo-fibrous p.—Mucous p. Ger., Schleimpolyp. A p. the substance of which is soft. [E.]—Myomatous p. A p. consisting of muscular tissue. [L, 88 (a, 50).]—Osseous p. A bony p.—Papillary p. A p. of a papillary appearance. [L, 88 (a, 34).]—Placental p. Fr., polype placentaire (ou fibrineux, ou fibrineux placentaire). Ger., Placentarpolyp. A fibrinous p. constituted by the coagulation of blood deposited on a portion of placenta retained in the uterus after parturition, the pedicle being formed by the attachment of the placental tissue.—P. carnosus. See SARCOMA.—P. mamillæ. 1. See CARUNCULA mamillaris (3d def.). 2. The nipple. [L.]—P. of the heart. An old name for the fibrinous clots found in the heart after death. [B, 117.]—Raspberry cellular p. Fr., polype cellulaire framboisé. Ger., zelliger Himbeerpolyp. Of Toynbee, the aural p. most frequently met with; it consists of numerous round raspberry-like beads, varying much in size, attached by small filaments to a central stem, which forms the root. [F. 35].—Sarcomatous p. A sarcoma that has the appearance of a p. [a. 34].—Scirrhus-p. A true cancerous tumor. [E.].—Soft p. See Mucous p.—Stony p. Fr. polype pierreux. A p. that has undergone calcareous degeneration. [L. 41 (a. 34)].—Tooth-p. A p. growing from the pulp of a carious tooth and filling its cavity. [E. 19].—Vascular p. A pedunculated angioma. [L. 88 (a. 34)].—Vesicular p. An old term for a mucous p. [A. 42].

POLYRRHŒA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2\text{l}^2\text{-i}^2\text{r}^2(\text{u}^2\text{r})\text{-re}^2(\text{r}^2\text{o}^2\text{e}^2)\text{-a}^2$ . From  $\text{pol}^2\text{us}$ , much, and  $\rho\acute{\iota}\alpha$ , a flowing. Fr., polyrrhée. An excessive fluid secretion. [L. 50 (a. 14)].

POLYSALICYLIC ACIDS, n. pl.  $\text{Po}^2\text{l}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-sa}^2\text{l}^2\text{-i}^2\text{-si}^2\text{l}^2/\text{i}^2\text{k}$ . Fr., acides polysalicyliques. Salicylic anhydrides, obtained by the action of phosphoric oxychloride on sodium salicylate. [B. 93 (a. 14)].

POLYSARCIA (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2\text{l}^2\text{-i}^2(\text{u}^2\text{s})\text{-sa}^2\text{rs}(\text{sa}^2\text{rk})/\text{i}^2\text{-a}^2$ . From  $\text{pol}^2\text{us}$ , much, and  $\sigma\alpha\rho\acute{\iota}$ , flesh. Fr., polysarcie. Ger., Polysarkie. 1. Excess of flesh, obesity; an excessive development of the soft tissues, especially of fat. [D.] Cf. CORPULENCE. 2. In botany, an unnatural and excessive development, due to an excessive production of sap. [B. 19 (a. 35)].—P. cordis. See Cor adiposum.

POLYSCLIS (Lat.), n. f.  $\text{Po}^2\text{l}^2\text{-i}^2\text{s}(\text{u}^2\text{s})/\text{si}^2(\text{ki}^2)\text{-a}^2\text{s}(\text{a}^2\text{s})$ . Gen., -scī'dos (-adis). From  $\text{pol}^2\text{us}$ , many, and  $\sigma\kappa\acute{\iota}\delta\iota\varsigma$ , a shade. Fr., p. a. A genus of araliaceous trees or shrubs. [B. 42 (a. 35)].—P. pinnata. The Panax pinnatum. [B. 267 (a. 35)].

POLYSCOPE, n.  $\text{Po}^2\text{l}^2/\text{i}^2\text{-skop}$ . Lat., polyscopium (from  $\text{pol}^2\text{us}$ , many, and  $\sigma\kappa\omicron\pi\epsilon\acute{\iota}\nu$ , to examine). Fr., p. Ger., Polyskop. Syn., diaphanoscope. An apparatus for illuminating an accessible hollow organ, such as the stomach, larynx, or vagina, so as to make the overlying structures sufficiently transparent to allow of a visual examination of the interior of the organ through them. ["N. Y. Med. Jour.," May 21, 1892, p. 579].—Electrical p. An apparatus the invention of which is credited to Trounā, of Paris, and to Leiter, of Vienna, in which an electric light is introduced into the organ, the latter being protected against the effects of the heat by causing a current of water to circulate outside the light. [B. ratoux, "Progr. méd.," May 27, 1892, p. 399; "N. Y. Med. Jour.," May 21, 1892, p. 579.] Cf. CYSTOSCOPE.

POPULUS ALBA. [A, 327.]

Hollande, obeau, obel, ypréau, ipréau. Ger., weisse Pappel, Silberpappel. 1. White poplar (or asp), -bbee, abele-tree, Dutch beech, silver (leaved) poplar; a species found in Europe and central Asia. The somewhat bitter astringent bark, cortex populi, was formerly used in stranguary and sciatica. It, as well as the leaves, contains salicin. The branches and bark contain a yellow dye. The leaves are said to be febrifuge. [B, 19, 168, 173, 180, 314 (a, 35).] 2. Of Willdenow, see P. canescens.—P. balsamifera. Fr., peuplier-baumier (1st def.). Ger., Balsampappel (1st def.). Balsamespe (1st def.). 1. Balsam (or tacamahac) poplar, the liard of the Canadians; a species found in North America, Siberia, and the Himalayas. The buds contain a balsam resin which is considered antiscorbutic and diuretic, and was formerly imported into Europe under the names of baume facot and tacamahaca communis (see vulgaris). The buds themselves are used like those of P. nigra. 2. Of Miller, P. heterophylla. [B, 5, 19, 77, 173, 180, 314 (a, 35).]—P. canadensis. Ger., canadische Pappel. Fr., peuplier du Canada. The cotton-wood of the western United States, the river poplar of New England. [B, 77, 314 (a, 35).]—P. canadensis. Ontario poplar, balm of Gilead; a tree of strong and peculiar fragrance, often cultivated in the United States and Canada. The buds contain much fragrant resin, and are used like those of P. balsamifera, of which this species is by most botanists regarded as a variety. [B, 34, 77, 180, 314 (a, 35).]—P. canescens. Ger., grauliche Pappel. The gray poplar, the P. alba of Willdenow. Its bark contains salicin. [B, 180 (a, 35).]—P. dilatata, P. fastigiata. Fr., peuplier dilaté (ou de Constantinople, ou de Lombardie, ou d'Italie, ou turc), Ger., italienische (oder lombardische) Pappel. Lombardy (or lady-) poplar; indigenous to the Orient. The resinous buds are used like black poplar buds. The leaves and bark contain salicin. [B, 19, 34, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. graeca. Fr., peuplier d'Athènes. Ger., griechische Pappel. Athenian poplar, the αἰγυπιος κρηνη of Hippocrates. The buds were formerly used to promote labor and, boiled in milk, as an external application in caligo cornæ. The bark and leaves contain salicin. [B, 173, 180 (a, 35).]—P. heterophylla. Fr., peuplier argenté. Cotton-tree, cotton-wood, downy poplar; a tree of eastern North America. It is very useful in eliminating miasma by absorbing moisture from swampy localities. [B, 34, 173, 314 (a, 35).]—P. levigata, P. monilifera. Fr., peuplier de Virginie (ou carolina, ou suisse). (American) cotton-wood, necklace or berry-bearing, or Carolina poplar; a large tree growing along rivers and lakes. The buds are covered with resin. The minute downy seeds of the female tree, wafted through the air, produce irritation of the respiratory organs. [B, 34, 77, 173, 275, 314 (a, 35).] Cf. P. canadensis.—P. nigra. Ger., αἰγυπιος. Fr., peuplier noir (ou franc), bionté, léard, liard, liardier. Ger., schwarze Pappel (oder Espe), Schwarzpappel, Schwarzespe. Black or willow (leaved) poplar; indigenous to Europe, but extending spontaneously to China and the Himalayas. A tincture of the buds was formerly used in pectoral, nephritic, and rheumatic affections, and they form a large part of an anodyne ointment (see UNGUENTUM populeum) applied to burns, wounds, etc. They are said to contain a principle which checks rancidity in ointments. The bark and leaves contain salicin. The leaves, soaked in vinegar, were used locally in gout; the fruit, mixed with vinegar, for epilepsy. [B, 5, 19, 34, 77, 173, 180, 185, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. tremula. Fr., tremble. Ger., Fiederpappel, Zitterpappel, Espe, Aspe. European aspen, asp, asps, or haptase, trembling poplar. The bark, which contains salicin and populin, is used as a febrifuge and by the veterinarians as a vermifuge. In Siberia a decoction is employed as an antiscorbutic and antispasmodic. [B, 5, 19, 173, 180, 275, 314 (a, 35).]—P. tremuloides, P. trepidula. Fr., peuplier mobile. Ger., Benzoepappel, langstielige Pappel. (American) aspen, quaking asp; a species common in parts of the United States. The leaves and the bark contain salicin and the bark is used as a tonic and febrifuge. [B. 119 (a, 38).]—P. oleracea. Fr., pourpier cultivé, porcelin, porcellane, porchailles. Ger., gemeiner Portulak, Gemüsel (oder Kohl-) Portulak, Burzelkraut. Garden purslane. The herb, herba portulacae, was formerly used as a refrigerant, diuretic, and antiscorbutic. The seed, semina portulacae (seu porcellane), constituted a part of the four small cooling seeds (quatuor semina frigida minora). In the East Indies the plant is used in gastritis and in hæmoptotic. In Jamaica it is used in fevers and as an antiscorbutic. [B. 173, 180, (a, 35).]—P. pilosa. Ger., haariger Portulak. A West Indian and South American species used as a digestive tonic and diuretic. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. quadrifida. Fr., pourpier quadrifide. The choultry of the Hindoos; said to produce stupor. In the East Indies the fresh leaves, bruised, are applied in erysipelas, and used internally as a diuretic and hæmstatic. Otherwise it is used like P. oleracea. [B. 180 (a, 35).]—P. sativa. A cultivated variety of P. oleracea. [a, 35.]

PORUS (Lat.), n. m. Por(po<sup>2</sup>r)u<sup>3</sup>s(u<sup>4</sup>s). Gr., πόρος. A pore. Before Harvey's time the term was used for any opening, canal, or interstice in the skin or other tissue through which air was supposed to be drawn into the arteries during the cardiac diastole, and "fulgines," dirt, and excreta to be thrown out during the systole. According to Nock, the term was applied by Harvey to the blood-vessels. [H. 12; "Brit. Med. Jour.," June 24, 1882, p. 960.]—P. acusticus externus. The external opening of the external auditory canal. [L.]—P. acusticus internus. The external opening of the internal auditory canal. POSAUNENBLÄSER (Ger.), n. Pos-a<sup>3</sup>u<sup>4</sup>n-e<sup>2</sup>n-bla<sup>2</sup>-z-e<sup>2</sup>r. The buccinator muscle. [L. 349.]

POSITION, n. Po<sup>2</sup>z-i<sup>2</sup>shu<sup>3</sup>n. Gr., θέσις. Lat., positio (from ponere, to place). Fr., p. Ger., Stellung, Lage. Syn.: situation, posture, attitude. 1. Locality; situation, absolute or relative. 2. See POSTURE. 3. See ATTITUDE. 4. In obstetrics, see P. of the fœtus, also the obstetrical subheadings of this article. The words p., situation, attitude, and posture are often used without much regard to their difference of meaning. Custom sanctions our regarding them as synonymous to a certain extent, but precision in descriptive writing would be favored by assigning a distinct meaning to each of them under certain circumstances. Situation is the only one of them that is always free from ambiguity, since it is never used in medicine with reference to anything else than locality. It might be used to advantage oftener than it is. It would be better, for instance, to say of a uterus or a heart forced bodily out of its natural locality that its situation, not its position, was changed—not because the use of position in this sense is without warrant, but because, technically, it may be misleading. Attitude may be said to be synonymous with both posture and position, using the latter terms in their ordinary sense, but under certain circumstances it has a special meaning of its own. (See ATTITUDE of the fœtus [in Supplement]). The same may be said of posture (see POSTURE of the fœtus), and it may be added that, when not speaking of the fœtus, it would be well to use the term instead of position, if the intention is to denote a relation to the immediate surroundings, since position may mean either posture or situation. Position may, however, be freed from ambiguity by coupling an appropriate adjective with it; e. g., "prone position" necessarily refers to posture, and can not refer to situation.—Bregmato-cotyloid p. of the fetal head. One of Uvedale West's subdivisions of the occipito-posterior p., being that one in which the vertex is inclined toward the acetabulum of the mother.—Cadaveric p. Of von Ziemssen, that p. of the vocal bands in which, owing to paralysis of the recurrent nerve, they remain motionless and in about the same p. as in a corpse. [Cohen (A. 63).]—Calcanéo-cotyloid p. Fr., p. calcanéo-cotyloïdienne. A foot presentation with the child's heels turned toward one or the other of the mother's acetabula. [F.]—P. of indifference. Fr. du point d'indifférence. Ger. Lage des Indifferenzpunktes. That point at or upon which, under the covering hand, binocular adaptation or fixation takes place. [F.]—P's of the fetal head. Four varieties are commonly admitted by writers in the English language, named according to the direction of the occiput: the right and left occipito-anterior and right and left occipito-posterior p's (see those headings).—P. of the fetus. Lat. situs fetus. Ger. Kindeslage. The direction in which a particular aspect (usually the dorsal aspect) of the presenting portion of the fetus points; according to D. B. Hart, "the relation to the upper strait of the pelvis of that part of the fetus which should first rotate to the front in the movement of internal rotation." The principal fetal p's are usually classified as follows: 1. With a vertex presentation, the right and left occipito-anterior and occipito-posterior p's (with the fetal occiput to the mother's right or left side and in front of or behind the centre of her pelvic canal). 2. With a face presentation, the right and left mento-anterior and mento-posterior p's (with the fetal chin to the mother's right or left side and anteriorly or posteriorly). 3. With a breech presentation, the right and left sacro-anterior and sacro-posterior p's (with the fetal sacrum to the mother's right or left side and anteriorly or posteriorly). 4. With a transverse presentation, the right and left dorso-anterior and dorso-posterior p's (with the fetal vertebral column to the mother's right or left side and anteriorly or posteriorly). POST-CONVULSIVE, adj. Post-ko'n-vu'ls'i'2-v. From post, after, and convellere, to tear away. Following a convulsion. [D.]

POSTCORNU (Lat.), n. n. Post(po'st)-ko'r'n'u'2(u). Gen., -cor'-nu-. From post, behind, and cornu, a horn. Of Spitzka, see Posterior horn of the lateral ventricle.

POST-CORNUAL, adj. Post-ko'r'n'u'a-a'l. Situated behind the cornua (of the cerebrum or of the spinal cord). [L]

POSTDIGASTRICUS (Lat.), n. m. Post(po'st)-di(di)-ga'st-(ga'st)/ri'2k-u's(u's). From post, behind, di, twice, and gastrip, the belly. Of E. Coues, the posterior belly of the digastric muscle. [Med. Record, July 23, 1887 (L).]

POSTDILATATOR (Lat.), n. m. Post(po'st)-di(di)-la(la's)-ta-(ta'3)/to'r. Gen., -or'-is. From post, behind, and dilatare, to dilate. Of E. Coues, the dilatator alæ naris posterior. [L]

POST-EPILEPTIC, adj. Post-e'p-i'2-le'pt/i'2k. From post, after, and epilepsia, epilepsy. Following epilepsy or an epileptic seizure. [D.]

POSTERIOR, adj. Po'st'er-i'2-o'r. Lat., posterius, p. Fr., postérieur. Ger., hinter. Situated backward; in erect vertebrates, nearer or looking toward the dorsum of the body; in others, nearer the caudal extremity of the body than the cephalic; as a Lat. n. m., a muscle occupying a position relatively p. to some other muscle. In botany, see Superior.—Medius p. See Medius superior.—P. conchæ. See Scuto-auricularis internus.—P. cubitum flectentium. See Brachialis anticus.

POSTERO-LATERAL, adj. Po'st'e'rŏ-l'a't'e'r'i'2-l. From posterius, coming after, and latus, the side. Posterior and lateral, or posterior and external, at the same time. [L]

POSTERO-PARIETAL, adj. Post'e'rŏ-pa'r-i'e'r'i'2-t'l. From posterius, coming after, and paries, a wall. Posterior and parietal, or posterior to the parietal region, lobe, sulcus, etc. [L]

POSTERO-TEMPORAL, adj. Post'e'rŏ-o-te'm'pŏ-r'i'2-l. From posterius, coming after, and tempus, the temple. Posterior and temporal, or posterior to the temporal region, sulcus, lobe, etc. [L]

POSTGENICULATUM (Lat.), n. n. Post(po'st)-je'n(ge'n)-i'2k-u'l(u'l)/at(a't)/u'm(u'm). From post, after, and geniculatum [q. v.]. Of Wilder, the internal geniculate body. [L, 80 (K).]

POSTGLENOID, adj. Post-glen'o'id. From post, after, and glenŏid (see GLENŔ). Behind the glenoid cavity or fossa. [L, 153.]

POSTHALGIA (Lat.), n. f. Po'sth-a'l(a'l)/ji'2(g'i'2)-a'3. From πόσθη, the penis, and άλγος, pain. Neuralgia of the penis. [a, 34.]

POSTHE (Lat.), n. f. Po'sth'e(a). Gen., posth'es. Gr., πόσθη. 1. The prepuce. 2. The penis. [L, 50 (a, 14).]

POSTHETOMY, n. Po'sth-e'tŏm-i'2. From πόσθη, the prepuce, and τομή, a cutting. See Circumcision.

POSTHIA (Lat.), n. f. Po'sth'i'a-a'3. See HORDEOLUM.

POSTHIOPLASTY, n. Po'sth'i'2-o-pla'st-i'2. From πόσθη, the prepuce, and πλάσσειν, to mold. Ger., Posthioplastik. The plastic surgery of the prepuce. [E.]

POSTHITIS (Lat.), n. f. Po'sth-i(e'ti's). Gen., -it'idŏs(-id'is). From πόσθη, the foreskin. Fr., posthite. 1. Inflammation of the prepuce. [E.] 2. See BALANITIS (2d def.).

POSTHALCYMMA (Lat.), POSTHOCALYPTRON (Lat.), n's n. Po'sth-o(o'sh)-ka'2(k'a'3)-i'2m(u'm)/ma'3, -i'2pt(u'pt)/ro'n. Gen., -ym'matos(-atis), -yp'tri. From πόσθη, the penis, and κάλυμμα, or καλύπτρα, a veil. See CONDOM.

POSTHOLITH, n. Po'sth'o-li'th. From πόσθη, the prepuce, and λίθος, a stone. See Preputial calculus.

POSTHONCUS (Lat.), n. m. Po'sth-o'n'2k'u's(u's). From πόσθη, the prepuce, and όνκος, a tumor. Fr., posthonicie. Tumor of the prepuce. [E.]

POSTHUMOUS, adj. Po'st'hu'm-u's. Lat., posthumus. Fr., posthume. Ger., nachgeboren. 1. Born after the father's death. 2. See POST-MORTEM.

POST-HYOID, adj. Post-hi'o'id. From post, after, υ, upslon, and είδος, resemblance. Posterior to the hyoid bone or apparatus. [L]

POSTICUS (Lat.), adj. Po'st-ik(ek)/u's(u's). From post, after. See POSTERIOR.

POST-MORTEM, adj. Post-mŏ'r't'e'm. From post, after, and mors, death. Ger., postmortal. Occurring after death or in a dead body; as a n., an autopsy. [a, 17.]

POSTNARES (Lat.), n. f. pl. Post(po'st)-nar(na'r)/ez(e'3). Gen., -nar'ium. From post, after, and naris, the nostril. Of Wilder, the posterior nares.

POST-OCULAR, adj. Post-o'k'u'l-a'r. From post, behind, and oculus, the eye. Fr., post-oculaire. Situated behind the eye or eyes. [L, 41 (a, 14).]

POSTOPTICUS (Lat.), n. m. Post(po'st)-o'pt/i'2k-u's(u's). From post, behind, and ὀπτικός, optic. Of Wilder, the posterior pair of the corpora quadrigemina. [L, 18 (K).]

POST-ORAL, adj. Post-o'r'l. From post, behind, and os, the mouth. Situated behind the mouth. [B, 28 (a, 27).]

POST-ORBITAL, adj. Post-o'r'b/i'2-t'l. From post, behind, and orbita, the eye-socket. Situated behind the eye or orbit. [L, 153.]

POST-PARTUM, adj. Post-pa'r't'u'm. From post, after, and partus [q. v.]. Fr., après enfement. Following delivery.

POSTPEDUNCULUS (Lat.), n. m. Post(po'st)-pe'd-u'2n'2k-(u'n'2k)/u'l(u'l)-u's(u's). From post, after, and pedunculus, a peduncle. Of Wilder, see Inferior cerebellar peduncle.

POSTPERFORATUS (Lat.), n. m. Post(po'st)-pu'r(pe'r)-fo'r-at(a't)/u's(u's). From post, behind, and perforare, to perforate. Of Wilder, the posterior perforated space. [L, 80 (K).]

POST-PHARYNGEAL, adj. Post-fa'r-i'n'je'a-a'l. From post, behind, and φάρυγξ, the pharynx. Situated behind the pharynx. [a, 48.]

POST-PITUITARY, adj. Post-pi't-u'2-i't-a-ri'2. From post, behind, and pituita, mucus. Situated behind the pituitary body. [a, 17.]

POST-PLEURITIC, adj. Post-plu'r-i't'i'2k. From post, after, and pleuritis, pleurisy. Following pleurisy. [D.]

POSTPONE, v. Intrans. Post-pon'. To occur after the regular time (said of the paroxysms of intermittent fever). Cf. ANTICIPATE (2d def.).

POST-PUERPERAL, adj. Post-pu'2-u'2rp'e'r'i'2-l. From post after, and puerperus, parturient. Fr., post-puerpéral. Happening after childbirth. [a, 48.]

POSTREMUS (Lat.), adj. Po'st-rem(ram)/u's(u's). Superl. of posterius. Hindmost; as a n. m., a muscle situated behind all the others of a group. [a, 48.]—P. pedis. See EXTENSOR brevis digitorum pedis.

POSTROLANDICUS (Lat.), adj. Post(po'st)-rol-a'2nd'i'2k-u's(u's). Situated behind the sulcus rolandicus. [L, 332.]

POSTSCALENUS (Lat.), n. m. Post(po'st)-ska'l(ska'l'2)-en(an)/u's(u's). From post, behind, and σκαληνός, unequal. Of E. Coues, see SCALENUS posticus.

POSTSCAPULA [Parker] (Lat.), n. f. Post(po'st)-ska²p(ska²p)-u²(u¹)-a². From post, behind, and scapula (q. v.). The portion of the scapula that is posterior to (or below) its spine. [L, 153.]

POSTSCUTELLUM (Lat.), n. n. Post(po'st)-skū²t(sku²t)-e²l²-lu²m(lu²m). From post, behind, and scutella, a salver. The dorsal and last sclerite of each of the three divisions of the dorsal part of the thorax of insects. [Comstock (a, 30).]

POST-SPHENOID, adj. Post-sfen'oid. From post, after, σφην, a wedge, and είδος, resemblance. Situated behind or forming the posterior portion of the sphenoid bone. [L.]

POST-SYSTOLIC, adj. Post-si²s-to²l²ik. From post, after, and συστολή, systole. Fr., postsystolique. Ger., nachsysstolisch. Occurring after the systole. [K.]

POSTURAL, adj. Po²st-u²-r¹. Acting by virtue of the assumption of a particular posture (e. g., p. treatment of prolapse of the umbilical cord, p. method of copulation, etc.).

POSTURE, n. Po²st-u²-r¹. Positura (from ponere, to place), situs. Ger., Lage, Stand. Syn.: attitude, position. The arrangement of the body or of a part with regard to surrounding objects (e. g., the relation of the long axis of the fetus to the mother). See P. of the fetus, also remarks under POSITION. — Genuepectoral p., Kneechest p. Fr., position sur les genoux et les coudes. Ger., Kniebrustlage. The p. in which the subject rests upon the knees and the front of the chest. — Lateral semi-prone p., Lateroprone p. Ger., corwärts geneigte Seitenlage. Recumbency partly on the side and partly prone. — P. of the fetus, Ger., Halbtund. The relation of its various parts to each other. [A, 20.] See, also, POSITION. — Sims's p., The p. in which Sims's speculum is generally used, with the patient lying on the left side and on the front of the upper part of the chest, the left arm more or less extended backward, the right thigh decidedly flexed, and the left thigh moderately flexed. — Trendelenburg's p. A dorsal p. with the body so inclined that the head and shoulders are decidedly lower than the hips and the legs, flexed and hanging over the foot of the table or held by an assistant, bear the weight of the body in a measure: employed in laparotomy to facilitate access to the pelvic contents by reason of relaxation of the abdominal muscles and the dropping of the intestines toward the diaphragm. [a, 34.]

POSTZYGAPOPHYSIS (Lat.), n. f. Post(po'st)-zi²g(zu²g)-a²p-(a²p)uo²t²(u¹o²)-si²s. Gen., physis (e. g., epiphysis). From post, after, ζυγόν, a yoke, and ἀπόφυσις, an apophysis. An articular process proceeding from the posterior face of the neural arch of a vertebra with the articular surface directed ventrally, to articulate with the prozygapophysis. [A, 13.] See fig. under VERTEBRA.

POTABLE, adj. Pot'a²b¹. Lat., potabilis (from potare, to drink). Proper for drinking.

POTALIA (Lat.), n. f. Pot-a¹(a¹)l²-a². Fr., p. A genus of the Potolineae (Fr., potaliées), an order of monocotyledons, including genera (P., Fragaria, and Anthoeleista) now placed in the Loganiaceae. [B, 1, 19, 42, 121, 170 (a, 35).] — P. amara, P. resinifera. Fr., p. amer., p. résineux. A smooth shrub of South America, with a bitter, acrid, tonic juice. In Brazil an infusion of the astringent, somewhat mucilaginous leaves is used as a lotion in ophthalmia, and in Guiana both the leaves and stem are employed in syphilis, snake-bites, and poisoning from other plants. Large doses of the plant are emetic. [B, 19, 42, 121, 173, 180 (a, 35).]

POTAMOGETON (Lat.), n. f. Po²t-a²m(a²m)-o²(o²)-jet(gat)-o²n(on). From ποταμός, a river, and γεννᾶν, a neighbor. Fr., potamo. Ger., Laichkraut. Pondweed; a genus of the Naiadaceae. The Potamogeton (Fr., potamogeton) of Reichenbach (a family of the Limnobiæ), the Potamogeton (Fr., potamogeton) of Salisbury (an order of monocotyledons), the Potamogetonaceae, and the Potamogetonaceae (Fr., potamogetonées), of Reichenbach (a family of the Limnobiæ) are now included in the Naiadaceae. [B, 42, 121, 170 (a, 35).] — P. natans. Fr., potamo flottant, épi d'eau, herbe à la perchaude, langue de chien. Ger., schwimmendes Laichkraut. Broad-leaved pondweed, dell's spoons, tenchweed, the ποταμογεννᾶν of Dioscorides; formerly used in hemiphsis, as an antemetic, and externally in the swellings of gout. The fresh leaves were applied to ulcers. [B, 173, 180, 275 (a, 35).]

POTAMOPYRA (Lat.), n. f. Po²t-a²m(a²m)-o²p²(i²)(u¹)-a². From ποταμός, a river, and πύρα, a fever. Fr., potamopyre. Ger., Flussfieber. River-fever (i. e., malarial fever).

POTASH, n. Po²t-a²sh. Lat., potassa. Fr., potasse. Ger., Kali, Potache. 1. The alkali obtained by the lixiviation of the ashes of wood and of various plants. It includes both the caustic alkali, more commonly called caustic p. (potassium hydroxide), and the mild alkali (potassium carbonate). 2. In the dual system of nomenclature of salts, the basic oxide of potassium (KO), the salts of potassium being regarded as compounds of this base with the acid principle. Thus what is usually called potassium carbonate and designated by the formula  $K_2CO_3$ , is sometimes called the carbonate of p. and regarded as having the composition  $KOCO_2$ . This nomenclature has been abandoned in the U. S. Ph. and the Ger. Ph. 3. Commercial p., an impure potassium carbonate mixed with a variable amount of potassium hydroxide, occurring in hard-fused fragments of brownish, sometimes reddish color. It is caustic and readily deliquescent. When partially purified it forms pearl-ash. [B, a, 38.] — Alcoholated p. See Alcoholic POTASSA. — Aqueous p. See Liquor POTASSÆ. — Caustic p. See POTASSIUM HYDROXIDE and cf. Caustic POTASSA. — Mephitis of p. Potassium carbonate. [B, 91.] — P. blue. Ger., Kaliblan. Of dyes, the blue color obtained by the use of potassium cyanide, with ferric salts as mordants. [a, 14.] — Prussiate of p. 1. Potassium ferriprussiate; the red prussiate of p. 2. Potassium ferrocyanide; the yellow prussiate of p. [B.] — Red chromate of p. Lat., kali chromicum rubrum. See POTASSIUM DICHROMATE. — Refined p. Purified potassium carbonate. [a, 38.] — Solution of p. (Br. Ph., 1867). Liquor potassæ. [B.] — Solution of iodate of p. (Br. Ph.). A solution made by digesting 5 parts each of iodine and potassium chlorate and 1 part of nitric acid in 20 parts of water until the color of the iodine vanishes, boiling up, evaporating completely at 100° C., and dissolving in 430 parts of water. [B, 81 (a, 38).] — Solution of yellow prussiate of p. (Br. Ph.). See Test solution of POTASSIUM FERROCYANIDE. — Sulphurated p. (Br. Ph.). See POTASSA SULPHURATA.

POTASSA (Lat.), n. f. Po²t-a²s(a²s)/sa². 1. See POTASH. 2. Of the U. S. Ph., caustic potash (potassium hydroxide). It is required by the U. S. Ph. to contain not less than 90 per cent. of absolute (anhydrous) potassium hydroxide. It corresponds to the p. caustica of the Br. Ph., the kali causticum fusum of the Ger. Ph., and the hydras potassicus of the Fr. Cod. [B.] — Acetas potassæ (Belg. Ph.). See POTASSIUM ACETATE. — Acetas potassæ aquosus (seu liquidus). Fr., caustique de Vienne (ou de potasse et de chaux) [Fr. Cod.]. Sp., cáustico de Viena [Sp. Ph.]. P. with lime, Vienna caustic, Vienna paste; made by rubbing together equal parts of caustic p. and quick-lime [U. S. Ph., Swiss Ph.]; a grayish-white, deliquescent alkaline powder. There are two corresponding French and Belgian preparations: (a) the caustique de Vienne [Fr. Cod.] (pulvis potassæ et calcis [Belg. Ph.]), made by rubbing together 5 parts of impure caustic p. and 6 of quick-lime, and, when used, making up into a paste with a little alcohol; (b) the caustique de Filhos [Fr. Cod.] (causticum Filhos [Belg. Ph.]), made by melting 5 parts of impure caustic p. in an iron spoon, adding 1 part of quick-lime, and running the liquid mixture into lead tubes, which are afterward preserved in bottles or glass tubes containing powdered quick-lime, or into iron molds, in which case the fused sticks require to be coated with gutta-percha when hardened. The Dan. preparation is of the same strength as the Fr. caustique de Vienne. The Netherl. Ph. orders 7 parts of p. and 6 of quick-lime; the Gr. Ph., equal parts of p. and of slaked lime. The pasta caustica, causticum vindobonense, or viennense [Russ. Ph.] and the caustico di Filhos of the Sardinian formulary contain 3 parts of caustic p. to 1 of quick-lime. A preparation formerly in use under the name of causticum commune mitius was made either by intimately mixing equal weights of soft soap and powdered burned lime or by dissolving caustic p. in 3 parts by weight of water and adding enough lime to convert the whole into a pasty mass. Ger., Schwefelfeber, Kalischwefelleber. Sp., trisulfuro potásico [Sp. Ph.] (1st def.). 1. Liver of sulphur, consisting essentially of two equivalents (about 65 per cent.) of potassium trisulphide and one equivalent (about 35 per cent.) of potassium thiosulphate. It is prepared by heating together 1 part of sulphur and 2 parts (1½ part [Belg. Ph., Netherl. Ph., Sp. Ph.]) of potassium carbonate. According to the U. S. Ph., it should answer to a test which would indicate the presence of 56 per cent. of potassium trisulphide. Pure p. sulphurata (liver of sulphur) is an amorphous substance, liver-colored when fresh, afterward of a greenish or yellowish hue, turning to a dirty green if the access of air is not prevented. It has an odor of hydrogen sulphide, is deliquescent in moist air, and is completely soluble in 2 parts of water. 2. A preparation made like that of the 1st def., but with crude potassium carbonate and unwashed sulphur. It consists essentially of the same constituents. If, however, the process of heating is carried too far, the thiosulphate is decomposed into potassium sulphate and potassium pentasulphide, the latter breaking up again into sulphur and potassium trisulphide. This impure liver of sulphur has essentially the same properties as the purer variety, but is employed externally. [B. 95.]—P. venalis. See Crude POTASSIUM carbonate.—P. with lime [U. S. POTASSIUM (Lat.), n. n. Po<sup>2</sup>t-a<sup>2</sup>s(a<sup>2</sup>s)/si<sup>2</sup>2-u<sup>2</sup>m(u<sup>2</sup>m). Fr., p. Ger., Kalium. Sp., potasio. [Mex. Ph.]. A metallic element discovered in 1807 by Sir Humphry Davy; a silvery-white solid, at ordinary temperatures waxy and ductile, at 9° C. brittle and breaking with a crystalline fracture. It melts at 62.5° C. to a liquid resembling mercury in appearance; and from this liquid, when quickly cooled, the metal may be obtained in the form of octahedral crystals. It boils at a red heat, with the production of green vapor. It has a strong affinity for oxygen, abstracting this element from nearly all its compounds even at ordinary temperatures. It accordingly decomposes water with the liberation of hydrogen and the evolution of so much heat as to produce combustion; and on exposure to the air it tarnishes, from the formation of p. oxide. In its chemical relations it closely resembles sodium, lithium, rubidium, cesium, and ammonium. It is univalent. Atomic weight, 39: sp. gr., 0.865; symbol, K or Ka (from Kalium). [B.]—Acid p. antimonié. Lat., kali stibicum (seu stibiosum-stibicum) acidum. Fr., antimonié acide de potasse. Ger., saurer antimonischer Kalium. Rochelle salt; a double salt,  $\text{C}_2\text{H}_4\text{NaO}_6 + 4\text{H}_2\text{O} = \text{C}_2\text{H}_4(\text{OH})_2 \text{COOK} \text{COONa} + 4\text{H}_2\text{O}$ , forming colorless, transparent, rhombic crystals, odorless, of saline taste, and fairly soluble in water. It is a diuretic in small doses and a mild hydragogue cathartic in large doses, and is much used as an aperient and to remove dropsical effusions. [B. 5.]—P. antimonate. Lat., kaliump stibiatum (seu stibicum). Fr., antimoniate de potasse. Ger., antimonsäures Kalium, Antimonoxydalkali. A white powder,  $\text{KSbO}_3$ , obtained by heating together metallic antimony and p. nitrate, and washing with water. It dissolves in boiling water, separating again as a gelatinous mass,  $\text{KSbO}_3 + 5\text{H}_2\text{O}$ . [B. 3.] See also Acid p. antimonate.—P. arsenate. Lat., potassii arsenias, kaliump arsenicum. Fr., arséniate de potasse. Ger., Kaliumarsenat. A compound of p. and arsenic acid. Three arsenates of p. are known: (1) normal p. arsenate, or tripotassic arsenate (Ger., arsensaures Kalium, neutrales Kaliumarsenat), a crystalline body,  $\text{K}_3\text{AsO}_4$ ; (2) monacid p. arsenate, or dipotassic arsenate,  $\text{HK}_2\text{AsO}_4$ ; and (3) diacid p. arsenate, or monopotassic arsenate, often called simply p. arsenate,  $\text{HKAsO}_4$ , a body forming large crystals of acid reaction. The last mentioned is official in some continen al pharmacopœias, and is prepared by melting together equal parts of p. nitrate and arsenious acid. [B. 3.]—P. arsenite. Lat., potassii arsenis, kaliump arsenicosum. Fr., arsénite de potasse. Ger., arsenigsaures Kalium. A compound said to be formed by the action of arsenious oxide on caustic potassa in solution. It differs in composition according to the relative proportions of the ingredients, and normal p. arsenite,  $\text{K}_3\text{AsO}_3$ , does not appear to exist. Diacid p. arsenite,  $\text{H}_2\text{KAsO}_3$ , exists. The so-called solution of p. arsenite, "Fowler's solution," probably does not contain this salt, but only the uncombined arsenious acid. Fr., bicarbonate de potasse [Fr. Cod.]. Ger., Monokaliumcarbonat, doppelkohlen-saures Kalium. Sp., bicarbonato potásico [Sp. Ph.]. Acid p. carbonate,  $\text{KHCO}_3$ ; occurring as colorless transparent rhombic prisms or tablets, of saline but not sharp taste, and soluble in water, almost insoluble in alcohol. It is usually prepared by passing carbon dioxide gas through a solution of the normal carbonate. It has been employed to facilitate the elimination of uric acid and to make the urine alkaline, also in obstructive jaundice to promote biliary excretion. Ger., Kaliumbromür, Bromkalium, Kaliumbromid. Sp., bromuro de potasio (6 potasio) [Sp. Ph.]. A salt,  $\text{KBr}$ , occurring as colorless cubical crystals, of bitterish saline taste, soluble in 1.6 part of water, soluble with difficulty in cold alcohol. Its solution, when pure, is neutral and should never be more than faintly alkaline. It melts at a dull-red heat without decomposition. It is used in the treatment of functional disorders of the nervous system, especially epilepsy, and whenever a nervous sedative is required. [B. 3, 95 (a, 38); a, 34.]—P. carbolate. A compound,  $\text{C}_6\text{H}_5\text{OK}$ , of p. and phenol. [B.]—P. carbonate. Lat., potassii carbonas [U. S. Ph., Br. Ph.], carbonas potassæ pura [Belg. Ger., kohlensäures (oder carbon-saures) Kalium, Kaliumcarbonat, geringigtes (oder mildes) Kali. Sp., carbonato potásico [Sp. Ph.] (6 de potasio). A very deliquescent, white, pulverulent substance,  $\text{K}_2\text{CO}_3$ , either granular or finely crystalline in structure, of alkaline taste, and more readily soluble in water than the acid carbonate. Its solution has a strong alkaline reaction. The p. carbonate of the U. S. Ph. and Br. Ph. is the purified p. carbonate (q. v.). [B.] See also Crude p. carbonate.—P. chlorate. Lat., potassii chloras [U. S. Ph., Br. Ph.], potassæ chloras, chloras potassæ [Belg. Ph., 1885] (seu potassicus [Fr. Cod.], seu kalicus [Dan. Ph., Finn. Ph., 1885, Netherl.
